Prosecuting Attorney Harvey then asked Allbozek where he did secure the liquor and when, to which he replied that two friends came to him on the night in question and wanted a pint of liquor as one of them had a bad cold. They gave him two dollars, he said and he secured the liquor "outside of Willimantic." Allbozek said at first that he did not know what town it was where he secured the booze but finally said that he did not care to get anyone else in trouble. He said that he brought the liquor back and delivered it to the two men in a Polish barber shop in the lower end of the city. Allbozek declared that he did not get any extra money even though the trip and purchase consumed an hour's time. The court tried in every possible way to have Allbozek change his testimony about getting the liquor out of town and admit that he secured it at Kosek's but to no avail. The court then nolled the case against Kosek and held the jitney driver on the charge of transporting liquor.

The case of Edgar Brown, charged with entering and breaking was called in the police court Monday morning. Through his attorney William A. King a demurrer was entered. Probable cause was found and Brown was bound over to the next criminal term of the Windham county superior court under bonds of $500 which were furnished by relatives.

The case of Michael Mazzola, charged with assault on Morris Spector was again continued until this (Tuesday) morning.

John Moriarty, a bricklayer, pleaded guilty to intoxication and was fined $10 and costs amounting to $17.17, which he paid.

Following the eight o'clock mass at St. Mary's church Monday morning next, the members of St. Mary's Boys' choir will leave for their camp at Merrythought farm, Columbia, for two weeks. About fifty boys will be in the party and they will receive holy communion prior to their departure Merrythough farm has been the camp site for the boys for the past four years and has proven an ideal location.

At South Chaplin Monday morning at 4.45 o'clock Albert L. Dowd of Taunton, Mass., lost control of his car while making the curve at the south end of the bridge. The machine ran off the side of the road and back again, coming to a stop at the end of the bridge with one of the wheels hanging over the embankment. Mr. Dowd sustained a dislocated left arm. Dr. Charles A. Jenkins of this city was summoned and after giving treatment to Mr. Dowd, brought him back to this city from where he boarded a train for his home. The car which was considerably damaged, was hauled to the Jordan Auto Company garage for repairs.

Julia A., 74, widow of William Grindel, died at her home in Eagleville Sunday. Mrs. Grindel was born in Warwick, R. I., in 1850, a daughter of William and Prudie Ann Straight Price. She leaves two brothers, Charles Price of Rockville and Frank Price of East Greenwich, R. I., a sister, Mrs. Mary Sweet of Providence. Burial will be in Apponaug.

William S. Johnstone of Hartford has brought suit for damages of $100 against Max Riben of Mansfield. The plaintiff alleges that June 17 last he was driving his automobile along Center street in Manchester about 1.30 o'clock and had reached South Manchester park where he backed his car against the curbing. Riben came along from behind in an automobile truck which collided with the plaintiff's car, causing much damage and rendering the vehicle unfit for further use.

Morzion Zatdak of 9 Lafayette street, arrested Sunday afternoon, was before the police court Monday morning on a charge of breach of the peace. When Officer Roderick Lariviere investigated the rumpus at Zatdak's house he found the accused berating his wife. He told the officer that he had been away from home for some time and on his return Sunday he found conditions anything but agreeable to him. Zatdak was preparing to break up the home but in doing so, he broke up much of the furniture also, which resulted in a call for the police. A plea of not guilty was entered for him. His wife, through Max Brettschneider as interpreter, said that the trouble started Saturday night when her husband found fault with her going to church. He argued with her and told her to go her way and he would go his. Zatdak started to pack up the furniture during the night and Sunday afternoon started to fight with her again, tearing her dress and calling her vile names. In spite of all this, Mrs. Zatdak said that she wanted to live with her husband. Interpreter Brettschneider informed the couple that the decision of the court was that if they could agree, the case would be continued for one month. The couple left the court room, smiling, with their two children.

The case of Wilfrid Bellevance, 14, who has confessed to a number of petty thefts in the city will be heard at a session of juvenile court. The boy was not locked up but was placed in the custody of his father, John Bellevance. A preliminary hearing was held in chambers yesterday morning with the result that Probation Officer S. Arnold Peckham was ordered to make a careful investigation of the case and report back to a hearing to be held by Judge Frank H. Foss Monday, July 14.

The case of Fred Luzvick, charged with intoxication, breach of the peace and assault on his wife, mother-in-law and sister-in-law was continued for one week when it came up Monday morning. It is probable that charges of a more serious nature will be preferred against the accused when the case comes up for trial. Bonds in the case were fixed at $1000.

The cases of Philip Cherna of 287 Second avenue, Astoria, L. I., charged with reckless driving and not possessing an automobile registration, and Lawrence Bergeron, of Holyoke, Mass., charged with assault, were continued in police court until this morning from yesterday as the first mentioned did not put in an appearance. The case grew out of a disagreement over rights in the road, following a near-accident at Park Spring, on Jackson street, Sunday forenoon.

Andrew Bennett, 72, who died at the home of Mrs. Jesse Burnham of Hampton, Sunday morning, was born in Hampton, Dec. 17, 1852, a son of Nathan and Harriet Wilbur Bennett. T. E. CLARK, OF COLUMBIA, HEADS OFF WOULD-BE BURGLAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, July 7.—T. E. Clack of Columbia, near the Andover town line, frustrated the attempts of a thief to enter his home, a few hours before daybreak Monday, when he heard a rasping noise at a window on the ground floor. After making a study of the intruder's apperance, he frightened him off by firing a shotgun into the air. Mr. Clark then telephoned to the local police informing Lieutenant Frank McLean that the man had been joined on the highway by another night walker and both had started off in the direction of this city. Lieutenant McLean commandeered an automobile and at the city line awaited the coming of the strangers and placed them under arrest. They gave their names as Joseph Gerrior, 37 of Prince Edward Island, Canada and John Noto 17 of Thompsonville. The latter claimed that he resided in this city when a child and was on his way to visit in Bristol R. I. and at Manchester joined company with Gerrior. He was frightened when he saw his companion disappear into a yard on the highway and was even more upset when he heard a shot and saw Gerrior come back on the run.

State Policeman Paul Lavin of Hartford brought the two men to Columbia and at four o'clock Monday afternoon Gerrior was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Hubert P. Collins. Grand Juror Joseph M. Clark prosecuted. John Noto acted as star witness for the state. Gerrior was charged with attempt to break and enter and probable cause was found by the court. He was bound over to the next term of the Tolland County superior court at Rockville under bonds of $1,000 which he failed to secure, so was taken to the Tolland county jail to await trial. An interesting occurrence in connection with the case caused slight confusion to State Policeman Lavin, when Gerrior was taken before Justice of the Peace Faulkner of the Andover town court on the supposition that Mr. Clark the complainant, resided in that town. By close scrutiny it was discovered that the Clark residence was just over the town line in Columbia.

COLCHESTER

Stephen Myhowitz, 25, died at the sanatorium in Norwich Friday morning after an illness of over a year from tuberculosis. Several months ago he was taken to Norwich for treatment. Mr. Myhowitz for the past seven years has conducted a general store on Merchants Row. He is survived by his wife, a son and daughter. GOSHEN

Friday, as the flag was being hung out in the early morning, thoughts went back to the first Independence Day of July 4, 1776, in the quaint old Quaker town of Philadelphia, when the Liberty Bell sent the good news through the land.

In the forenoon here a drum corps was heard playing many miles distant and two airships passed over the southward. The annual Thomas family reunion was held at the home of George H. Thomas, Sunnyside farm. In the afternoon people from here attended the celebration in Fitchville where at the ball grounds at the summit of Cannon Hill one of the finest games of baseball ever played was witnessed between the Lebanon and Fitchville nines. The score stood 6 to 1 in favor of Lebanon. Many other athletic sports were enjoyed after the ball game.

People from far and near came in the evening to the summit of Goshen Hill to see the fine display of fireworks given by the Goshen Community club.

Mrs. George Moore and daughter, Mrs. Mabel Fox, of Hockanum, are guests of friends here.

George L. Thomas is home from the hospital greatly improved in health.

July 4th the whistle of the American Thread Company in Willimantic eleven miles distant, was heard to blow for several minutes a the noon hour.

Miss Rose Sullivan, teacher in the Ninth school district, won first prize in the running race in the athletic sports in Fitchville, July 4th. Chas. Sweet of Lebanon won, being the highest jumper. The tug-of-war was between Fitchville and Bozranville. At the end of 55 seconds the Bozrahville boys were declared the winners.

E. H. McCall, Jr., and A. J. Randall were the committee of the Goshen Community club on fireworks July 4th.

The next big social event anticipated is the annual community picnic of the Sunday schools of the whole township.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Taniac Dividend.

At a meeting of the board of directors of International Proprietaries, Inc., held at the offices of the company in Atlanta, a cash dividend of $150,000 was declared on the outstanding common stock. This dividend is being paid to stockholders of record as of June 14th.

In declaring this dividend the directors were governed by the excellent showing made by the company for 1923. The records of the company show that the profits were in excess of $700,000. Executives were highly satisfied with the business of 1923, as it was one of the best years ever enjoyed by the company. Plans for 1924 call for greater business with an enlarged advertising campaign in all papers and a consistent sales policy through jobbers.

Officers of the company are Y. F. Freeman, president; D. R. Millard, vice president and general manager, and C. E. Holcomb, secretary-treasurer. International Proprietaries, Inc., is controlled and directed by the S. A. Lynch Enterprises interests.

Under the direction of Sales Manager Frank G. Abbott, formerly general sales manager of the Minneapolis Drug Co., the entire sales force of International Proprietaries, Inc., has been completely reorganized.

International Proprietaries Inc., are manufacturers and distributors of Taniac. Complete sales organizations are maintained in 12 separate countries and laboratories are operated in six countries. Only recently it was announced that the sale of Taniac had passed the 40 million bottle mark.

Palace Theatre now Showing Maytime

The "most perfect profile in England" vied with a pure type of American girlhood recently at a debutante party in movie-land.

Netta Westcott, young star of the London stage, whose perfect features have been acclaimed by all England, and Clara Bow, piquant high-school athlete from New York City, saw their features flashed on the silver-sheet for the momentous decision concerning the importance of their first parts in Gaumier's Maytime.

When the saucy-faced school girl from the East curtesied and pirouttted with a rakish chip-like hat cocked over one eye, after the manner of the belles of long ago, there came from B. P. Schulberg and every director on the lot, the simultaneous exclamation: There is our Alice from Maytime.

Miss Westcott, tall, cultivated and showing inherent breeding, made an impressive screen test and was given a characterization in Maytime which will serve to show why Preferred Pictures crossed the ocean to get a certain type of beauty.

Harrison Ford, Ethel Shannon and William Norris are the leading players in Maytime.

Also Stan Laurel comedy Postage Due, latest Pathe News and Palace supreme orchestra.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, special feature program. The Tie That Binds, A mystery drama with action and suspense. Feature No. 2, Poisoned Paradise the forbidden story of Monte Carlo; the most exciting city in the world, New Episode The Telephone Girl.

Broadway Theatre.

After seeing the William de Mille production of Icebound at the Broadway theatre yesterday, we'll take back all the mean things said about screen adaptations of popular stage plays.

Icebound, which was awarded the Pulitzer prize for the best American drama during the season 1923, is a story of New England. Lois Wilson and Richard Dix are featured. Dix has the role of Ben Jordan who, while drinking with some neighbor boys in their barn, sets fire to the place and runs away to escape arrest, returning the night his old mother dies.

Besides Miss Reynolds, those who appear in support of the principal players are Helen Dubois, Edna May Oliver, who has the same role she did in the stage production; Mary Foy, little Joseph Depew, Ethel Wales, Alice Chapin, John Daly Murphy and Frank Shannon.

Jack Dempsey continues to attract great crowds in the Fight & Win pictures. A punch to the heart is dangerous except when the punch is leavened with romance, tempered by the most delightful of humor, the most gripping of drama and pathos! That is what you will find in these pictures—with the punch delivered by none other than that master of punchers, Jack Dempsey! See Jack Dempsey Fight and Win. To see Jack Dempsey Fight and Win in New York costs $25. You can see him Fight and Win here for 25 cents.

BREED THEATRE

That the old-time popular priced melodrama will be made into first class screen entertainment for the present generation was proved in no uncertain measure in Goldwyn's picturization of Owen Davis' Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model showing at the Breed theatre.

This was, in its day, one of the most popular of its type of stage melodrama. While it has been freely adapted to the screen, its melodramatic highlights have been retained and its thrilling moments keep the chills chasing up and down one's spine while it is being unrolled. Melodramas have been very popular with motion picture audiences for the past season and Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model, should surpass them all, for it is everywhere a workmanlike job from the preparation of the script for the screen, to the smallest detail in the direction.

It is capably acted by the cast which contains the names of several of our most popular players in silent drama. Claire Windsor's blond beauty lends itself perfectly to the role of Nellie, the cloak model, while Mae Busch gives another one of her life-like portrayals as Jolly Joy. Lew Cody adds one more to his long list of model screen villains, while Hobart Bosworth in a dual role again proves himself one of our ablest screen entertainers. Edmund Lowe, in the role of Nellie's lover, makes of that character an attractive and sympathic human being. Raymond Griffith's taxi driver is an excellent bit of work done in a comedy style, that is most entertaining. Others in the cast are Lilyan Tashman, William Orlamond, Arthur Houseman and Dorothy Cummings.

INDIAN MOTHER AND CHILDREN MOST BEAUTIFUL IN AMERICA

Judges, Mrs. Oliver Harriman, U. S. Senator Royal S. Copeland, Howard Chandler Christy.

The winners of a national mother and children beauty contest, which has attracted widespread attention, are now in New York having their portraits painted by famous artists, among them Howard Chandler Christy.

Last spring the makers of a famous health soap conceived the idea that beauty reaches its highest forms in the rosebud faces of children and in the sweet mystery of a mother's smile.

The masterpieces of art which have come down to us from the great painters of all ages almost without exception treat the "mother and child" theme.

Prizes to the amount of $10,000 in cash were offered by Lever Bros. Co., makers of Lifebuoy Health Soap, for the most beautiful photographs of mothers and children. In addition, an irresistible inducement was that winners of first, second and third prizes were to be invited to New York to have their portraits painted by famous artists, these portraits to become the property of the prize winners. Such portraits would not only be priceless as works of art but would become family heirlooms of extraordinary associations.

Many thousands of exquisite photographs were entered. The distinguished judges devoted weeks of continous effort in selecting nine national prizes and forty-eight state prizes. Each photograph was judged from three angles—beauty, health and motherhood. The judges agreed that beauty and health are the same and that the ideal mother must of necessity be both beautiful and healthy.

The first prize of $2,500 was awarded to Mrs. A. C. Gandy of Richmond, Indiana, as typical an American mother as you could find from Maine to California. She was born and spent her girlhood in Lexington, Kentucky; comes from fine old American stock and followed the good American custom of marrying the man of her choice, not because he was wealthy but because she believed in him.

Like millions of just such families, they had fought their way from nothing to the point where a real home was a possibility—a home where their two adorable children could grow up according to decent American standards.

And then from a clear sky a dazzling bolt of fortune shattered their obscurity—and poured gold into their laps.

This simple, wholesome, self-sacrificing American girl is selected by the best qualified judges in America as the most beautiful mother of the loveliest children in this country.

The little American home is no longer a possibility—it is a reality.

The second prize of $1,000 goes to a daughter of the aristocracy of Virginia, Mrs. Virginia Lee Boyer, known to screenland as lovely Virginia Lee and one of the most charming ingenues of motion pictures. She has retired from the pictures for the present to bring up two of the loveliest youngsters that ever inspired an artist, and is now living in Boston with her ex-naval officer husband.

Third prize of $500 was awarded to Mrs. Harry B. Sparling, who has lived all her life in St. Louis. Those who like to decry the modern generation of flappers will find in Mrs. Sparling a perfect answer to their fears. Charming, little more than a school girl, yet she is devoting literally every second of her time to the upbringing of her beautiful boy, and to the running of her modest home.

These splendid types of American motherhood and childhood are all in New York, posing daily for what promise to be three of the most exquisite paintings ever produced in this country.

While American women are bobbing their hair, the women of the upper classes in Siam are letting their's grow long for the first time. However the majority of the Siamese women still keep to the old traditions and have their locks shorn like those of the men.

Read How Mrs. Walsh Was Helped by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mannington, W. Virginia.—"I took the Vegetable Compound when having the turn of life. I had been sick for seven years. I would get a little better, then I broke down again. It would be hard for me to describe how I was for I was a perfect wreck. I suffered with a pain in my left side, then I would have numb spells, and I would think I couldn't live. I would have hot flashes, then would come weak spells. I was so weak I would think I couldn't ever get a meal ready. My work was a burden to me. I was not able to do my housework half of the time. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has given me strength and health. The hot flashes left me and I got better of the numb spells. That summer I could do my housework and worked in the garden a good bit. I tell all sick women what your wonderful medicine did for me, and will always recommend it. I am known to all my neighbors, and you can publish this statement because it is true."—Mrs. JOHN W. WALSH, R. No. 1, Box M, Mannington, West Virginia.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

No lesson has been learned by hundreds of motorists from the scores of terrible grade crossing accidents that have marked the past few years in all parts of the country. Lives that have been wiped out by trains crashing into motor cars on crossings in this immediate territory seems have not served at all to impress numberless drivers with the need of slowing down and going over crossings after due investigation and assurance that no train is approaching.

Recently a check has been kept on cars proceeding over crossings hereabouts. This check shows that on some days as high as 80 per cent. of the drivers that guide machines across the tracks pay absolutely no attention to the crossing. They take it for granted that no train is approaching, or that some automatic signal device will warn them if a train is in the neighborhood.

At Central Village, on a Sunday afternoon, a check was kept on one block of 20 machines that went over the state road crossing there within the space of a few minutes. Of these 20 drivers there was just one who slowed down for the crossing or even looked up and down the track to see that he was safe. Here was almost 100 per cent. efficiency in carelessness.

To observers of such things it is an interesting indulgence to watch the drivers and the recklessness they display at grade crossings. One can be convinced almost any time at almost any crossing that the great majority of grade crossing accidents are due to the carelessness of drivers. Yet hardly ever does such an accident occur without hearing someone talking damage suits against the railroad company, such talk usually starting before the bodies of the dead are removed.

There have been and will be grade crossing accidents practically unavoidable, but the majority of them, it again may be pertinent to point out to motorists, are due to reckless driving. Only the watchfulness of Officer Christopher Andrews, who guards the Main street crossing each night as the Bar Harbor rushes through, saves Danielson from contributing some new wrecks to the list.

Officers of the Westfield Cemetery association that served during the past year were re-elected recently. One change was the election of Sidney Perry to be vice-president in place of Judge M. A. Shumway, who died during the past year. Annual reports show that the trust funds of the organization have increased and that it is in excellent financial condition.

A sport that has a few devotees hereabouts, and is in vogue just now is the shooting of woodchucks. Rifles are used by the hunters. They pride themselves on their skill at long distance shots and while they are getting their rifle practice are ridding the territory in which they elect to operate of animals that do considerable damage each season to the crops of farmers. Not many indulge in this sport, but there are a few hereabouts who do and get considerable enjoyment out of it.

Wednesday of this week, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Boulaine will observe the silver anniversary of their marriage. There will be an anniversary nuptial high mass at St. James' church at 9 o'clock, the celebrant to be Rev. Ludovic Paradis of Voluntown, brother of Mrs. Boulaine. A family reunion will be the only other observance of the day. Mr. and Mrs. Boulaine were married at North Grosvenordale, parental home of Mrs. Boulaine. During all the 25 years of their married life they have made their home in Danielson, where Mr. Boulaine is engaged in business. They have four children, two sons and two daughters.

Men whose business it is to observe traffic and keep a check upon it declared Monday that Sunday's movement of motor vehicles through this territory was the heaviest of the season. In a measure this was attributed to the fact that many travelers were returning from holiday trips, swelling the volume of traffic over what it ordinarily would be on a Sunday.

Charged with reckless driving, John N. Johnson of Killingly was presented before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court Monday morning and was fined $25 and costs, $20 of the fine being remitted by the court. Johnson became involved in difficulties Saturday morning when the car he was driving was in collision with another machine at the corner of Main and Academy streets. Johnson admitted that he was coming to Danielson to have the brakes on his machine given attention.

The need of rain in generous quantities has become more urgent during the past few days. Crops are suffering for the need of it. The corn crop, particularly, is deficient in growth. It was slow in getting started and has made its greatest gain in the past two weeks. Hot weather has helped it recently, but the fields are now in need of an enduring, soaking rain. All through this territory country highways are being cut to dust, which is inches deep. Rain would help remedy this condition also.

Monday took high rank among hot days of the season. At many places in the borough the mercury touched 94 degrees during the afternoon and cool indeed was the spot where the temperature was under 90. To many the day was the most trying of any day of the hot weather period and it increased the talk relative to vacation plans.

After a visit here with Mrs. W. E. Keach of the West Side, Mrs. Fenner Rich and daughter, Virginia, have returned to Ansonia.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Burrows are at their cottage at Oakland Beach for the summer season, Mr. Burrows returning here for the week end.

Motorists down this way are wondering what all the delay is about in getting open the main route from Danielson to Putnam above Attawaugan, where a comparatively small highway construction job has been on since spring. The detours made necessary by the blockade are in notoriously bad condition.

If you don't think the average republican hereabouts is having a splendid time these sultry July days, ask one about the democratic national convention.

This is the day that a number of Elks resident in Danielson will leave to attend the grand lodge session of the organization in Boston. The big parade of the lodges comes on Thursday of this week.

It is a good thing that the state police and other enforcement officials have more good judgment than the people who keep running to them with all sorts of complaints, many of them absolutely unfounded, or 98 per cent. of the people of the town would be in trouble most of the time. So many people are careless about facts nowadays. They are symbolized by a woman that told a story to a borough police officer here the other day and concluded it by calmly stating: "I would like to get him into trouble, but of course, I wouldn't want him to know I did it." This is a fair sample of the knife-in-the-back system now operating in Danielson, and many other communities. And strangest of all is the fact that the complainants as a general rule consider themselves the only righteous people in the community.

Thursday of this week brings the first of the weekly half-holidays for the store forces of Danielson. The stores will close at noon for the day. This arrangement will continue through July and August.

Mrs. W. H. Judson has been ill at her home on Academy street the past few days.

Miss Nellie Sullivan has returned to Hartford after visiting for a few days with Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kennedy.

Miss Alice Monohan is on a vacation, part of which she will spend in Hartford.

Benjamin Weisberg of New York has been visiting here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Weisberg.

Miss Susie Collins was at Ocean Beach Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gartland of Bridgeport are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. James Gartland.

Mr. and Mrs. John Head of New York have been guests of Michael Head and family.

PUTNAM

While rounding the corner of Grove street, near the Grove Street cemetery in a side-car motorcycle Monday afternoon, H. A. Maine of Lynn and his little grandson, Louis Baxter, 7, were somewhat injured when the machine overturned and dropped off a ten-foot embankment. Mr. Maine was rendered unconscious for five minutes and suffered contusions and abrasions about the head. The little boy escaped with a few bruises, but was badly frightened.

Mr. Maine had come south from Worcester. While on the way to Putnam he picked up a man to give him a lift. The passenger, who was unknown to Mr. Maine, left the side car at McGarry's corner.

With the sidecar thus lightened the balancing of the machine was somewhat different and Mr Maine believes that he had not gotten used to the change when rounding the cemetery corner, a few minutes later. He blames this fact to his losing control of the machine long enough for it to crash through a fence and down the bank.

Examination of the motorcycle showed that it had not been damaged and after resting a while in a nearby house Mr. Maine and his grandson proceeded on their way.

An American flag, probably the oldest flag in Putnam and one with a distinguished record, is in the possession of Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Wright, of Grove street. The flag was formerly the property of Rear Admiral John Woodward Phillips, active in service during the Spanish-American war, and was an uncle of Mrs. Wright.

The flag is of wool, measures 18 feet by three feet and is hand made. It has 32 six-inch white stars on the regulation blue field. This indicates that it was made between the years 1859, when California entered the Union as the 32nd state and 1858 when the 33rd state was admitted. This makes the flag approximately 70 years old.

Mr. Phillips went to sea when a lad and when still a young man became master of a sailing vessel and it was then that he raised to the masthead the flag now in the possession of his niece. Captain Philip entered the U. S. navy in 1861, served with distinction through the Civil war and continued in the navy after peace was declared. He became captain of the battleship Texas in 1897.

He again distinguished himself during the Spanish-American war at the battle of Santiago, when the Spanish fleet was forced to put for shore and was destroyed. It was Captain Philip who said at that time, "Don't cheer, boys, the poor devils are dying." In 1898 Captain Philip was made a commodore and was made rear admiral in 1899.

The flag now in possession of Mrs. Wright was his personal flag and it is full of small holes and rents from bullets and shrapnel. Admiral Philip died in 1906, while commandant of Brooklyn, N. Y., Navy Yard.

Napoleon Benoit, 67, a resident of Putnam for the past 19 years, was found not guilty of transporting intoxicating liquor with intent to sell and with owning and keeping with intent to sell, by Judge Geissler, in the city court, Monday morning.

As the defendant admittedly brought two quarts of whiskey from somewhere in Rhode Island, to his home in Putnam, Judge Geissler told defendant's attorney, Harry S. Gaucher, of Willimantic, that, as the city court of Putnam was sworn to uphold the laws of the United States as well as the state, he felt that it was his duty, not as a judge but as an attorney-at-law, to notify the federal authorities and to order the liquor sealed and retained by the police until the enforcement officers were notified. The only evidence on the part of the state was the testimony of State Policeman Ross Urquhart, who told of going to the Benoit home on Walnut street, on June 23rd and making a search. The officer testified that he found 40 bottles of home brew beer in the cellar, a two-quart jug of whiskey, eight whiskey glasses, two empty bottles smelling of liquor, a bottle-capping machine, and a quantity of corks and bottle caps. On cross examination the officer stated that Mrs. Benoit, wife of the defendant, told him they were preparing for a party to be held that night.

Benoit took the stand in his own behalf and said he had lived in Putnam 53 years and had never been arrested. He admitted that the whiskey was his and said he brought it home from Rhode Island the night before the raid, but could not remember from what place in Rhode Island he got it nor who drove him there. He said a man took him to ride and that he—Benoit—purchased the liquor and the man who drove the car did not know he had it.

Benoit said that he had worked in the mill for years and at one time owned a saloon, but that he did not sell liquor in his place personally. He said that he did not keep the liquor that was seized with intent to sell, had never sold any and did not intend to sell any and that it was in the house for his own use which he thought was all right. He said his wife made home brew nearly every week. After the attorney for the defendant had argued the fact that it was incumbent upon the state to show intent in both counts Judge Geissler told the attorney how he viewed the situation relative his duty to the federal authorities.

After the case had been disposed of Attorney Gaucher addressed the court, saying that his client had been taken to the office of the prosecuting attorney and there, without counsel to advise him, had made admissions that he would not have been allowed to do had he had the advice of a lawyer and that he was allowed to make statements to incriminate himself. Counsel scored such proceedings, declaring it was unethical and not a proper method of procedure in such a case.

Elzear Perrier of Woonsocket, arrested a week ago following an accident on the Providence road, was found not guilty of reckless driving. Palydore Messier of Killingly told the court that he was driving slowly along the highway and was about to stop so put out his hand to signal the driver behind. The car driven by the defendant struck the side of his car, doing slight damage. On cross examination, witness admitted that Perrier stopped and told him that he would be responsible for any damage to the car driven by witness, as he was insured. After the accident, defendant started to drive away and when about 400 feet further along his car tipped over. Messier said that defendant's car was damaged and that he, the witness, told the defendant that he would tip over if he attempted to drive it.

The defendant admitted that he had his family with him and wanted to get home and thought he could do so. That when he put his car in high speed it tipped over. His daughter's hand was hurt, but no onse else was injured.

In making his finding of not guilty Judge Geissler said that while it might have been an error of judgment on the part of the defendant in driving so close to the car ahead and while it might have been poor judgment to try to run his car after the accident, he could not find any intent to break the law or anything in the evidence to warrant finding the accused of reckless driving.

James Botham, a former Putnam taxi driver, was picked up by Sergeant Laird at three o'clock Sunday morning drunk. The officer said Botham had been warned to get off the street but kept walking up and down. Botham was argumentative and said things had come to a pretty pass if a man can not have a few drinks without getting arrested. He said he was not very drunk and that he was looking for someone to take him to his home in Pomfret when the officer arrested him. He said he did not think it would be right to make him pay money when that money was needed at home and he is out of a job.

Judge Geissler told Botham that he should think of these things before taking a drink. He said that he had been before the court three times, the last time in February 1923, "and," said his honor, "I want you to get this straight so there will be no misunderstanding, the next time you come before the court it will be jail." A fine of $20 and costs of $11 was imposed and paid.

In default of bonds, Joseph Beaudry, South Main street, has been held by the Webster police since Sunday on a charge of a breach of the automobile laws. Beaudry will be brought before the district court at Webster this (Tuesday) morning. The car Beaudry was driving ran amuck and finally landed head-on against a tree, according to a story told a Putnam policeman, who happened to be in Webster, Sunday. Several men were with Beaudry, but none of them were hurt.

Louis H. Moreau, a salesman, 39, is dead at the home of his parents on Florence street. He was born in Woonsocket September 2, 1884, son of Henry and Mashilda ansoni Moreau. The family came to Putnam a few years ago from Woonsocket.

The next golf match that Putnam has on at the links of the Putnam Country Club is Saturday next with Stafford Springs. The club from Tolland county always gives Putnam a good battle. During the afternoon the women members of the clubs will play cards on the club veranda and after the men finish their tournament supper will be served.

E. L. Davis of Walnut street, postmaster at Lord's Point during the summer months, was in Putnam over the week end.

Alfred Gallant of Hartford spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Gallant.

Putnam was free from automobile accidents, Sunday, only one slight collision being reported with no damage done.

A number of members of the former Putnam Girls' Club, an organization that disbanded some time ago, are building a large cottage on the shore of Alexander's Lake. The cottage has hard wood floors, a large veranda and is modern in every way.

The Bar Harbor express, which was running from 7 to 9 sections before the Fourth has dropped back to normal, as the rush of travel east is over.

Old Mercury was kicking up its heels and trying to knock the top off of old thermom on Main street, Monday afternoon, the hottest day of the summer thus far. Fluctuating between 90 and 97 degrees, according to location, the only thing that made the temperature bearable was that there was not any great humidity and there was a little breeze stirring.

While it is good "hay weather" and the corn got a good start on account of the arrival of the heat wave, the country is dry and rain is sorely needed. Travel over country roads is unpleasant on account of the dust clouds.

PLAINFIELD

At a special meeting of the I. O. O. F., in the Community house Monday evening, it was decided by the members to send a wreath for the funeral of their departed brother, George Hentshel. It was also the unanimous agreement of the lodge to go in a body to the brother's house. All of those who were able were urged to attend the funeral.

Misses Emma Kay and Eva Oates spent the week end at Ocean Beach.

Miss Syvila Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holmes, is recovering from an injury at her home on Baker avenue. Miss Holmes was run over last week by an automobile and received a cracked collar bone.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Crocker have returned after spending a few days with Bridgeport relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kay of Blackstone, R. I., are with Mr. Kay's parents in the new village for a week.

Albert Marriott of this town will leave for San Francisco this (Tuesday) morning, after having spent a month at his home in the new village. On his first trip across recently he came by a southern route. On his return trip he contemplates crossing Canada as far as the Great Lakes then coming back to the states, thence to California.

Miss Lena Piper has returned after spending a week with Anthony friends.

At the First Congregational church Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, Leander Poitras and Miss Jannie Marsdan were united in marriage by Rev. William C. Prentiss. The groom was attended by George Holland and Mrs Aurelle Leveque was the matron of honor. Only a few friends and relatives were present at the ceremony. The bride received many handsome gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Poitras will reside in the new two tenement house built by Edwin Babcock on Babcock avenue.

Rev. Henry T. Arnold of Norwich assisted at the Sunday morning service at the Congregational church, preaching a brief, interesting and helpful sermon on Christ the Truth, the Way and the Life. He also assisted the pastor at the community table Mr. Arnold was pastor of the church for twenty years, from 1887 to 1907. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold are remembered pleasantly for the long term of faithful service, Mrs. Arnold passing to her higher reward during the past year.

Dr. William E. Wilson conducted his Bible class at the noon hour at the close of which it was voted to discontinue meetings until the first Sunday in September.

Clarence E. Windsor conducted the Sunday Bible school which will continue to meet through July.

Mrs. Alfred Baldwin rendered most acceptably a song at the evening service at the Congregational church, Miss Helen P. Gallup being pianist.

The O. J. S. members are to hold their annual outing July 10th at Rocky Point and Oakland Beach, leaving on the 6 o'clock morning train.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Swallow of Providence spent the week with her sister, Mrs. Arthur Moffit.

One of the best gardens in Plainfield, the one that shows the most progress, is that of S. B. Villette. He has pole beans that measure seven feet and covered with pods.

Dr. and Mrs. Elmer Bennett spent the holiday with the latter's son in Canterbury.

Many dealers in the town who handled fireworks this year were disappointed with the sales and the stock that was left over.

As there were many dances in the surrounding towns, it can be blamed partly to that, as the majority of the young folks were out of town.

James Lee of New Haven is spending a week at his home on Windsor avenue.

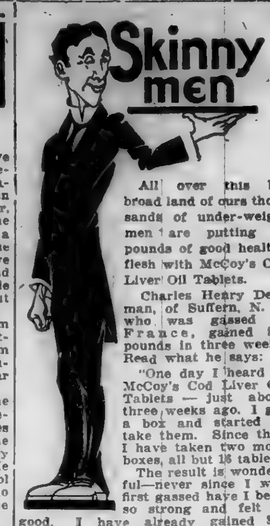
Mrs. C. Kempel, Mr. Philip and Misses Elizabeth and Anna Kempel, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kenyon of Phillips street. Mrs. Kenyon motored to New Jersey and her family returned with her to spend the holiday in Plainfield.

Although the Democratic convention seems to be getting stale and tiresome, the Democrat politicians of the town are standing by listening to the returns, as can be seen wherever there is a radio.

Every year the holiday spirit has been waning, until this year, it seems in the verge of collapse.

IDENTIFIED BODY AS THAT OF HER DAUGHTER

New York, July 7—The body of an actress and cloak model known as Ruth Hollister, who died of acute alcoholism after a party in her apartment last Saturday night, was identified today as that of Mrs. Estella McCollough by her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Flint of Portsmouth, N. H. Mrs. Flint will take the body to Portsmouth for burial.



All over this big broad land of ours thousands of under-weight men are putting on pounds of good healthy flesh with McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets.

Charles Henry Denman, of Suffern, N. Y. who was gassed in France, gained 8½ pounds in three weeks. Read what he says:

"One day I heard of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets — just about three weeks ago. I got a box and started to take them. Since then I have taken two more boxes, all but 18 tablets.

The result is wonderful—never since I was first gassed have I been so strong and felt so good. I have already gained 8½ pounds. 60 tablets, 60 cents.

For weak, run down under-weight, nervous men, women, children.

Lee & Osgood Co. sells lots of them. "Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablet."

I feel fine on hot days

I used to hate hot weather. Took the life all out of me. Couldn't work and didn't care to play.

Summer is now my best season. One simple, sensible idea showed me how to keep cool, efficient and comfortable on hot days.

I took my temperature one sizzling afternoon when I felt half cooked and found that my blood was exactly the same temperature that it was in winter. "Then," said I, "the trouble must be with my skin."

So next morning, I got into a tub of hot water and scrubbed myself with Lifebuoy. Rubbed the penetrating, gently antiseptic lather deep down into the pores. Then I splashed cold water onto my skin and dried it with brisk rubbing.

Felt cool all day

Any doctor will tell you the reason. My pores were open and purified. They could breathe.

My body was able to get rid of waste and poisons freely. The soap I formerly used just cleaned the surface. Lifebuoy went down into the pores and removed all the dirt.

During the day I wash my face, hands and wrists as often as possible both for the tonic effect and to remove germs which moist hands pick up from almost everything they touch.

As a result, my skin is soft and finely textured and my complexion has a natural healthy underglow. I have never found any other soap that is as good for my skin as Lifebuoy.

Lever Bros. Co. Cambridge, Mass.

Orange-red Lifebuoy is the color of pure palm fruit oil...You will like the clean, wholesome, quickly vanishing odor because you like cleanness.

Health—what is it?

Radiant charm in children; big achievement for men; for women, the power to attract and to live gloriously; prolongation of youth; living always in the sunlight, undarkened by the shadows of sickness—that is health...Lifebuoy is the health soap.

How Many Bad Potatoes do you get?

There are some bad potatoes in every basket; they are a total waste.

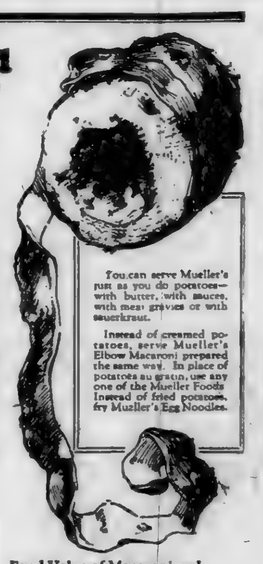
Potatoes are 62% water and 15% peelings. More waste.

It takes from 35 to 40 minutes to peel and cook them—a heavy expenditure of both time and fuel.

Follow the example of the thousands of housewives who now serve Mueller's Macaroni, Elbow Macaroni, Spaghetti and Egg Noodles instead of potatoes.

It will be a big help and a big saving to you, and Mueller's, the Macaroni "with the better taste," is so appetizing and delicious that the whole family will be grateful to you.

Instead of Potatoes Eat Mueller's Macaroni—Full Food Value Without Waste



You can serve Mueller's just as you do potatoes—with butter, with sauces, with meat gravies or with sauerkraut.

Instead of creamed potatoes, serve Mueller's Elbow Macaroni prepared the same way. In place of potatoes au gratin, use any one of the Mueller Foods. Instead of fried potatoes, fry Mueller's Egg Noodles.

THE FEDERAL SURPLUS.

That the United States treasury has a balance of $505,000,000 for the fiscal year ending with June or $170,000,000 more than it estimated at the beginning of the year that it would have, is a cause for satisfaction on the part of the people of this country. It means that the people have paid it in part but after having turned it over to the government there is that great satisfaction of knowing that it wasn't squandered.

That the surplus was so much larger than had been estimated was due to changing conditions which could not be foretold, but conditions nevertheless which were largely due to the policies put into operation by the administration.

Since the time of making the estimates there has been a change in the money market. Money is cheaper and Liberty bonds are higher. Great Britain has hitherto been paying its war loans and interest with Liberty bonds, purchased below par, which bonds have been immediately cancelled by the government. At the time of the last payment, however, there was no advance to be gained by the British in buying Liberties for such a purpose so they paid in cash. This cash remains in the treasury since there was no offset for cancellation bonds this time. This swelled the surplus $50,000,000.

Likewise because of the favorable conditions with the railroads there was a cash surplus in favor of the government of $120,000,000 which further increased the treasury surplus in a manner not anticipated. It is not to be overlooked however, that while these additions had not been anticipated that they came from the conditions resulting from approval of and confidence in the administration's policies.

What congress might have done had it known in advance what the surplus was going to be can be easily imagined. There would have been a disposition for even greater extravagance than there was, but it is happily noted that in spite of the surplus and in spite of the debt reduction the administration is demanding strict economy, the effects of which is to mean of course further tax reductions.

HAYTI'S PLEA.

Strange as it may seem there are those among the American republics which feel peeved to think that disorder is not permitted to reign at all times within their borders. They carry the impression that they ought to be allowed to fight if they want to, that they should permit such wasteful and corrupt conditions that they would soon be in the hands of their creditors and that, no matter what they do, those who would be obliged to feel the effects of their predicament should not turn a hand to prevent it.

Hayti is the latest to indicate its dissatisfaction at the real service that is being rendered for it by this country. Hayti talks about being deprived of its freedom and chafes under the presence of our marines, but Hayti should stop and consider that it alone is responsible for the conditions that brought about the stationing of troops there and instead of making the needed effort to overcome the conditions it cries out for freedom and liberation under the plea that it should be allowed to return to disorder and trouble.

There have always been those who have been ready to bite the hand that fed them and the impression grows that there always will be. Hayti certainly takes a curious view of its position. It doesn't appreciate the fact that while this country is thinking of itself to the extent of desiring to prevent Hayti from doing anything that would endanger the peace and safety of this country, it is engaged in an altruistic effort in trying to save Hayti from itself.

The presence of the forces of another government is not such as to be entirely pleasing to a republic, or any country, and yet there is a marked difference between such presence when the country sending the forces is bent upon conquest and embarrassment. Hayti's disorders are notorious. Till they can be controlled and stopped it needs just such a guiding influence as it is getting.

ENGLISH CHANNEL TUNNEL.

If the suggestion had been followed by action immediately after it was first made the tunnel under the English channel between Dover and Calais would now be such a fixture that nothing would be thought of it. It would of course be pointed out as one of the big engineering feats like tubes and bridges about New York but the chances are that it would now be experiencing such use that it would be unable to meet the requirements.

But the idea did not get a prompt response. It has resulted in a lot of talk, some investigation, encouraging prospects from time to time, but no action.

Just about the time the World war broke out there were indications that the efforts in that direction might lead to results. The war blocked them, however, and since that there has been less done than there was back in the 80's when borings were made after British and French companies had been organized to undertake the work.

No matter who starts the discussion there is quickly raised the effect that such an entrance to England would have in case of war. It is unfortunate that such a phase of the matter arouses such concern, since the construction of the tunnel would eliminate a most unpleasant crossing by boat and would put England and France, as well as the rest of the continent in close and quick touch with each other. The financing of such a proposition apparently does not enter into the question, except as to the loss that might be sustained in case of war and its destruction became necessary.

In these days of big feats this underwater connection would not balk the engineers. The revival of interest in it has not as yet, however, reached the point where there seems any probability of a start being made, all of which prompts the thought that if something of the kind isn't undertaken soon nothing may ever be done since flying across the channel may become so well established and safe as to make it undesirable.

DANGEROUS "CUTTING IN."

One of the worst highway dangers and one against which much has been repeatedly said is the practice of "cutting in." Twelve persons were involved in a head-on collision at Hinsdale, Mass., from which one death may occur just because of the failure to overcome this habit. Turning out to pass another car, no thought, or at least insufficient thought, was given to a car coming in the other direction. It being impossible to pass the machines smashed together with serious consequences.

Too often is it the case that the person who does the "cutting in" escapes and forces one or both of the other machines into the ditch or some obstruction at the side of the road because of their endeavors to avoid the reckless driver.

"Cutting in" means depriving some other driver of his rights in the highway. It is done while passing another car through failure to observe the rule not to pass on a curve or attempting to pass a car ahead when cars coming in the opposite direction make it dangerous. The unwillingness to wait a moment until road conditions are proper has been responsible for many accidents and a great many more near ones. It not only means the taking of big chances by the driver who shuts off the highways from another but it puts many a careful driver in a bad predicament. The speedster is one who will be found engaging in this kind of driving and it is unfortunate that a better check be held on those who are guilty of creating this needless menace. There are but few instances where such driving can be excused.

PARENTAL RESPONSIBILITY.

In these days when there are so many needless deaths, it is impossible to overlook what seems like the lack of parental responsibility. Not only are there those children who are meeting death in the streets by dodging in front of fast moving vehicles, but there are those who are playing with loaded revolvers, venturing into water beyond their depth and playing with fire with such abandon that parental oversight would seem to be gravely lax. Not only that but there are those who are pawing over garbage cans for what they can find and inviting ill health in a manner which indicates that home influences are not what they should be.

Children will be children. That is to be expected and desired. No one would seek to have them other than normal, but there are dangers which they should be kept away from and there are dangerous things which many are allowed to play with which never should be permitted.

The burning to death of three little girls in a western city discloses how easy it was for them to get matches. It was not one instance from which the three lost their lives but three separate cases where matches were obtained, fires started in the street or house, clothing caught fire and in spite of all that was done three lost their lives.

It is not to be suspected that parents hand revolvers or matches to their children but they fail to put them where they cannot be obtained. They invite the sad results by the lack of precautions. They fail to give sufficient consideration in advance to the possibilities.

Not very much complaint is heard this week about the cold and backward July.

There is only one democratic convention thus far which was never adjourned sine die.

THE CHILDREN EAT

The scene is one of those popular restaurants in which customers are sure the food is home cooked because there are two palms in the windows and a single rose in a vase on the cashier's desk. Usual crowd of smartly garbed business girls, harried business men and stout, leisurely ladies in town for a day's shopping, who pile various bundles on chairs from whence they have to be unpiled as others enter.

Enter a pretty little woman with hat a trifle askew, leading a small boy and equally small girl.

The Lady—Here's a table, children—thank goodness! Stop fingering that parcel, Eddie. It doesn't belong to us.

Small Boy (proceeding to poke fingers through the wrappings)—Well, it's on a chair at our table and I guess I'm gonna see what's in—Ow, you hurt, mamma! Kin I have ice cream and lemon pie an'—

Small Girl (excitedly)—I'm gonna have choclut ice cream and pudding and mince pie an' gingerbread.

The Lady—Hush this instant! You promised if I would bring you downtown to luncheon you would behave. I am going to order you a nice baked potato and creamed egg and some lovely sliced oranges.

Small Boy—Aw, gee, I hate eggs and I had oranges for breakfast and what's the good of coming downtown if I can't have ice cream? Please, mamma, I want peach ice cream an'—

Small Girl (tipping over the powdered sugar jar)—Oh, why do I hafta eat baked potatoes when I'm downtown at a party? Can I have choclut—

The Lady (finishing with the waitress, entirely and determinedly oblivious of the clamor at her both elbows)—And plenty of hot water with my tea—and you might bring some plain ice cream for them, I guess. Eddie, if you don't stop wriggling so I'll never bring you downtown again—there, see the mud you've wiped off on the back of that lady's coat! Keep your feet on the chair round and sit still! Camille, is that any way to drink water—stop sticking your fingers in the sugar! Both of you are acting like little wild Indians and making me ashamed!

Small Boy—Gee, I'm hungry! Can't I have some fried oysters an'—

The Lady—Oh, there's Lottie Hepwing over there. Now you children sit quietly for just a minute while mamma goes over to that table and speaks to a friend—right over there where you can see me all the time.

Small Girl—I wanna go, too! Oh, please, let me go, too, mamma!

Small Boy—I wanna go, mamma! I wanna go!

The Lady—Hush! The idea! Why, you are almost grown up and here you are acting like babies! No, you can't go because if you did somebody would sit down at our table and we'd have no place to eat and the waitress wouldn't know where to put our food—and I'm only going to be gone a minute! I'll wave at you when I get there.

Small Girl (interestedly) tearing open envelope parcel she has discovered on the floor beside her and holding up to view a pink brassiere)—Oh, lookit, mamma! See what I found!

Red-Faced Lady at Next Table (grabbing item and jamming it into its wrappings) — Umphhh! Grrrrr! Passssssst!

The Lady (in a terrible tone)—Wait till I get you home, Camille, and I'll settle with you! Now, you behave yourselves while I go speak to Aunt Lottie!

Instant calm as they watch her progress away from them. More silence as the waitress appears with laden tray and sets things down. Small boy grabs his mother's lobster salad, small girl empties the sugar bowl into her glass of milk, knocks mother's cinnamon rolls on to the floor, kicks passing gentleman hard in the leg. Intense and active work.

When their mother returns from her brief visit she finds left for her luncheon a tapioca pudding, half a baked potato and cold tea and discovers her two infants licking their chops, so to say. At least they are too full to talk—always a silver lining to a cloud if you stop to think about it.

The Lady—My checks please! No, I guess I don't want anything to eat—my head sort of aches. My goodness, if I can only get these children home I won't ask anything more of fate.—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Lynching Record for First Six Months of 1924.

Mr. Editor: The following statistics on lynching for the first six months of the year 1924 have been compiled by the department of records and research of Tuskegee Institute.

Total number lynched 6.

Offenses charged: Rape 3, attempted rape 1, killing officer of the law 1.

Record by states: Florida 2, Georgia 2, South Carolina 1.

Comparison of records: First 6 months 1924, 5; first six months 1923, 15; first six months 1922, 30; first six months 1921, 36.

It is gratifying to note that the record thus far for the year 1924 is the lowest for the first six months of any of the forty years during which the record has been kept. It is an encouraging sign of progress toward the elimination of this evil, which is condemned by public opinion. It is an indication of the growing sentiment against lawlessness in general, and in my judgment a result of the spread and influence of interracial cooperation. All of the persons lynched were negroes.

Yours very truly,
R. R. MOTON,
Principal.

CHILD TRAINING

GETTING UP IN THE MORNING

By Florence J. Ovens.

"G'by, Ma," called Norton in a stage whisper at the door of his mother's sleeping room, "Nat is outside waiting for me."

"Is Nat going to have breakfast with Philip, too?" she asked.

"Yes, and Mother," his sunny face overcasting, "I couldn't find the extra fish-hooks."

"There is some change on the bureau," she said, "you had better take it; you may have a chance to get some."

After he had gone she lay pondering. It was only half-past five. Usually it was difficult to get Norton up at seven. "Nothing like the prospect of a fishing trip to stimulate the small boy's activity in the early morning," she mused.

How delightfully easy it had been! She had helped him to set the alarm clock the night before, and he had evidently obeyed its first summons. He had bathed and dressed himself without a word to anyone, and when he had come to her room his face had been just glowing with the joy of anticipation.

"I wish he could feel that way about his school," she said to herself. But on further consideration she had to acknowledge that he was fond of his school. It was simply that he had always depended on her, knowing that she would get him up in season. Not at all would he have liked being late. She wondered how it would do to give him the alarm clock and tell him that in the future he must depend upon himself in this matter. But she was afraid he would not get up in time for breakfast and she was not willing that he should go to school without it even as an experiment. Not being able to think a way out of this difficulty she put the question aside. Nevertheless, from time to time, when she was annoyed by Norton's "laziness" in the morning there would come to her mind a recollection of his eager animated little face as she had seen it on the morning of the fishing trip. He certainly had felt the inner urge on that occasion and had responded. She felt certain that if she could supply a strong motive for his regular early rising he would respond to it. But there was so little for a boy to do when one lived in a flat.

One morning after she had experienced unusual difficulty in getting Norman up he said to her, "Ma, if you go to Uncle John's today will you ask him some questions for me about his radio?"

"Yes," she answered with a sudden inspiration, "and I will tell you what he says tomorrow at twenty-five minutes after seven if you are all ready for breakfast."

He grinned.

"Will you call me?" he asked.

"No," she answered, "but you may have the alarm clock."

He was ready at the appointed time. She kept this up. Each day she told him of something that she had to give, show or tell to him on the following morning. Once it was his new suit, once, only an unusual pencil; very often, and he seemed quite as well pleased, it was just a funny story. All this time he was punctuality itself.

Finally one morning he said to her, 'Say Ma, I have a hunch. Let's have our surprises at night instead of in the morning. We'd have more time." Then forestalling her objection, "O, you don't need to keep 'em for bait any more I'll get up. Gee, there's no fun staying in bed half the day. A fellow misses a lot. Sure I'll get up." And he did.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

His interest in foreign affairs and his unofficial activity in promoting public interest in international relations are responsible for the appointment of Courtenay Crocker, Boston lawyer, as adviser in foreign affairs to the Siamese government. In this position he will succeed Dr. Francis B. Sayre, son-in-law of President Wilson, who is completeing a year's stay in Siam. Mr. Crocker is a graduate of Harvard University and of the Harvard Law School. While a member of the executive committee of the Foreign Policy Association of the United States, he took an active part in furthering public interest in foreign affairs, and since has served as a member of the advisory committee for the Boston council. In his new post at Bangkok he will serve as adviser to the Siamese Minister for Foreign Affairs in negotiations with foreign diplomatists and consular officers, and will assist in negotiating treaties with various foreign countries.

The Nizam of Hyderabad, who has granted a life pension of $1,500 per month to the ex-Caliph, Abdul Medjid Khan, is the foremost among the princes of India and also one of the wealthiest. He rules over twelve and a half million of people in a territory about two and a half times the size of Ireland, his capital of Hyderabad containing a population of 400,000 souls. He is the best example of an orthodox ruling chief, governing through his ministers, and is staunchly loyal to the British crown. He maintains a large body of imperial service troops, which were employed during the great war in the eastern theatres. Moreover, he undertook the entire cost of the Twentieth Deccan Horse, a British native cavalry regiment, of which he is honorary colonel, throughout the war. It was after the war that King George, as emperor of India, conferred upon the Nizam of Hyderabad the titles of "Exalted Highness" and "Faithful Ally of the British Government."

Dawes Changed His Vocation

Charles G. Dawes planned to be a civil engineer, studied for it, and then gave it up because the law offered more advantages.

His parents had modest means and he attended public school at Marietta, Ohio, where he was born, and afterward went to Marietta College and Cincinnati Law School, working as a civil engineer in vacation time to pay his way.

He was graduated from the Cincinnati school when he was 21 and was admitted to the bar the same year. He then joined a law firm in Lincoln, Nebr. While engaged in his law practice he became interested in gas companies in several cities, then moved to Evaston, Ill., to manage the company controlling them.

McKinley became candidate for the Republican nomination for President, in 1896. Senator Cullum had presidential ambitions, but Dawes swung the state for McKinley. McKinley wanted Dawes as his private secretary but the Illinois man said the office carried too much of the form and too little of the authority.

He was chosen Comptroller of the Currency, made a good record resigned and ran for the United States senate but was defeated. He was elected president of the Central Trust Company, of Chicago and today is chairman of the board.

When the World war broke out he enlisted early and was eager to get to the front, but his old friend Pershing put him at the head of the purchasing department. Later he had charge of the coordination of supplies for all the allies, and was rewarded with medals from many countries and given the rank of Brigadeer General.

When President Harding appointed him Director of the Budget there were those who said that "in his office in his shirt sleeves with a pair of old-fashioned sallusses, he did not look impressive" and that his "explosive" language was too strong, but that when he went into action his force and personality were overwhelming and his work effective.

Today he is a rich man, is active in public life, has served as the head of the United States representatives attending the commission investigating Germany's condition, and now is Republican candidate for vice-president.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

ASIR

When France elects a new president or England reorganizes her cabinet the news is flashed around the world: Asir's dethronement of an Emir passes practically unnoticed.

"Yet Asir is a country of a million people, it was associated with the Allies in the war, and it was playing its part in the ancient world when our European ancestors were dressing in skins and living in caves." So says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Where is Asir? The one certain statement on that point is that its western boundary is the Red Sea. It lies between the southern border of Hedjas—wherever that is. Even more hazy is its eastern delimitation from Nedj.

"Asir's vague boundaries comprise one of the least nomadic peoples of the Arabian peninsulas. Its mountains make it as independent as little Montenegro once was; its fertile vallevs offer every inducement for the roving Arab to settle down.

"There are Nomads in Asir, however, notably a tribe who, theologically, are fundamentalist Mohammedans and, from their appearance have been called the 'hairy heretics.' They declined to recorganize any caliphs after the death of Ali, the Phophet's son-in-law. They let their hair grow in huge, bushy mops, suggesting the fluffy American girls' 'bob,' because it protects them from the blistering sun. This style of headdress is not peculiar to Asir. It prevails among the Arabian desert nomads.

"Yemen, to the south of Asir, is known because of Mocha, its one-time coffee center., Hedjaz, to the north, is widely advertized, if not known, because of its holy city, Mecca. No European had visited some of Asir's towns until the little district made common cause with the Allies in the hope of throwing off the Turkish yoke. And when the Turkish stronghold surrendered it did so sight unseen!

"It was only recently that an official in India visited Asir's capital, Sabiyah, and gave the outside world the first description of this curious seat of government—a city of huts. These round huts are by no means squalid; they are circular, bee-hive structures, made of clay laid upon a palm leaf base. A recent Emir decided to build a more distinctive executive mansion, so he chose mud brick and had erected a three story palace. A few wealthy merchants copied this innovation.

"The coast of Asir is a lowland zone 20 to 30 miles wide, and back of this strip lie the mountains and valleys which are virtually unknown."

A Little Talk on Thrift

HOARDED WEALTH

Hoarding is as unlike true thrift as iron-ore is unlike a powerful locomotive. The iron represents potential strength and power. But it must be put through certain processes of preparation and become active before its usefulness is made available.

Hoarded wealth is a dead weight on business. Between the miser and the spendthrift thee is little to choose when they are placed on the scales of moral and social valuation.

The hoarding processes grade upward from the absolute miser to those who for various reasons hide away a share of their earnings rather than place these funds where they will flow through the regular channels of business.

Some interesting and rather amazing figures were compiled recently in the United States treasury department. These figures reveal that the amount of money which may be termed as hoarded in this country amounts to $400,000,000. There are 8,000 persons who are definitely classed as misers with $44,000,000 hidden away in secret places.

Among our foreign population, a treasury official estimates that some two million persons hoard $225,000,000 of their earnings. In rural districts, especially where banking facilities are inadequate, there is much hoarding. This is shown by the fact that when a bank is started in a rural locality where no bank existed before, personal deposits made up largely from hoarded sums at once begin to make their appearance. About $125,000,000, it is officially estimated, is hoarded in rural communities.

One of the benefits of thrift education is that people are made to see the harmful effects of hoarding money.

Real thrift is the elimination of waste. And within this definition hoarding must be considered wasteful because the individual loses the rightful income from his savings and business in general loses the benefits that should come from these additions to the legitimate channels of trade and investment.

It is well to understand that when the saving of money is carried to the point of keeping it continually out of circulation such habits come very far from being within the rightful meaning of thrift.—American Society for Thrift.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Visiting Busy Beaver

Now let me see and let me think
And let me ponder, too,
How did I finish the bunny tale
I was telling last night to you?
Oh, yes, now I remember. Dear Uncle Lucky was picking lettuce in the garden before going for a ride in the Luckymobile with Little Jack Rabbit. Well, by this time the dear old gentleman rabbit had given the lettuce to his tiny housekeeper. Little "Here I am, what can I do for you"?

Miss Mousie, and was hopping out to the garage to see if the Old Red Rooster had dusted the cushions and polished the license number.

"Now, I guess everything is shipshape," exclaimed Uncle Lucky, hopping up on the front seat. Then, giving the horn a tremendous honk, away he went with his small bunny nephew by his side. Down Lettuce Avenue they whizzed, then up Potato Lane, until, by and by, after a while, a honk and a smile, they reached the Shady Forest. Turning down a winding road, they soon came to Busy Beaver's dam, which that industrious little fellow had built across the Bubbling Brook in order to make a nice pond in which to build his home.

"Let's stop a while and talk to Busy Beaver," suggested the bunny boy, opening his knapsack to find a lollypop. Goodness me, how that little rabbit did love lollypops. So do you, little reader, I imagine. No, I don't imagine, I just know it.

All of a sudden, a brown head popped out of the water and a voice exclaimed, "Here I am. What can I do for you?" and giving the water a flap with his broad tail, Busy Beaver climbed up on his dam. My, but he had a queer looking tail, covered with scales instead of hair. As for his hind feet, they were just as queer looking. Who would think that a four-footed animal would have a webbing between the toes like Ducky Waddles?

"First time I ever saw your hind feet," exclaimed Uncle Lucky. "There's no webbing between the toes on your front feet, is there?"

"No, indeed," answered Busy Beaver. "I use my hind feet for swimming. They are mighty good paddle wheels."

"I should say so. Your tail makes a mighty good rudder, doesn't it?"

"Yes, and for giving the danger signal," answered Busy Beaver, and sliding off the dam, he brought his tail down on the water with a whack, sending a shower bath all over the two little rabbits.

"And whenever you hear me thump on the ground with my hind feet you'll know danger is near. Lady Love taught me that," answered Little Jack Rabbit.

"Hurray for Lady Love," laughed the old gentleman rabbit. "She wants to make sure her little rabbit is taught how to take care of himself."

And in the next story you shall hear more about Busy Beaver, and how he builds a house with the front door under water.

Stories That Recall Others

A Country Road.

One auto driver had a hobby for knowing where different roads go. Recently he was riding along a little used road when he stopped and inquired from a native about the road, where it would take one if followed and how good it was.

"Well," responded the informant, "it goes down yander and scatters, and it's just as yer look at it."

It Spiggled the Calendar.

The razing of an old building recalled to some of the "old boys" an incident that preceded the closing of the saloons in April 1918, under the prohibition law.

A proprietor named August, now dead, ran a bar in the building, and for some time prior to the approach of the last day of the wet law there was displayed in his window the sign: "The first of April will be the last of August."

PULLED GUN AFTER ROBBING GASOLINE STATION

Within an hour or two after four men, who claim to hail from Boston, made a break at The Pines, the gasoline station and store conducted by Joseph Hastedt, near the drawbridge, and had thrown a gun on him when he attempted to reach a settlement with them, the four men were under arrest and on their way from New London to the Norwich police station, where they will be kept until today (Tuesday) when they must answer to serious charges at the Preston court.

Monday night Mr. Hastedt closed his station and store at The Pines and went in his automobile as far as Stoddard's Wharf and as he returned by the station his boy, who was riding with him called his attention to the fact that someone was at the station looking for gasoline.

Mr. Hastedt stopped and saw that there were three men in a Nash car, one man filling the gas tank, having broken the lock on the pump. He was immediately suspicious of the men and when the horn on the car was blown he became even more suspicious. Suddenly the car started off and a man ran from behind the station and yelled for the three men to wait for him, jumped into the car and all four speeded away towards Norwich.

Mr. Hastedt put after them and caught them near the city line, stopped them and demanded a settlement. One of the men pulled a revolver and pointing it at Mr. Hastedt said, "Well, what are you going to do about it?" The driver of the car then wheeled it about and started back toward New London.

Mr. Hastedt jumped into his car and came to the local police station and reported the case to Captain Twomey. Word was immediately sent out and all roads from Norwich were watched, by the state police and city police.

The state officers made the trip to Norwich without passing the machine, which had evidently pulled off the road when the car with the state officers was seen approaching. The four men went straight into New London through Groton and over the bridge, then seeing their danger, turned and went back over the bridge into Groton again but were overhauled by the New London police and arrested. Word of the arrest was immediately sent to Norwich and Sergeant Murphy, Officer Patrick Murphy and Constable Michael Dolan of Preston went to New London after the prisoners.

The four men gave their names to the New London police as John O'Brien, Harold Moran, Herbert E. White and Lawrence Iskloski, all about 30 years old, and it was learned that the machine in which they were riding had been stolen from the vicinity of Boston. The revolver was found on one of the men and was taken by the police.

An investigation at Hastedt's store showed that entrance to the store had been gained through a rear window and that the men evidently intended to make a haul and get away.

JOHNSON UNDER BONDS OF $5,000 FOR ASSAULT

William Johnson, who slashed John Tennant Saturday night at Johnson's home at the northerly end of Baltic street, was presented in the city court Monday morning on the charge of assault. Tennant was in court with wounds in his forehead and shoulder bandaged but went back to the hospital immediately after the court session. The case was continued to July 12, bonds for Johnson were placed at $5,000 which were furnished by his cousin.

CITY G & E DEPARTMENT REPORTS $151,268.38 PROFITS IN YEAR

Net profits for $151,268.38 from the city gas and electric department for the year ending April 30, 1924, are reported by the gas and electric commissioners, James L. Case, president; Fred A. Fox, Frank P. Welch, C. E. Carpenter and Jeremiah A. Desmond, in the 20th annual report of the department that was submitted to the common council meeting Monday evening.

The report contains the information that the general manager is preparing a schedule of readjusted rates that is soon to be submitted to the commissioners for adoption. It also calls attention to the fact that the report is presented so soon after the first of May, which is due to radical changes that have been effected in the accounting department and the inauguration of new and improved systems, a veiled reference to the upset that resulted in an almost complete change in the personnel of the office force.

Commissioners' Report.

The following is the text of the report:

The board of gas and electrical commissioners beg to submit herewith for your consideration a brief summary of the operations of the department for the year ending April 30, 1924.

Attached to and made a part hereof is a detailed report of General Manager Charles W. Taggart for a similar period and a careful study of the same is respectfully recommended.

The net profits for the 12 months amounted to $151,268.38, which sum has been added to profit and loss, increasing that account to $654,314.90.

An analysis of the balance sheet will show in detail the condition of the department as of April 30, 1924. The constructive policies that have been carried out during the past five years are beginning to "speak for themselves."

The generating units in both gas and electric departments have been either renewed or reconstructed during this period and particular attention is now being given to betterments of the distribution systems. A substantial appropriation has been set aside in the year's budget for this purpose.

We had hoped to have fully installed the new White Way from Burnham square to Washington square and from Shetucket street to the city hall, thereby not only improving the present lighting conditions, but in addition thereto, entirely rebuilding and rearranging the distribution service in this particular district. Because of many complications and conflicting interests as well as our inability to secure proper equipment, the work has been long delayed, but the preliminary details have now been cared for and satisfactory arrangements have been made, with the interested parties involved for the joint usage of the poles.

The growth of the department's business transactions has been satisfactory and consistent efforts have been made by the general manager and others under his direction to render a type of service that the public has a right to expect. Experts from other cities who have inspected our plant have been complimentary in their expressions of approval of the methods under which the department is now being operated.

Radical changes have been effected in the accounting department during the year and new and improved systems have been inaugurated. Because of such it is possible for your commissioners to present to you, as soon after the first of May a complete report of the previous year's operations.

The general manager is now preparing a readjustment of the present schedule of rates and the same will be submitted to the commissioners for adoption at an early date.

Merchandise sales have increased substantially.

Your commissioners appreciate the cordial relations which have existed between your honorable body and themselves, for only by a full knowledge of facts and the elimination of misunderstandings can the best results be accomplished.

Never before, to our knowledge, have conditions been so satisfactory as they are at the present time and most sincerely trust that the information which this report seeks to convey, will receive your approval and your commendation.

General Manager's Report

In his report general manager C. W. Taggart mentions details of work that have been done during the year and concludes as follows:

The receipts from operations for the year were $667,023.73 and the operating expenses were $431,466.04. After charging of depreciation as required by statutes, paying all interest charges on bonds issued by the city and the interest on the mortgage bonds, there remains a net profit of $151,268.38.

During the year $20,000 has been placed in the sinking funds to care for bonds when they become due. The total amount now in the sinking funds is $81,080.49.

I call attention to one especially important improvement that the department should have a permanent home for its office. I strongly recommend that steps be taken towards that end.

Statements Annexed

Attached to the report are statements giving various items of information, among which are the following:

TO LEAVE THE STATE TO ESCAPE JAIL SENTENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, July 7.—Bertha Young, alias Julia Ogden, formerly of this city and for the past two months proprietress of a road house on the Old Nigger Williams place in the town of Scotland, with seven frequenters, was brought before the Scotland town court Monday afternoon at one o'clock. Justice of the Peace Archie H. Gallup presided and the prosecution for the state was by Grand Juror Henry W. Clark. Attorney William A. King of this city represented the Young woman and took charge of the cases of the seven frequenters. A preliminary discussion of the case held behind closed doors was conducted by the court officials, Attorney King and the officers who made the raid, County Detective William E. Jackson and Federal Officers William S. Congdon and Stanton L. Briggs and Deputy Sheriff George Hoxie, 3nd, of Lebanon.

"The purpose of this court is to do what is most judicious for the benefit of the town for present and future days. The court means to suppress such activities as represented by this case and is not ready to show any leniency," said Justice of the Peace Gallup at the opening of the session.

Attorney King asked for a suspension of sentence to allow the woman to return to her home. Attorney King's statement that the Young household was not a house of ill fame was contradicted by Justice Gallup who upheld that it at least had all the symptoms.

The plea of nolo contendre on behalf of Mrs. Young on charges of keeping a disorderly house where it was reported that liquor was kept Justice Gallup imposed a sentence of 60 days in jail and a fine of $100 and costs amounting to $122.81. Attorney King's strong plea for leniency was given recognition by the court which suspended the sixty day jail sentence for one year on conditional promise that Mrs. Young would leave the state within five days, giving her until midnight Saturday to board a train for parts unknown. Before she lived in Willimantic she was employed as a nurse in a Norwich institution.

After considerable difficulty the fine and costs were raised by subscription among her men friends and handed to the court officials at the eleventh hour.

In connection with the same case seven Willimantic young men were charged with frequenting the place. The first three on the list, Philip Dion, Charles Dorman and Joseph Laflamme were to appear on an additional charge of drunkenness but failed to answer to the reading of the warrants and their bonds of $25 each were forfeited. John Morate, William H. Roberts of Southbridge, Mass., Joseph Jones and Thomas Bradley pleaded nolo contendre through Attorney King and were found guilty by the court. Each received a fine of one dollar and costs, totalling $32.17 in each case.

The session was held in the town hall and was one of the longest in the history of Scotland, not finishing till nearly 6 o'clock. The oppressive heat did not tend to relieve matters any and the members of the court, the accused and the spectators all sighed with relief when the tiresome ordeal was over.

NORWICH PLAYGROUNDS READY TO OPEN

In preparation for the opening of the Norwich playgrounds this (Tuesday) morning, Miss Sherburne, field secretary of the national recreation and field playgrounds association, was here Monday and met playgrounds superintendent Earl E. Brigham and the instructors in the gymnasium at the Norwich Free Academy. In the morning Miss Sherburne gave an instructive talk along playground lines and followed this with a demonstration in the afternoon.

Today (Tuesday) will be registration day at 1 p. m. at the eight playgrounds, and it is expected that Mayor Waters will visit the different places and give brief talks. At three of the grounds it is planned to have morning and afternoon hours. These will be at the Falls, Elizabeth street, and Thamesville, 9 to 11.30 a. m. and 2 to 5 p. m. At the other grounds the hours will be 1 to 5 p. m. and 6.30 to 8.30 p. m.

The instructors at the different grounds will be as follows.

Lake street, Charles Corcoran and Miss Katherine Dodd.

Greeneville, Edward J. Sullivan, Miss Marian Blackledge, Miss Celine Bowen.

Elizabeth street, Matthew J. Sheridan, John T. Murphy, Miss Margaret D. Shugrue.

Thamesville, Miss Sarah Hyman.

Hobart Avenue, Miss Katherine Farrell.

Falls, Miss Mary O'Neil.

RUSSIAN PASTOR GOES TO CHURCH IN BAYONNE

Rev. John Chapilieff, rector of St. Nicholas Russian Orthodox Church of Convent avenue, has been appointed rector of the Russian Orthodox church in Bayonne, N. J., and has left to take up his duties there. Father Chapilieff was in Norwich only temporarily, having been appointed by the Metropolitan Platon of New York to succeed Rev. A. E. Bondarchuk who went from Norwich to Detroit, Mich. At the general convention of the Russian Orthodox Church held last month in Detroit, Father Chapilieff was the secretary of the convention. For many years he was attached to the Cathedral in New York, and is one of the most prominent Russian clergymen in the American mission.

Barbers for Thursday Half-Holiday

The barbers of the city decided at a meeting Monday night to fall in line with the Thursday half-holiday movement of the merchants. They will close their shops on Thursday afternoons during the summer as long as the merchants follow this plan.

NORWICH TOWN

Rev. James B. Aldrich chose for his text at the Sunday morning worship at the First Methodist Episcopal church, II Corinthians 5-7, For we walk by faith, not by sight. The celebration of the Lord's Supper was observed during the service, the pastor officiating. The Young People's Christian Endeavor service was omitted in the evening, the time being devoted to the Children's Day concert which took place at 7 o'clock. This concert has been postponed twice because of illness in the community. It was finally carried out Sunday evening under supervision of Mrs. R. Carter, the teacher of the primary department. The following numbers were given: Welcome, Elmer Meyers; greeting, by Walter Lamb; exercise, Rosebuds, Mildred Carter, Virginia Ward, Helen Rudd. At the close of this exercise two tiny pupils, Barbara Hall and Blossom Ward, were dressed in white and carrying rosebuds in their arms, marched up the aisle, while Mrs. Lewis Irish sang Alone in the Garden. Then followed Little Lambs Are We, by Barbara Hall; Pansies, Blossom Ward; A Signal Man, Walter Lamb; exercise, Summer Shower, Virginia Ward, Mildred Carter, Helen Rudd, Mary Hall, Betty Browning; song, Summer Is Here, choir; song, Can a Little Child Like Me, primary; exercise, the story told of the finding of Moses, by Miss Grace Mitchell; the rushes were Muriel Rose, Betty Browning, Mary Hall; the baby Moses was Ittie John Browning; the solo parts were taken by Mildred Carter and Virginia Ward; recitation, Our Blossoms, Marion Miller; solo, Beyond, Ethel Miller; recitation, A Boy Like Me, Edward Myers; solo, The Shadows of the Evening Hour, Mrs. H. Richardson; recitation, The Mignonette, Grace Mitchell; song, His Word Divine, choir; recitation, The Child's Prayer, Mark Aldrich; recitation, What Makes a Happy Day? by Clayton Rose; recitation, The Children, Effie Ladd; song, Bells of June Time, choir; exercise, Mother and Son, Mrs. George Manning, Claude Stanton; song, Light of Life, choir. The decorations were peonies, roses, laurel, arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Irish and Mrs. R. Carter.

Arthur Avery was the leader at the Congregational Young People's Christian Endeavor service. The topic assigned to this meeting was How Jesus Treated Friends, with Scripture references in Luke and John.

Upon invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight L. Underwood and their daughter, Miss Bernice Underwood, who are spending this month at Pleasant View, about 40 members and friends of the Congregational Y. P. S. C. E. had a most enjoyable outing Independence Day. The party left Norwich early and spent the day as guests of the Underwood family. The trip was made by automobiles. After arriving at Pleasant View much time was spent in bathing, short walks, etc. The pleasant affair was under the direction of the C. E. social committee. Each one attended, contributed something appetizing toward the dinner, also supper, the company returning to Norwich shortly after. In the party was a number of children who accompanied their parents.

At the parsonage on Elm avenue, Rev. and Mrs. Gurdon P. Bailey, have been entertaining for several days Rev. Mr. Bailey's brother-in-law and sister, Judge and Mrs. W. H. Williams of Derby.

Miss Lucile D. Bailey who was the guest over Independence Day and the week end of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Hitchon and family, who are passing several weeks at Pleasant View, returned home Monday morning.

It was the children of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Ricker (not Charles Ricker) who were baptized at the First Congregational church, Sunday morning.

The mid-week service of the Congregational church, is to be held Thursday evening at 7 o'clock (standard time.)

Mr. and Mrs. William E. House returned Sunday afternoon to their home on Town street, after several days' motor trip to Bridgeport and nearby places, making the journey by way of Middletown.

Mr. and Mrs. House left Norwich Friday morning and proceeded to Bridgeport, where they were guests over that night and a part of Saturday of Mr. House's grandmother, Mrs. Elba House. The remainder of the time they visited at the home of Mr. House's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard House, at Walnut Beach.

Miss Gertrude S. Hyde of the faculty at Mount Holyoke college, has gone to Provincetown, following a visit of ten days with her sisters, the Misses Hyde, and her brother, George Hyde at the homestead on Washington street.

In preparation for the summer meeting which is to be held during August at the Leffingwell Baptist church, the programme committee of Norwich Christian Endeavor Union is to hold a meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Jessie E. Hyde on Washington street.

Mrs. William R. Jewett and daughter, Miss Fannie Jewett, former Norwich residents, have arrived in town from California, to spend the summer at the Fitch homestead at Norwich Town.

AMERICANS SHATTER RECORDS AS THEY TAKE LEAD IN OLYMPICS

Olympic Stadium, Colombes, France, July 7.—(By The A. P.)—Fighting desperately to retain her athletic supremacy in the face of the most formidable opposition she has ever encountered, America wrested the lead from her most powerful rival, Finland, by a narrow margin today, the second day of the Olympic track and field championships, after a stirring six-hour battle for points which did not end until dusk had settled over the big stadium.

Coming into their own for the first time, the wearers of the shield captured two out of the four finals contested today, shattered two world's records and eclipsed three Olympic marks in a series of sensational performances, but suffered an unexpected setback, when Harold Abrahams, the Cambridge univesity star, outraced the four fleetest American sprinters and captured the 100 metres championship for Great Britain. The brilliant 400 metres hurdles victory of F. Morgan Taylor in the world's record time of 52 3-5 seconds, the astonishing world record broad jump of 25 feet 6 inches by Robert Legendre in capturing this feature of the pentathlon and H. M. Osborne's Olympic record leap of 6 feet 6 inches to win the high jump seemed to be forgotten in the minds of the American enthusiasts as they saw their sprinting prides bow to the sensational Briton.

Abraham left no doubt of his superiority over America's aces, leading Scholz, the fleetest of them, by fully three yeards in a whirlwind finish and breasting the tape in Olympic record time of 10 3-5 seconds for the third time in today's competition.

Succeeding to the crown Paddock had won since 1920 at Antwerp. Abrahams gained the distinction of being the second athlete in Olympic history to break America's hold on the 100 metres championship. Once before, in 1908, R. EJ Walker, the South African sprinter, upset the best laid American calculations as Abrahams did today, thlow depriving the United States of one of its most cherished titles.

The spring race brought the climax to a day of varied fortunes for the Americans, but which saw them jump to the fore in a spectacular point battle with the sturdy Finns. With six events concluded, the United States showed a total of 55 1-2 points, all but six of which were gathered by scoring heavily in all four of today's finals, while Finland added 17 points to her total of yesterday's and was within striking distance of the top, with 47.

The Stars and Stripes waved triumphantly from the stadium victory pole most of the day, but the Finns wound up the prolonged programme with further laurels when Lehtonen captured his second successive Olympic pentathlon championship, giving the little Scandinavian nation its third first place in two days.

Sweden holds third place with 15 points, and Great Britain is fourth with 14 1-2 points. France and Hungary are tied with 7, and New Zealand has four, completing the list in the point battle thus far.

Misfortune, which struck the ranks of the American 400 metres hurdlers yesterday, when Coulter lost a sure chance to qualify by slipping and stumbling over the first hurdle, continued today, when Charles Brookins, of Iowa, after crossing the finish a close second to Taylor, was ruled out by the judges on the charge that he had strayed from his lane and had failed to take one hurdle cleanly. The vigorous protest of the Americans was denied and the other men were moved up one notch, second place going to Viles of Finland, the third to Iran Riley Illinois A. C., and the fourth to Andre of France.

Bleckett, Great Britain, was also ruled out for knocking over three hurdles but as he and Brookins were finished the remaining three points for the event were split between them under a decision by the track jury tonight.

Taylor met with hard luck, despite his victory, for he knocked over one hurdle, which eclipsed by a wide margin the world and Olympic record of 54 seconds made by Lomis in 1920. The time, however, is half a second slower than the best mark for the distance credited to Ivan Riley in the sectional Olympic trials at Ann Arbor, Michigan, and equals Taylor's own winning figures in the final tryouts at the Harvard Stadium; so, America is assured of a new world's record, regardless of which of these figures are accepted.

Le Gendre spent most of his energy on the opening event when his amazing broad-jumping earned him unusual fame in establishing a world's record in a competition outside of the individual events.

The Georgetown star showed in fine form when he cleared 23 feet 10 1-4 inches in the first trial. He covered 24 feet on the second jump, and then the world mark, which eclipsed by three inches the former record of 25 feet 3 inches, made by Gourdin in 1921.

H. M. Osborne, whose high jumping showed no effects of recent injuries to his back and ankle, failed by the slightest margin to break the world's record with the bar at 6 feet 7 1-2 inches, after he had conquered his fellow countryman, Leroy T. Brown, New York A. C., for first place. Osborne had apparently made the great height, but in twisting downward his shoulder struck the bar and it barely topped off the upright.

America qualified all four of her starters in the semi-finals of the 800 metre run for the finals tomorrow and also landed two of the nine qualifying places in the 3,000 metre steeplechase finals which will take place on Wednesday.

CARDS TAKE SLUGGING BEE FROM CUBS

St. Louis, July 7.—Slugging Keen and Blake almost at will, the Cardinals took the series from the Chicago Cubs by winning the fifth and final game today, 15 to 3. Bottomley was knocked unconscious and lost two teeth when he ran into a grand stand wall after catching a foul in the fifth. He is expected to be back in the lineup tomorrow, however. Score:

RED SOX DROP BOTH GAMES TO ATLETICS

Philadelphia, July 7.—The Boston Red Sox lost both ends of a double header to Philadelphia today by the scores of 5 to 2, and 6 to 3. Quinn, generally an enigma for the Athletics to solve, was hard hit and often in the opening contest although errors paved the way for a couple of the tallies charged against him.

Ferguson gave way to Ross in the seventh inning of the second game after the locals scored a total of five runs. A Red Sox rally in the ninth inning of the second game scored two runs but was three shy of the tying tally. The score:

Corbin Red Sox Win at Mystic

The strong Corbin Red Sox team of New Britain defeated the Rossie A. A. on the Mystic diamond by a score of 4 to 0 on Sunday afternoon. The game was closer than the score shows.

Chappell, although defeated, allowed the visitors only six hits, three of these being made in the fifth, when they scored three of their runs. He fanned five and passed three while his opponent was touched up for a triple and single, hit one and passed none. The score:

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Fordham Star and New York Giants

Where should third baseman play?

A third baseman should always play in on the grass when a fast runner is batting, until he has two strikes called on him and then he should move back and play for a hard hit ball. The reason for this is that very few batsmen attempt to bunt when they have two strikes called on them. Thus when they swing to hit the ball hard, the plan is to move back in order to be able to handle it.

LIONS AND ROTARIANS WILL MEET IN SECOND GAME TODAY

The roaring Lions will be out in force this afternoon at the Academy Campus when they meet the Rotarians in the second game of the series between these two clubs. In the first contest the Rotarians fell heavily on the Lions and trimmed them 20 to 11.

Manager Thompson of the Lions refuses to give out his lineup for the game today but says that his team is much stronger than when it first met the Rotarians. Doc is showing good judgement in strengthening his team for there is lots of room for improvement. It is probable that either Thompson or Georgie Madden will pitch for the Lions with Father Guerriero behind the bat.

The Rotarians will use the same lineup that was such a problem to the Lions in the last game.

All-Stars Beat Mechanics

The All-Stars and Chalmer's Mechanics battled ten long and exciting innings to a 14 to 14 tie at the Fairgrounds on Monday evening in the second game of the series between these two clubs. There was much hitting, both pitchers being touched frequently. At times the support of both was very shaky. Al Parker umpired behind the bat while Mike Carbray, clad in a delightfully cool palm beach suit took care of the bases. The next game will be played later in the week. The score:

Hartford Players Are Fined

Waterbury, July 7.—Moose Fuller was effective in the pinches against Hartford today and although outhit 12 to 6 by the Senators, Waterbury defeated Hartford 4 to 3, in a long drawn out game that was marked by squabbling on the part of the losers. Manager Paddy O'Connor was ejected and Kenna, Richie, Hesse and Canavan were each fined $10 by Umpire Stafford in the eighth inning. Yordy bounded a home run over the center field fence with one on in the first inning for the Brasscos. The score:

On Sunday afternoon at the J. B. Martin grounds the Bearcats of Taftville defeated the Tigers, 15 to 5. Lamoreux, who caught for the Bearcats broke one of his fingers. The Bearcats would like to hear from Charron's All Stars for a game in Baltic next Sunday. Answer through this paper.

MARMADUKE WINS OPENING FEATURE OF GRAND CIRCUIT CARD AT COLUMBUS

Columbus, Ohio, July 7.—(By the A. P.)—Marmaduke, driven by C. A. Valentine, of Columbus, today won the Nell House $3,000 stake for 2:08 trotters, the feature event of the opening for the day's card of the Columbus mid-summer circuit meeting.

Trumpet, the favorite, in this event, won the second heat and the third was so close between Trumpet and Marmaduke that the result was in doubt until the judges announced their decision.

Tommy Murphy who was back of Trumpet, held still another favorite beaten. His Dixie Direct was made first choice in the 2:11 pace but the best she could do was to finish second twice and third once, while the race was going straight heats to Miss Belwin.

There were small fields in the other two races on the card. Murphy's Czar Worthy won the 2:03 trot in straight heats. Like the 2:03 trot, the two year old trot had only three starters. Staying on the trot all the way Sam Williams won the first heat. But was outstepped in the next two by Lightning Flash, the original favorite. Breaking put Hod Toddy out of the running in the first two heats. The summaries:

IMPORTANT GAME AT NEW LONDON TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, July 7.—A battle for first place in the City league will take place this (Tuesday) evening at Morgan Park with the Knights of Columbus and the Fort Trumbull Stars opposing each other. Each team at present has won three games and lost one, the game Tuesday to decide the occupant of the top position.

The Stars unexpected defeat at the hands of the lowly Tabs brought about the present deadlock which now exists in the league. No doubt every conceivable attempt to rattle the opposing pitchers, which will be Joe Mac Innes for the Kaceys and Johnstone formerly of a Wisconsin college, will be made. This game is the most important of the entire season for it will give the winner a commanding lead which will be cut down with difficulty only later in the season.

NAVY ATHLETES RUN AGAINST DIFFICULTIES

Annapolis, July 7.—Midshipmen athletes would meet University of Washington at Seattle next June only in the event that the summer practice cruise of the middies should be to the Pacific coast, Rear Admiral Henry B. Wilson, superintendent of the Naval Academy, announced today.

Admiral Wilson was referring to a dispatch from Seattle indicating that plans had been made for the middies to meet the huskies in rowing, baseball, field and track, and tennis next season.

Navy folks, it is said here, would be willing to meet the westerners in all lines of athletics, but for the fact that the institutions are widely separated which would mean serious interference with academic routine.

AMERICAN TRAPSHOOTING TEAM WINS FIRST PLACE

Paris, July 7.—(By the Associated Press)—The United States team in the clay pigeon trap shooting competition at Issy-Les-Moulineaux today won first place; scoring 363, while the Canadian team which took second place scored 360.

Other final scores were: Finland, 360, third; Belgium and Sweden tied for fourth with 354; Australia 347, Norway 336; Great Britain 328; Italy 324; France Hungary 320 each; and Czechoslovakia 309. The scores were made out of a possible 400.

SUB BASE ANNOUNCES ITS COMPLETE SCHEDULE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, July 7.—A complete and revised baseball schedule of the Submarine Base nine was released for publication today. Including the three games that the Submarine Base has already played to date, nineteen games make up the schedule. Of the nineteen games, thirteen will be played at the Submarine Base and six away from home.

Although this year's schedule is not as stiff as the one played by the Base last season, yet a careful scanning of the teams listed below will show that some of the fastest nines in the state will be the opponents of the gobs. The Norwich State Hospital, which already took the Base into camp in the opening contest still looms up to be the strongest nine on the entire schedule. The hospital has an unusually fast team this year, and unlike the sailors who have lost several of last year's diamond performers are forced to go along with the material they have until some men are drafted from southern ports. Wednesday the Base plays a return game with the Hospital at Norwich.

The Corbin Lock Co. of New Britain, the team which has been defeated by two of the teams in this section of the state will attempt to see the base on the wrong end of the score. The Lenox A. C. of New Haven and the Hudson A. C. of the same city will represent the Elm City athletes in this city. Games have also been arranged with the Sacred Heart A. C., and the biggest game on the entire schedule is the contest outside of the home and home series with the Newport Training Station is with the Hartford Grays. This team has been a regular visitor to this city for the past three years and has always forced the gobs to extend themselves in order to win.

A home and home series with the St. Mary's A. C. of Stamford has been arranged and in the first game between these teams the Base won by a 5 to 4 margin in ten innings. The five game series with the Newport Training Station is really the most important contest on the entire Base schedule. In all branches of sports these teams are noted for their stubborness and the dominant will to never to give up. A game with the Fort Trumbull Stars, an entry in the New London City league will windup the Base Season.

The revised Submarine Base schedule follows:

July 9, Wednesday, Norwich State Hospital at Norwich.

July 12, Saturday, Corbin Lock Co. of New Britain at New London.

July 16, Wednesday, Fort Wright at Fort Wright.

July 19, Saturday, Lenox A. C. of New Haven at New London.

July 23, Wednesday, Sacred Heart A. C. at New London.

July 27, Sunday, St. Mary's of Stamford, at Stamford.

July 30, Wednesday Fort Wright at New London.

August 2, Saturday Newport Training Station at New London.

August 6, Wednesday, Newport Training Station at Newport, R. I.

August 9, Saturday, Hartford Grays, A. C. of Hartford at New London.

August 13, Wednesday, Newport Torpedo Station at New London.

August 16, Saturday Hudson A. C. of New Haven at New London.

August 20, Wednesday, Newport Torpedo Station at Newport, R. I.

August 23, Saturday, Seneca B. B. club of New Haven at New London.

August 27, Wednesday, open.

August 30, Saturday Newport Torpedo Station, Pending out come of other games.

September 3, Wednesday, open.

September 6, Sunday, Fort Trumbull Stars at New London city.

West Ends Want Games

The West Ends of Willimantic are without a game for this coming Sunday, July 13, also a few Sundays following. The management would like to arrange games with teams in and around Norwich especially the J. B. Martin nine and the Duwells, the games to be played away from home. The West Ends are former high school stars who have hung up an enviable record within the last three years having won 43 games out of 53 played. To date this year the West Ends have won five straight games. For games address Mgr S. Heller 947 Main street Willimantic, Conn or Tel. 236-5.

Coal Heavers Trim Albany

Albany, N. Y., July 7.—Albany made a strong uphill fight today but lost to Worcester by a 5 to 4 score. Genin and Lefler each made three hits.

Score:

Worcester	2	0	0	0	2	0	1	0	0	—5

Two base hits, Lefler, Genin, Schinkel, 3.

Valiants Beat Lazy Nine

In a ten-inning pitchers' battle at the Lake street playgrounds on Monday evening the Valiant A. A. defeated the Lazy nine, 2 to 1. Shea pitching for the Valiants struck out 13 men while Ruffo mowed down 7. It was a great game and was witnessed by a large crowd.

Tonight's Twilight Game

In tonight's Twilight league game at Duwell field the Hardigs and Yantic Grain team will battle it out for second place in the first round of the league. The Hardigs and Millers are closely following the East Ends who have yet to lose a game.

Arrows Win

Sunday afternoon at Yantic the Arrows ball club defeated the Yantic Rubes by the score of 6 to 5. The game was hard fought and well worth seeing. "Solemn" Edwards hurled for the Arrows and held the Rubes to two hits. Steimond did the pitching for Yantic and was nipped for seven hits The Arrows will play at the Fairgrounds Sunday.

Challenge

The Arrows ball club would like to hear from any of the following clubs for a game to be played at the Fairgrounds Sunday at 3 p. m. The Rosedales, Yantic Tigers, Valiants, Taftville Tigers or thae Taftville Bearcats Answer through this paper before Saturday.

New Haven 10; Springfield 4

New Haven, July 7.—New Haven hit opportunely here this afternoon and defeated Springfield, 10 to 4. Three fast double plays by the Profs were a feature. Score:

New Haven	0	0	2	0	3	2	3	0	x	—10
Springfield	0	0	0	0	2	0	1	0	1	—4

Two base hits, Oberc, Martin, Dowd, Ball, Gallagher.

Yanks to Train at St. Petersburg

New York, July 7.—The New York Yankees today signed a contract to train in St. Petersburg, Fla., for the next six years. One of the stipulations was that St. Petersburgh build a stadium for the exclusive use of the American league team.

A Challenge

NEW LONDON WIFE SAW MONTVILLE GIRL AT THEATRE WITH HUSBAND

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, July 7—Jesse Duthrie, an employe at the plant of the Whitom Machine company, Howard street, has become involved in serious trouble by his loose ideas of conduct, according to the story of his wife, a small woman, told in the police court this morning. She declared that she had the best of reason for doubting the fidelity of her husband and what was suspicion only at first was a confirmed fact by the admission of Jesse to her.

A few months ago a whist party was arranged for the Duthrie home. It was planned and all the arrangements were carried out with the exception that Duthrie failed to show up at his home. Mrs. Duthrie told the court she had one child, a girl of five years. She said that when she showed affection for her husband he repulsed her and told her he did not care for her, but had transferred his affection to another. Mrs. Duthrie was convinced that her husband spoke the truth when she saw him appear at a local theatre escorting a girl of 16 from Montville. She again accused her husband of infidelity and finally she went to her father for support. Some weeks ago Mrs. Duthrie consulted a lawyer with the result that an agreement was drawn up and signed by Duthrie by which he agreed to pay his wife $12 a week, but he made but one payment according to the agreement made. The husband receives $32 a week when he is employed full time. Sunday he went to the home of Mrs. Duthrie and her parents and when told that he was not wanted there he became a bit threatening, but went away. Last evening he met his wife's father on Bank street. The aged man remonstrated with his son-in-law as to his treatment of his wife and finally took hold of him by the shoulder. Then Duthrie struck the father in the face several times, discoloring his eye. In court today Duthrie was fined $10 for the assault and on the non-support charge was ordered to pay his wife $13 a week or to spend six months in jail. Duthrie, led along by his attorney, told the court that he loved his wife and had affection for his child, but that statement did not impress the court. Duthrie declared that his purpose in going to the abiding place of his wife was to seek a reconciliation, but the prosecutor inquired whether he had reconciliation in mind when he went to the theatre with a slip of a girl and when he smashed an aged man in the face because that man sought to have a man do justice to the woman he had married and who had borne him children. The prosecutor declared that there were too many cases of the sort of which this is a specimen and that he proposed to take cognizance of them. There was another case of a similar nature to come before the court today, but circumstances put it over to a later date.

Harry Labinger, of 47 Pond street, Hartford, had an experience in this city on his way from Ocean Beach to Hartford via Jefferson avenue Sunday. Labinger was speeding along the avenue he admitted "not more than 20 miles" when he passed West Coit street. Labinger didn't take into consideration that he did not sound his horn nor reduce his speed. He met the car of Leonard Danner, a chief petty officer at the submarine base; just as Danner drove out upon Jefferson avenue. The result was that both cars were badly disfigured, but as Labinger had a Paige car, a much heavier car than the little Ford that Danner was driving the latter's car fared badly. Labinger asked as to insurance on the Danner car and when told that the owner did not have insurance Labinger said some nasty things to Danner about being "damned poor." The court took the view that Labinger was at fault and fined him $25. He paid it, but with very poor grace. Now it is understood that Danner will bring suit against Labinger to recover money enough to pay the damages his car sustained and to compensate him for the loss of the car's use while the repairs are being made. Both men made complaints in court, winner was adjudged not guilty.

Motorcycle Officer George Labous returned to his home on Jefferson avenue this morning having underwent an operation at a private hospital. Officer Labous sustained the injury which incapacitated him when the motorcycle he was operating became wedged in traffic on Bank street and an automobile in passing grazed the cycle and caused the rider to be thrown to the pavement. It will be several weeks before Officer Labous will be able to resume duty.

The condition of Robert Moriarty, who attempted suicide last evening by swallowing a quantity of iodine at the quarters of the Nameaug Engine company, of which he is a member, is vastly improved today at the Lawrence hospital. Moriarty was able to walk about the corridors and will be discharged within a few days. Moriarty's act is attributed to extreme nervousness.

A cow, one of several that were to be shipped on the Sunset Trail steamer Shennecossett for Long Island, became frightened this morning near the union station and plunging to the municipal pier, fell overboard. The cow was lassoed by a fisherman, the rope encircling the horns of the animal. With this accomplished the cow was brought to the public landing and with the aid of high tide the animal was pulled to the landing unhurt, but exhausted.

The estate of Minnie O'Neill has sold a dwelling corner of Garfield and Connecticut avenues, to James J. Dwyer.

Henry R. Griswold has sold a house and lot on Ledyard street to Florence E. Malcolm.

Roger L. Farrell, 15 Linden street, at Ocean Beach Sunday afternoon was robbed of $40 while bathing. Farrell arrived at the shore during the early afternoon and going to the Red Cross hut he donned his bathing suit, hanging his clothing in a locker. During Farrell's absence the thief entered a rear open door and ransacked Farrell's clothing, the money, a fishing license and other papers being taken from the trousers pocket. Farrell reported his loss to the police.

An automobile owned and operated by Frederick E. Randall, 32 Walbach street and an unidentified car, bearing Connecticut registration 6489 were in collision last evening at the corner of Mill and Main streets. Both cars were damaged.

Sergeant John Cavanaugh picked up a couple of Providence youths roaming about State street early this morning. Later the lads were turned over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield, who had them returned to their home.

Simon Parry, of Boston, Frank Thompson, Potter Hill, R. I., Mrs. Wilbur Otis, Main street and Miss Mary McAndrews, Kingston, R. I., patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Miss Lena Trofaconda, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Trofaconda, died at the residence of her parents, 12 Home street late Saturday night after a long illness. Besides her parents Miss Trofaconda is survived by five sisters and two brothers.

The funeral of Mrs. Daisy S. Monroe, widow of John McRae Monroe, was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Lester C. Fowler, 12 Fowler court and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Clarence Mason Gallup of Providence. Relatives of Mrs. Monroe were bearers. Burial was in the family plot in Burrows cemetery, Groton.

Mrs. Walter Platt, Springfield, Mass., spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Graves, of Williams street.

Mrs. Florence Hammond, night telephone operator, is ill.

Walter Rowe, a soldier stationed at Fort Wright reported to the police late this afternoon that his wrist watch with a Canadian gold coin attached to it for a charm, had been stolen. Rowe requested that the police visit the pawnshops to discover if the watch had been disposed of at any of those places.

Charles James, proprietor of a store at Groton, was in the Groton town court this morning charged with violation of the liquor law. James was convicted and was fined $50 and costs by Judge Cornelius C. Costello. James' cousin, Nick James, who was originally charged jointly with the convicted man, was not prosecuted as the case against him was nolled. The convicted man was arrested June 16th by State Policeman Henry Albright, who visited the James store and requested a drink of soda. Two bottles of home brew, which were in the ice box were served Albright and these were presented in court today as evidence. The beer contained an alcoholic strength of approximately two and one-half per cent.

Mrs. Grace Fauntroy, charged with failing to license her dog, was fined $3 and costs. Mrs. Emily Montague, also of Groton, until recently of New London, was also charged with keeping a dog without the animal being licensed. She convinced the ecourt that the animal had been licensed in New London a short time before the owner removed to Groton and gave assurance that a borough license would be taken out without delay.

Austin J. Ruddy, 51 West Coit street, about 34, sustained serious injury late this afternoon when he slipped and fell on the sidewalk at the corner of Bentley and Stuart avenues, Ocean Beach, sustaining a dislocated hip for a fractured hip. He is now a patient at Lawrence hospital, where an X-ray picture will be taken to determine the extent of the injury. Mr. Ruddy went to the shore with hundreds of others this afternoon to obtain relief from the extreme heat. While crossing Stuart avenue, at the corner of Bentley avenue, he slipped on the edge of th curb and fell. He was unable to rise and when assistance reached him he was seated in a chair where he remained until Rev. William C. Fitzsimons appeared. Realizing that Mr. Ruddy had sustained a serious injury the man was placed in the clergyman's automobile and taken to the hospital. Mr. Ruddy is one of the oldest residents of New London and for many years was employed by the city as foreman of the water and sewer works department.

An automobile owned and driven by Leonard B. Gallagher, 1145 Chapel street, New Haven and a machine owned by Frank Guglielmo, 191 Goodrich street, New Haven and operated by Samuel Blonder, 696 Bank street, this city were in collision this evening at the corner of Thames street and Montauk avenue. Gallagher's car was badly damaged and the owner placed responsibility for the crash upon Blonder. Gallagher was operating his car in a southerly direction on Montauk avenue and in passing Thames street the car operated by Blonder entered Montauk avenue from the west side of the highway at an alleged hight rate of speed, so great, in fact, that Gallagher admits he was unable to bring his car to a stop before the crash occurred.

Rear Admiral Oscar F. Stanton, whose death occurred late Saturday night at his residence, 30 Granite street, will be accorded full naval honors when his funeral is held. A battalion from the submarine base, a firing squad and bugler will act as an escort from the church to Cedar Grove cemetery and it is possible that a military band will head the procession.

An automobile owned and driven by Frank S. Mosher, 79 Garfield avenue, and a commercial truck, owned by Tait Brothers, were in collision this evening on Bank street, near Tilley street. Mosher's car was damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tourgee have announced the engagement of their daughter Mabel, to Ralph C. Wheeler of Stonington. No date has been set for the wedding.

MYSTIC

A good sized tent has been erected on the lot owned by W. L. Main at the corner of Washington street and Denison avenue and equipped with seats, lights, etc., and is known as the Mystic gospel tent, where services were held for the first time Sunday evening by John Rankin, evangelist, of Westerly, with a good number in attendance. This was the first in a series of services to be held by Mr. Rankin every evening, except Saturday, at 7.45.

This (Tuesday) evening the Jubilee Singers from a school in Florida are to give a public concert at the Union Baptist church.

Traffic through East Main street and Denison avenue is very heavy of late, due partly to the fact that Broadway is not yet open to travel. The streets mentioned are badly in need of oiling to lay the dust with which the air is filled most of the time from the passing of so many machines and trucks. Cement is now being laid in the corner sections of the junction of Broadway and East Main streets, and it is hoped that this street will soon be open to travel.

Sunday was a busy day at Mystic railroad station, as a large number of visitors who had been here for the holiday and week-end returned to their homes in various sections on the several expresses which stopped here during the day.

Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Watts of Worcester, Mass., are guests of Rev. and Mrs. George Jones.

Mrs. Lydia Burdick and Miss Isetta Lewis of Providence, R. I., have been guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. K. Bucklyn.

Miss Martha Donath, a former resident here, now located in New York, returned Sunday to that place after a visit in Mystic.

Ira F. Noyes of New Haven spent the week-end at his home in the village.

Mrs. Albert Bell has returned to her home in Brooklyn, N. Y., after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Gaskell.

Miss M. Geneva Rathbun left Sunday night for New York city where she will take a special course at the summer school of Columbia university.

Rev. J. P. Beauchamp of St. Mark's church conducted the morning service in Christ church, Westerly, Sunday morning, the service at St. Mark's church being at 9 a. m. instead of 10.30.

Miss Dorothy Preston and brother, Robert Preston, have returned to Providence after a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard K. Preston, who are spending several weeks in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Carpenter have gone to Purdy Station, N. Y., for a short stay.

Miss Clara Frink left Sunday for her home in Ekonk, where she will join her mother, Mrs. Ida Frink, and they with her sister, Mrs. Frank Irons and two daughters, will motor to Mrs Irons' home in Waterloo, N. Y., where they will visit.

Walter Jackson went Sunday to New Haven, where he will enter the Yale Summer school.

James Stark has returned to his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., after spending the week-end at his summer home here.

Miss Lillian Hewitt has arrived home from St. Luke's hospital, New York, where she recently underwent an operation, from which she is steadily recovering.

Miss Marion Gilfillan went to New Haven Sunday where she is to enter the Yale summer school. Mrs. Ellen Beggemus is another Mystic young woman who will attend this school.

Professor Louis Dressler of New York was the week-end guest of Judge Frederic Brewer and family.

John Paton and his mother, Mrs. Annie Paton and Mrs. Catherine Allyn and son Raymond have been visitors in Hartford.

Miss Sarah Lozee was here from Northampton, Mass., to spend the week-end with her aunt, Mrs. James E. F. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. George Witter have returned to Brooklyn, Conn., after a visit with Dr. and Mrs. J. K. Bucklyn.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union is to be held Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. W. Herbert Lamb.

Mrs. B. F. Davis has invited her Sunday school class to her house this (Tuesday) afternon for a social time.

Mr. and Mrs. Albertus Brown of Hartford spent the week-end with Mr. Brown's mother, Mrs. James E. F. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Prentice Lamb of Hartford, have been guests of Mr. Lamb's mother, Mrs. Prentice Lamb.

Mrs. W. N. McDonald of New Jersey, who is occupying the Capt. Holmes house on Cedar street, fell on Saturday and broke her arm.

Clyde Burrows of New York is a visitor in the village.

Mrs. Emeline Allyn and Mrs. Lucina Waterhouse were in Westerly Monday.

Miss Ethel Sheldon has gone to New Haven to attend the teachers' summer school at Yale.

Richard William Morgan Post of the American Legion has accepted an invitation extended by the United Spanish War Veterans to attend the unveiling of the Hiker Memorial in Westerly. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the legion also expects to attend. Last week 44 applications for the bonus were made out by the local legion, which is a record for this work. The next county meeting will probably be held in Mystic, which will help advertise the village. The auxiliary president, Mrs. Adaline Tedford, and the adjutant of the local post are now in Waterbury in the interests of the unit. The open meeting voted at the last session is to be held this month and a special program is being arranged.

The total available water power in Canada is established at 18,000,000-horse power under conditions of minimum flow, of which more than 3,000,000-horse power is now developed.

WESTERLY

The July monthly session of the Westerly Town council was held on Monday morning at 9.30. There were present Council President Clifford W. Campbell, Councilmen Utter, Rossi, Fowler, Nichols and Smith, and council clerk H. E. Whipple and Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Jr.

Following the reading of the minutes of the June council meeting, by Clerk Whipple, June bills were taken up by the council fathers and after discussion were noted paid. The police bills totaled $499.76.

Joseph Salemano appeared before the council in the name of the Westerly Italian Athletic club and asked for a license for the club to run a carnival at Riverside park. The license was voted granted under the usual restrictions and with the requirement of the necessary police protection, to be paid for by the Athletic club.

Victualizing licenses were granted Annie E. Ford, Charles D. Havens, Joseph Brown at Pleasant View, Mrs. Nash for Narragansett House, Watch Hill, also to James Collins, Pleasant View House, and Mrs. Bicknell, The Andrea, at Pleasant View.

The report of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown for June was approved and recorded. It showed 32 arrests for the month, divided as follows:

Breaking and entering 3, unlawful possession of intoxicants 2, revelling 4, intoxication 6, passing traffic sign on left 1, driving off auto without owner's consent 1, larceny 1, exceeding speed limit 2, not having operator's license 1, and breaking and entering 1. One liquor raid was made.

Philip H. Gavitt, on the endorsement of the chief of police was made a constable by the council.

President Campbell inquired if it was necessary to have two harbormasters and was informed that two had been named for years, at the present time, Robert F. Dunham and Daniel F. Larkin, but it developed that neither had qualified.

Complaint had been received of the practice of dumping rubbish along the highways of the town, also the nuisance and untidy appearance of rubbish dumped near the highways on private land. It was decided that this was a matter for action by the police committee and the chief of police.

A deed was received for filing by the town council from Receiver Robert W. Perkins, of Norwich of the Shore Line Traction Co., to nine parcels of land, the former roadbed of the Norwich and Westerly Traction company, a strip 200 feet wide extending from Pleasant street to the Varietyville road, below White Rock. A strip of land west of the Varietyville road was received by the town, from the White Rock Manufacturing Co.

At Pleasant View a building restriction placed the set-back line 30 feet on either side of the Atlantic avenue highway from the Stralain cottage to the Weekapaug beachway.

The following were drawn to serve as grand jurors from the town of Westerly in the coming session of superior court for Washington county:

Calvert B. Cottrell 3rd, Walter H. Krebs, Joseph Owens, George L. Stillman, William Bell, Santon C. Burdick, Albert L. Young, Duncan McKellar, Edward Sumner, John J. Gourlay, James M. Sisson, Palo A. Juliano, Harvey C. Perry, Michael J. Burke, Alexander M. Blake, Arthur L. Perry, Harry S. Coyle, J. Edwin Gardiner, Ray H. Norman, William J. Veal, Arthur G. Campbell, Fred B. Cann, Joseph W. Pascoe, Willard P. Hall, John L. Kenyon, James Maxwell, William D. Wells, Edwin B. Stillman, William C. Clark, Wayian A. Saunders, Thomas Wills, Charles H. Dawley, Harvey A. Bayard, Daniel F. Larkin, Fred A. Congdon, Edwin B. Kenyon, Louis B. Day, Charles O. Gavitt, Pasquale Nardone, Edgar P. Maxson, Albert A. Williams, Frank A. Sherman and John Girven.

For petit jurymen the law requires that ninety nine names be drawn by the council and they were taken from the mahogany barrel as follows:

Richard Mitchell, Everett Barns, Frank A. Terranova, Joseph D. Wilcox, Thomas H. Murray, Edgar Howard, Herbert Pascoe, Ichabod E. Burdick, Stanley Laing, Edwin L. Gavitt, Edward W. Smith, James Rae, Linus E. Peck, Hobart T. Livingstone, Eugene Barney, James McLaughlin, Herbert A. Wilcox, Henry M. Clarke, Walter F. Clark, Charles H. Nichols, Thomas Perry, Richard E. Dower, Jonathan A. Church, Clifford T. Barber, Ray B. Kenyon, James D. Pocking, Raymond H. Potter, Leo C. Nye, Thomas H. Clemens, Frank E. Saunders, Raymond A. Sparks, Arthur G. Stillman, Charles D. Morrison, John H. Williams, Elwin A. Kenyon, Robert Drysdale, Jr., Herbert T. Kenyon, Alexander G. Thompson, Louis D. Steadman, William D. Cross, Ethan P. Gavitt, Butrom B. Kennedy, Addison S. Archie, James Earnshaw, Robert S. L. Mason, William Thomas Craig, William A. Rook, Benjamin Carpenter, Ralph H. Koelb, Wilson D. Main, James Reale, Lyman Hall, Howard Langworthy, Carl F. Crandall, Elwin F. Scott, Robert Bonner, Charles P. Cottrell, William Gavitt, Charles P. Lamb, Alwin L. Kenyon, William I. Bamford, Max Novogroski, Albert T Kenyon, Howard E. Thorpe, Joseph H. Whipple, Ellery C. Burdick, Conrad Schultz, Fred H. Kenyon, Milo Champlin, Ralph Champlin, Herbert Greenman, Everett H. Saunders, John H. Champlin, Frank B. Livingstone, W. Sherman Eaton, William H. Burdick, John H. Farnsworth, Shelby C. Nicholas, Albert E. Kenyon, Harry E. Langworthy, Edward J. Burdick, F. C. Buffum, Jr., Walter Rogers, John C. Kennedy, Arthur E. Bricks, James Fiddes, William R. Wilcox, William C. Smith, William D. Howard, Thomas Owens, Edword Congdon, James M. Conway, Charles R. Oppy, Frank D. Kreba, William J. Gavitt, Everett J. Wills, Alexander Fiddes, Thomas F More and Ed. N. Burdick.

Following the completion of the drawing of jurymen at 12.15 the council adjourned. The selection of a sergeant of police for Westerly was not acted upon at Monday morning's session. Chairman of the police committee Farquhar Smith was late in arriving at the session and left before the drawing of the juryraen. It is understood that Fred T. Mitchell of the Westerly police force who has been nominal head of police in the absence of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, will ultimately be named sergeant of police.

On the road from Bradford to Dunn's Corners, Sunday afternoon, about 4:30, a Ford touring car No. 50557 R. I. and a Ford coupe No. 58822 R. I. were in collision near Mitchell's Corners. The occupants of neither machine received injury but the automobiles were more or less badly damaged, the touring car receiving the roughest treatment, having a broken axle, headlights and running gear.

Miss Emma Fontaine of Springfield Mass., is spending a month's vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Kirby.

Report of Health Officer Dr. Samuel C. Webster, showed that of contageous diseases during June 12 were scarlet fever cases, 1 of mumps and 1 of German measles. A statement was made by the health officer that there were a few houses on Pledge street which continued to dump their sewage into a brook on the west side of Pierce street and it had now become a nuisance. The doctor quoted the statute to show that the abatement of the nuisance came within the province of the council. Councilman Louis J. Rossie was named a committee of the council to confer with the owners of the property in question that sewer connection be made as the mains happen to be installed in that section.

No mention was made in the health officer's report of complaints made to him of the unsanitary conditions that existed in a more central and much more frequently used section of Westerly—namely the nauseous odors which arise from the catch basin on Railroad avenue, near the junction of Canal street. It will probably be found on examination that this in an open vent to a running sewer. Public service automobiles stand right over this spot and germ bearing gasses are carried to all sections of the town. It is reported that the public service men, realizing the conditions, have tired of complaining to local health authorities and have now taken the matter up with Rhdoe Island state health authorities. Mention was made by Town Solicitor Ferguson that Health Officer Webster had asked him what steps could be taken to abate the nuisance of a braying jackass at Avondale."

Edward J. Burdick, a member of Robret Brucker camp, Spanish War Veterans, addressed the council in behalf of the Hiker monument committee, stating that arrangments were being perfected for the entertainment of the Rhode Island department, S. W. V. annual encampment this year Saturday July 12th and Sunday, July 13th, in Westerly. He stated that local decorators were so busy this time of the year, although willing to cooperate, professional decorators who were in Westerly on Old Home Week, were engaged to come here for the decoration of the town. He suggested that in keeping with the spirit which prompted the men to volunteer at their country's call and manifested again in welcoming the veterans to Westerly, the council might do its part in directing the decoration of the Westerly town hall and "to see that day goes off with flying colors." President of the Council Whipple and Town Clerk Whipple were named a committee on the decoration of the town hall.

The granting of various societies was approved, announcement being made that many itinerant vendors had permission to hold sales at Watch Hill not secured licenses yet.

Sewage assessment apportionments were voted Mr. and Mrs. Sam J Brown, 68 Beach street, $158.50 and John M. Mroz, 14 Chester avenue, $83.-25.

It was voted to approve the action of the Westerly town treasurer in issuing a note for $50,000 date July 3rd and due Nov. 3rd, 1924 to the Old Colony Trust Co., of Boston at 2.8.

As Monday, morning at 9.30 was the time set for a hearing on the building ordinances, the only question asked was by H. P. Clark, of Pleasant View, who wished to know who the proper town officers was for the establishment of building lines. As Mr. Clark stated he had cement bounds which had been in place for 15 years, it was the suggestion of the town solicitor that he erect a fence on the line. The report of the committee on building ordinance was adopted. It is the intention to make the Post road out of westerly to the eastward a residential area, the erection of gas filling stations along the line to be discontinued. The set-back line of houses on Franklin street or the Post road to be 40 feet and of garages 50 feet. A previous building ordinance section was amended to add the words "or used" so that existing structure could not "be used" for business purposes.

Among the past exalted rulers of Westerly lodge, No. 678, B. P. O. E. of Westerly to leave town Monday for the 69th annual convention of Elks in Bostno were Augustine T. L. Ledwidge Dr. John M. O'Connell, Dr. M. H Scanlon, John J. Walsh and Dr. Harold J. Doyle. Other past rulers to go later will be Judge O. H. Williams, Harry H. Robinson, Cornelius J. Farrell, Max Novogroski, August Barsen, Al J. Twomey and Andrew J. Martin Some of the members who plan to attend are James McCormick Philip Leibovitz and George A. Dolan.

There was a solemn requiem high mass Monday morning at 8 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception for Mrs. Ermelinda Bruno, 71, who died at S. Martino, Italy, June 3. She was the mother of Rev. Henry Bruno, S. M., of the local parish. Father Bruno was informed last week that his mother had died suddenly.

Besides Father Bruno of this town she is survived by another son, John of Italy, three daughters, Carolina, Eugenia and Josephine, all of Italy, as well as twelve grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

MONTVILLE

The printed report of the annual collection and monthly collections of St. John's Roman Catholic church has been distributed to the parishioners and is very pleasing to all. The neat pamphlet bears the reminders, "What you have given to God, you still possess." "Do not count the sacrifices you make for God's Holy Church." "God will do the reckoning."

At the close is written, "All praise to the Sacred Heart of Jesus."

While the total amount of the annual offering is not stated, it is evident from the long list of generous contributors that it must be upwards of $1,000. George A. Chagnon heads the contributors, with $25; Rev. John J. Donohue gives $20; the sum of $10 each is given by Eugene Bonville, Odile Brouillard, Timothy Killey, Joseph Marcoux, Mrs. Elizabeth McArdle, Joseph L. Morin and William Smaldy and Louis Morin gives $5; $7 each was contributed by John Doyle and M. J. Rheaume and there is a long list of donors of $5 and lesser sums. At the same time the monthly offerings have been kept up with great loyalty and generosity by all the people.

All are actively co-operating with their new pastor, Rev. James A. O'Meara, who already has accomplished noteworthy improvement, renovations and repairs, including reshingling of both church and rectory, etc.

Even the parish children take a practical interest in the church affairs and contribute regularly to the annual collection, taking pride in having a printed list of their own special offerings. This children's list contains 56 names.

The wise man gets a lot of free information from fools.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

RAILROAD SHARES ACTIVE.

New York, July 7.—Railroad shares today superseded the Industrials as leaders of the upward movement in the stock market, which is now in its fifth consecutive week. Trading slowed down somewhat because of political uncertainties, but the recent increase in public interest revived pool activities, particularly in a number of specialties in which favorable developments are pending.

"Big Four" was the individual feature of the railroad group, soaring 10 points to 130 in reflection of the publication of a report showing 1923 earnings at the rate of $23.65 a share, against $14.95 the previous year. Another influence in the buying of this stock was the prospect of its early consolidation by New York Central, which already owns 91 per cent of the common and 84 per cent of the preferred.

In all, 11 rails established new peak prices for the year including "Nickel Plate," Southern Railway, Great Northern Preferred, Northern Pacific, Chicago Northwest, Seaboard Air Line common and preferred, the net gains in these issues ranging from small fractions to 2 1-2 points.

Public utilities also developed exceptional strength with American Waterworks common touching another record high at 93 1-2, while new peak prices also were established by the common and preferred stocks of its subsidiary, West Penn. Power. Public Service of New Jersey and General Electric also touched new highs.

U. S. Steel common was heavy in anticipation of another unfavorable tonnage report on Thursday, closing at par for a net loss of 1-2 point. Other industrial leaders also were a bit sluggish. Oils held relatively firm in the face of cuts in Pennsylvania and Central Western crude prices.

National Enameling sank 1 1-2 points to 20 3-4 on reports of poor earnings for the first half of the year and increasing competition. National Lead and Wilson & Co. common were conspicuously heavy.

Leather stocks were strong on reports of an active market for hides in Chicago and further improvement in the leather trade. Among the dozen or more specialties to sell at their best prices of the year were Central Leather preferred, United States Cast Iron Pipe, International Nickel, International Paper, Famous Players and Allis Chalmers.

Call money opened at 3 1-2 per cent, and then dropped to 2 where it closed. The time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with no change in rates.

The feature of the foreign exchange market was a rally in French francs which advanced 13 1-3 points to 5.14 cents, regaining the ground lost on Saturday. Demand sterling advanced 3-4 of a cent to $4.73 1-2. Canadian exchange touched new high for the year at 99.56 cents. Brazilian exchange was heavy on reports of revolutionary disturbances in Sao Paulo.

SELLING BRAZILIAN BONDS.

New York, July 7.—Selling of Brazilian bonds, inspired by news of the revolution in Sao Paulo, was the most conspicuous development of today's bond market, in which prices generally held steady in quiet trading.

Losses ranging from 1 to 3 points were recorded by the Brazilian issues, embracing the Republic's 8s, Central Railway 7s, Sao Paulo State and City 8s and Rio De Janeiro obligations. Chile 7s were shaded fractionally but Argentine bonds held fairly firm.

The main price tendency of domestic issues was upward although fluctuations for the most part were narrow. Southern Pacific, "Katy," Seaboard and Norfolk & Western liens were the outstanding strong spots in the railroad group. International Paper 6s and Virginia-Carolina 7s and 7 1-2s registered moderate improvement, while various public utility issues extended their recent gains. Profit taking continued to retard the movement of the Wilson and company mortgages, the 7 1-2s falling back 2 points.

LOWER PRICES FOR WHEAT.

Chicago, July 7.—Rapid progress of harvest in the United States together with the rain in Canada had much to do with the bringing about of lower prices for wheat today. Closing quotations of wheat were heavy at 2 to 2 5-8c net decline, September 1.13 1-4 to 1.13 3-8, and December 1.16 1-4 to 1.16 3-8. Corn finished 7-8@1c to 1 5-8c up, oats 1-2 to 7-8c and provisions unchanged to 5 to 7c higher.

The downward course of the wheat market was interrupted twice by good rallies, but there were only transient and final dealings were at the day's lowest level. The first rally came shortly after the opening and was ascribed to unexpected strength at Winnipeg and to reports that the rain falls north of the Canadian boundary had failed to touch the territory where most needed. The subsequent temporary upturn in wheat values came about through sympathy with an advance in corn.

THE CURB MARKET.

New York, July 7.—Profit-taking checked the upward movement of prices in today's curb market and gave closing quotations an irregular appearance. Oils held relatively steady on the announcement of price cuts for Pennsylvania and Central Western crudes, net losses being held to fractions.

Ford Motors of Canada jumped 12 points on one sale. Hudson companies preferred touched a new 1924 high at 88 5-8, but Hudson and Manhattan common dropped 1 1-2. Scattered gains were noted among other public utility issues. Baking company issues were strong.

Speculative interest in the mining group was confined chiefly to the penny stocks. Jib Consolidated touched a new 1924 high at 75 on reports of largely increased June earnings. Revival of activity in Canario Copper followed the announcement of important development work in Mexico.

Trading in bonds slowed down but prices held relatively firm.

Mrs. James Choquette entertained the Get-Together Sewing club Wednesday afternoon. Considerable work was accomplished. A fine lunch of sandwiches, cake and fruit punch was served by the hostess. The following were present: Mrs. George Chappell, Mrs. Everett Chappell, Mrs. L. C. Schroedter, Mrs. Julia Geer, Mrs. Charles Geer, Mrs. K. L. Cummings, Mrs. Elmer Geer, Mrs. David Walsh, Mrs. Clarence Geer and daughter, Mrs. Leon Choquette. The next meeting is to be held in two weeks, at Mrs. Charles Geer's.

Miss Myra Geer and a friend, Miss Harriet Ketwserry of Norwich, spent the holiday and week-end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. M. Geer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. McAvon, who have been spending a few days with Mrs. McAvon's mother, Mrs. H. M. Peck, and sister, Mrs. Geer, went to Danielson Thursday afternoon for a visit with another sister, Mrs. M. D. Whittaker, before returning to their home in Concord, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs K. L. Cummings and family spent a day recently at Stafford Springs.

Mrs. S. Nadel's two brothers and brother-in-law returned to Jersey City, N. J., Sunday, after a short visit with their sister and family. S. Nadel accompanied them as far as New York on their return.

Mrs. C. L. Hinckley and son have returned from a visit in Willimantic with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B Clark.

Carl Von Borries of New York spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hughes.

At the Grand Lake hotel Fourth of July, there was a concert in the evening and a large display of fireworks. About three hundred guests were accommodated from distant cities. Saturday night after a small display of fireworks, a concert of classical music was given in the new dance hall after which a seven-piece orchestra furnished music for a dance which was largely attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Geer and Mr. and Mrs. David Walsh spent Sunday in Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Sheldon Mungur of New Britain spent the holiday with his mother, Mrs. Sarah E. Munger of Main street.

VALUABLE PAINTING FOR METROPOLITAN MUSEUM

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 7—A valuable painting entitled "The Christus" by J. Heinrich Hoffman, of Dresden, Germany, is bequeathed to the Metropolitan Museum, New York, in the will of Joel Wolfe Thorne of Millbrook, which was admitted to probate here today. Thorne was fatally injured in an automobile accident recently, near Danbury, Conn.

Much of the estate is bequeathed to Joel Wolfe Thorne, Jr., and to relatives and friends. William V. Hodes of Denver, Col., are given all rights to real estate in Colorado owned by

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

According to the report of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton for the quarter ending June 30th there were 120 building permits issued for new buildings, alterations and additions to the approximate value of $220,000 as placed by the owners. This is an increase of 17 permits over the same quarter in 1923 but the estimated valuation shows a decrease of almost $50,000. In regard to the number of permits issued the past quarter sets a record in local building. However, the permits issued by Fire Marshal Stanton do not include new buildings outside the city proper. In the town there is probably as many more new buildings being erected as in the city. The East Great Plain section is fast building up, there being four houses under construction at the present time and several more that have been completed.

Work has been started on the tearing down of the American House on Shetucket street. Mr. Pasnik, the owner, expects to have the building down by the last of this week and the half acre of land cleared. Mr. Pasnik's plans as to the future development of the property are undecided at the present. It is possible he may erect a garage or use the place as parking place for automobiles.

During the past week there were 10 building permits issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton. These permits include three for new dwelling houses, two for large buildings to be used for storage purposes and the rest for garages and smaller buildings. The permits granted are as follows:

To Harold Bowers to erect a two-story frame house on Peck Street. The house will be 24x29 feet and two stories high. The foundation will be of stone and concrete. The exterior will be finished in clapboards and shingles and the interior in plaster and hard wood.

To William Trachtenberg to erect a garage on Summer street. The garage will be 18x24 feet and of frame construction.

To Williams Bros. to erect an addition to the present frame house owned by Ella W. Silva at 88 Mechanic St. The addition will be 14x22 feet and of frame construction.

To Archibald Torrance to erect a frame building, 31x57 feet, to be used as an equipment building. The foundation will be of stone and the floor will be concrete. The exterior finish will be rough and the roof will be covered with composition paper.

To Sterling R. Averell to erect a small frame building, 12x14 feet on Laurel Hill to be used as an office and salesroom. The foundation will be of stone. The exterior will be finished in cedar shingles.

To Walter Lietkowski to erect a frame barn 18x24 feet, on Pitcher St.

P. F. Sweeney has the contract to erect a frame apartment house on Elizabeth street for Stanley Dyelczske. The house will be 28x30 feet and two stories high. There will be two apartments of 5 rooms and bath. The first story will be claphoarded and the second finished in shingles. The interior finish will be plaster and hardwood.

To John Morell to erect a house of the semi-bungalow type on Buckingham avenue. The building will be 23x28 feet and will contain four rooms and bath.

Archibald Torrance has been granted the contract to erect a stock shed, 25x60 feet, for Elkin Smith on White Court. The building will be frame set on concrete piers. The building will be two stories high and open on one side. The back and ends will be covered with tin and the roof will be covered with composition paper.

To Archibald Torrance to erect a frame garage, 22x28 feet, for Antonio Colletti. The foundation will be of stone and cement.

New London

Work has been started on a two-story cottage for Silas Maxon, Jr., 563 Montauk avenue, on Henry street. The house will be of frame construction arranged for one family. The cost will be about $4,500.

The permit has been issued to Eugene Bonbille for a dwelling on Williams street, at the corner of Crystal avenue. The house will cost about $10,000. The contract for its erection has been awarded to Fred Perkins, Montville.

M. H. Hollandersky has the permit to remodel a barn in the rear of 40 Reed street in to a dwelling. The building, as altered, will be 26x36 feet. There will be new plumbing and electric wiring, new floors and partitions, etc. The work will cost about $2,500.

A garage is being erected for Sarah D'Elia on West Coit street. The building will be 20x20 feet, of concrete block construction. It will cost about $1,000.

The contract has been awarded to the Schnare Construction Corp., Springfield, for the store building on State street for the F. W. Woolworth Co. The proposed building, which will be two stories high, arranged for one store has been described before in these columns.

Sarah D'Elia, garage, West Coit street $1,000.

Antonia Myaceky, garage, 100 Winthrop street $100.

Number of permits issued for the week, 7; estimated cost of buildings, $19,800.

MYSTIC

Plans are being prepared for alterations to the interior of the Union Baptist church. It is expected that the plans will be accepted shortly.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 18 sales of real estate as compared to 10 sales for the corresponding weey a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $38,785 and $27,100.

There were 6 sales of real estate in New London during the past week, one less than for the same week in 1923. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $30,500 and $36,500.

STATE BUILDING PERMITS

The slacking up in the building trades is quite noticeable in the record of building permits granted in the larger centers of the state in the past week. While more permits were issued, 340, the cost of the buildings for which the permits were granted, $910,895, was materially less than last year, when an expenditure of $1,949,997 was involved, in 235 permits. In 1922 in the same week there were 193 permits issued, the buildings costing $468,718.

GALES FERRY

Orrin S. Bennett died at his home here at 1.30 o'clock Sunday morning, following an illness of several months. Mr. Bennett went in March to the home of relatives, in Norwich, Frank A. Davis and his sisters, the Misses Davis, where he remained for medical treatment, going from there after a time to Backus hospital in that city. He responded to treatment and was taken to the home of his relatives where he has been convalescing and it was deemed safe to bring him to his home at Gales Ferry, and he was brought here last Thursday. Friday afternoon he suffered a severe heart attack, from which he failed to rally. Mr. Bennett was the son of the late Daniel Huntington Bennett and Emma Stoddard of Gales Ferry, and was born in Norwich March 12, 1880. His boyhood days were passed at Gales Ferry and in Norwich. Later he moved with his mother, to New York city, where ten years were passed in the office of the opera manager, Henry O. Savage. About 12 years ago he returned to the former home of the family here, where he has resided with his mother, who survives him. He leaves a niece, Emma Elizabeth Bennett of Gales Ferry, and a nephew, Orrin Sutliff Talbot, of Norwich.

Jazz Theology was the subject of the Rev. W. D. Woodward's sermon at Sunday morning worship in the M. E. church. The offertory anthem, Just For Today, was sung by the quartette. Miss Grace A. Chapman, Mrs. Amos Main, D. R. Povey, and C. E. Colver. Preceding the sermon, in continuation of the World Service work, Dudley C. Perkins read a five-minute paper on Panama, narrated personal observation, telling of the fine Y. M. C. A. buildings maintained by the U. S. government there which he visited, when traveling in Panama.

A meeting of the Sunday school board was held at the close of this service to reconsider the hours of the church services. During June, the Sunday school session preceded the morning service, an innovation in this church. It was voted to hold the services, beginning next Sunday, July 13, on daylight saving time, as before, the morning service at 11 o'clock, followed by the Sunday school at 12.15 m. as formerly.

At the Sunday evening service The New Day in Mexico, illustrated by 65 colored slides, was given. Mrs. C. E. Colver, reader.

The family gathering at the home of Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt at Wood Lawn farm, Fourth of July, included Mr. and Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt and children, Harold, Ruth and Florence, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Parker and daughter, Margaret, Mrs. Charles H. Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edmund Norman and children, J. Edmund Jr., Carol, Irving and Phebe, Mr. and Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, with Mrs. Hurlbutt's sisters, Mrs. Lucy A. Hurlbutt and Miss Laura A. Perkins. A fine chowder dinner was enjoyed with cake, pie, water melon, ice cream and lemonade.

Mrs. Edward H. Latimer and her sister, Mrs. Charles H Hope, of Uncasville, entertained at the Yale quarters on the holiday a party of 15, including nine from Centerville, R. I.

The annual Fourth of July observance of Mrs. Lanham E. Smith's birthday, was a picnic party on the noonday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Rose Lawn farm, with 23 present, including Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Comstock, Mrs. Mary C. Watrous, Mr. and Mrs. Minor Moxley, of Gales Ferry, Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Turner of Long Cove, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Young, Allan Young of Waterford, Mr. and Mrs. Avery Main and daughter Elizabeth, Mrs. Wallace Norcross and children, Allyn's Point, and Mrs. Lydia Gardner of New London. A chowder dinner was served. Mrs. Smith received gifts of money, flowers and Pyrex ware.

Mr. and Mrs. John McGuire and family entertained on the holiday, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Sawyer of Poquonnoc Bridge, Mr. Dow of Torrington and Miss Madeline Birch of this village.

Henry C. Keeney of New London entertained at his cottage on the Strand, a large party from New London on the holiday.

John R. Perkins of Philadelphia spent the holiday, and the week-end with Mrs. Perkins and daughter Patricia whom he joined, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins.

Ellsworth Meech and his sister, Miss Mabel Meech of Middletown, were callers at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Charles A. Satterlee on the holiday.

Stanley C. Faford of the place, one of the camp leaders of the New London Council of Boy Scouts of Camp Wakenah, Gardner Lake, leaves Wednesday morning with the advance guards, to put up tents and prepare the camp to open Friday, July 11.

The Long Cove auxiliary of the Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church, has invited this society to be their guests at River Bend casino, near Red Top at the regular meeting Wednesday afternoon.

POETRY

His Answer

(She asked him how much he loved her)

If I told how much I loved you Think of all the words 'twould take;
If I typed them on my writer
Of the pages it would make,
In the matter of expression,
Though using each idevice,
All the tongues by mortal spoken
For my love would not suffice.

If I told you how I loved you
I could never, never reach
The height of my affection
By the figures used in speech;
The similies and metaphors
My passion would require
Would mount as high as old Mont Blanc
And then—a mountain higher.

To tell you how I love you
I must ring in all the flowers
That on earth have blossomed
Since Adam's Eden hours,
Dip each phrase in all the perfume
Ever waft beneath the blue;
Even then I'd fail in telling
Half my love for you.

To utter how I love you
In an airplane I must race
And gather all the lovely stars
That blossom out in space.
And scatter them by handfuls
Before your dainty feet—
And every one would dim before
The eyes of you, my Sweet.

If I told you how much I loved you—
But the thing cannot be done;
Though my years surpassed Methuselah's
'Twould not be half begun.
So I shall not attempt it,
Little Sweetheart, Linnet, Dove.
How could I? Not a moment
Would be left me—just to love!
—Samuel Minturn Peck in Boston Transcript.

Phlox

I always think
Of garden phlox
As ladies in
Their summer frocks.

Sheer lawn
And dimity,
As fine as one
Could wish to see.

Colors gay
And patterns laid
With careful plan
And lovely shade.

They spread their skirts
And danc all day
With any wind
That comes their way.

And when they are hidden
By the night,
They scatter perfume
To invite.

The wandering moth
That brings them word
Of things that they Have never heard.
—Louise Driscoll, in "Garden Grace."

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Yes, the flappers believe: "Save the surface and you save all."—Good Hardware.

Headmaster (meditating on morning's correspondence)—Parents are the last people on earth who ought to have children.—Cambridge Granta.

"Say, mamma, was baby sent down from Heaven?"

"Why, yes."

"Um. They like to have it quiet up there, don't they?"—Exchange.

"Who can tell me what a meter is?" asked the teacher of the juvenile class.

"I can," promptly replied the urchin at the pedal extremity. "It's a thing what you chop meat in."—Chicago News.

Cal says: A person needs tact in the hardware business. My clever clerk spoiled a sale by asking a Harvard man, who had inquired for a keyhole saw, whether he wanted it to saw holes for Yale keys.—Good Hardware.

"Jack proposed to Emily, and they are going to be married."

"Emily! I thought she was one of those modern girls who don't believe in marriage."

"So did Jack."

Mrs. Nooriche (after tumble at horseback riding lessons)—Oh, and I thought I was improvin' with my ridin'.

Groom—So you are, ma'am. But you've just fallen off a little. I'll pick you up—New York Sun.

Mrs. Crosby was reading over a prospective maid's references, and, after a moment's thoughtful pause, remarked with a comprehensive glance at the girl:

"I am not quite satisfied with your references, Ellen."

"Neither be I, mum," responded the stalwart maid, "but they're the best I could get."—Harper's Magazine.

NAVAL PRISONERS ESCAPE IN STOLEN MACHINE

Portsmouth, N. H., July 7. — Four naval prisoners, characterized by officials of the Portsmouth naval prison as "very desperate" had been at large 24 hours tonight in a stolen automobile after their escape effected during a motion picture show last evening.

The prisoners, two of whom had broken arrest previously apparently needed no outside aid, as they found all the materials necessary themselves. One report was that the men passed the prison gates in a stolen car by having one of their number, clad in stolen civilian clothes say the party comprised "an officer and three ladies."

The fugitives, whose offenses ranged from manslaughter to theft, are: George M. Maher, Waltham, Mass., manslaughter, sentenced to 10 years; Frank O'Neill, Sioux Falls, S. D., theft and robbery, breaking arrest and assaulting a sentry, 10 years; Joseph Whitney, Cambridge, Mass., theft and robbery and breaking arrest, 6 years; James S. McCool, St. Clair, Pa., desertion and theft, 5 years.

The prisoners are given the privilege of bi-monthly attendance at a motion picture show and this was held last night in the auditorium, which is ontop of the prison building. Lieut. Col. H. D. South, U. S. M. C., commanding officer of the prison, said today that the prisoners are always counted in and counted out, and it was on the tally out that the four were missed. Sentries are stationed at the door, and on the stairways. Lights are subdued because of the show, and it is believed that the fugitives slipped out of the hall and down the stairs under cover of the semi-darkness.

The prisoners evaded the guards and gained the platform at the top of the cell block, Col. South said. They had apparently provided themselves in advance with a pair of tinsmith's shears, taken from a tool box, and working quickly and quietly, they cut an opening in the galvanized iron ventilator big enough for them to get through to the roof.

The completeness of their arrangements was again shown by the use of a practically new coil of rope to make the 70 foot to the ground. In the yard, some of the prisoners stole the automobile of Lieut. W. D. Baker, bearing a Michigan license, while others broke into the house of Gunner Frank F. Wallace, and took a civilian coat and hat. These were put on and the man so disguised apparently became the driver of the car, leaving his prison uniform behind him. Whether the others changed into women's clothes was not definitely established tonight, but it was reported that in all probability they passed the sentries at the gate with the word that the party consisted of "an officer and three ladies." The prison uniforms of two others were found outside the walls.

Whitney was wanted at Cambridge, Mass., by District Attorney Reading for robbery, and was to have been surrendered to the civil authorities shortly.

OFFICER FORCED TO DRAW HIS REVOLVER

Waterbury, July 7—Doorman Charles McWeeney of the local police department was compelled to draw his gun to hold back a crowd that tried to attack Patrolman John Roach and Patrick Boyce who were arresting Angelo Russo and George Affe last night. Russo, according to the police, was thought to be insane and he was putting up a strenuous fight with the patrolmen when Affe interfered for him. The patrolman were getting the worst of the fight when the patrol arrived and Doorman McWeeney jumped into the fray.

When the large crowd that had gathered saw McWeeney jump in, they gathered around him and he pulled his revolver and made them step back. The two men were finally subdued. Affe received a cut on his head that required several stitches to close.

Beware of the who says that he loves his neighbor better than himself; he's either a fool or a fibber.

GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE FOR STEALING BANK

Stamford, July 7—Charles Dupray, of New York, arrested Saturday for taking a bank which contained $75, mostly in small coins from the home of Loretta O'Connell, on June 30, was given six months in jail, today. He appealed and was ordered held in $700.

PLAN PROPOSED FOR WIDENING NORTH MAIN ST. AT EIGHTH ST.

The July meeting of the court of common council was held Monday evening in the council chamber in the court house, Mayor Milo R. Waters calling the meeting to order at 7.20 o'clock standard time. The advertised hearing on the proposition of enlarging and establishing boundaries in Mohegan park was opened and no one appearing, was immediately closed and the resolutions concerning the establishment and enlargement of Mohegan park were adopted.

The following petitions were acted upon: For a bug light on Geer avenue, referred to the police committee with power; for the trimming of a tree in front of 408 Central avenue and 20 Fairmount street, referred to the tree warden and public works committee with power that Francis Place be accepted as a city street, referred to the public works committee.

The monthly reports of the city treasurer and street commissioner were accepted and ordered printed in the council journal. The annual report of the gas and electrical department was also accepted and ordered printed in the appendix of the journal and 1,000 copies printed for distribution, the same course being taken with the annual report of the fire department, 550 copies to be printed for distribution.

The quarterly report of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton showed 139 applications for building permits during the past quarter at a building cost of $217,545. The report was accepted after Alderman Crooks had noted that during the past year building in Norwich had totalled $629,000 according to the reports of people asking for permits, causing one to wonder why the grand list did not show this gain. The report will be printed in the council journal.

The quarterly report of the police department and quarterly cash statement of the board of water commissioners were accepted and ordered printed in the council journal.

The board of water commissioners reported that John J. Corkery had been elected president of that body and his salary fixed at $2500 per year, subject to the approval of the council. Alderman E. LaRue Bliven asked if that was the same as last year and was informed that it was an increase of $200. The report was then voted approved.

The police committee reported that the bug light for Watercress avenue had been installed. The committee also reported that traffic rules were to be revised with the possibility of a hearing at the next meeting, members of the council to offer any suggestions they may have concerning traffic regulations.

The petition of Barnett Jacobson asking that the wooden pole in front of his store on West Main street be removed was referred to the public works committee. This pole was placed in front of his store by the Connecticut company after a hearing at the council chambers, no one appearing in protest and the sanction of the council and approval of the public utilities commission was gained before the poles on West Main street were placed.

Claims presented included one for $3.94 from J. H. Whitney, bill for a broken crossbar on his automobile when it dropped into a hole near the Laurel Hill school, and another from John M. McDougall for broken parts to his automobile resulting from an accident on the poor road on Laurel Hill. A third claim was that of Alice V. Enos for injuries received in a fall on Union street, caused by a broken sidewalk and projecting tree stump. All were referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel.

Irving H. Cruthers was appointed special constable and the matter of widening North Main street at the Eighth street junction was referred to the public works committee, after Alderman Crooks had explained the danger at this intersection and explained how the street could be widened by rounding the corners.

The following bills were read ad approved: Fire department $8998.41; water department, $6562.97; gas and electrical dept. $60,774.82; permanent street improvement, $2620.34; public works department $28,497.15; police department, $4832.11; finance department $5108.26; department of cemeteries, $1425.14; recreation, $50; park department $500.

THURSDAY HALF-HOLIDAY FOR NORWICH STORES

Beginning Thursday of this week practically all Norwich stores will enter upon the weekly summer half-holiday schedule. This movement started among local merchants a year ago and met with such general favor, both on the part of store keepers and general public that it was decided to continue it this year.

There is, however, one change from the plan of last year. Instead of closing at 1 o'clock the time set for last year, the stores this summer are to close at 12 noon. It is realized that this plan will shorten the purchasing day for the public, but it has the advantage of making Thursday afternoon a real half holiday for the employes, enabling them to get an earlier start for trips to the shore, country, of wherever they may decide to spend the remainder of the day.

It was felt that while this extra hour would be a great boon to the merchants and their employes, it would not be a serious inconvenience to the public, as those who have shopping to do Thursday could arrange to make their purchases before 12 o'clock.

The feelings of the merchants in general is expressed by one merchant as follows: "We are glad to have this weekly half-holiday, both for our employees and for ourselves, and, if the public will give the movement their approval by planning to do their shopping during the forenoon on Thursday, during July and August, it will in all probability be an annual feature of our summer merchandising program."

WOMAN DROPS DEAD WHILE PREPARING DINNER

Rosa Brown Mallison, wife of William T. Mallison, died suddenly Monday morning about 10.30 o'clock at her home, 24 Baltic street. Death was due to heart trouble and came while Mrs. Mallison was preparing dinner. Her daughter was in the house at the time and ran for assistance but when Dr. F. J. Harper arrived death had already occurred. Medical Examiner D. C. C. Gildersleeve was notified and pronounced death due to heart failure.

Mrs. Mallison was born in Charles City, Va., February 24, 1855, the daughter of Thomas H. and Mary Smith Brown. On June 12 1889, she was united in marriage in Norwich with William T. Mallison, and had spent all of her married life here.

Besides her husband she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ida B. Parker of New York city, a brother, Cornelius Brown of New York and two sisters, Mrs. Martha Jones of Charles City, Va., and Mrs. William Craighead of Bowling Green. Other relatives also survive her.

As a friend and neighbor Mrs. Mallison was always kind and sympathetic and was loved by everyone who knew her. Her sudden death came as a shock to her many friends and sympathy is expressed for those left to mourn the loss of a beloved wife, mother and sister.

DONATION DAY FOR THE BACKUS HOSPITAL

On Wednesday the donation committee of the Woman's Auxiliary of the W. W. Backus hospital is planning to collect articles of special use to the hospital, asking particularly for old cotton and linen, jelly glasses and cold cream jars, also clothing in good condition. Old cotton and linen is in constant use which needs no explanation. The jelly glasses are used for individual mouth wash glasses and the cold cream jars for sterile vaseline and as the hospital family is large unlimited quantities of both must be at hand. Baby clothes are the main item in the hospital's second-hand wardrobe, but garments for older people are also needed, underwear, and an overcoat or two.

It is requested that all articles for the hospital be left at the various churches of the city before 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Through the courtesy of the United Congregational church the Community house will be open throughout the day and garments and other articles may be left there for collection.

THROWN FROM BUGGY BY RUNAWAY HORSE

Elijah Lathrop, 83, was thrown from his buggy Monday morning about 10 o'clock while driving out of his yard at Gardner Lake, receiving a cut on the head. An ambulance was called and the injured man was taken to the Backus hospital.

At the hospital his injuries were dressed, several stitches being required to close one wound on his head. According to the report, the horse became frightened and balked throwing the buggy to one side. The horse then wheeled and dashed off in the opposite direction throwing Mr. Lathrop from the buggy. It is expected that Mr. Lathrop will leave the hospital some time today (Tuesday.)

Paid for Fishing Without License

(Special to The Bulletin)

Sterling, July 7.—County Game Warden Charles M. Latters of Putnam got busy here Saturday and succeeded in landing one game and fish law violator.

Frank Greenman, a new comer in town, appeared before Justice of the Peace Charles B. Montgomery, prosecuted by Frank W. Hazard, grand juror, and pleading guilty to fishing without a license paid $15.65, and immediately called on Acting Town Clerk Fred A. Wilcox and became a legal fisherman as the law directs. Several other suspects are being closely watched by the game protectors.

Progressive Missionary Picnic.

The Progressive Missionary society of the Central Baptist church is to hold its annual picnic on Wednesday of this week with Mrs. A. T. Utley of New London. The members are planning to leave here on the 9.15 a. m. trolley.

CALLED TO EXPLAIN HIS ACCIDENT REPORT

After reporting what seemed like a minor automobile accident that put the blame on the other fellow but failed to mention a number of material facts that altered the complexion of the case, Otto Rozine of 29 Oakridge street was brought out of his bed at 2 o'clock in the morning last week by a summons to police headquarters to explain the report he has made.

Rozine's first report was that his machine had been run into on Washington street by the car driven by Max Levine of Laurel Hill avenue as Levine was backing out of Bliss place. When Levine made his report later in the evening it was disclosed that a woman was driving the Rozine car, under instruction from him, and that she first struck a telephone pole on the Bliss place corner taking a splinter off the pole, and bounding from that into Levine's machine, which he had brought to a stop when he saw the other car approaching. The Levine machine had its right rear mud-guard dented, while the Rozine machine had a spring broken, frame bent and mud guard bent.

WORTHWHILE CLUB HAD MEETING AND SUPPER

The regular meeting of the Worthwhile Club of the Versailles Methodist Episcopal church was held Thursday evening at the home of its leader, Mrs. C. W. Perkins.

During the short business meeting, a rising vote of thanks was given to the friends who helped them make a success of their play.

After the meeting the members and their guests were served supper by the hostess. The table and dining room were tastefully decorated in pink and white. Grace was said by Elly Hargreaves. The following toasts were responded to: Welcome, Mrs. C. W. Perkins; Why I Like the Worthwhile, Mrs. Vivian Perkins; The History, Mrs. W. G. Frohmander; the Prophecy, Miss Alma Boutilier; the toastmistress was Miss Helen Towers, the song leader, Miss Ruth Allen and the cheer leaders were Miss Maybelle Towers and Miss Etta Weeks. The remainder of the evening was spent in games and music.

VEGETABLE GROWERS WILL HAVE FIELD MEETING

The annual field meeting of the Connecticut Vegetable Growers' Association is to be held Saturday, July 12th, 1924 at W. H. Morris and Company's farm, Wethersfield. There is to be a farm machinery display and a demonstration from 10 a. m. to 12 m. standard. Basket lunch at noon and the afternoon will be devoted to inspecting the many varieties and strains of lettuce, radish, spinach, beets, carrots, tomato and celery.

The demonstrations of varieties and strains are staged with three definite ideas in mind. First: to demonstrate the difference between distinct varieties. Second: To show similarity between varieties with definite names. Third: to show the variation between stocks from different sources.

DOCTORS' AUTOS COLLIDE IN FRANKLIN SQUARE

Automobiles driven by Dr. F. J. Harper and Dr. Kopeland K. Markoff were in collision in Franklin square about noon with damage to each machine, and slight damage to another that was parked at the curb ahead of the Kopeland car.

Dr. Markoff was pulling out from the curb in front of the Thayer building as Dr. Harper drove down Franklin street and hooked into the left forward mudguard of the Markoff car which was thrown into the third machine which belongs to Capt. W. E. Denison. The Denison car was driven up on the sidewalk. At the time of the collision Dr. Markoff had with him in his car city attorney Lee Roy Robbins and Attorney J. Greenstein.

For dessert Noah had preserved pairs.

GIVEN REWARD FOR SUCCESS IN STUDIES

The Academy young people of the Central Baptist church who attained a high average in the past years' work spent a most enjoyable day on Monday in an outing at Narragansett Pier, being accompanied by the pastor, Rev. Dr. D. A. Pitt, and Miss Edith Ellis, the young people's worker. At the beginning of the year an outing was promised by Dr. Pitt to those having an average of ninety or over, and this distinction was won by Helen Denison, Clara Palmer, Elsie Schelin, Courtnay Pitt, and Dorothy Spencer. The party left early in the morning and spent the entire day at the Pier, enjoying to the full the bathing which this splendid beach affords.

SUPT. HUTCHINS SHOWS CONTINUED IMPROVEMENT

Word of F. Leon Hutchins, superintendent of the W. W. Backus hospital, patient at Dr. Mayo's hospital in Rochester, Minn., following a major operation, was received at the local institution Monday. The report stated that his condition was good and that he had sat up in bed for a short time Monday. Mr. Hutchins will remain at the hospital for several weeks yet to regain his strength.

SUPREME COURT APPEAL IN SUIT OVER BOND

An appeal to the supreme court has been taken by Receiver Robert W. Perkins of the Shore Line Electric Railway Co., from the judgment handed down by Judge L. B. Waldo Marvin of the superior court for the receiver to recover $28,206, with interest of $4,936.05, from the Maryland Casualty Co., which gave a bond for Louis I. Levinson for Levinson's faithful performance of a contract to remove the rails on a portion of the Shore Line trolley road that had been junked. The total amount of Levinson's contract was $340,000, but about $160,000 worth of the track material was not taken up and removed by Levinson.

TANLAC SAVED LIFE, SAYS B. & A. BRAKEMAN

"If It Didn't Save It It Certainly Brought Back My Health."

"If Tanlac did not actually save my life it has certainly brought back my health and I am strong for it," is the striking statement of W. F. Manning, 41 Railroad St., St. Johnsbury, Vt., a brakeman for 25 years on the Boston & Maine railroad.

"Two years ago I got in such a bad way that it looked like my railroading days were about over. My stomach and liver caused me great trouble, I had awful pains in my sides and neck, my nerves were all unstrung and my tongue thickly coated.

"I had lost 25 lbs., and couldn't hold out more than half the day at my work. I have taken 13 bottles of Tanlac and am a new man. My weight has gone up from 135 to 170 and I now enjoy life, health and work as I never did before. My skin used to be sallow, but since taking Tanlac I have a good complexion and feel fine."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills, for constipation; made and recommended by the manufacturers of TANLAC.

PLAN PROPOSED FOR WIDENING NORTH MAIN ST. AT EIGHTH ST.

The July meeting of the court of common council was held Monday evening in the council chamber in the court house, Mayor Milo R. Waters calling the meeting to order at 7.20 o'clock standard time. The advertised hearing on the proposition of enlarging and establishing boundaries in Mohegan park was opened and no one appearing, was immediately closed and the resolutions concerning the establishment and enlargement of Mohegan park were adopted.

The following petitions were acted upon: For a bug light on Geer avenue, referred to the police committee with power; for the trimming of a tree in front of 408 Central avenue and 20 Fairmount street, referred to the tree warden and public works committee with power that Francis Place be accepted as a city street, referred to the public works committee.

The monthly reports of the city treasurer and street commissioner were accepted and ordered printed in the council journal. The annual report of the gas and electrical department was also accepted and ordered printed in the appendix of the journal and 1,000 copies printed for distribution, the same course being taken with the annual report of the fire department, 550 copies to be printed for distribution.

The quarterly report of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton showed 126 applications for building permits during the past quarter at a building cost of $217,545. The report was accepted after Alderman Crooks had noted that during the past year building in Norwich had totalled $629,000 according to the reports of people asking for permits, causing one to wonder why the grand list did not show this gain. The report will be printed in the council journal.

The quarterly report of the police department and quarterly cash statement of the board of water commissioners were accepted and ordered printed in the council journal.

The board of water commissioners reported that John J. Corkery had been elected president of that body and his salary fixed at $2500 per year, subject to the approval of the council. Alderman E. LaRue Bliven asked that was the same as last year and was informed that it was an increase of $300. The report was then voted approved.

The police committee reported that the bug light for Watercress avenue had been installed. The committee also reported that traffic rules were to be revised with the possibility of a hearing at the next meeting, members of the council to offer any suggestions they may have concerning traffic regulations.

The petition of Barnett Jacobson asking that the wooden pole in front of his store on West Main street be removed was referred to the public works committee. This pole was placed in front of his store by the Connecticut company after a hearing at the council chambers, no one appearing in protest and the sanction of the council and approval of the public utilities commission was gained before the poles on West Main street were placed.

Claims presented included one for $3.24 from J. H. Whitney, bill for a broken crossbar on his automobile when it dropped into a hole near the Laurel Hill school, and another from John M. McDougall for broken parts to his automobile resulting from an accident on the poor road on Laurel Hill. A third claim was that of Alice V. Enos for injuries received in a fall on Union street, caused by a broken sidewalk and projecting tree stump. All were referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel.

Irving H. Cruthers was appointed special constable and the matter of widening North Main street at the Eighth street junction was referred to the public works committee, after Alderman Crooks had explained the danger at this intersection and explained how the street could be widened by rounding the corners.

The following bills were read ad approved: Fire department $8998.41; water department, $6562.97; gas and electrical dept. $60,774.82; permanent street improvement, $2620.34; public works department $28,497.15; police department, $4832.11; finance department $5108.26; department of cemeteries, $1425.14; recreation, $50; park department $500.

THURSDAY HALF-HOLIDAY FOR NORWICH STORES

Beginning Thursday of this week practically all Norwich stores will enter upon the weekly summer half-holiday schedule. This movement started among local merchants a year ago and met with such general favor, both on the part of store keepers and general public that it was decided to continue it this year.

There is, however, one change from the plan of last year. Instead of closing at 1 o'clock the time set for last year, the stores this summer are to close at 12 noon. It is realized that this plan will shorten the purchasing day for the public, but it has the advantage of making Thursday afternoon a real half holiday for the employes, enabling them to get an earlier start for trips to the shore, country, or wherever they may decide to spend the remainder of the day.

It was felt that while this extra hour would be a great boon to the merchants and their employes, it would not be a serious inconvenience to the public, as those who have shopping to do Thursday could arrange to make their purchases before 12 o'clock.

The feelings of the merchants in general is expressed by one merchant as follows: "We are glad to have this weekly half-holiday, both for our employes and for ourselves, and, if the public will give the movement their approval by planning to do their shopping during the forenoon on Thursday, during July and August, it will in all probability be an annual feature of our summer merchandising program."

WOMAN DROPS DEAD WHILE PREPARING DINNER

Rosa Brown Mallison, wife of William T. Mallison, died suddenly Monday morning about 10.30 o'clock at her home, 24 Baltic street. Death was due to heart trouble and came while Mrs. Mallison was preparing dinner. Her daughter was in the house at the time and ran for assistance but when Dr. F. J. Harper arrived death had already occurred. Medical Examiner Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve was notified and pronounced death due to heart failure.

Mrs. Mallison was born in Charles City, Va., February 24, 1835, the daughter of Thomas D. and Mary Smith Brown. On June 19, 1889, she was united in marriage in Norwich with William T. Mallison, and had spent all of her married life here.

Besides her husband she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ida B. Parker of New York city, a brother, Cornelius Brown of New York and two sisters, Mrs. Martha Jones of Charles City, Va., and Mrs. Willis Craighead of Bowling Green. Other relatives also survive her.

As a friend and neighbor Mrs. Mallison was always kind and sympathetic and was loved by everyone who knew her. Her sudden death came as a shock to her many friends and sympathy is expressed for those left to mourn the loss of a beloved wife, mother and sister.

DONATION DAY FOR THE BACKUS HOSPITAL

On Wednesday the donation committee of the Woman's Auxiliary of the W. W. Backus hospital is planning to collect articles of special use to the hospital, asking particularly for old cotton and linen, jelly glasses and cold cream jars, also clothing in good condition. Old cotton and linen is in constant use which needs no explanation. The jelly glasses are used for individual mouth wash glasses and the cold cream jars for sterile vaseline and as the hospital family is large unlimited quantites of both must be at hand. Baby clothes are the main item in the hospital's second-hand wardrobe, but garments for older people are also needed, underwear, and an overcoat or two.

It is requested that all articles for the hospital be left at the various churches of the city before 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Through the courtesy of the United Congregational church the Community house will be open throughout the day and garments and other articles may be left there for collection.

THROWN FROM BUGGY BY RUNAWAY HORSE

Elijah Lathrop, 83, was thrown from his buggy Monday morning about 10 o'clock while driving out of his yard at Gardner Lake, receiving a cut on the head. An ambulance was called and the injured man was taken to the Backus hospital.

At the hospital his injuries were dressed, several stitches being required to close one wound on his head. According to the report, the horse became frightened and balked throwing the buggy to one side. The horse then wheeled and dashed off in the opposite direction throwing Mr. Lathrop from the buggy. It is expected that Mr. Lathrop will leave the hospital some time today (Tuesday.)

Paid for Fishing Without License

(Special to The Bulletin)

Sterling, July 7.—County Game Warden Charles M. Latters of Putnam got busy here Saturday and succeeded in landing one game and fish law violator.

Frank Greenman, a new comer in town, appeared fore Justice of the Peace Charles B. Montgomery, prosecuted by Frank W. Hazard, grand juror, and pleading guilty to fishing without a license paid $15.66, and immediately called on Acting Town Clerk Fred A. Wilcox and became a legal fisherman as the law directs. Several other suspects are being closely watched by the game protectors.

Progressive Missionary Picnic.

The Progressive Missionary society of the Central Baptist church is to hold its annual picnic on Wednesday of this week with Mrs. A. T. Utley of New London. The members are planning to leave here on the 9.15 a. m. trolley.

CALLED TO EXPLAIN HIS ACCIDENT REPORT

After reporting what seemed like a minor automobile accident that put the blame on the other fellow but failed to mention a number of material facts that altered the complexion of the case, Otto Rosine of 19 Oakridge street was brought out of his bed at 2 o'clock in the morning last week by a summons to police headquarters to explain the report he has made.

Rosine's first report was that his machine had been run into on Washington street by the car driven by Max Levine of Laurel Hill avenue as Levine was backing out of Bliss place. When Levine made his report later in the evening it was disclosed that a woman was driving the Rosine car, under instruction from him, and that she first struck a telephone pole on the Bliss place corner taking a splinter off the pole, and bounding from that into Levine's machine, which he had brought to a stop when he saw the other car approaching. The Levine machine had its right rear mud-guard dented, while the Rozine machine had a spring broken, frame bent and mud guard bent.

WORTHWHILE CLUB HAD MEETING AND SUPPER

The regular meeting of the Worthwhile Club of the Versailles Methodist Episcopal church was held Thursday evening at the home of its leader, Mrs. C. W. Perkins.

During the short business meeting, a rising vote of thanks was given to the friends who helped them make a success of their play.

After the meeting the members and their guests were served supper by the hostess. The table and dining room were tastefully decorated in pink and white. Grace was said by Lily Hargreaves. The following toasts were responded to: Welcome, Mrs. C. W. Perkins; Why I Like the Worthwhile, Mrs. Vivian Perkins; The History, Mrs. W. G. Frohnsander; the Prophecy, Miss Alma Boutilier; the toastmistress was Miss Helen Towers, the song leader, Miss Ruth Allen and the cheer leaders were Miss Maybelle Towers and Miss Etta Weeks. The remainder of the evening was spent in games and music.

GERMAN LUTHERAN PASTOR COMPILES CHURCH BOOK

A church book and directory of the First German Lutheran church has just made its appearance. It has been compiled by the pastor, Rev. H. Hunsinger. It contains pictures of the church building, the present pastor and the former pastor, Rev. Paul F. Werth. The printed matter of the book consists of the pastoral letter, historical sketch, review of Sunday school and bible class work, membership roll, review of work of the ladies-aid society an dthe Y. P. S. also membership roll of the societies and the church choir. When the members come to church next Sunday they will find there is a copy of this book ready for each one of them.

VEGETABLE GROWERS WILL HAVE FIELD MEETING

The annual field meeting of the Connecticut Vegetable Growers' Association is to be held Saturday, July 12th, 1924 at W. H. Morris and Company's farm, Wethersfield. There is to be a farm machinery display and a demonstration from 10 a. m. to 12 m. standard. Basket lunch at noon and the afternoon will be devoted to inspecting the many varieties and strains of lettuce, radish, spinach, beets, carrots, tomato and celery.

The demonstrations of varieties and strains are staged with three definite ideas in mind. First: to demonstrate the difference between distinct varieties. Second: To show similarity between varieties with definite names. Third: to show the variation between stocks from different sources.

DOCTORS' AUTOS COLLIDE IN FRANKLIN SQUARE

Automobiles driven by Dr. F. J. Harper and Dr. Kopeland K. Markoff were in collision in Franklin square about noon with damage to each machine and slight damage to another that was parked at the curb ahead of the Kopeland car.

Dr. Markoff was pulling out from the curb in front of the Thayer building as Dr. Harper drove down Franklin street and hooked into the left forward mudguard of the Markoff car which was thrown into the third machine which belongs to Capt. W. R. Denison. The Denison car was driven up on the sidewalk. At the time of the collision Dr. Markoff had with him in his car city attorney Lee Roy Robbins and Attorney J. Greenstein.

For dessert Noah had preserved pairs.

GIVEN REWARD FOR SUCCESS IN STUDIES

The Academy young people of the Central Baptist church who attained a high average in the past years' work spent a most enjoyable day on Monday in an outing at Narragansett Pier, being accompanied by the pastor, Rev. Dr. D. A. Pitt, and Miss Edith Ellis, the young people's worker. At the beginning of the year an outing was promised by Dr. Pitt to those having an average of ninety or over, and this distinction was won by Helen Denison, Clara Palmer, Elsie Schelin, Courtnay Pitt, and Dorothy Spencer. The party left early in the morning and spent the entire day at the Pier, enjoying to the full the bathing which this splendid beach affords.

Word of F. Leon Hutchins, superintendent of the W. W. Backus hospital, patient at Dr. Mayo's hospital in Rochester, Minn., following a major operation, was received at the local institution Monday. The report stated that his condition was good and that he sat up in bed for a short time Monday. Mr. Hutchins will remain at the hospital for several weeks yet to regain his strength.

SUPREME COURT APPEAL IN SUIT OVER BOND

An appeal to the supreme court has been taken by Receiver Robert W. Perkins of the Shore Line Electric Railway Co., from the judgment handed down by Judge L. B. Waldo Marvin of the superior court for the receiver to recover $28,206, with interest of $4,936.05, from the Maryland Casualty Co., which gave a bond for Louis I. Levinson, for Levinson's faithful performance of a contract to remove the rails on a portion of the Shore Line trolley road that had been junked. The total amount of Levinson's contract was $340,000, but about $160,000 worth of the track material was not taken up and removed by Levinson.

PAUL BROWN RECOVERING FROM SEVERE INJURIES

The condition of Paul Brown of 454 West Main street, general chairman of the West End Fourth of July celebration, who was injured when one of the bombs exploded prematurely, was reported as good Monday evening at the Backus hospital. A steady improvement in condition should result in his being allowed to return to his home in about a week.

TANLAC SAVED LIFE SAYS B. & A. BRAKEMAN

"If It Didn't Save It It Certainly Brought Back My Health."

"If Tanlac did not actually save my life it has certainly brought back my health and I am strong for it," is the striking statement of W. F. Manning, 41 Railroad St., St. Johnsbury, Vt., a brakeman for 25 years on the Boston & Maine railroad.

"Two years ago I got in such a bad way that it looked like my railroading days were about over. My stomach and liver caused me great trouble, I had awful pains in my sides and neck, my nerves were all unstrung and my tongue thickly coated.

"I had lost 25 lbs., and couldn't hold out more than half the day at my work. I have taken 12 bottles of Tanlac and am a new man. My weight has gone up from 135 to 170 and I now enjoy life, health and work as I never did before. My skin used to be sallow, but since taking Tanlac I have a good complexion and feel fine."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills, for constipation; made and recommended by the manufacturers of TANLAC.

M'ADOO RELEASES HIS DELEGATES AT DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

Announcement That He Has Given Up Fight For Presidential Nomination Made Early This Morning After Repeated Conferences With His Lieutenants—McAdoo's Supporters Declare His Action Had No Connection With Conditional Offer Made Early Last Night By Governor Smith—McAdoo Had Forged Ahead of Smith Again Taking First Place—Ralston Also Withdraws.

Madison Square Garden, July 9.—William G. McAdoo early this morning released his delegates in a formal communication to the democratic national convention.

Mr. McAdoo's supporters declared his action had no connection with the proposal by Governor Smith that both withdraw but that it was expected that Governor Smith's conditional offer of withdrawal would be carried out.

McADOO FORGES AHEAD TAKING FIRST PLACE

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 8.—An offer by Governor Smith to step aside if William G. McAdoo would do the same was answered by a McAdoo drive on the floor of the democratic convention tonight which added more than a hundred votes to its column and again lifted him into first place.

In turn the Smith managers then rallied up the count of their candidate past the one-third vote power and the deadlock which had shown some signs of breaking up earlier in the day again tightened its grip on the convention.

Despite their losses and amid threats of others a central group of the McAdoo supporters kept up their courage tonight and even attempted a return to the old convention floor enthusiasm of the first days of the balloting. The California delegation came in with a new supply of state flags and streamers and with small trumpets and other noise makers.

Just before the session began a number of women delegates who have been supporting McAdoo with almost a religious zeal from the start called on the candidate and were assured by him that he had no intention of giving up the fight. The meeting was turned into a revival service at which the women sang again their McAdoo campaign songs. Then they came marching into the convention hall, among the first arrivals, and kept up their singing as they marched around the arena, waving above them the many-colored banners with which they have signalized the casting of every vote for McAdoo since the convention began.

The session was called to order a few minutes after 9 o'clock, and opened with an invocation by the Rev. Wythe Leigh Kinsolving, chaplain of the Virginia Society of New York.

He asked divine providence to remember the president and Mrs. Coolidge in their sorrow, and then prayed that no one would let either "racial or religious narrowness" or "personal ambition" stand in the way of harmony and righteousness.

Franklin Roosevelt, the Smith manager, already had taken his place on the speakers' platform to announce the willingness of the governor to get out of the race if McAdoo would do likewise. It was his plan to make the announcement in a speech of a few sentences, and then if there was no acceptance from the McAdoo men, let the balloting go on without stirring up a debate.

After the singing the convention paused to hear read and adopt a resolution by James A. Watson, of Boston congratulating the American Olympic team on their showing in the international games.

Senator Walsh, the chairman, then read to the convention without comment the telegram from Senator Ralston to Thomas Taggart, asking that his name be withdrawn. When the reading was concluded there was a wave of hand clapping over the hall, and the band struck into "The Banks of the Wabash," but the most of the delegates had heard the news beforehand and the demonstration soon died out.

Almost the whole convention came to its feet and cheered when Mr. Roosevelt was recognized and began his speech withdrawing conditionally the name of Governor Smith.

"I am here," he said to make a very brief and very simple statement on behalf of Governor Smith. The candidate for whom I speak now leads in the poll in this convention. We have advocated his nomination as the representative of great democratic principles, but the future of the democratic party rises far above the success of any candidate.

"After nearly a hundred ballots it is apparent to him and to me that the forces behind him and those behind Mr. Adoo cannot be amalgamated. For the sake of the party, therefore, Governor Smith authorizes me to say that when Mr. McAdoo's name has been withdrawn from this convention, Mr. Smith's name also will be withdrawn.

"And as one of Governor Smith's supporters I can say that until Mr. McAdoo does withdraw, Governor Smith's supporters will continue to vote for Governor Smith."

At the end of the brief speech there was a mighty cheer from the Smith supporters, and then Chairman Walsh came forward and after an announcement regarding seating arrangements, ordered the clerk to proceed with the 94th ballot for selection of a nominee for the presidency. The announcement apparently took the McAdoo people by surprise and there was no immediate attempt to reply to it.

As the first ballot got under way it brought some scattering indications of the currents that were at work under the new situation created by the withdrawal of Senator Ralston and the conditional withdrawal of Governor Smith. Delaware, switching for the first time since the balloting began from former Senator Saulsbury, gave her six votes to Senator Robinson. Indiana took the 30 that had been going to Ralston from his home state and gave 26 to McAdoo and 5 to Smith.

There was continual cheering as the Smith states continued to vote solidly for him and the McAdoo people retaliated by applauding with a renewed fervor the vote of every McAdoo state that had remained faithful to the McAdoo cause. California, with its new flags and trumpets, led in the McAdoo demonstration.

When Michigan was reached, 16 of the votes that had been going from that state to Ralston were transferred to Senator Copeland, of New York, one time mayor of Ann Arbor. It was the first time that a scattering vote of more than one or two had been given him. Mississippi then returned to the McAdoo column which she had left previously to get aboard the Ralston boom.

Amid applause the chairman of the Missouri delegation which had been voting for Ralston constantly announced that "as a compliment to his patriotism and unselfishness we still cast 36 votes for Ralston."

The twenty votes Kansas had been giving to Ralston went back to Governor Jonathan Davis. After a poll Nevada which also had been voting for Ralston returned under the unit rule to McAdoo, and Oklahoma did the same.

The Ohio delegation in caucus agreed to support either Glass or Davis if their nomination became apparent. James M. Cox addressed the delegation and made a plea for harmony.

Former Secretary Baker urged the delegation to act as far as posible as a unit.

Former Governor Cox was invited to attend the convention and sit with the Ohio delegation but he declined in the ground that his visit might be misconstrued.

The ninety-fifth ballot ran along much like its predecessors until Michigan was called. The 16 Michigan votes which had gone to Senator Copeland on the previous ballot were turned over to Davis along with three taken from McAdoo. Missouri followed suit by casting her 30 votes for Davis.

After the 96th ballot a delegate from Ohio moved that the convention adjourn until morning but the proposal was snowed under by a swelling chorus of "noes."

In quick order the convention voted down without debate or roll call a resolution by Arthur Lyman of Waltham, Mass., proposing that hereafter states having the unit rule could not vote their full strength when a part of the delegation is absent.

Another motion to adjourn until morning was voted down after the 97th ballot, and then Mrs. Frank B. Lucas, of Ponca City, Oklahoma, offered a resolution to abrogate both the unit rule and the two-thirds rule. Without a roll call it was rejected by what appeared to be an almost unanimous vote.

RALSTON WILL NOT ACCEPT NOMINATION

New York, July 8.—Senator Ralston telephoned Thomas Taggart tonight that under no circumstances would he accept the democratic presidential nomination. Taggart said he would withdraw Ralston's name immediately.

Taggart made the announcement twenty minutes after a dozen of Ralston's friends, including Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, had gone into conference to lay plans for a final Ralston drive.

While newspaper men were waiting for the results of the conference, Taggart suddenly came from behind the locked doors and declared the senator was out of the race finally and definitely.

"I have just heard from Senator Ralston by phone that under no circumstances will he accept the nomination," he said. "In the light of his positive declination, there is nothing for me to do but withdraw his name. I shall do this as soon as we go into session again."

Taggart was unable to say where the Ralston strength would go. He returned to the conference for further suggestions from other Ralston supporters.

Taggart said he had done his best to induce the senator to remain in the race, but that it was futile.

"While we were conferring," he said, "Uncle Sam called me on the phone and declared he would not accept the nomination. I told him we had it arranged to nominate him tonight, but he said that made no difference. He said he had no desire for it and that his family did not want him to take it.

"I meant it the other day when I said I did not want the nomination and I mean it now," he said."

Taggart said he had not the slightest idea who would be nominated now.

WOULD HAVE COMMITTEE NAME DEM. CANDIDATES

New Haven, July 8—Mayor Fitzgerald, of this city, delegate from Connecticut to the democratic national convention, in collaboration with Homer S. Cummings and Thomas J. Spellacy, has drawn up resolutions preparatory to presenting them to the democratic convention if the delegates fail, in the near future, to nominate a candidate for president, according to reports reaching this city.

Under Mayor Fitzgerald's plan, a committee of eight would be named to handpick the candidates for president and vice president. The resolution names the persons who would serve on the committee as follows: Cordell Hull, George Brennan, Pat Harrison, Franklin Roosevelt, Governor Brandon, of Alabama, J. Bruce Kremer, Thomas J. Spellacy and Emily Newell Blair.

A similar resolution which would involve a committee having a representative of each delegation on it, also may be considered by the convention.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Denies Polo Invitation

London, July 8—The secretary to the Prince of Wales at St. James palace today denied that the prince had received or accepted an invitation to attend the polo matches between America and Great Britain in the United States in September.

BRITISH AND FRENCH PREMIERS IN CONFERENCE

Paris, July 8.—(By the A. P.)—The premiers of France and Great Britain spent three hours this afternoon endeavoring to reach such a decision on the application of the Dawes plan as would enable them to enter the interallied conference at London on July 16 with a united front.

After the first session of their conference here, it was announced that they would resume negotiations at 9.30 o'clock this evening. Their talk was quite cordial. More so than the reception accorded Prime Minister MacDonald at the railway station this afternoon, which was unexplainably cool.

When the British premier's train pulled into the station there were a few cries of "Long live peace" and "Long live Herriot."

After the conversation at the Quai D'Orsay, the French foreign minister issued the following communique:

"Mr. MacDonald, M. Herriot and the British ambassador assisted Sir Eyre Crowe, Lieut. Col. Ronald Waterhouse, Count De Peretti de la Rocca, W. H. M. Selby, M. Jacques Seydoux, M. J. V. Parmentier, M. Gaston Bergery and M. Carmerlynck resumed rule at 5.30 o'clock today in the premier's office their conversation at the point at which it had been suspended in the the conversation until 9 o'clock. This Chequers interview. Their continued conversation will be continued this evening at the British embassy at 9.30 o'clock and at the foreign office at 9.30 o'clock tomorrow morning."

MAINE G. O. P. LEADERS DISCUSS FALL CAMPAIGN

Boston, July 8—A conference between Maine Republican leaders and William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee was held in the latter's office here today. At its conclusion, Mr. Butler said that "matters pertaining to the fall campaign were discussed", but he declined to give further details.

Among those present were Harold M. Sewall and Mrs. Guy P. Gannett, members of the national committee from Maine, George I. Emery, chairman and vice president of the Maine state committee, United States Senator Bert M. Fernald and Representatives Ira G. Hersey and Carroll L. Beedy.

SPANISH TROOPS IN MOROCCO REINFORCED

Madrid, July 8 (By the A. P.)—The situation in Morocco is improving but still warrants careful surveillance because of the vigorous offensive tendencies of the native tribesmen, according to an official communique issued today, which confirms the relief of the Spanish garrison at Kobadarsa where, it is stated, 19 of the garrison of 37 were injured.

The Spanish troops at the embattled region have been reinforced by units from Melilla and fresh forces from the peninsula. The air service is cooperative effectively.

The communique declares that the serious blunder of firing upon their own troops by mistake was committed by the native tribesmen who lost almost two-thirds of their total force in killed and injured. It is stated that previous information that the Spanish troops had suffered these losses, was incorrect.

AIR MAIL ONLY HALF HOUR LATE

Chicago, July 8.—The eastbound air mail reached Chicago at 7.50 a. m. today, only 30 minutes behind schedule, and departed at 8.35 for the east without any explanation of Pilot Jager's forced landing in the night flying zone in Nebraska. He was the first pilot to take advantage of the lighted airway from Chicago to Cheyenne in a night landing.

A noticeable volume of mail addressed to foreign cities carrying many stamps, especially from San Francisco and the Pacific coast, was included in today's cargo. It was the first time, according to postal employes, that matter bound for foreign countries was so heavy.

10-YEAR-OLD BOY DROWNED AT NAUGATUCK

Naugatuck, Conn., July 8.—Peter Hulstrunk, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hulstrunk of this borough, was drowned this afternoon at the new dam on Rubber avenue. There were no witnesses to the tragedy and the body of the boy was in the water several hours until brought to the surface shortly after 7 o'clock this evening by Michael O'Brien, high school athlete and expert swimmer. The boy's failure to return home caused a search of the banks to be made for his clothing.

GIVEN FINE OF $100 FOR SLUGGING UMPIRE

Chicago, July 8.—A fine of $100, suspension for the season and jail sentence on a charge of assault and battery were penalties imposed on Earl Potteiger of the Nash Motors baseball team of Kenosha, Wisconsin, of the Midwest Amateur league, for slugging Umpire George Jackson here yesterday. Police were called to protect Potteiger from fans who swarmed on the field after the attack.

STRUCK BY TROLLEY DIED IN HOSPITAL

Waterbury, Conn., Patrick Quinn, 55 a carpenter, employed in Naugatuck who was struck by a trolley car in that town last night died early today at the hospital. The motorman of the car was Richard J. Curby, of this city who said that the man crossed the track ahead of the car meaning-ly runaways of the cars ongoing. The car could not be stopped in time.

250 Killed During Brazilian Revolt

Government Troops Have Taken Possession of Sao Paulo and Have Situation in Hand.

250 KILLED DURING BRAZILIAN REVOLT

Buenos Aires, July 8 ((By the A. P.) —Two hundred and fifty persons were killed and 200 injured during the insurrection which broke out at Sao Paulo, Brazil, Friday night, according to reliable information received here.

BRAZILIAN TROOPS HAVE SITUATION IN HAND

Washington, July 8.—Brazilian government troops have taken possession of the city of Sao Paulo and "have the situation in hand," according to an official communique forwarded to the state department today by Sheldon L. Crosby, American charge at Rio De Janeiro. The statement, he said was issued at the capital this morning.

Loyal troops and marines were poured into Sao Paulo yesterday, the despatch said, and after a bombardment the points held by the revolutionists were to be assaulted. Mr. Crosby and the leaders of the revolt are still unknown. The federal government is supported by the entire population, he added, and the governors of other states of the union have telegraphed pledges of loyalty. A moratorium has been proclaimed in Sao Paulo until July 12.

CLAIMS HIS MACHINE DID NOT HIT CHILD

Stamford, July 8—Coroner John J. Phelan, of Fairfield county, today resumed his investigation into the death of Frances Merckling, four years old, who was killed by an automobile ten day ago. Martin Gorn, alleged to have been driving the machine that struck the girl, testified that it was another car ahead of him that hit the child. He said when he first saw the girl she was on the ground but admitted that he did not actually see the other machine hit her. He supposed that it had struck her, he said.

Gorn said that he drove to the right to avoid hitting the girl on the ground and admitted that the rear wheel of his machine might have struck the child after she had been hit by the other car.

Rose Glazer, 16, testified that she saw the machine ahead of the one driven by Gorn knock down the girl, and also that the rear wheels of Gorn's machine passed over the little girl's feet.

At a hearing a week ago several witnesses, including two sisters of the Merckling girl, said that it was Gorn's machine that knocked down the girl. The coroner reserved decision.

BURIAL SERVICE AT PLYMOUTH, VT., THURSDAY

Plymouth, Vt., July 8.—In the little cemetery on the side of a hill, where Calvin Coolidge paused last August on his way to Washington that he might say a prayer at his mother's grave before he entered activity on the duties of president, his younger son and namesake will be buried Thursday. A sad-eyed grandfather, bearing up under the grief that added noticeably to the marks of his 78 years, spent the day making preparations for the interment of the lad who was beloved by the countryside.

Col. J. C. Coolidge, the president's father, learned of the death of his grandson last night by radio. It was not until today that the word was confirmed by message from the White House, with advices from the president that young Calvin would be buried in the family lot Thursday after funeral sevices at Northampton, Mass.

BOAT CARRYING ALCOHOL SINKS AFTER EXPLOSION

Boston, July 8—While being pursued by a police launch, motor boat 995-C owned by Joseph Olsen of Malden and carrying a cargo of alcohol, was burned by an explosion of gasoline off Dorchester early today and sank in a few minutes. Olsen, badly burned about the face and hands, jumped into the water and swam to shore and was taken to hospital. A number of cans of alcohol came to the surface and federal revenue officers began an investigation.

CONDITION OF BISHOP LAWRENCE SATISFACTORY

Bar Harbor, Me., July 8—The Rt. Rev. William Lawrence, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts who underwent a mastoid operation at the Bar Harbor hospital Sunday had a comfortable night, Dr. R. W. Wakefield of Bar Harbor, his physician, said his condition this morning was very satisfactory and all that could be expected so soon after the operation.

Funeral of Calvin Coolidge Jr., Today

Service Will be Held at White House at 4 O'Clock This Afternoon—Burial in Plymouth, Vt.

Washington, July 8—The hush of sorrow enveloped the White House today as the president and Mrs. Coolidge gave over all else to preparations for the funeral of their younger son, Calvin, Jr., who died last night.

How they bore their grief none but the closest knew, for they cut the channels of official and personal communication to be with their dead. Guarded gates at the white house enclosure, a white crepe spray at the door and the flag on the mansion at half staff were the only outward indications of the mourning within.

Although preferring the simplest arrangements, a concession was made because of the status of the president as the leader of the nation and the casket lay in the great east room of the white house, surrounded by a military guard of honor. Six sailors from the presidential yacht Mayflower, on which the 16 year-old boy had often cruised and six marines alternately stood vigil.

Floral tributes in great numbers were banked about, while from personal friends, government officials, members of the diplomatic corps, citizens from all sections of the nation, and rulers and high officials of foreign countries messages came in a rising flood expressive of the common sorrow.

The funeral will be marked as much as possible by the simplicity which the parents desire, a simple service will be held at the white house at 4 o'clock tomorrow, after which the body will be taken to Northampton, Mass., for a second service and thence to Plymouth, Vermont, for burial.

The white house services will be attended by intimate friends, cabinet members, chiefs of diplomatic missions and such justices of the supreme court, members of congress and high officers of the army navy and marine corps who may be in the city. The Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational church, which the Coolidge family has attended here, will offer prayer and read from the scriptures and a quartet will sing hymns.

Leaving here tomorrow night, the funeral party will arrive at Northampton Thursday where services will be held at 10 o'clock in the Edwards Congregational church, of which Calvin was a member. At that time the Rev. Kenneth B. Wells, pastor of the church, will officiate. The party will then proceed to Plymouth, Vermont, where interment will be in the family lot, where lie the president's mother and sister. The return to Washington will then be made immediately.

In addition to the president and Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, those who will accompany the body to its last resting place will include Secretaries Weeks, Wallace, Wilbur, and Work, and Attorney General Stone and Postmaster General New, the cabinet members now here, and their wives; J. Butler Wright, third assistant secretary of state; C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to the president; E. T. Clark, personal secretary to the president; Major James F. Coupal, and Lieutenant Commander Joel T. Boone, white house physicians, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, personal friends. Will also be on the funeral train. John Coolidge, the president's father, will join them at Northampton.

Friends of the family said that both the president and Mrs. Coolidge although worn by long sleepless nights at the sick bed and bowed by their grief, were bearing up as well as could be expected. Mrs. Stearns remained much with Mrs. Coolidge during the day while Mr. Stearns and Secretary Clark were with the president.

The executive visited his offices for a short time this morning and was visited by officials who extended sympathy but he soon withdrew to the mansion where behind closed doors the family remained in closest seculsion. John, the 17 year old son and inseparable companion of his brother, Calvin, was with his father and mother, and friends said it was with difficulty that he bore up.

SOCIALISTS CONDEMN "K K K" AT NAT'L CONVENTION

Cleveland Political Gathering Adopts Resolution Emphatically Condemning the Klan by Name and Every Other Effort to Divide Workers on Racial or Religious Lines—Frowns on Efforts to Effect Political Purposes by Secret or Terroristic Methods — Opposition Developes on Ground That Party Was Injecting Itself Into Religious Fight With Which it Was Not Concerned.

Cleveland, July 8.—(By the A. P.)—The socialist party late today officially condemned the Ku Klux Klan by name after the sharpest debate in the national convention that has been meeting here for three days.

The resolution said:

"We emphatically condemn the Ku Klux Klan and every other effort to divide the workers on racial or religious lines and to effect political purposes by secret or terroristic methods."

Opposition developed on the ground that the party was injecting itself into a religious fight with which it was not concerned and that a pronouncement, covering only the party's stand in opposition in attempts to divide the workers was better suited to a socialistic declaration.

The substitute was defeated 19 to 5 and the resolution was then passed 56 to 15. This represented less than half the full registration as many of the delegates had departed for their homes.

ELECT COLUMBUS MAN GRAND EXALTED RULER

Boston, July 8.—The election of John G. Price of Columbus, O., as grand exalted ruler, and the selection of Portland, Ore., as the next annual meeting place of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks were the chief events of the executive session of the grand lodge here today here in conjunction with the 60th annual convention of the order.

The new chief, who succeeds James G. McFarland of Watertown, S. D., received over twice as many votes as his only competitor, Charles F. J. McCue of Cambridge. Price recently completed two terms as attorney general of his state and was prosecuting attorney of his county for four years previous. He is a member of the Ohio state board of charity and a former member of the public recreation commission of Columbus.

Grand Esteemed Leading Knight, John E. Knapp, Williamsport, Pa.; grand esteemed loyal knight, George W. Eddington, Idaho Falls, Ida.; grand secretary, Fred C. Robinson, Chicago (reelected); grand treasurer, John K. Burch, Grand Rapids, Mich.; grand tyler, F. B. Williamson, Jackson, Tenn.; grand inner guard, J. E. REGARD MAINE FOREST FIRE SITUATION SERIOUS

Bangor, Maine, July 8—Bangor and Aroostook officials regard the situation in the Aroostook woods as very serious because of the extreme dryness but think that the present fires will soon be under control. Information has been received here of a considerable fire at Buffalo siding near Eagle Lake, which is well back in the woods and has not yet threatened the railroad station.

Another fire that started Monday and which is still burning sharply is at Nollesemic lake, about six miles south of Millinocket. A crew of forty men is engaged in fighting the fire and today at noon it was expected that it would soon be under control. The fire that destroyed the buildings on the golf links of the Houlton country club and then centered on the mountain on the shore of Nickerson lake was fought all night by a crew of men with engines pumping water to the top of the mountain. Today at noon it was said that unless the wind rises again the fire would soon be under control.

FILIPINO LABORERS RETURNING TO WORK

Manila, July 8—(By the A. P.)—Only about 700 of the Filipino laborers at the Cavite navy yard who went on strike last week as a protest against wage readjustments remain out and these have indicated a desire to return to work, navy officials said today.

The strikers have been advised that they cannot be reinstated as government employes for three months under a new ruling of the navy department because they are considered absentees who have failed to report for six days.

HARVARD LAW DEAN ADDRESSES BAR ASS'N

Philadelphia, July 8.—(By The A. P.—Differentiating between law as "the regime of social control through legal institutions" and law as "the body of legal precepts which obtain for the time being in a particular society," Dean Roscoe Pound, of the Harvard Law school, speaking before the annual meeting of the American Bar Association tonight, declared that most of the social and economic progress of mankind had come through discontent with the law as defined in the latter category.

"The apologist for outworn or ill-working rules of law and institutions of law," he said, "always takes his stand behind the sanctity of the legal order, he postulates passive obedience to the legal order as a duty. Any questioning of these precepts on a large scale is held to savor anarchy.

"Yet the whole fabric of the law has changed in form and content more than once in the century and a half that has elapsed since the revolution."

Speakers at other sessions today included United States Senator George Wharton Pepper, who urged the removal of labor disputes from the jurisdiction of federal courts; Former Attorney General George W. Alter, of Pennsylvania, who protested against the "plague of new laws," and Robert E. Lee Saner, of Dallas, Texas, president of the Bar Association, who advocated the establishment of mines federal courts for trial of prohibition and narcotic cases as a means of relieving congested dockets.

PHILIPPINE SCOUTS RETURN TO DRILLS

Manila, July 8—(By the A. P.)—A large majority of the three hundred Philippine scouts, members of the fifty-seventh infantry at Fort McKinley, who Saturday refused to perform their duties, the result, according to officers, of Bolshevistic activities changed their minds today after the seriousness of their action had been explained to them, and returned to regular drills. Fewer than ten per cent of the disaffected soldiers persisted in their refusal to drill and disciplinary action will be taken against them immediately. Some unrest was manifested by a few privates of the twelfth medical regiment, who refused to perform military duty but they also changed their minds.

The ring leaders, arrested yesterday, in sworn statements declared it was the intention to form a secret soldiers' union among the Philippine scouts for the purpose of obtaining equalization of pay by a peaceable strike.

The Filipinos receive less pay and allowance than white soldiers.

LAMONT PLEADS GUILTY TO BUCKETSHOP CHARGE

Boston, July 8—James S. Lamont, president of G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., instructed his former plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty when brought into federal court today on an indictment charging conspiracy in connection with alleged bucketshop operations of the company now in bankruptcy. His case was continued for sentence.

Four of the ten defendants changed their pleas from not guilty to nolo contendere and their cases were either disposed of by fine or continued. Warren N. Withington of Withington & Company, brokers, who had a part in the Redmond transactions, was fined $1,000, as was Charles Pigginbrink, formerly connected with the Redmond firm.

MAY REVISE STATE'S GYPSY MOTH QUARANTINE

Hartford, Conn., July 8—Revision of the present state gypsy moth quarantine, effective since July 20, 1923, in order to make it conform with the federal quarantine effective July 1, this year, will be discussed at a meeting in the old Senate Chamber at the Capitol tomorrow, at 9 a. m. The quarantine affects nursery stock, forest products such as Christmas trees, Christmas greens, lumber, telephone poles, railroad ties, cord wood, etc. The Agricultural Experiment Station officers who will conduct the hearing say that persons interested should be present in person or represented by an attorney.

SUCCESSFUL FLIGHT FROM BERLIN TO ANGORA

Angora, Turkey, July 8—S. E. Zimmermann, veteran German airman, has made a successful flight here from Berlin, piloting the first German postal airplane Angora by way of Budapest and Constantinople. Zimmermann reached here Sunday afternoon after having set out from the German capital at 4:30 a. m. Saturday. His actual flying time of 27 hours set a new record, which is especially notable from the fact that the machine in which he made the flight was a hydro-airplane. The trip to Constantinople was completed in 11 hours.

WILLIMANTIC

The half hour allotted to speaking was taken up at the weekly session of the Willimantic Rotary club with a report of ex-President James P. Mitchell, who was a delegate to the recent convention of International Rotary in Montreal. The incidents of the trip to the metropolis of Canada were cleverly woven into the report of the activities of the convention which were given in a concise and interesting manner. "Jim" was roundly applauded at the conclusion of his remarks.

The meeting was in charge of President Harry W. Standish. Raymond A. Parker, acting as clerk pro tem in the absence of the secretary, Charles W. Hill. Harry N. Bullard, general manager of The Chronicle attended his first meeting as a member and was given a hearty greeting.

Newly chosen members displayed their ability at singing in creditable manner. The group included Albert B. Smith, Fred L. Avery, Dr. R. Bullock Jones, G. Everett Harrington and H. N. Bullard.

Frank H. Foss, chairman of the Rotary sub-committee, gave a final report of the Fourth of July celebration, with regard to the extent of the work done by the club toward making the day a success. Announcement was made that the big annual outing of the Rotary club of Eastern Connecticut, New London, Norwich, Putnam and Willimantic, will be held at Ashland Park, Jewett City, Thursday, July 31. Members with their wives or young women friends will attend. Richard E. Dodge, chairman of the local outing committee reported that his committee had met with the committees from the above mentioned clubs. The Norwich club plans to take full charge of the arrangements. With the outing in the hands of that organization the local members feel confident that there'll be something doing at Ashland Park, July 31. Professor Dodge recommended, on behalf of the boys' work committee, that the club sponsor a back-to-school movement for local youths.

At the opening of the meeting the members paused for one minute in silent sympathy and prayer for President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, whose son Calvin, Jr., died Monday night. President Standish was given power to appoint a committee of three to draft a suitable message of condolence to be despatched to the chief executive of the nation and the first lady of the land. Judge Frank H. Foss, Valentine D. Murphy and Acting Mayor George W. Hickey comprise the committee.

The Knicker Boys of the Country club came to the "fore" travelling the course of musical scales with a vocal selection. Gymnastically speaking, John Ahern, was a prominent figure. James F. Bath caused a glow of delights to flicker in every eye when he announced on behalf of the entertainment committee that the club would hold its next meeting at seven o'clock Tuesday evening at Hampton when the fellowship committee, Jerry E. Sullivan, chairman, will carry out a program.

James B. Fullerton introduced a resolution which was approved, that the club communicate with Superintendent Mitchell of the New Haven railroad to determine if some steps could be taken to eliminate excessive smoke caused by locomotives in this city. The happy thought as brought by "Jim." Fullerton is one which has been in the minds of a great many people, but which had not as yet been formulated in words. The directors held a meeting after adjournment at 2:40 o'clock. The directorate discussed plans to take charge of the Rotary club meeting in Hartford August 25.

The annual clerks' holiday, one always eagerly anticipated by clerks and merchants in the city is dated for next Thursday. The outlook points to a deserted Main street on that day as most of the clerks will head for the shore and lake resorts. A number of Elks will be away at the Boston convention. All stores will be closed for the entire day.

The Clerks' Association was organized some sixteen years ago and has since proven its worth to the members. Fred Noel is president. Among the ex-presidents are Carl R. Alford, Irvin M. Ford and George A. Bartlett.

Officials of the police court completed their second forenoon of heavy duty Tuesday after several cases most of them left-overs from week-end arrests, had been taken up and disposed of. Richard Herrick, a minor was charged with speeding on West Main street Monday evening. Motorcycle Officers Grant Bombria testified for the state. Herrick was placed in charge of Probation Officer S. Arnold Peckham, through whom he pleaded guilty. Judge Foss imposed a fine of $25 and costs, remitting $15 of the fine. The assessment of $15.15 was paid.

Philip Cherna of Astoria, L. I., was charged with reckless driving but failed to answer to the charge and his bond of $25 was called by the court.

Laurence Bergeron of Holyoke, Mass., charged with assault on one of the Cherna party following a narrow escape from an accident Sunday morning was granted a nolle of the case as the complainant was not present in court. The case of Mike Massois, charged with assault on Morris Spector was nolled as Spector withdrew the complaint.

Mrs. Sophie Smagasez was charged with assault on Katie Swol and Albert Swol was charged with assault on Frank Smagasez as the result of a brawl between the two families at the Brick Row Sunday. The females started trouble and some three hours later resumed the battle in which was how the men folks joined. It was alleged that Mrs. Smagasez pushed the Swol girl out of a swing and injured her and Smagasez accused Mr. Swol of striking him twice on the back. Some half dozen witnesses were heard. According to the view point taken by Judge Foss the case was only another of the usual neighborly rows and he fined each party guilty of breach of the peace. A fine of $5 was imposed in each case, the fine being remitted, with a warning that everything in the vicinity of the Brick Row should be peaceful in the future.

The case of Mike Kosek, charged with violation of the liquor law which was nolled in police court Monday morning due to the fact that the two witnesses for the state denied having purchased any liquor at the Kosek home, 15 Main street, was again taken up Tuesday morning and concluded with a conviction. Eddie Allbosek of 5 Ives street turned state's evidence and swore that he had bought a pint of liquor from Kosek July 2. Kosek was apparently upset upon hearing this testimony and said that Allbosek did not purchase liquor from him, but from another man on Bricktop road, a "big tall guy" who peddled alcohol about the city. Chief of Police Allan MacArthur told of the raid at the Kosek home July 7 when two cases of ales were found. On the table was a bottle with drainings of liquor and a glass. A man was sitting at the table when the officers walked in. Sentence McLean testified to stopping Kosek's car under sixteen years, apparently intoxicated in a lunch room. They had a pint of liquor which they said was procured for them by Allbosek. That same night Allbosek was aroused from his slumbers and he admitted having bought the liquor from Kosek. Kosek was found guilty and Judge Foss imposed a fine of $200 and costs, with a ten-day jail sentence to boot. Kosek took an appeal to the superior court. Bonds of $500 were furnished by Stanley Stygar.

Stokes Watson, colored Beau Brummel of local jitney drivers, is now displaying a black eye as evidence of a bout staged between himself and George Morin, formerly of Baltic, now one of the drivers of a taxi company here. It is understood that the fistic encounter which was held at the corner of Railroad and Main streets on Tuesday forenoon, was the outcome of an incident Monday afternoon. Morin claimed that Watson crowded his car to the wrong side of the street and he was telling Stokes Watson all about it, when he alleges Watson made a swipe at him with a haymaker. Morin ducked and when he rose he gave expression to his sentiments with a right and left. On the other hand, Watson claims that Morin called him a vile name and when he asked him to take it back he was assaulted.

Lieutenant Coe of the local Salvation Army was surprised in an agreeable manner Monday evening by friends who called on her in celebration of her birthday. A sum of money was presented Lieutenant Coe. The gathering was also in the nature of a farewell to Adjutant Whipple and Lieutenant Coe who made their local friends farewell Sunday and leave today (Wednesday) for Stamford to be assigned to the corps there. Officers who will be stationed here are Captain and Mrs. Perrett now located at Houlton, Me.

The work of painting the gymnasium at the Y. M. C. A. will be completed this week and next week the natatorium will be closed for renovations. The shower baths, however, will be in use.

Two automobiles collided at the head of Meadow street, on Walnut street, late Monday afternoon with the result that the lighter of the two vehicles was considerably damaged. Mrs. J. W. Whipple of Pomfret Center was driving her car on Walnut street and it was sideswiped by one of the Jones Auto company trucks, which came out of Meadow street. The truck had the right of way and in reporting to the police Mrs. Whipple accepted the blame and will pay for the damage to her car.

The officers of Natchaug lodge No. 22, Knights of Pythias were installed at Castle hall Monday night by District Deputy Allen G. Pratt of Hartford and staff. Some sixty members were present. The installation was followed by a musical program and a collation. The officers are: Chancellor commander, John A. Bowman; vice chancellor, Orlando P. Smith; prelate, Harold S. James; master of works, Charles A. Gates; master at arms, Samuel Anthony, inner guard, Ralph D. Gates; outer guard, Maurice King.

WESTERLY

Elizabeth Morgan, 82, widow of Francis Ford Haswell, a Westerly resident for the past 45 years died Saturday from valvular disease of the heart, after being in failing health for some weeks. Her funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at her home, 36 Oak street. Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ Episcopal church, officiated.

Burial was in River Bend cemetery. The bearers were William D. Sellers, Robert F. MacCormack, George H. Morgan, Alexander M. Blake, William J. Fleming and Albion T. Rossiter of Conimicut.

Elizabeth Morgan was born in Bristol, England, Aug. 26, 1841, the daughter of George and Elizabeth Morgan. She came to this country in 1859 and has been a resident of Westerly since that time. Dec. 15, 1860, she was united in marriage with Francis Ford Haswell, who died March 8, 1910.

She was one of the oldest members of Christ Episcopal church.

She is survived by a son, Francis G. Haswell of Westerly, a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Haswell, of Westerly, and a grandson, E. Haswell Duffum of Waterford, Conn.

At an executive session of Westerly Town council, during the regular July council meeting Monday morning the following vote was passed and the council clerk was instructed to forward a copy of the same to Governor William S. Flynn of Rhode Island:

"Voted: That the Town Council of Westerly request the Governor of Rhode Island to provide the protection necessary for the Senators of our towns and cities while carrying on the business of our state.

"Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts, in a statement on the strike of the Boston police said. "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, any time."

"Governor Flynn of Rhode Island, when the lives of our representatives in the Senate were being threatened by a mob which had been permitted to override the rights of these Senators, and caused the business of this body to come to an end, consented and advised the withdrawal of the police force in his command.

"Following the removal of these deputy sheriffs in the presence of our Governor, scenes were enacted in our Senate that were no less disgraceful and humiliating to the citizens of this state, than the period of mob rule in Boston upon the desertion of the police.

"As surely as the police of a city or the army of this country have no right to strike against the public safety, the Governor of Rhode Island has no right to strike against the safety of our representatives duly elected to represent us in the senate.

"By his oath of office he is sworn to be true and faithful unto this state and to support the constitution of this state. As commander-in-chief he has the full military and police powers at his call. It is his duty to use them to his utmost as did Governor Coolidge. Sobriety, fairness, impartiality and full liberty of speech must prevail in our legislature instead of the mob.

"We therefore, petition the governor of Rhode Island to clear the floor of the senate of everyone except those who have business there, and to invite the public to the visitors' gallery only, and only as many as there are seats provided for, and to immediately remove from the chamber any who may be unruly or disturbers of the decorum and dignity of the senate, by which we were accustomed at one time. Promising to do these things, we are confident that the senate may convene in peace and in a manner becoming the traditions of this state.

"We hope that we may have a reply from His Excellency, the Governor, to the effect that sufficient police protection will be returned to the senate so that the safety of our senators who represent us there may be guaranteed, and that the senate shall be kept clear of the mob and unruly for the rest of this session."

His American-born daughter, Rosa, seventeen, appeared at the hearing for Sabatino Lombardo, on Ellis Island, Monday, a New York paper stated.

The paper adds: The girl has been well educated in American schools, and will plead for her father, who failed to pass the literacy test when he returned here a week ago on the steamer Giulio Cesare.

In his home town of Westerly, R. I., Sabatino Lombardo is well thought of by his neighbors. He is known to everybody as a hard-working, earnest, law-abiding man.

Twenty years ago Lombardo settled in Westerly with the young wife he had brought from Palermo. He knuckled down to the hardest kind of work.

He now owns his own house and other real estate and has reared a family—six girls and one boy.

But Lombardo was held up by immigration inspectors upon his return here after a visit in Europe because he could not read the forty words.

His daughter, Rosa, yesterday said: "Years ago my father knew that if he remained in Italy his children might be denied an education, just as he had been. That's exactly what President Wilson said when he vetoed this literacy test of immigrants—that many of the best immigrants would come here for the very purpose of giving their children educational advantages.

"Here in America father has worked among the builders. Not a public building in our community but he can point to it with pride and say he helped to put that up.

"He can't read, himself, but he is building school houses!

"When he first came here they didn't ask him if he could read. No, they needed his labor.

"Two years ago he was sent to Europe for his health. Now he is told he must stay out of his own home because he can't read forty words."

Emil A. Mallette of West Grove, Pa., was a holiday visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Francis of the West Side, spending the week end in Boston. Returning to Westerly Monday, leaving that evening for his home in West Grove, Pa.

Judge George W. Greene has appointed Attorney John F. Gallagher reciever of Wilbert A. Clarke & Co. of Chester avenue, Westerly. The receivership proceedings follow the suit of Henry Pendlebury vs Wilbert A. Clark & Company, a case in equity.

Mrs. Laura Hepworth of Hope Valley has petitioned for the removal of her son, Lawrence, as administrator of the estate of James Hepworth. The hearing will come up in Hopkinton on the first Monday in August.

Miss Jane Glading of Woolaston, Mass., is the guest for a week of Pawcatuck relatives.

Chester Miner of North Stonington reports the capture of a gray fox in fair condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Smithson have returned to their home on the West Side after a Fourth of July visit with friends in Providence.

PLEASANT VIEW BEACH FIRE DISTRICT MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

Westerly, July 8.—The annual meeting of Pleasant View beach fire district was held Tuesday evening at 8:30. The meeting was called to order by President Frank Sullivan.

H. A. Dunning acted as clerk in the absence of Herbert P. Clark.

Robert B. Meikle, Mrs. F. E. Fowler, G. B. Utter were made a nominating committee. While this committee was in conference Moderator Sullivan discussed some of the matters presented to the annual meeting held July 10, 1923. The report of the nominating committee was read by Mr. Meikle, it being the list of officers of 1923 and they were elected by the clerk casting one ballot, as follows: Moderator, Frank A. Sullivan; clerk, Herbert P. Clark; treasurer, Albert H. Spicer, Jr.; collector, Merton L. Stott; assessors of taxes, Albert F. Clark, William F. Saunders, James Collins; fire protection committee, Frank A. Sullivan, James Collins, C. B. Bliven, Wm. F. Saunders, A. H. Spicer, Jr., and E. H. Davis; police protection, Howard C. Babcock, R. B. Meikle, Herbert P. Clark; sanitation, S. H. Davis, Lewis Stanton, and Ralph Briggs; public improvement, Frank A. Sullivan, A. H. Spicer, Jr., R. B. Meikle, Otis Chapman, H. A. Dunning and Clifford W. Campbell; chief engineer, Charles M. Lamb; authority was given the chief to name his assistant and company.

Clifford W. Campbell was added to the improvement committee. Dr. A. H. Spicer, Jr., declined reelection for himself, and Clerk Clark, but the objections were overruled and the list remains unchanged.

Westerly Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Jr., presented an ordinance covering the naming of streets and houses at Pleasant View and it was adopted so that the improvement committee is now given the necessary power. Superintendent of Water Works Thomas McKenzie is preparing a map of the district in which a system of numbering the lots is provided.

Treasurer Spicer's report, which showed receipts for the year $10,858.06 and expenditures $9,488.70, leaving a balance of $899.29, was approved.

Fire Chief Charles M. Lamb made a verbal report, stating that but one beach fire had occurred, when a woman burning caterpillar nests had set fire to the grass and her own house as well. That fire was put out under his direction. Apparatus was reported in good condition. Chief Lamb was voted a committee continued on the procuring of a lot and building for housing the apparatus which is now stored on land of George A. Philip. He was also given authority to purchase necessary supplies. It was voted that bills O. K.'d by the moderator and clerk be paid.

The report of Moderator Sullivan for the committee on sidewalks showed that a total of 9,562 1-10 or nearly two miles of cement sidewalk had been laid, costing about $12,000 and previous walks laid amounted to $1600, or a total of $13,600. Contractor Nardone's bills were $7,498.78 and Chapuccio's completed last week, $3,615.17. Half the cost of the walks is to be paid by property owners, bills to be sent within 30 days, and the other half by the district. To clear up the district's indebtedness for sidewalks, $700 will have to be paid annually for seven years.

Mrs. Dunn spoke of the condition of the highway at the west end of the resort and the danger of accidents if signs were not put into position showing that Watch Hill could be reached by that highway and little room was given for turning around. Highway Superintendent Leon stated that $5,000 had been apportioned to the beach highway from the road commission fund and of this amount $4300 had gone into work at the east end of the resort where old car tracks had been removed. Difficulty was experienced in laying sidewalks at the upper end of Crandall avenue as this was private property belonging to Mr. Kenyon.

A tax levy of 70 cents on each $100 valuation was voted. The assessment date is March 1, 1925, at 4 p. m., to be collected before April 1 with rebate of 5 per cent. if paid before and 12 per cent. interest if paid thereafter. Clerk Clark was made a committee to contract for garbage removal for another year. Edwin Hawke, a committee for two years, was given a vote of thanks.

Westerly Fire Chief Eugene Egger addressed the meeting and emphasized the necessity of more fire protection and less improvement work. He said the Westerly department could only be called to Pleasant View by order of Pleasant View Chief Lamb. He spoke of the brush fire and of the assistance rendered by the Westerly department last spring, when the flames were spreading toward the resort. Especially did he emphasize the growing need of a town system of fire protection.

C. B. Bliven was given a vote of thanks for the election of a stone dock in the Pond on which to locate a fire pumpre, also for the use of his hotel for meeting purposes.

Howard Thorp spoke of the growing need of a public comfort station; he thought this should be provided for when the district procured a fire house.

Chairman Sullivan spoke of the undesirability of gambling establishments at the beach and stated that framed copies of the new building ordinances would be found at the Pleasant View post office.

Following the adjournment of the meeting President Samuel H. Davis called a meeting of the Pleasant View Improvement Society members to determine a date for a future meeting, at which they might legally turn over their funds to the Pleasant View Fire district.

HOLYOKE PLANT ON FOUR DAY SCHEDULE

Holyoke, Mass., July 8—The plant of the Farr Alpaca Company, employing 3600 resumed operations today on a four-day schedule, after a shut down of some length. HOW TO GET THIN

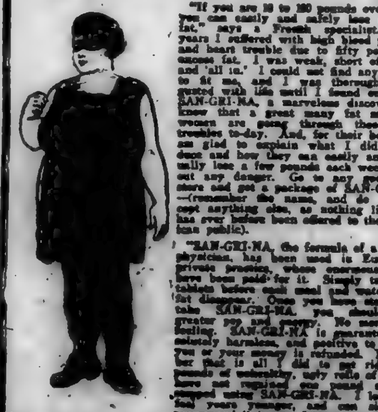
French Specialist Tells How to Lose Excess Fat Without Exercises, Habit Forming Drugs or Worthless Creams.



"If you are 10 to 100 pounds overweight you can easily and safely lose all that fat," says a French specialist. "For years I suffered with high blood pressure and heart trouble due to fifty pounds of excess fat. I was weak, short of breath and all in. I could not find any clothes to fit me, and was thoroughly disgusted with life until I found out about SAN-GRI-NA, a marvelous discovery. I knew that a great many fat men and women are going through these same troubles to-day. And, for their benefit, I am glad to explain what I did to reduce and how they can easily and gradually lose a few pounds each week without any danger. Go to any good drug store and get a package of SAN-GRI-NA—(remember the name, and do not accept anything else, as nothing like this has ever before been offered to the American public).

"SAN-GRI-NA, the formula of a French physician, has been used in Europe in private practice, where enormous prices have been paid for it. Simply take two tablets before each meal until you reach your normal weight. No more overeating. SAN-GRI-NA is guaranteed absolutely harmless, and positive to relieve you or your money is refunded. Remember, all you have to lose is fat, and get rid of pounds of unhealthy, ugly rolls of fat. Your face and neck will lose their double chin, your body will assume graceful lines, and you will look and feel years younger, and can honestly pronounce it to be the best work of woman."

SAN-GRI-NO is now sold at Lee & Osgood, McLaughlin's, or Bray's Drug Stores.

PALACE THEATRE

Last times today, Harrison Ford, Clara Bow and an all star cast in Maytime the six years stage success now a great motion picture. Short subjects, Stan Laural comedy Postage Due, latest Pathe News and Palace supreme orchestra.

Special Thursday, Friday and Saturday, superb double feature program, feature A Poisoned Paradise. The forbidden story of Paris and Monte Carlo; the secret of knowing how to win; to win at love, at the gambling table or in business, to win; that's everybodys ambition and here's a picture that tells how. A fascinating story of the hectic life of Paris and Monte Carlo, with a preferred cast including Kenneth Harlan, Raymond Griffith, Clara Bow and Carmel Myers.

Feature B The Tie That Binds, an amazing mystery drama that will surprise and delight you. New York's shadiest night life, as it is acted nightly in the glittering cabarets of Broadway, is captured in The Tie That Binds. While filming it, the producers obtained the consent of a prominent cabaret proprietor to use the cabarets for the netcessary scenes, with the camermen hidden behind an alcove. The cabaret episodes bristle with the excitement and glitter to be found only by those who frequent these haunts of pleasure.

The cast includes Barbara Bedford, Walter Miller, Raymond Hatton, William P. Carleton, Robert Edeson, Julia Swayne Gordon, Marion Swayne and Effie Shannon.

Added attraction new episode of the Telephone Girl featuring Alberta Vaughn and an all star cast. No advance in prices.

BROADWAY THEATRE

We would claim Icebound, shown at the Broadway theatre Sunday as William de Mille's very best.

It's all a good picture should be. The events take place in New England, and the settings are authentic.

After seeing the picture, one is willing to admit that Lois Wilson is quite the type for the role of Jane Crosby, and we couldn't imagine anyone but Richard Dix as Ben Jordan.

And Vera Reynolds as the flapper cousin.

And Edna May Oliver as Hannah, the role she created in the Pulitzer prize play.

It's a Paramount.

And you'll like it!

In addition to this fine feature Jack Dempsey appeared in the Fight and Win pictures which scored a knockout with its action, boxing and comedy situations. A Kinograms made up the short subjects.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday will again see the popular B. F. Keith vaudeville at this theatre.

MYSTIC

By the death of George Wesley Kelgwin, 81, Monday at his home on Holey street, Mystic has lost one of the few remaining Civil war veterans. Mr. Kelgwin was born February 18, 1843, in Griswold, Conn., the son of Ezra and Catherine Howe Kelgwin. He enlisted from Griswold August 4, 1862, and was mustered out June 27, 1865. He served in Company E, 18th Regiment, Connecticut Infantry, and during his service was captured and was in Libby prison for a time. Mr. Kelgwin was actively identified with Williams Post, No. 55, G. A. R., being a past commander, and was adjutant at the time of his death. He always took an active part in the Memorial Day exercises. Although a blacksmith by trade, in later years Mr. Kelgwin had served as harbor master here and at one time had charge of the old drawbridge across the Mystic river, before it was replaced by the new one, two years ago. Mr. Kelgwin was an ardent Methodist and was received into the local church by transfer from Griswold in 1873 and in 1880 was elected a steward of the church, an office which he has held since that time, and he was also chairman of the trustees. Fraternally he was a member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. He was known as a man of uprightness and integrity in the community, faithful to the call of his country and in the performance of his duty to his church and to his family, a good soldier in the battle of life. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Thomas W. Ryley, of New Haven, and a son, Willard W. Kelgwin of this place. He leaves a number of grand children.

Dodge Brothers Policy Effects Substantial Saving for Users

It is quite evident from the comments of buyers, according to R. B. Gordon, manager of the Willimantic and local Dodge Brothers Dealers, that the public appreciates the significance of Dodge Brothers policy of making constant improvements in their motor cars instead of changing models every year.

Magazines, newspapers and bulletin boards everywhere are reminding the people this month that this policy continues to prevail and that they may buy Dodge Brothers cars without fear of seeing a new and entirely different model put on the market soon after they take possession of the present type car.

"Coming just at this time," said Mr. Jordan, "when many manufacturers are preparing to issue new models in keeping with their annual custom, this advertisement is having a striking effect. It serves as a wholesale reassurance to prospective buyers. They dislike the idea of buying a car today and finding a month or so later that it is an obsolete model. And it is only natural that they should. The depreciation loss is out of proportion for a few months' use. Moreover, most people like to be up-to-date in their motor equipment and if they wish to follow their desires in this respect they must accept this sharp depreciation loss.

"Dodge Brothers Motor Car owners who buy new cars every year—and there are many of them—have a big advantage here. A one-year-old Dodge Brothers car is modern in appearance and mechanical design. That fact is conceded by everyone. Equally important to its resale value, however, is the fact that it is substantially the same car that Dodge Brothers will manufacture a year later. In other words, there is no danger that this one-year-old car will suffer an undue depreciation loss simply because an entirely different model is about to make its appearance. We charge off only for the normal rate of depreciation for one year. And the used car buyer in turn appreciates the fact that the price represents full value and that he can buy the car with full assurance of many years of satisfactory service.

"Another factor enters into this policy which is also of considerable importance to buyers. A change in models involves a complete change of dies and production schedules. It upsets a factory completely and often means a virtual stoppage of production. This naturally means a loss to the manufacturer and his only recourse is to get it back in the price of his product. The saving effected by Dodge Brothers, through their policy of constant gradual refinement instead of radical changes of models, is faithfully returned to the buyer in the form of surplus value. Every dollar saved, of course, enables the factory to give that much more for the money.

"The practice of bringing out new models every year is also responsible for a slow-up of sales during the summer months. People hold off, waiting to see what the new models are like. The fact that Dodge Brothers sales are continuing at the normal volume is another indication of the confidence engendered by the practice of not issuing annual models. Many buyers have said to us 'Dodge Brothers cars couldn't be finer than they are today, either in appearance or riding comfort. I am not afraid of a change. There is certainly no occasion for it.'

"Also although most owners do not realize it, the cost of replacement parts is greatly affected by bringing out yearly models. One reason for the extremely low price for Dodge Brothers parts is the fact that parts stay standard for years."

BREED THEATRE

Some of the most thrilling scenes ever "shot" for any motion picture were made by Director Emmett Flynn during his two weeks in New York filming exteriors for Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model, which will be shown at the Breed theatre today for the last time.

Two real automobile smashups (without doubleds) an elevated train scene, and a fight on a fire escape between Lowe and Cody were some of the feature. All important phases of New York life—in Fifth avenue, in Broadway and in the tenement districts were photographed.

Mae Busch was injured when a taxicab in which she was driving with Raymond Griffith with Director Flynn and the cameramen taking the scene on a platform in front of the machine, bumped the rear of an auto. Her head was pushed and she hurt her knee so that she limped for a few weeks thereafter. In the fight between Cody and Lowe, the latter accidentally landed a terrific blow on Cody's nose, causing it to bleed profusely and to swell much above its normal size.

In the party were Flynn, his brother, Ray, his assistant; Claire Windsor, who plays Nellie; Mae Busch; Edmund Lowe who plays the Russian lead; Lillian Tashman, Low Cody, Raymond Griffith, Dorothy Cumming, Arthur Houseman, Will Walling and the musical force.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

When members of the Danielson Rod and Gun club get together tonight (Wednesday) there will be discussion that promises rough times for the crows that live in this territory. It has been proposed that four or five teams of club members be organized to hunt crows in furtherance of a nation-wide campaign to rid the nation of those marauders and other pests doing great injury to crops, to sing, insectiverous and game birds.

At tonight's meeting the club members likely will work out a program so that the crow and vermin hunting campaign will have an interesting objective. It has been pointed out that the crow is a menace to the farmer's crops. By helping the farmer to be rid of this pest, a good turn will be done him.

In addition, the state game laws permit the killing at any time of snapping turtles, great grey owl, snowy owl, weasel, hedgehog, starling, the sharp-shinned hawk, Cooper's hawk, kingfisher, woodchuck, hunting housecats, bobcat, red squirrel, water snake, crow, blackbird, goshawk, field rat and gopher.

All of these forms of life do damage of one kind or another. It is the crow, however, that the main drive will be made against and as the crows seem particularly numerous in all this section of the county, the hunters should have interesting times hunting them. Getting a shot at a crow is not the easiest thing in the world, so the hunters who make the high records in the contest that is to be orranged by the Rod and Gun club will have something to talk about. A point scoring system will be evolved under which the teams to be organized will compete for the honors that are to be won.

For their own convenience, it is suggested to shoppers that they do their buying during the forenoon on Thursday. The stores will be closed during the afternoon.

Four summer cottages are being erected at Alexander's lake, which already has a considerable colony of people on its shores for the hot weather period.

Apparently this is to be another summer without any band concerts on Davis park. It is pointed out that no funds are available for such concerts. From time to time there have been advocates of a municipal appropriation for such concerts during the summer period, but this has not found grea tfavor. So many drives for funds for various objects mark each year that a drive for funds for a series of concerts is also discounted as impractical. And there the matter stands. There is a fine band stand on the park, but it has been a long time since a concert was played there. And present appearances are that it will be still longer.

Thursday of next week will find the members of McGregor, Woman's Relief corps, at Alexander's lake forthe annual outing of the organization. The corps will have as guests member sof McGregor post, G. A. R., and member sof Colonel Edward Anderson camp, Sons of Veterans. Each year the outing of these patriotic organizations is a very happy event, and arrangements are now being made that insures this year's being as enjoyable as those that have preceded it.

PUTNAM

Dr. Millard Knowlton of the bureau of preventable diseases of the state board of health, was in the city recently in consultation with Peter A. Gardner, city health officer. There are several cases of smallpox in the neighboring town of Brooklyn and in the borough of Danielson just over the border in the town of Killingly. The cases are mostly in a mild form and confined to children. Dr. Knowlton is concerned in preventing the spread of the disease.

One of the warnings issued by Dr. Knowlton is, in the event of a person having what appears to be chickenpox, that a physician be called immediately so that the case may be carefully diagnosed. This is because chickenpox and small pox, in a mild form, are very similar in appearance. Vaccination is also urged as a preventative and, while not at the present time required by the health officials is strongly urged to be resorted to voluntarily by everybody.

According to the local health officer there are no cases of smallpox in Putnam at present. With the disease so near the borders of the city a close watch is being kept and any suspicious case will at once be reported.

Answers to the questionnaire sent out by the Putnam chamber of commerce are coming in. The desired answers are to the following question: "What are the three most important things that the chamber of commerce should work for during he coming year?"

While the answers received are not made public it is a safe guess that each answer will contain a suggestion that the chamber of commerce do all possible to locate industries in present empty factories and to better manufacuring conditions. Putnam was never so hard hit as now. The city depends upon its factories for prosperity. There are several factories in Putnam now empty. The largest of them all, the old Manhasset company's plant, is idle and partly stripped of machinery. Hardly a mill in the city is running at fifty per cent. capacity.

The factories are here; water power is abundant; the city affords excellent shipping facilities. The scene is all set for a whirr of industry that would affect all kinds of business. It is only a question of time and the more optimistic believe that it will soon be here, when Putnam will be more prosperous than ever before. If the chamber of commerce can do anything to hasten this coming business activity it will do the city and every inhabitant in it invaluable service.

The regular session of Putnam lodge of Elks was held Tuesday evening Exalted Ruler Archibald Macdonald, Jr., was absent as he is attending the session of the national convention in Boston this week. He left Putnam Monday afternoon and will remain until the convention closes. There was no initiation and the business of the meeting was soon transacted. The general topic of discussion was the trip to Boston by special train. Thursday. The books have closed for tickets and a large number of brothers will be aboard the special when it pulls out of Putnam at 8 o'clock standard time. During July and August the lodge hold but one session a month, the second Tuesday.

The body of Mrs. Nellie Anderson, 51, of Hartford, arrived in Putnam Monday afternoon and was taken to Woodstock for burial. Mrs. Anderson was a sister of the Bowne brothers West Woodstock, in which town she was born.

Felix Cabana is at his home in West Woodstock recovering from injuries received while riding home from Southbridge on a load of shingles. He was driving a two-horse team and the wagon was piled high with bunches of shingles. The load became loosened and a part of it slid to the ground carrying Mr. Cabana with it. He was taken back to Southbridge and a doctor examined him at the police dispensary. Finding no broken bones, although the wheels of the wagon passed over his body, he was taken home where he is under observation for possible internal injuries.

State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatric has arrived home from his summer cottage at Juniper Point, Me., where he went to spend the Fourth and weekend.

Arrived by parcel post on an afternoon train, Monday, a pasteboard box with a few small holes in it. The box came into the possession of George Pratt, who carries mail from the railroad station to the post office. The thermometer was within speaking distance of the 100 degree mark and when the mail carrier found there was life in that box he immediately felt that anything inside of it must be uncomfortable almost to suffocation. So the humanely inclined mail carrier undid the string that held box and cover together and there saw a half dozen little ducklings. For a few minutes Pratt left the cover off the box that the ducklings might get a breath of fresh air and then reluctantly replaced the cover. The box was consigned to a person on an R. F. D. route and would therefore of necessiyt have to stay in the postoffice all night to start on its final leg to its destination Tuesday morning. While calling the attention of a Bulletin reporter to the parcel post package Mr. Pratt's language denoted that he would have enjoyed placing the shipper of those ducklings inside a packing box with a few holes in it and allowing him to spend the night in Putnam's airless postoffice in company with the ducklings that he had shipped in such a manner in mid-summer heat. However by this time, if they survived, the ducks are probably swimming about some barnyard pond forgetful of their unpleasant journey into Windham county. Nevertheless, the method of shipment did not pass the humane board of censureship as personified by Putnam's mail carrier.

Joseph Beaudry, South Main street, Putnam, is going to buy the town of Dudley, Mass., a new fire hydrant. In fact Joe has already paid $65 for the hydrant. Joe's gift is not voluntary however, any more than the $50 he paid into the Dudley town treasury, Tuesday morning. Joe's trouble started when he took a few drinks and tried to drive his car through the town across the river from Webster. In the district court, Tuesday morning, he pleaded guilty to driving while under the influence of liquor. This was what brought forth the fine of a half a hundred and his promise to buy a new hydrant.

Joe's wild ride disturbed the slumbers of people in the vicinity and started a geyser from the town's water supply. Joe crashed into a hydrant at the corner of West and Oak streets and broke it short off, releasing the waters from Webster lake. Hecontinued his mad ride around the corner into Green street and brought up with front bumper embedded in a stately oak.

When the second crash came the four other occupants of the car decided that they had ridden far enough and scattered. Joe, however, stuck to the wheel and when an officer arrived was stepping on the starter in a vain effort to tunnel through the tree and attack further obstacles.

The whole village was in an uproar by this time. The hydrant was spouting hundreds of gallons of water over the roadway. More than 200 people rushed from their homes and when they saw the unfamiliar river Joe had produced looked about for an ark. Joe was the least concerned of all. He had, in his own opinion, a complete alibi when questioned by the officer.

"What made you hit that hydrant?" asked the officer.

"You didn't want me to hit the child in the road did you?" asked Joe.

"What made you crash into the tree then?" asked the policeman.

"You wouldn't have me run over the woman, would you?" asked Joe, who in the meantime had stopped his efforts to start the car.

Joe was taken away from the spot where before his wild ride there had been vacancy, even including the child and the woman Joe thought he saw, but where now there was an angry lot of half clad citizens, for it was nearly midnight (daylight saving time.)

A member of the water department was summoned and he soon stopped Joe's fountain. People attracted to the place made a search for others who were in the car, but without success. Joe was the only one of the quintet who had stuck to the ship, being the captain and pilot there was nothing else for him to do.

The car, an old Cadillac, stood up well under the impacts and did not appear to be seriously damaged. When the hydrant that Joe's money is to pay for, is installed there will be no dedication or public service of any kind and Joe will not be there. In all probability he will not drive his car for some time to come as doubtless the Connecticut motor vehicle department will hear of Joe's waking up a peaceful village in the Bay State town and causing a miniature flood.

JEWETT CITY

Philip McCrea, employed by J. Frank Gardiner in Griswold, was found by Frank Eccleston Monday morning back of his barn, with a serious cut on his head and in an unconscious condition. He was taken to Dr. Hoover's office in Voluntown, and after the wound was dressed, the constables who had been notified, allowed Ernest Perkins to take the man to Mr. Gardiner's home. On the way he insisted that he was going to jump out of the automobile, until Mr. Perkins was obliged to stop and let him get out. He disappeared, and search was made for him until Tuesday afternoon, when the state police found him in the woods. Dr. Hoover re-dressed the wound, and expressed the opinion that it was caused by a blow and not by a fall. McCrea claimed he did not know how it happened. The case is under investigation.

Mrs. George H. Prior sent a telegram to President Coolidge Tuesday morning, when she learned of the death of his son. JEWETT CITY MEETING SCORES WATER RATES

(Special to The Bulletin)

Jewett City, July 8.—A mass meeting of the freemen of the borough of Jewett City duly warned by Warden Matthew J. Geary, was held in the town hall Tuesday evening. The meeting was called to take action on the matter of the advance in water rates which the Jewett City Water company proposes put into operation. By unanimous vote Warden Geary was chosen chairman. A motion was carried as presented by Burgess John McDermott that Judge John T. Barry be appointed chairman of a committee the members to be chosen by himself, to investigate as far as possible, the reason, if any, for the advance in rates and report at a meeting to be held in three weeks. There were close to 200 present and the liveliest interest was manifested from the start. The sense of the meeting was all one way—with arguments during the remarks to show that the water company was attempting to enforce unreasonable rules and regulations and to put over an exhorbitant water rate. It was believed that if the receipts were adequate two years ago they are at the present time. Remarks from the floor were made by John T. Barry, J. W. Payne, A. C. Burdick who related his experience with the water company, F. Condie, William McNicol, L. M. Carpenter and John F. Hennon.

Ernest L. French explained the condition of the water service on Taylor hill.

STATE'S ATTORNEY BROWN.

New London county will learn with much satisfaction of the appointment by the judges of the state of Arthur M. Brown of Griswold and Norwich as state's attorney for this county. And it is not with surprise that such an appointment has been made. Mr. Brown is well equipped in every way to take up the duties which were recently laid down by the late Hadlai A. Hull. His standing before the bar of New London county is the highest, his ability as a lawyer places him among the foremost in the county and state, there is unbounded confidence in his sense of justice and full reliance will be reposed in his administration of the law.

It is an interesting fact that Mr. Brown received his early training in the office of Solomon Lucas, who was for a long period of years state's attorney preceding Major Hull. There he got a close insight into the duties of the office and received the benefit of the guidance of such a rare prosecutor as Mr. Lucas. Good use has been made of those years as a student, a fact which has not been lost sight of by the judges of the superior and supreme courts.

The selection of Mr. Brown brings the office of state's attorney back to Norwich once more, but it is an appointment that was made upon merit, for it is no secret that Mr. Brown might have received an appointment to the superior court bench some time ago had he been desirous of giving up his private practice and don judicial robes.

To have had him a judge would have been to the credit of the state, but New London county has reason to feel pleased that he has been picked for quite as responsible a post as state's attorney. Possessed of the proper legal training, a man of excellent character and high ideals, the decision of the judges is in keeping with the requirements of the office. There is every reson for believing that he will fill it with credit to the state, the people of New London county and to himself.

REDUCED LYNCHINGS.

Major R. R. Moton, principal of Tuskegee institute, presents the interesting report that there have been but five lynchings in this country during the first six months of this year. This is an unusual record and one of which the country may well be proud. There would be even greater gratification if it could be regarded as a permanent condition.

Lynchings are acute manifestations of disrespect for law. They are limited for the most part to southern states, and not all of those are flagrant offenders, but whenever there is a sufficient change of sentiment to lower the mob murders to such a small number it is not too much to hope that it may be a sign of changed conditions.

Repeatedly has it been stated that the lynchings do not represent the better sentiment of the states in which they occur. Whether they do, or not, there has been the inglorious records of the past to show that the better sentiment has had little influence in bringing about an improvement. Possibly the leaven has begun to work. It may be that public sentiment has risen to the point where it realizes that lynchings do not correct the conditions that prompt them and that new methods need to be employed. There's a chance that now a order has received a large number of converts and their demands are being complied with.

Major Moton looks upon the few lynchings as "an encouraging sign of progress toward the elimination of the evil," and it is to be sincerely hoped that he is right. When he regards it as a "result of the spread and influence of interracial cooperation" it is a natural judgment. Whether there is permanency to it will develop in succeeding months. Like the fire records, the lynchings of the country during one period are likely to have little relation to those of another. Big slumps may be followed by large increases. It is the long test that counts but the endeavor should be to keep such lawlessness at the minimum and the country will not be satisfied until lynchings are a thing of the past instead of a fortnightly occurrence.

MEXICO'S ELECTION.

Election results in Mexico are not available the next morning. Sunday was the day the voters of that country went to the polls but it may be several days yet before the outcome is made known.

Mexico's election appears to have been held without bloodshed, but it was in anticipation of it, and in opposition to the plans that the revolution by De la Huerta which proved a failure was instituted. It has been known that President Obregon was favorable to General Calles, who has been a leading member of the Obregon cabinet. He even openly espoused his cause as against De la Huerta, but when it was seen that the latter was out of the running and crushed, General Flores, governor of Sinaloa, entered the field.

Mexican presidents have usually been those who could fight the best. The endorsement of General Calles by Obregon, in view of the recognition of the latter's government by this country, might be sufficient to regard him as the proper one to administer the affairs of the republic to the south. There are, however, stories which indicate that General Calles is the possessor of quite radical ideas; and it is even claimed that he has tendencies to bolshevism. That put him in marked contrast with the claims put forward for General Flores of whom the people of Sinaloa are very enthusiastic and claim that under his guidance they are enjoying "absolute freedom, welfare and happiness, which we wish may extend to all Mexico."

The impression is gained that Calles will have a walk away. Whether he is of the hue that he has been claimed may be put to a test. It will be unfortunate if one of such tendencies should be placed at the head of the Mexican government, for while it may anticipate its usual amount of trouble and uncertainty the leadership under guidance from Moscow would certainly mean the continuance of that revolutionary spirit from which Mexico needs to get away that peace, prosperity and development may progress.

CALVIN COOLIDGE JR.

From the many manifestations of sympathy which have poured into Washington, President and Mrs. Coolidge have been made keenly aware of the feelings of the country over the death of their younger son.

The country has watched with deep interest the happy family in the white house, the devotion to the boys and the same modesty and unostentation relative to them and their affairs that has characterized the president. It was much concerned over his illness and it mourns with the president and his wife in appreciation of what this breaking of the family circle means. There were great hopes placed in this namesake, in whom had been developed those characteristic Coolidge traits which marked him a wholesome American boy of much promise, a chip of the old block. This distressing loss goes home to the households of the nations. Its meaning is fully interpreted.

Not for three score years has a president been called upon to part with a son under such conditions. When Lincoln was president his 12-year-old son "Tad," and his boon companion, was snatched away by death. Such blows fall heavily no matter where they strike. Children in the white house are always the object of national interest. That interest has been constant during the short and fatal illness and the expressions of condolence are heartfelt and real.

THE LAUREL HILL ROAD.

The two claims which have been presented to the city for damages to automobiles because of the wretched condition of the Laurel Hill road within the city line can cause no surprise to those who are familiar with conditions there. The wonder is that there haven't been more claims made for damages to vehicles or that accidents have not resulted therefrom.

The condition is not one of sudden development. The stretch of road has been bad and growing worse for months until it is now a disgrace to any community to maintain such an entrance to the city.

The worst of the situation is that no attention has been paid to it though temporary relief at least might be obtained by simply filling in the holes. It is too much to hope that the appropriation for the extension of the cement road on Laurel Hill avenue will permit of the road being improved to the town line and yet all the traffic entering the city from the south on the east side of the river must pass over this abominable piece of road for which the city must bear the discredit.

Why the bad holes and raveling macadam should not have received attention long ago is hard to answer. It would have been an easy matter and involved slight expense to have patched up the road in a way that would have prevented accidents and injury to vehicles using it. That should in fact have been done for the benefit of the traffic over the military highway. It is of course not too late now for something to be done to relieve the situation. Is it going to be necessary to have more claims presented to the city before giving it attention? It would seem preferable to keep the road in repair to paying claims for damages resulting from lack of attention.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is taking a lot of grooming to get the dark horses into the race.

These are the days when the man with the hoe is finding plenty to do.

The kind of weather that will hurry along the corn crop doesn't put ice on the ponds.

The man on the corner says: A little more July and it will swamp the convention talk.

The season at Niantic never gets into full swing until the state troops open their annual camp there.

Road building offers no attractions to the motorists but it is necessary to take the bitter with the sweet.

Whatever the result is there's some satisfaction that Mexico has had an election unaccompanied by bloodshed.

Does the New York convention intend William J. Bryan shall become a great, great grandfather before it adjourns?

While New York may feel it is getting good advertising out of the convention, there are those who figure otherwise.

Bounding the head of the gavel on the heads of delegates is only a minor bit of excitement in the democratic convention.

Someone suggests it would be bad if the La Follette radicals should get into a deadlock. No such thing is possible when there's a one-man control.

William Jennings Bryan says he would not accept a presidential nomination at New York. Just the same the convention isn't disposed to risk a change of mind.

Perhaps it would be a good idea for those who cannot swim, or who want to do stunts, to carry a clipping of a drowning accident in a pocket and read it over a couple of times before making any rash moves.

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

It was a surprise to have David Robinson telephone me one day last week, for I have not seen or heard from him for a long time. Of course I greeted him as pleasantly as I would have done had he been more attentive lately. I never wish to have any one fancy for a minute that I feel the least bit slighted.

"Lucile, will you go to the Wayfarers' spring frolic with me?" he asked.

"Yes, indeed, I shall love to!" I answered enthusiastically although I had thought of course that I should go with Dexter Haines.

But as he was slow about asking me I could only accept David's invitation graciously. It was annoying though, because I felt sure that if I declined his invitation he would ask Ursula Moore.

As luck would have it, that very afternoon Dexter called me up about the Wayfarers' spring frolic. "You know," he said. "I'm hoping to have the pleasure of your society for that evening."

"Oh," I exclaimed laughing, "what a dilliar a dollar 10 o'clock scholar you are, Mr. Haines."

"Am I too late, Lucile?"

"That's the sad truth, Dex," I replied. "I'm sorry, but I fear that at this eleventh hour it will be hard to find a girl who isn't already dated for that event—that is, in our crowd of course."

"Well, I'm mighty sorry, too, and I guess that means that I will be among the missing at the frolic. You see I have been out of town, and I had no idea that there would be a stampede."

"You must come anyway, even if you don't have a girl, Dexter. The affair won't be complete without you. Now promise you'll come."

"You flatter me, Lucile, but possibly I'll drop in," he replied, and as it turned out he was the first person I saw at the frolic.

"I'm wandering around like a lost soul," he said laughing.

"Never mind," I returned, "I'm going to dance with you a lot," and I did, notwithstanding that it obviously annoyed David some. But I did not feel that he had any mortgage on my time, even if he were my escort. I thought the lesson would be wholesome for him, so I danced often with George Requirer, John Fenwyck and most of all with Dexter.

"Did you come in Dulcibel?" I asked as Dex and I were cooling off on the porch between dances.

"Yes, I drove out alone."

"Do let's take a little whirl through the park. You know I adore Dulcibel. She is the most luxurious car I've ever ridden in, really. No one will miss us, if we steal away for a few minutes."

"Nobody will miss me, certainly, but do you think it's all right for you to go?"

"Of course, you old stickler for conventionally," I said laughing, and in a moment we were driving away through the lovely night. It was so restful and delightful that we drove a little longer than we meant to, and when we returned we found the club house dark, and just one man patrolling the porch—David Robinson.

"Oh, David," I exclaimed, "what a shame. You see I——"

"Don't mention it, Lucile," he interrupted me. "It doesn't matter in the least. I've been enjoying a quiet smoke and reflection."

"Sorry, old man," said Dexter. "It was all my fault."

"Not at all, not at all. It's all right, Dex," answered David, gentally, but he treated me with cold politeness on the way home.

I felt that it was unfair of him to be angry with me when he would not listen to my explanations.

When I met Ursula Moore at the Dix Agnes meeting today she asked me how I happened to give Dexter Haines the erroneous impression that she had been invited to the Wayfarers' spring frolic.

"Oh my dear, did Dex think that from what I said? I merely told him that about all the girls in our crowd had accepted early invitations."

"How thoughtful of you," remarked Ursula in what I call a snappy tone.—Chicago News.

Armour's Girl Did Not Wait for Him.

Philip D. Armour walked across the United States to seek his fortune, he struggled and saved, then went back to marry the girl and settle down on a farm—but the girl had not waited.

The boy's father was a farmer near little Stockbridge, N. Y. He attended school nearby and helped in the fields. At 19 he tired of the farm, and with young friends followed the gold hunters to California. One companion died and two turned back, but in six months Armour reached the Pacific Coast.

Digging ditches and building sluices was more certain than prospecting and young Phil received $5 a day and $10 a night for the work. He worked early and late, became a contractor, and saved.

At the end of five years he had accumulated several thousand dollars, enough to buy a good farm back home, get married and settle down. When he reached Stockbridge he found that the girl had married.

He went to Milwaukee and at 26 became a partner in Miles & Armour, produce and commission merchants. The firm prospered and three years later, Armour joined with John Plankinton in Plankinton and Armour, pork packers. They went to work at dawn and quit after dark—and the business prospered. Houses were opened in New York and Chicago, and the Chicago house, under the name of Armour & Company commenced packing hogs, then sheep and cattle.

Armour moved to Chicago and took charge of the plant. The refrigerator car was perfected and he saw the chance to provide the east with fresh beef. The railroads refused to build the cars so he did, and business grew even faster. He added the grain business, the panic of 1893 came, rivals tried to corner the market by loading all available elevators with wheat, he built a three-million-bushel elevator in 43 days, and broke the corner.

The packing business became international, by-products were marketed and Armour became interested in many other concerns. He founded Armour Institute of Technology, in Chicago, donated over $5,000,000 to charity and education and at the time of his death was one of America's richest men.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Justice Feetham, who has been selected to head the commission to settle the troublesome boundary dispute between Ulster and the Irish Free State, is one of the band of Englishmen who have helped to establish responsible government at first in South Africa and afterwards in less complete form in India. He is the son of a clergyman of the Church of England and received his education at Oxford. Going to the Transvaal in 1902, he became town clerk of Johannesburg and afterward practiced at the bar. His high standing as a lawyer was evinced by his appointment as legal adviser to three successive high commissioners of South Africa. On the establishment of responsible government in the Transvaal he became a member of the legislative council in that state. Later, after the creation of the Union of South Africa, he was elected to the assembly where he served until last year when he was appointed to the bench.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sunday Observance

Mr. Editor: May I crave your indulgence as I submit to you a few thoughts and an inquiry regarding Sabbath observance?

What about our Christian Sabbath, generally known as the Lord's day, or Sunday to be observed on the first day of the week, but of late very much unobserved and disregarded by many?

Recently three men were arrested on a Sunday at North Adams, Mass., because they were painting a house on Sunday. A few Sundays ago the writer saw a father and son painting a garage while the church bells were ringing and were summoning the people to worship the God who said, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work. But the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord, thy God, in it thou shalt not do any work, thou nor thy son, nor thy daughtre, thy manservant nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates." People going to church saw this divine commandment violated and I took the liberty to speak to the father, hoping that in a friendly way I might reason with him to discontinue such work on a Sunday, but in reply he said, "If you will stop others from working on Sundays I will stop, too."

I learned today that another person than myself had also seen this man working and had sent in a complaint to the police department whereupon an officer came and severely reprimanded the man for his misconduct and the work ceased. I do not know who this complainant was but I have been thinking of the man's answer to the writer, "If you will stop others from working on Sundays I will stop, too," and in all fairness to him his reply was not far from the mark, for if one man is allowed to work on a Sunday why not another? But the fact is, no one is allowed to work on a Sunday except it be works of mercy or necessity which is also in accord with the teachings of the Bible. When the man spoke of others working on Sunday he particularly referred to the work now being done in the construction of our highways. Having made a little inquiry how the law reads I learn that building roads, plowing and planting gardens or painting, etc., etc., are not considered works of necessity to be performed on Sundays and ought to be done on week days. Livestock must be cared for on Sundays as well as on other days but cleaning a pig pen, whitewashing hen houses, painting or carpentering or any labor of that sort should not be done on Sundays; it is against the law of God and against the law of the state.

It is to man's advantage, materially and spiritually, that he rest one day in seven and an allwise and merciful God has so ordained, so that on that day man might devote himself to higher things. Wherever this is done, society as well as the individual has been the better for it. Bright thinking legislators consider it of advantage to the state and nation to have the Sabbath observed and the laws of God respected and hence laws are written upon our statute books forbidding all unnecessary labor on Sunday, but where this law is violated we find a tendency of disregarding other laws as well. Back of law violation is the spirit of anarchy which results in disintegration of our institutions and everything that we hold sacred and dear and then society and the individual is doomed.

There are overwhelming evidences that crime waves are sweeping over our land and if everyone can do as he pleases and show contempt for the laws of God and the state we may expect the utter collapse of our present civilization. History proves this and will repeat itself.

For the sake of our beautiful town and its reputation and for the sake of lasting peace and happiness of its every citizen let all of us respect and strictly adhere to the laws of God and the state. For it is not to the credit on the part of any of us to show contempt for the things which are holy; for the Sabbath day, or Sunday, is none other than a holy day unto the Lord.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

How the Beaver Works.

"You must be a pretty good carpenter to build so nice a house," said Uncle Lucky and his bunny nephew were making a call on this industrious little animal.

"That part would be easy if I didn't have to cut down the trees for my lumber," answered Busy Beaver.

"Gracious me! How do you do it?" asked the little bunny boy rabbit.

Pretty soon the tree began to sway.

"Where's your saw?"

"Right here," laughingly replied Busy Beaver, opening his mouth to show his great orange-colored cutting teeth. "Would you like me to show you what a good lumber man I am?"

"Well, I should say so," answered curious Uncle Lucky.

At once Busy Beaver sat down before a small tree, and bracing himself on the ground with his big flat tail, held the trunk with his forefeet and commenced to cut out a circle around it. My, how the chips flew! Pretty soon, the tree began to sway. But before it fell that wise little beaver was out of the way, let me tell you. And so were the little rabbits. Yes, indeedy. They didn't wait a minute after Busy Beaver sounded the danger signal by thumping the ground with his big broad tail.

"How are you going to drag that tree into the pond?" asked the bunny boy.

"I must first trim off the branches and cut the trunk into short logs," answered the lumberman beaver. When this was done he pushed and rolled them into the water. "Now, you see how I do it."

"But how did you build the dam?" asked Uncle Lucky.

"Oh, I piled up the brush in the shallowest part of the Bubbling Brook, weighing it down with stones and mud. By and by, the water grew deep, spreading back into a pond. Then I built my house, making the roof high above the water and the front door way down below where the ice never forms. Nearby, in the deep water I keep my pile of logs. During the winter, I pull them into my house, in the room upstairs, above the water line, and, eat off the bark. The bare sticks come in very handy to strengthen my dam."

"Whew," gasped Uncle Lucky, as the little beaver finished. "You're about the hardest worker, I know. Don't you ever have a vacation?"

"In the dear old summer time," answered Busy Beaver. "Then I play and feast on berries and mushrooms. Don't pity me. I love to play and I love to work, but duty, I never, never shirk, and before the weather begins to grow snappy, I plaster my house, contented and happy."

And in the next story, dear little boy, dear little girl, I'll tell you where the two bunnies went in the Luckymobile.

Changing the Location

Harry was tuning in the radio so one of the neighbors could listen.

"Well," said Harry, "they are playing 'Why Did I Kiss That Girl?' Let's find something better."

He turned the dials for a few minutes and a frown puckered his forehead.

"What's the matter?" asked the neighbor.

"Shucks," Harry answered. "Now they are playing 'Why Did I Kiss That Girl?' in another place."

STAYING HOME FROM WORK MEANS MONEY LOST

Many Women Know This by Experience

Let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Help You As It Helped These Women

Mrs. McDole's Experience

Ludington, Mich. — "I suffered every month and was very irregular, had headaches all the time, was thin and pale, with no appetite. I had taken all kinds of medicines, and every doctor told me I would have to face an operation before I would be well again. I was doing factory work, and I had to stay at home so much that I was getting discouraged. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did so with good results. I am now feeling fine. I have advised all my girl friends, who have such troubles as I had, to take your wonderful medicine."—Mrs. Teressa McDole, 426 S. Rath Ave., Ludington, Mich.

Greatly Relieved

Jersey City, N.J.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for cramps and fainting spells. I do office work, and have been in this condition four or five years, having to stay at home from work a day or two at a time, quite frequently. I have taken about ten bottles of it, and have been greatly relieved. I recommend it myself and you may print these facts with my full address."—Louise Schoenfelder, 112 Woodlawn Ave., Jersey City, N. J.

Los Angeles, California.—"I was in such a condition that I was scarcely able to walk, even to do my housework. I had no energy, was depressed and often wished to die. I am a chef, but was totally unable to do any cooking. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken it with success. After the fourth bottle I felt much better, and after the tenth never felt better in my life, as it resulted in a complete recovery. I certainly recommend it to all I hear complaining and you can use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. Mary Sullivan, 923 E. 46th Street, Los Angeles, California.

No matter what your work is, a great deal depends upon your health. It is discouraging to be obliged to stay at home frequently on account of sickness.

WORLD'S RECORD SET ON COLUMBUS TRACK

Columbus, O., July 8. (By the A. P.)—A world's record and a season's record were established here today on the Shepard and Swisher $5,000 stake for 2.12 trotters, one of the features of today's Grand Circuit card. By trotting the first heat of this event in 2.02 Edna Druten lowered by a quarter of a second the record for four-year-old trotting fillies. She did not win the event, however, as the strongly played Fayette National won the next two heats and the race in 2.03 1-4 and 2.05. The time for the three miles was fastest of the year on any track.

The other feature of the afternoon, the Champion Sweepstakes developed into a four-heat race before it was finally won by Theodore Guy, the third choice. The Farmer, the favorite, won the first heat, although he had worked little in a week. The second heat went to Ramona Direct and the next two to Theodore Guy.

The well liked Dilicisao was only nosed out by Woodrow L. in the first heat of the 2.13 trot, but finished sixth in the second heat and was drawn before the third one. Woodrow L. was never a contender after the first mile. Fair May winning the next two and the race.

The fourth race on the card, the 2.15 pace, resulted in an easy victory for the favored Bessie McKlyo. In the third heat Valley Day made a bid going to the half in 1.00 1-2 but could not stand the clip and Bessie McKlyo overhauled him in the stretch.

GOLDSTEIN TO DEFEND TITLE AGAINST FRENCH CHAMP

New York, July 8.—Abe Goldstein bantamweight champion, of the world, will defend his 118 pound crown in a 15 round match against Charley Ledoux, of France, former bantamweight champion of Europe, in the New York velodrome on Wednesday night, July 16, according to an announcement made today by Tex Rickard.

This match will mark Goldstein's first defense of the title he won from Joe Lynch. Ledoux held the bantamweight title of Europe until the international boxing federation took it from him for refusing to accept a challenge.

NEW METRO GOLF CHAMP TO BE CROWNED SOON

Roslyn, N. Y., July 8.—A new Metropolitan golf association champion is certain to be crowned this week as a field of 140 players, mostly professionals, tee off in the opening round of the Metropolitan open golf championship tomorrow. The name of Bob MacDonald, last year's winner, from Chicago, is among the missing as is Walter Hagen, winner of the British open title; Cyril Walker, who won the American open title at Oakland Hills, MacDonald Smith, Jim Barnes and Gene Sarazen, P. G. A., champion.

HUGHES AND MONTGOMERY TIED IN TRAPSHOOTING

Paris, July 8.—(By The A. P.)—At the conclusion of today's trapshooting in the Olympic competition at Issy-Les-Moulineaux Frank H. Hughes, of the United States team was tied for first honors in the individual event with Montgomery of Canada. Each had a score of 70.

Delasy, of Canada, had the second high score with 69 and individual competitors from Australia, Finland, England, Norway and Canada followed with scores of 67. Vance represented Canada with the 67 mark.

STING WINS FEATURE AT EMPIRE TRACK

Yonkers, N. Y., July 8—Sting, a 3 year old colt owned by James Butler, won the Empire City handicap at a mile and a quarter here today. Susini placed second and Mad Play third. The winner's share was $8,100.

Sting's time for the feature event on the opening day's card at the Empire City track was 2:03, a full second better than the track record established by Charentus in 1909. Sting won by a length and a half. Mad Play the Rancocas Stable entry, carrying top weight of 117, gave away 20 pounds to the winner.

Zivic Gets Decision.

New York, July 8.—Jack Zivic, Pittsburgh lightweight, was given a judges decision over Sid Barbarian, Detroit Armenian, in a 12-round match at the Nostrand A. C., in Brooklyn, tonight. The bout was one of a series of lightweight elimination contests fostered by the state athletic commission to determine the logical contenders to challenge for Benny Leonard's crown.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Michael J. Malone.

Following an illness of some duration the life of Mary Ann Hannan, beloved wife of Michael J. Malone, came to a close Monday night at 11.30 o'clock at her home at 230 Central avenue.

Mrs. Malone was born in Ireland, the daughter of John Hannan and Elizabeth Ryan Hannan, and came to this country when a young woman. For the past 57 years she had been a resident of Norwich. On August 14, 1874, she was united in marriage with Michael J. Malone in St. Mary's church, the service being conducted by Rev. P. M. Kennedy.

Besides her husband she is survived by the following children, John F., and William J. Malone, Mrs. John C. Fontaine, Mrs. John F. Williamson, Elizabeth A., Hanna M., Rose V., and Julia B. Malone; also one grandchild, Gertrude M. Fontaine.

Mrs. Malone was a loving and kind wife and mother, a devout Christian and found her chief joy in life in her home surrounded by her family. During her long illness she was most tenderly cared for by her daughters. Her many friends learned of her death with profound sorrow and expressions of sympathy were made by many.

Mrs. John C. Keeley.

The life of Jane T. Keeley, wife of John C. Keeley, came to a close Tuesday afternoon at her home on Division street extension following an illness of some time. She was born in Norwich the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Driscoll and most of her life had been spent in this city.

On August 25, 1895, in St. Patrick's church she was united in marriage with John C. Keeley by Rev. P. M. Kennedy. Besides her husband she is survived by the following children, John T., Thomas J., Jeremiah, James H., and Mrs. Joseph Troland, all of Norwich; a sister, Mrs. James H. Davis, of New York; a brother, Timothy Driscoll of British Columbia, and one granddaughter, Jeanette Troland.

News of her death came as a shock to her many friends and sympathy is expressed for members of the family left to mourn the loss of a loved one.

FUNERALS.

August Hahn.

Funeral services for August Hahn were held Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from his home at 12 Page street, relatives and friends attending from out of town. The floral tributes were many and most beautiful.

The service was conducted by Rev. Herman Hunzinger, pastor of the German Lutheran church. Members of Germania lodge, Sons of Hermann, attended the service in a body and also conducted the committal service at the grave in Maplewood cemetery. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Hunzinger. Members of the Sons of Hermann and friends were bearers.

Arrangements were by Church & Allen.

Mrs. George M. Kingsley.

Funeral services for Rose M. Saxton, widow of George M. Kingsley were held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the parlors of C. A. Gager, 70 Franklin street, relatives and friends attending from Hartford, Northfield, Mass., and other places. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

The service was conducted by Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the Norwich Town Congregational church, who also conducted the committal service at the grave in Yantic cemetery. The bearers were Charles Standish, Frank Robinson, Donald Saxton and George Avery.

WORKING ON PLANS FOR EAST SIDE SCHOOL

The July meeting of the town school board was held Tuesday evening in the superintendent's room at the court house with President Walter F. Lester presiding and the clerk, Judge T. J. Kelly, keeping the minutes. The business was mainly routine but two new teacher appointments were made, Miss Sarah Hyman and Miss Mildred Engler.

It was stated after the meeting that several architects are at work on plans for the new $100,000 school building on the East Side and that the plans are to be in not later than July 22nd. The board has taken up for discussion the question of what is to be done with the old buildings and whether they are to be disposed of through the school board or through the selectmen.

Preparing Soldier Bonus Blanks.

A number of ex-service men visited the American Legion bonus committee, in the legion rooms on Main street, Monday evening and were assisted in filling out their blanks for the bonus. The committee is meeting every Monday, Wednesday and Friday night from 7 until 9 o'clock to carry out this work. All ex-service men, regardless of whether or not they are legion members, may avail themselves of the opportunity for assistance in preparing application blanks.

Blessed is the silent man, for he is able to keep the lid on his ignorance.

G. & E. COMMISSIONERS HAVE NO RECOMMENDATION TO MAKE

Another conference meeting to consider the offer of the Eastern Connecticut Power company to sell the city electric power or to buy the municipal gas and electric plant was held Tuesday evening in the council chamber by the committee of the common council, the citizens' advisory committee, and representatives of the gas and electric commissioners and of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co.

Those present at the conference were Mayor Waters, Alderman Henry Gebrath, Edward Crooks, Councilman W. H. Aldrich and A. L. Lillibridge, Corporation Counsel W. H. Shields, Jr., President James L. Case of the G. & E. commission, General Manager C. W. Taggart, D. T. Shea, Miss Nancy Lucas, Mrs. James J. Casey and Mrs. W. S. Murray of the citizens' advisory committee, General Manager H. D. Larrabee and Treasurer Edward A. Harris of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co.

A large part of the time was occupied with presentation of a statement by the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., which was prepared in printed form and was read by General Manager H. D. Larrabee of the Power Co. It is printed on another page in this issue of The Bulletin. Attention was called to one change that should be made in it where the candle power of the city's street lighting was given at $137,600, a figure taken from the city department's report to public utilities commission. It was admitted that this figure was incorrect in the report.

Mayor Milo R. Waters presided at the conference, which adjourned to hold other meetings. The common council committee is to visit the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. plant next Saturday afternoon.

Much of the discussion of the conference was upon the amount of depreciation in relation to the proposal to purchase the city plant. This, it is understood, is a major point in dispute, and with this eliminated, the saving of $55,000 to the city is practically agreed upon.

At one point in the conference, President James L. Case of the gas and electric commission, in reply to a question from Mayor Waters, answered that the commission had no recommendation to make as to whether the proposals that have been made ought to be accepted or rejected.

General Manager Larrabee offered a statement of the tax situation, showing what would have been the effect in a reduction of the tax rate in 1922 and 1923, if the city had not owned the gas and electric plant, but if it had been put into the list at a valuation of $1,000,000 under private ownership.

The showing was as follows:

TOWN

	List of Oct. 1 1922	List of Oct. 1 1923
Grand List	$20,373,257.00	$21,432,014.00

Increase in grand list $1,000,000.

Four per cent. on $734,896.96 or $33,070.36 deductable from necessary tax revenue of the city upon sale of the G. and E. property.

On list of Oct. 1, 1922, the City Taxpayer paid 23 plus .25 or 48 mills. Putting G & E. property in the list he would have paid 21.92 plus 21.46 or 43.38. Tax reduction 4.62.

On list of Oct. 1, 1923, the city taxpayer paid 22 1-2 plus 22 3-4 or 45.25 mills. Putting G. & E. property in the list he would have paid 21.50 plus 19.52 or 41.02 mills. Tax reduction 4.23 mills.

The taxpayer who is assessed in the town only would have a reduction of 1.08 mills on the 1922 list, and 1.00 mills on the 1923 list.

BULLETS HIT MACHINE NAVY PRISONERS DROVE

A bullet-punctured automobile, that bears testimony to the shooting of a New London policeman, is in the hands of the Norwich police. This is the car in which the four men who escaped from the naval prison at Portsmouth, N. H., Sunday night, were captured at Groton Monday night after they had been chased across the highway bridge over the Thames by the New London officers who were on the watch for the men after receiving word from Capt. D. J. Twomey of the Norwich department that the four had robbed Hastedt's gasoline station at the drawbridge on the military highway.

The car has a hole plugged through the rear of the body and another through a mudguard in line with the tire at which the officer who arrested them was aiming.

The machine carried Massachusetts registration numbers but one of the quartette admitted to Capt. Twomey that it had Michigan markers when they stole it from the prison yard at Portsmouth, but they stopped in some Massachusetts town and stole the markers off a car there and shifted them onto the car they were making their flight in.

The revolver which one of the men had was of .38 calibre. He said it was found in the pocket of the car when they stole it.

Word was received here Tuesday night by way of the submarine base that two officers from Portsmouth would be here Wednesday to take the men back to the naval prison.

PLAYGROUNDS REGISTRATION DOUBLES LAST YEAR

The Norwich playgrounds opened with a registration of 830, which nearly doubled the opening day a year ago. The Lake street grounds had the largest figures on a registration of 181.

Supervisor Earl E. Brigham conveyed Mayor Waters around to the different grounds where the arrival of the mayor was greeted with a brief programme of patriotic songs and he spoke enthusiastically to the children. The Greeneville grounds were given the palm for the best appearance on the opening day, each child having been provided with an American flag by the instructors.

At the Elizabeth street grounds, Mrs. James Drew spoke to the children on behalf of the commission and at the Falls Mrs. Alex Pasnik was present for a large part of the session, assisting the teacher.

Chairman William Fitzgerald is at work on plans to provide sandboxes at all the grounds which he hopes to secure by the early part of next week.

Supervisor Brigham is to organize baseball leagues and volley ball leagues, with field hockey for the girls, track and field meets for the boys and girls, with cups for the league winners and a banner for the championship playground.

C. DAVID GEER WINS $500 YALE SCHOLARSHIP

New honors have been won by Charles David Geer, Jr., son of Mrs. Geer and the late C. D. Geer, of Poquetanuck, who has just finished his third year at Yale.

Young Geer has received notice that he has been awarded the James Raymond Goodrich scholarship of $500, as the letter reads, "for excellent scholarship and promise of leadership."

When the same ambitious student was graduated from Norwich Free Academy he won the New London County scholarship of $300 at Yale based on his entrance examinations. He was one of five at the last Yale commencement to be awarded final two-year honors for excellence in all studies of the electrical engineering course. As a further honor, he has been elected treasurer of the Yale branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

SCHOOL JANITOR RESENTS PLAYGROUNDS INTRUSION

The scheduled opening of the playgrounds at the Thamesville school Tuesday did not take place. The school janitor, who keeps the building and yard in spotless condition, resented the arrival of the teacher and the children and made his opposition so effective that the playground session had to be called off for the day.

Returning From Fishing Trip.

John B. Oat and George Dolbeare, who have been spending several days at Mr. Dolbeare's summer camp at Lake Mashapaug, are to return home this (Wednesday) evening. While at the lake several fine catches of bass have been made and fishing at the lake is reported as fine this summer.

ATTORNEY ARTHUR M. BROWN APPOINTED STATE ATTORNEY

Attorney Arthur M. Brown of Norwich and Jewett City has been appointed state attorney for this county to succeed the late Hadlai A. Hull. The announcement was made at Bridgeport Tuesday by Chief Justice George W. Wheeler of the supreme court of errors following a meeting of the supreme court justices and the superior court judges at New Haven Monday.

The new state attorney is one of the leading members of the New London county bar, highly respected as a lawyer of ability and skill and one who has won the perfect confidence of the public. His appointment meets with the favor of the entire county bar. He is a republican politically, and has always been active in the interests of his party. In 1901 one year after being admitted to the bar, he was elected to the lower house of the state legislature, and in 1902 was a member of the Connecticut constitutional convention. The following year he was elected to the state senate.

ARTHUR M. BROWN
Appointed State Attorney

In 1901 also Attorney Brown was elected treasurer of New London county, which position he has most capably occupied ever since.

The appointment of Attorney Brown brings back to this city an honor which it has not held since 1906, when the late Major Hull was appointed to succeed Solomon Lucas of Norwich. For 23 years prior to the death of Lucas, the honor was in the possession fo Norwich. Lucas held the position from 1883 until his death in 1906, and John M. Thayer held it from 1863 until 1889. Thayer succeeded the late former Governor Thomas M. Waller, who was state attorney for this county for eight years.

Attorney Brown is not unfamiliar with the duties of his new office, for he first started the study of the law in the office of Solomon Lucas, whom Major Hull succeeded as state attorney.

Mr. Brown was born in the borough of Jewett City, Sept. 24, 1877, the son of George W. and Sarah F. (Young) Brown. His grandfather, Francis S. Young, was a member of the legislature in 1860 and his father was a valuable member in 1872. His early education was obtained in the public schools of Jewett City and later he attended the Norwich Free Academy, for a term of three years.

For two years Mr. Brown was a quartermaster of William A. Slater's steam yacht Eleanor, and participated in a cruise around the world in 1894-96. After his return he read law with Solomon Lucas in Norwich, commencing in the winter of '97. He was admitted to the bar in January, 1901.

Mr. Brown was the youngest member of the general assembly of 1901, representing Griswold. He was a member of the constitutional convention in 1902 and was senator from the old 11th district in 1903. He was clerk and treasurer of the borough of Jewett City in 1906 and warden from 1914 to 1916. He is a member of the Jewett City Baptist church.

Mr. Brown was married to Gertrude E. Sanderson of Jewett City on Oct. 1, 1901. They have two boys the elder graduating from Dartmouth college last month. The younger attends Cushing Academy at Ashburnham, Mass.

On Feb. 7, 1923 Mr. Brown was elected grand master of Connecticut, F. and A. M., at the grand lodge session in Hartford, being advanced from deputy grand master and succeeding Grand Master F. L. Wilder, of Bridgeport. He was raised in Mt. Vernon lodge, F. and A. M., of Jewett City, April 1, 1901. He was senior deacon, 1904 junior warden, 1905; senior warden, 1906, and 1907; and worshipful master, 1908 and 1909. In the Grand Lodge he was district deputy for the Eighth district, 1912, 1913, 1914 and 1915; grand junior steward, 1917; grand marshal 1918; grand junior deacon, 1919; grand senior deacon, 1920; grand junior warden, 1921 and deputy grand master, 1922. He is grand representative for the Grand lodge of Tennessee near the Grand lodge of Connecticut. He was exalted in Franklin chapter, R. A. M., May 31, 1906; received and greeted in Franklin council, R. and S. M.; of Norwich, June 14, 1906, and knighted in Columbian commandery, K. T., of Norwich, Dec. 18, 1907. He received Scottish rite in the four Norwich bodies as follows: King Solomon lodge of Perfection, Van Rensselaer council, Princes of Jerusalem and Norwich chapter of Rose Croix, May 8, 1916, and Connecticut Consistory, S. P. R. S., May 15, 1916. He received the thirty-third degree in Boston, Sept. 17, 1918.

Mr. Brown is a member of the Norwich Rotary club. He is a director and attorney of the Thames National Bank of this city, president and attorney of the Jewett City Savings bank, director and attorney of the Ashland Cotton company and the Attawaugan company, attorney of the Baltic Mills corporation, the Lawton Mills corporation of Plainfield, and the First National bank of Plainfield, director and attorney of the New London County Mutual Fire Insurance company and director of the New London Northern Railroad company.

THREE FINED $200 FOR LIQUOR VIOLATION

The case of state vs. Albert Labarre and his sons, Napoleon and Alfred, charged with violation of the liquor law, at Hunters avenue, Taftville, came up in city court Tuesday morning, pleas of not guilty being entered. The three were charged with the ownership of the $3,000 worth of liquor that was seized on their premises about noon on July 2nd, by officers who conducted a raid on the place.

County Detective Lewis of New London, first witness, told of getting three bottles in the upper apartment over the store and also of reading the warrant and of finding discarded soda water bottles in a building about 200 feet away from the bottle plant. He noticed loose boards, he said, and lifting them up found a passage way and soon found the liquor there. He then notified Alfred Labarre of his find, the latter claiming he did not know the liquor was there, saying that the premises had been leased by his father. He then found that Alfred and Napoleon had purchased the business from their father, Albert Labarre, last November and that they had leased the upper tenement and outbuilding to their father for a certain sum.

Sheriff Hoxie gave similar testimony and said that he had talked with the father, who denied ownership of the liquor.

After a court recess Albert LaBarre, the father, took the stand and told of selling the property and of going into business on Water street in Norwich. He denied owning the liquor, although admitting leasing the premises where the liquor was found. He said he had sub-let the property to a man named Paul Petcola of Springfield for $15 and did not know what the man's business was hereabouts. Napoleon and Alfred LaBarre also testified denying ownership of the liquor.

The father and the two sons, upon advice of their attorney, offered themselves to the mercy of the court and changed their plea to guilty for if they were convicted on the charge of not guilty they would have to go to jail. Judge Libby fined each of the three $200 and costs. Clerk Albert J. Bailey collecting $638.81. Each was given a suspended jail sentence of 30 days, for one year.

CHARITABLE CIRCLE, K. D., ENJOYS PICNIC OUTING

Nineteen members of Charitable Circle, King's Daughters, enjoyed an outing and picnic Tuesday at the summer home of Mrs. John Tefft at Trading Cove. The members left the city on the 9.15 a. m. trolley and at noon enjoyed a fine dinner consisting of salads, cold meats, rolls, ice cream, assorted cookies and fruits

In the afternoon games were played and a social time enjoyed. Supper was served at 6 o'clock and the party started the return trip shortly after 8.30 o'clock. Mrs. Tefft was assisted in serving by various members of the circle.

Danced at New York Hospital

Miss Lois Latimer has returned from Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, where she was a guest of Miss Ethel Little. While there she was invited to dance in the beautiful auditorium of Montefiore hospital, New York, where her brother was a patient. She gave the Turkish dance in costume that she danced here last April.

TOUCHED LIVE WIRE CARRYING 10,000 VOLTS

Stamford, Conn., July 8—Forrester Phelan was expected here this afternoon to investigate the death of John Morales, 40, electrocuted at the plant of the Stamford Gas and Electric company yesterday afternoon when it is believed he touched a live wire carrying over 10,000 volts. Morales was working at the switchboard in the electric plant and just before death was at work on what is known as an oil switch. A fellow workman saw him stiffen and fall. Dr. John Hennessy who was called said death was almost instantaneous. He found only a slight burn on the little finger of one hand. Morales was an expert electrician and had worked for the company about a year and a half.

NO CRIMINAL RESPONSIBILITY IN DARIEN MAN'S DEATH

A SUPER-CLAY

Brought me beauty and perennial youth

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I look back on a glorious career. First, as a famous beauty. Then for 35 years a stage star. And now, at a grandmother's age, a beauty still playing a beauty's part.

E. Wallace Hopper
Photo 1923

I owe all that to several factors, but the greatest is a new-type clay. Now I have arranged with druggists and toilet counters to supply it to every woman. I want it to bring to others what it brought to me—multiplied beauty, decades of added youth.

My White Youth Clay

Old clays were crude and muddy. Mine is white, refined and dainty. Old types had one clay—mine has two. There are eleven ingredients embodied in mine, to bring the maximum results.

I owe this clay to men who have given it many years of scientific study. It is a super-clay, amazing in its quick and lasting benefits. I have seen many plain girls become beauties with one application. I have seen older women seem to drop ten years.

Clay is a beauty essential. No girl can look her best without it, no woman can keep her youth. Look at France—where girls are all beauties and women all young. That is largely due to clay.

I have no great interest in urging women to use my particular clay. But I do urge them to use some clay. I have found that mine brings multiplied results, but better the old types than none.

The magical effects

Edna Wallace Hopper
Photo 1923

My White Youth Clay purges the skin of all that clogs or mars it. It draws out the causes of blackheads and blemishes. It brings the blood to the skin to nourish and revive it. The result is a rosy afterglow which so amazes and delights. Husbands tell me they hardly know their wives after they use White Youth Clay.

It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. It wards off every sign of age.

I will gladly mail sample if you mail this coupon.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP LEMBURG ARSENAL

Warsaw, July 8—An attempt was made yesterday to blow up the Lemberg arsenal. An infernal machine planted by a workman was discovered by another employe who put it out of action in the nick of time and seized the man, turning him over to the police.

According to the authorities their inquiries show that the prisoner recently arrived in Lemburg from Russia and that he had dealings with several Bolshevik agents.

Had the infernal machine exploded, it is declared, a catastrophe far greater than the recent one at Bucharest would probably have resulted, as the arsenal contains 200 carloads of gun ammunition, besides quantities of other explosives.

ROTARIANS TIE SOME MORE KNOTS IN THE TAILS OF THE ROARING LIONS

Once more the hungry bevy of Lions infested the wilds of the Academy campus and sought to devour the fast traveling team of the Norwich Rotarians and, once more, the poor Lions were sent back to their cages a sadly cowered pack. Roaring like the kings of beasts that they are, nine hungry Lions started out on a hunt for Rotarians, bent on feasting upon the flesh of the men of the cogged wheel, but in a short space of time, their tails still smarting from their first taming at the hands of the Rotarians, they crawled back into their dens, a whipped bunch, bruised and sickened by the 17 lashes handed them by the men of the human tribe, endeavoring to find some solace in the five runs they had managed to gather in the five rounds under the heavenly canopy.

Perhaps the most angry Lion of the pack was Doc Thompson, who had the honor (with apologies) to hurl the defiance of the Lions across the plate guarded by the hard hitting Rotarians. Thirteen times a defiance was hurled back at him while 17 Rotarians trotted around the Lions' den, unafraid, daring the startled pack to wreak their vengeance, but not one of them suffered injuries and they were welcomed upon their arrival home by members of the Rotarian team as good men and true.

Driven to stand before the advances of the Rotarians the Lion pack roared out its challenge in the first two innings, the attack in the first frame giving them an advantage of two casualties to one. Their glory was not for long, however, and, although two of the pack scampered around the arena in the second inning, the daring hands of the Rotarians were felt twisting their tails and at this time the beginning of the end arrived for the pack.

Sensing that the power of man over a Lion could come only through beating the pack into submission, the Rotarians started out on a real hunt for runs in the fourth inning. The Lions growled and roared, darted first from one side of the arena and then to the other, beginning to realize that their hour of defeat was at hand and when the dust of battle cleared from the arena six painful knots had been tied to the already smarting tails of the pack.

With their last chance for revenge at hand in the fifth act a final weak roar was heard about the field and led by Rev. Rocco Guerriero, who all through the game had been the only staying hand that guided the Lions, made one final bid for victory. Fighting against big odds Father Guerriero drove a hit past third and took an additional base when the throw to first went wild. Doc Sussler, another fighting Lion, following the lead of his teammate, crashed a hit past second and Father Guerriero scored, this ending the last hope of the Lions for victory as Caron failed to connect and Rich hit an easy one to Crawford at third, resulting in Sussler going out, Jewett to Crawford.

There was a growl that sounded as if the Lions wanted two more chances to improve their score after the fifth inning but the crowd had seen enough for one day, knowing the habit the Rotarians had of scoring runs in bunches once their opponents were on the run and looking back at the fourth and fifth frames when two bunches of six runs were piled up by the Rotarians, they cried, "Nay, it is enough. Stay your hands, Rotarians, lest the Humane society learn of your wickedness and cause this series of slaughters to be abandoned."

A survey of the second Lion hunt engaged in by the Rotarians within the past month shows that the huntsmen have displayed by far a better morale and readiness to get out and punch runs over home plate.

In the game Tuesday, going into the second inning one run behind, the Rotarians set out to win, and, win they did, as the score at the close of the hunt clearly indicated. Carpenter, first up, socked the pill for a single and Crawford walked. "Jim" Madden punched one to left and two runs came over. This put the Rotarians in the lead and they were never in danger after this point.

The Rotarians gathered 13 hits, one a triple by Harris, two doubles and 10 singles. The Lions fastened onto seven hits, two doubles, one each by Father Guerriero and Doc Sussler and five singles. Harris for the Rotarians fanned eight Lions and walked but two, while Doc Thompson fanned but four Rotarians and issued five passes.

The prize pipe offered to the player getting the most hits was not awarded as it would have been divided among six players.

The picture of the game as presented by the box score is as follows:

REDS AND PHILLIES SPLIT EXTRA-SESSION GRANITE

Cincinnati, July 8.—Cincinnati and Philadelphia went twenty six innings to an even break in today's double header, the visitors winning the first game 3 to 1 in ten innings, and the home team taking the second contest 2 to 1 in 16 innings. Each team used only one pitcher in each game, all four of the hurlers doing good work. The Phillies won the first game from Luque in the tenth on an error by Critz and three hits, Hubbell holding the Reds safe. The second game lasted until darkness and was won in the last half of the sixteenth on a single by Rixley, safe bunts by Critz and Daubert and a long drive by Roush. The score:

YANKS SHARE HONORS WITH WHITE SOX

New York, July 8—The New York Yankees broke even in a double header with Chicago here today. After the White Sox won an easy 10 to 2 victory in the first game, New York took the second game by a score of 8 to 5. Thurston won his thirteenth victory of the season in the first game. New York hit Lyons and Barnes for sixteen hits totalling twenty-five bases in the second game. Ruth did not get into the second game until the seventh inning, when he batted for Hendrick and drove in a run with a single. Ruth injured his hip in the recent Washington series. The score:

DODGERS BEAT OUT CUBS IN SLUGGING MATCH

Chicago, July 8.—In a game in which seven pitchers were hit hard, often and impartially, Brooklyn defeated Chicago, here today, 13 to 11. After Brooklyn scored four runs on six hits in the first inning, Chicago hammered Henry and Osborne for seven runs on four hits and three bases on balls. Aldrich was relieved by Jacobs who was followed by Milstead while Decatur came to Osborne's rescue and was followed by Burleigh Grimes. Brooklyn got twenty-two hits and thirty bases, including home runs by Stock and Wheat while Grantham of Chicago also got a circuit clout. The score:

Mysterious Mystery

Although the identity of the hooded stranger who appeared and as mysteriously disappeared from and into the woods at the Voluntown-Ashland game last Sunday, and who in his brief visit left a challenge to the Ashland manager which is printed below, is unknown, the challenge is accepted and the Ashland club will be ready to receive the Marvels or Terrors or whatever they may be on Thursday evening at Ashland Park at 6.30 p. m. daylight time.

"The Masked Terrors wish to challenge the Ashland Ball Team to a game of ball next Thursday evening July 10th, at the Ashland Park. The Terrors will be heavily masked and expect to give a terrific battle.

Masked or unmasked there is no club in Eastern Conn. that can bluff the Ashland club and we are ready to take on all comers.

We will take the T out of the Terrors.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch

How should the left fielder play when a left-handed hitter comes to the plate?

When a left-handed hitter comes to bat, the left fielder should always play in close for the simple reason that left-hand hitters do not drive a ball far into their territory. Even if they signal sharply, the fielder always has a chance of hitting a base runner who happens to be on first or second, whereas if they were playing deep such a runner would go to third on the hit. The only time when exception is made to this rule, is when a left-hand hitter comes to bat but drives the ball far into the left field. There are a few such hitters in baseball, though not very many. In this case, the left fielder should play fairly deep.

HARDIGS TRIM MILLERS IN HARD HITTING GAME

In a game that was featured by hard hitting and fast fielding the Hardigs added another victory of the list at the expense of the Yantic Grain team winning by a score of 13 to 8. Rankin pitched good ball and received good support while Kegler who also pitched a nice game was supported in ragged style. The Yantic Grain had men on bases in several innings but ragged base-running cut down the scoring chances.

Echoes from the Stand

The usual razzers were in the grand stand.

Milton made some nice stops and also some horrible throws.

The Hardigs got the worst of some close decisions on the bases.

Tombari caught a nice game and is a very hard worker.

Bean gave a beautiful exhibition of high diving at first, repeated it at second and responded with an encore at third. This was the best seen on the grounds this season.

Peterson had hard luck at bat, Kegler nailing him in the ribs twice. He scored both times by fast base running.

Kamus made a sensational catch for the first out, gathering in the ball after a long run in the left field swamp.

Donegan played a nice game at first for the Hardigs.

Felix, the old timer, pulled Rankin out of a hole in the first when he pulled down a red hot liner and touched third for an unassisted double play.

CONSTANTLY IMPROVED BUT NO YEARLY MODELS

There are obvious benefits to the purchaser in Dodge Brothers policy of making constant, gradual rennements in their product instead of changing from one design to another year after year.

Chief among these is the fact that the car may be operated throughout the full limit of its usefulness without the extra depreciation loss which results from a rapid succession of radically different models.

EASTERN CONNECTICUT POWER CO. EXPLAINS ITS PROPOSALS TO CITY

Discusses Proposition to Sell Electric Power or Buy City's Gas and Electric Plant—Claims Operation of City's Plant is Costing the People $70,000 Per Year To No Purpose—Operation of City's Plant Requires More Than Twice the Coal Necessary to Generate its Output—Sale of City Plant Would Reduce City Debt From $2,100,000 to $400,000 and Save Users of Electric Service $83,000 Per Year—Could Reduce Present Cost of Street Lighting From $27,068 to $2,680 Per Year.

In a printed pamphlet that was presented at the Tuesday night meeting of the committee of the common council and the citizens advisory committee, the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., discussed that company's propositions to sell electricity to the city or to buy the city's gas and electric plant.

The following was obtained in the pamphlet:

THE EASTERN CONNECTICUT POWER COMPANY PROPOSALS TO THE CITY OF NORWICH

Two propositions have been placed before the Gas and Electrical Commissioners, and the City, by The Eastern Connecticut Power Company, one of which is to sell power to the City to replace that power now generated by steam; and the other to purchase the plant, lines and equipment of the City's Gas and Electrical Department.

Our principal object is to sell power to the City, and it is only recently that the idea of purchasing the property has had much consideration. There is a considerable saving for the City in purchasing power rather than generating it by steam, and it was only after we found that the disposal of this saving would evidently be such as to prevent its being passed along to the consumers that we decided to make the proposition to purchase the property. We feel that this amount which can be saved now represents an economic waste, and that some way should be found to make this saving available to users of electric service.

There are then two distinct proposals on this matter, and we would like to present them in that way, setting forth, first, the matter of furnishing power, and, afterwards, the question of the purchase of the property:

SALE OF ELECTRIC ENERGY TO THE GAS & ELECTRICAL DEPARTMENT.

We have been able to and are selling power to every electric public utility in our territory, with the exception of the Gas and Electrical Department of the City of Norwich. This has been accomplished through the service and economy which we have been able to show. Amongst others, we have made the following contracts:

The New England Power Company, in 1918, carrying a minimum of 15,000,000 kw. hours per year. This is the largest power company in New England, and they are not only producers but purchasers of large amounts of power.

At New London, in 1918. This contract with the Connecticut Power Company was negotiated with Stone and Webster, Inc., then the owners and operators of this New London property, and, as is well known, is probably the largest engineering concern in the country. Their power plant at New London has been shut down and is not now operated at all. The present management is, this year, doubling the capacity of the intake station. The situation there is almost exactly parallel to that in Norwich, as they have a gas plant located beside their power plant, both receiving steam from the same boiler plant.

At Groton, in 1918. This is a municipally owned and operated electric property, and the contract was negotiated with their Board and the assistance of Mr. John A. Stevens, a well known engineer, of Lowell, Mass. The steam power plant which the Borough had been operating has been shut down and all of the equipment has been sold. They have admitted that their cost of purchased power is about one-half their former cost of power production.

The Shore Line Electric Railway Company, in 1919, by means of which their former steam plants at New London, Mystic, Saybrook, Hallville, Thamesville, Dyer Dam, were shut down and practically all of the power equipment has been removed.

At Putnam, in 1919. This contract was negotiated with Sanderson & Porter, a large and very well known engineering concern in New York. This was about three years before we bought the Putnam property, in 1922.

At Danielson, in 1920. This contract was negotiated with Mr. H. S. Putnam of the firm of Stillwell & Putnam, well known engineers in New York. Mr. Stillwell is known for his original work on the New York subways, and Mr. Putnam for his work with the power companies in Pennsylvania. Mr. Putnam was especially well known as an expert on the matter of rates and contracts. This was three years before we bought the Danielson property, in 1923.

Ponemah Mills. A contract for supplying a part of the load at this mill was concluded in 1920.

At Westerly, in 1920. A contract was made covering the power requirements of the Westerly Light & Power Company and the Mystic Power Company. This contract was negotiated with the engineers and Contract Department of the Narragansett Electric Lighting Company of Providence, which controls the Westerly and Mystic Companies. The Narragansett Company had, at that time, and still has, a transmission line from their own plant at Providence to Westerly, but they elected to finance a new line from here to Westerly, and purchase power from us, rather than depend upon their own line.

At Clinton, in 1921. A contract was made with the Clinton Electric Light and Power Company for supply of power for the Towns of Clinton and Madison.

The Connecticut Company, in 1921. This contract for power to supply the electric railways in this vicinity was negotiated with the engineers of the Connecticut Company in 1921.

At Essex, in 1921. The then existing contract with the Essex Light and Power Company was extended for a considerable period.

At Hanover, in 1922. A contract was made with the Airlie Mills for their power supply, and in connection with that, service is also being rendered to the village of Hanover.

The Lyme Electric Power Company, in 1922. This company was purchased in 1922.

At Willimantic, in 1923. A contract was made with the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting Company to supply them with certain emergency power.

At Baltic, in 1924. On January 1st, 1924, a lease was concluded with the Baltic Mills Company by virtue of which we are supplying the electric service in the village of Baltic.

Lawton Mills, in 1924. A contract for the supply of power to the electrified section of the Lawton Mills at Plainfield has very recently been signed. This mill is controlled and operated by Messrs. Lockwood, Greene & Company, who are engineers and operators very well known in the engineering and textile industry.

Goodyear, in 1924. A contract is under negotiation and will become effective as soon as the equipment can be installed, by virtue of which we will supply all of the power, except a small amount of water, at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company's mill near Dayville. This contract was negotiated with the Engineering Department of the Goodyear Company, who started off with a very strong prejudice in favor of generating their own power. They were finally able to see the economy of our rates, and, after visiting our steam plant at Montville, were convinced of our ability to serve.

In addition to the above list, we are also, through our Danielson Company, furnishing all the power requirements of the Borough of Jewett City which is a municipally owned and operated property. We are, therefore, as we have said before, supplying the power requirements of all of the electric companies within our territory, except the Gas and Electrical Department of the City of Norwich.

We have been able to conclude the above power sales on the basis of service and the savings which we have been able to show over the previous conditions of operation, and there is no reason why Norwich should not also profit in the same manner. This is a question of fact and should not be decided on the basis of sentiment or prejudice.

The rate for our service, which we have quoted to the City of Norwich, is one which is definitely fixed, and is the same as such companies as those at Westerly, Danielson, etc., are paying. Should we endeavor, at the end of a contract period, to raise our rates, then the other electric companies would be as much interested as the City, and would, for their own good, desire to prevent it. We would then be opposed by these companies, and also be compelled to justify our position before the Public Utilities Commission, and, in that event, there is no doubt but that the Commission would protect the City's interest as against ours.

As to the City's electric plant, the newest turbine was installed in 1918 or 1919, and, consequently, is now five or six years old. It is very doubtful if a steam turbine has an effective life of anything approaching 20 years, but if it had, it would only outlast a 10-year contract by four or five years. It is true, as has been stated, that the boiler plant is the only place where the operator has any control over the cost of power production; but it is also true that it is the turbine which uses the steam, and, consequently, determines how much must be made. There has been a great change within the last few years in the design and economy of steam turbines of 5,000 kw. and smaller, but these changes in turbines of 10,000 kw. or larger have been very slight. To take advantage of the higher economies of new turbines requires higher steam pressures, with the consequent necessity for rebuilding the boiler plant; so that, as a practical matter, the economic life of a steam power plant is affected as much, if not more, by the turbine than it is by the boilers.

The final answer, in the present case, is that in 1923 it cost the City $112,872.00 for coal burned for generation of power; while to generate the same amount of power at our Montville plant would have cost for coal, only $51,305.00. This is the principal reason why it is possible for us to save the City some $70,000.00 a year on the cost of its steam generated power, and this saving is more than one cent per kw. hour generated.

Data from the Gas and Electrical Department shows that it will cost $8,000.00 per year more to separately generate steam for the gas plant, and that $7,000.00 in labor would still have to be retained, which makes a total additional charge against purchased power of $15,000.00 per year.

Actual operating results at the gas plant in Bristol, having practically the same gas send out as Norwich, and separately generating its steam for gas, shows a cost of only $4,000.00 per year in excess of the $12,000.00 now being charged to the gas department for steam. This would make a total charge against purchased power of $11,000.00 per year instead of $15,000.00. The net saving, therefore, according to data from the Gas and Electrical Department, would be $55,000.00 per year, and from actual operating results, the net saving would be $59,000.00 per year—in either case, a little less than 1 cent per kw. hour.

A proposition for the sale of power was made by us to the Gas and Electrical Department in January, 1923, which, we estimated would make a net saving of over $50,000.00 per year; and it is significant that the Department's own figures at that time show the actual saving to be $57,000.00. Now, why is it that no recognition of these facts have been thus far obtainable? It is hardly reasonable to suppose that The Eastern Connecticut Power Company is sufficiently clever to induce Lockwood Greene & Company; Stone & Webster; The Narragansett Electric Lighting Company; Stillwell and Putnam; Sanderson & Porter; John A. Stevens, or The New England Power Company to believe in results which do not exist.

It has been said that a proposition to sell power was turned down five or six years ago—but conditions were very different then. At that time the new turbine had not been installed at the City's plant, and our plant was not built, so that deductions were largely theoretical. The engineers disagreed and the decision then reached has cost the City of Norwich, and its electric customers, a lot of money. Now, however, we have facts to guide us instead of different opinions to confuse. The City's plant has been operated several years, and ours has been in service five years, with our rates definitely established. We now know that the City could have bought from us for $121,289.00 what did actually cost them $190,947.00, and that out of this difference there would have been saved to the City's electric customers not less than $55,000.00. This is a substantial sum to save every year, and represents 4½% on $1,220,000.00.

These matters have been set before the Gas and Electrical Department in several ways, beginning in January, 1922. Our proposal then for the sale of power included our agreement to maintain, at our expense, the City's electric plant ready for operation upon short notice, and to deliver the plant to the City at the end of a 10-year contract in as good condition as when taken over, ordinary wear and tear excepted. These proposals were turned down, and we were unable to secure what seemed to us adequate reason for such rejection. This proposal was given ex-parte consideration by the Gas and Electrical Department, as we were at no time before the Commission, except through the medium of correspondence. There is a large saving to be made, and we believe that the matter should have fair consideration, and that a way should be found to make this saving available to the City's electric customers.

The setting up of a cash reserve to completely retire the power plant during the period of a 10-year contract is neither necessary or good accounting. This procedure simply absorbs a large part of the real saving, and destroys the opportunity to pass it along to the consumer. The City's power plant should never be replaced, because it would be an economic waste to do so; and, in a case of this kind, such waste is made good either by the consumer or taxpayer, or both. The benefits which the City enjoys from the low price of power under the Uncas Power contract should certainly be retained, but there should be combined with it a source of power more economical than the City's present plant. The City's plant requires more than twice as much coal as is necessary to generate its output, and the location of it does not permit advantageous operation either of that plant or of any other plant. Furthermore, it is being demonstrated all over the country that the proper way to get economic power is by generating it in larger plants, located at tide water, and using water power to save coal.

This is the superpower idea, and all communities receiving service in this way obtain the benefits of its reliability and lower cost. The day of the small power plant is gone, just the same as is the day when every man was his own cobbler. So long as Norwich ignores, or fails to take advantage of these conditions, just that long must the City, and its electric customers, or its taxpayers, continue to pay the difference between what it does cost and what it OUGHT to cost. There is no economic or any real reason why the City's power plant should be replaced, so that there is no excuse for setting up a cash reserve for such a purpose. When you quit using kerosene and put in gas or electric lights, you did not set aside a cash reserve to replace the kerosene lamp, simply because you knew that they were not going to be replaced. It is difficult to see any merit in creating a reserve to replace a plant the operation of which results in a loss of $70,000.00 a year.

We have a power system which is fully adequate for the power demands in our territory, which is based to a considerable extent upon our steam power plant at Montville. About 70% of our total output is generated by steam, but the 30% which we secure from water power amounts to a little over 20,000,000 kw. hours per year. The water output alone is somewhat more than twice the total requirements of the Gas and Electrical Department, and we are today able to supply from Montville, alone, in addition to our present load, at least three times the amount which the City would require, and still have ample reserve capacity. We have a steam plant capacity of 45,400 H. P., and a water power capacity of 6,300 H. P., with ample provision for extending our steam plant to add at least twice the present capacity.

The soundness of the institution back of our proposals is perhaps best and most briefly indicated by the character of the purchasers of our securities. Last year we issued $3,000,000.00 in bonds, all of which were sold between 9 A. M. and 4.30 P. M. of the same day. These bonds are held very largely by 14 of the largest insurance companies in the country. The insurance companies and also the four banking houses who handled the issue made very careful investigations before purchasing the bonds, and the results show that they were perfectly satisfied.

There seems to be an idea in the minds of some people that a contract to sell power to the City is of vital importance to The Eastern Connecticut Power Company. As a matter of fact such a contract would mean an increase of less than 7½% of our gross business. The matter is really of greater consequence to the citizens of Norwich than it is to The Eastern Connecticut Power Company, and our desire is that Norwich should take advantage of the savings which are available and which have been taken advantage of by other companies in this territory.

TO SUMMARIZE:

We have been able to convince some of the best power experts in the business that they can, to their own advantage, buy power from us rather than produce it themselves. There is, therefore, substantial merit to our proposition, and the facts show that a very substantial saving can be made for the City of Norwich just as has been done in other cases. We can see no argument in favor of operating any property that involves a cost of $70,000.00 a year more than the same service can be secured in some other way. There is no economic justification for continuing the operation of any machine which requires 13,000 tons of coal when another machine will produce the same result by burning only 6,000 tons. Seventy thousand dollars a year will pay interest at 4½% on $1,500,000.00 and that amount would meet the demands for the additional facilities now being urged upon the municipality.

The service and economy in The Eastern Connecticut Power Company's proposal have been recognized by every company and municipal plant in this territory except Norwich.

Neither the City's plant nor any replacement of it can operate economically in its present location under any management.

The operation of the City's plant requires more than twice the coal necessary to generate its output. This is an economic waste of money and fuel and is costing the people of Norwich $70,000.00 per year to no purpose. It is like burning money.

The proposed sale of power means to The Eastern Connecticut Power Company only the profit on less than 7½% increase in its total sales, which is a small amount compared with the saving of $70,000.00 per year which it means to the users of electricity in Norwich.

PURCHASE OF THE GAS AND ELECTRIC PROPERTY

As stated in the beginning, our principal object in this matter has been to sell power to the City, and the question of purchasing the property did not have serious consideration by us until quite late in the negotiations.

In discussing with the President and General Manager of the Gas and Electrical Department the question of power, it appeared that they felt it necessary to set aside out of the gross savings an amount which would retire the City's power plant during the life of the power contract, which, as already pointed out, absorbs a large portion of the saving. This we certainly would not do if we owned the property because the plant, under such conditions, would not be replaced. It appeared that the only way in which this saving of approximately $70,000 per year could be made available to the electric consumers would be through our purchase of the property, and, with this in mind, we made the proposal which is now before the Mayor and the Court of Common Council.

That proposal, based upon the book value of the property, as shown by the Department's report to the Public Utilities Commission for 1923, would liquidate the outstanding bonds of the City on behalf of the Gas and Electric property, amounting to $388,000.00 and leave available to the City for the retirement of debt, or for any other cash requirements, $734,896.96 in cash, in addition to which we would assume the $400,000.00 of underlying bonds.

In this way the City would be relieved of a bond issue of $388,000.00 which, together with the above cash item, would make a total of $1,082,896.96, so that the sale would reduce the City's debt from $2,100,000.00 to $400,000.00. Interest on the cash item of $734,896.96 say, 4½%, would be $33,070.00 per year, which is more than the net saving, through the purchase of power, when allowing for the extra depreciation insisted upon by the Gas and Electrical Department. In addition to this, our proposal to purchase carries with it an agreement to make a reduction of 20% in the present electric rates, except those for street lighting and sign lighting. Furthermore, the property, if sold to us, would at once go into the tax list and produce further revenues for the City in cash.

The general question of municipal vs. so-called private operation of a public utility is a broad one, and arguments could be continued at great length without much result.

In 1922 there were 1,992 municipal electric plants in the United States, serving something less than 7% of the population; and there were 4,206 private companies, who served the other 93% of the population. According to the U. S. Census "the average rates received by municipal plants for their current are much higher than those charged by the other group, as is indicated by the fact that, while they sell only 4% of all current, they receive 7.8% of the income from the sale of current." There have been something over 500 municipal electric plants which have been either abandoned or sold to private companies, so that it is at least unsafe to assume that municipal ownership and operation is a guaranteed cure for either rates or service.

The problem here, however, is not a general one, but the specific one of what is for the best interests of the City of Norwich. The successful operation of the South Norwalk municipal plant at the end of 31 years has been publicly commented upon by printing, in one of our local papers, a letter from the General Superintendent of that plant. They have apparently liquidated all of their debt due to the electric property, and have worked into a very good financial condition. The published reports of the Public Utilities Commission, covering operations for the year 1923, show that South Norwalk received an average of 7.7% more per kw. hour for its output than did the Gas and Electrical Department of the City of Norwich. The same report also shows that South Norwalk's average rate on its total output was 31% higher than Danielson and almost 70% higher than Putnam on their total output. The liquidation of debts is largely a question of rates.

It has been said that the Gas and Electrical Department of the City of Norwich has been making substantial profit in the

CHIEF STANTON MAKES ANNUAL FIRE REPORT

A summary of the annual report of the Fire Department, made to the Court of Common Council Monday night by Chief Howard L. Stanton is as follows:

Operations of the department. The department responded to 187 alarms, 35 less than reported one year ago. Of the above number 10 were for fires out of the city limits. The fire with the greatest loss occurred, August 7, 1923, at 2.45 a. m. in a store house of the Max Gordon & Son corporation, located on Falls avenue. This building was stored with cotton and other material and was entirely destroyed the damage amounting to $19,420 on the building and $24,517 on contents.

The fire with the next largest loss occurred May 31, 1924 at 2.29 a. m. at the American House, located on Shetucket street. This building was a very old frame hotel of about fifty rooms and had been on fire many times. The loss at this fire was about $11,000 on building and contents. At this fire a second alarm was sent in on account of the hazardous district.

The large fires out of the city which the department responded to were at Versailles on March 29, 1924 at 2.10 a. m. at which three buildings and a frame school house were destroyed at a loss of about $25,000. On April 17, 1924 the department responded to a fire at West Town street where several buildings were on fire, two of which were entirely destroyed. The loss at this fire was about $30,000.

It will be noted that all large fires in the city occur between the hours of 1 and 3 a. m., on account of not being discovered and no alarm sent in until the property is beyond saving. At all fires outside the city very little can be accomplished on account of lack of water and because help is not asked for until the fire is beyond control.

The report also indicated that the worst months for fires are March and April when 23 and 32 fires were reported, respectively. July, with 6 fires was the smallest in the year and June was next with but 9 fires. The average number of fires per month was approximately 16. Calls were as follows: bell alarms 26, telephone alarms 145, oral alarms 15, second alarms 1. Total 187.

The classification of buildings where fires occurred follows: frame buildings 87, brick buildings 19, brick and frame buildings 2, frame and iron buildings 1, other than buildings 78. Of these fires 76 were morning fires and 111 were afternoon fires.

A recapitulation of risks and losses follows:

Total at risk, buildings and contents $2,115,981.85; total insurance on buildings and contents $1,794,927.60; total insurance paid on buildings and contents $83,473.25; total fire loss insured and uninsured $83,682.57; loss above insurance on buildings $209.32; less above insurance on contents, none; total loss above insurance, buildings and contents $209.32.

The insurance paid during the past year, totalling $83,473.25 has been larger but once in the past 10 years, this being in 1921 when insurance paid totalled $160,535.17. Since 1902 the amount paid last year has been passed but four times $144,087.05 in 1913, $216,392.42 in 1909 and $99,835.49 in 1906.

The number of fires during the past year although 35 less than a year ago has only been larger in four years, 225 in 1923, 193 in 1918, 212 in 1915 and 242 in 1914, the last named year being the record year for the department since 1902, the insurance for that year paid out, however, being but $45,478.29.

In writing of fire stations, Chief Stanton explains that there are four stations and one under construction on the Joseph Perkins road which is expected to be completed by October 1st, 1924, to house Engine Company No. 3.

All stations are in good repair except the West Main street station which will need very excessive repairs if it is maintained as a fire station. This station was erected in 1859 for hand drawn apparatus and should be sold for business purposes and a new station built at the top of West Main Main street hill or vicinity. The traffic in front of the old station, both by automobiles and the trolley has increased to such an extent that the company is prevented from making a quick response and owing to the narrow street in front of the station several accidents have narrowly been averted.

The report also states that no new fire alarm telegraph boxes were added to the system in the past year and that many are needed in all sections of the city. All old type of boxes should be replaced with modern boxes as the old pony boxes are not reliable.

In the report as Fire Marshall, Chief Stanton notes that his duties are increasing and that the time has arrived when he has little chance for personal inspection of property, this work in great part falling to the Deputy Chief and members of the department. Last year 329 permits were granted for new buildings and alterations to old buildings, which included 72 houses and 130 garages, 6 barns, 11 sheds, 4 store houses and 2 shops, 2 brick buildings, 3 garages, 2 concrete garages, 1 concrete building, 81 alterations to frame and 9 to brick buildings, also 5 oil tanks, vaults, etc. The total valuation of all work was $619,965, as given by the owners. The number of permits for the year passed any previous mark, 1923 being nearest with 282 permits or 47 less.

The report on the firemen's pension fund showed $13,170.42 on hand a gain of about $2,000 since last year of which $1,252.92 came through deductions from the payroll at the rate of 2 per cent.

In conclusion Chief Stanton writes his recommendations as follows: I earnestly recommend that a new station be erected on the West Side of the city to house Engine Company No. 5. The present station was built 65 years ago and has come to need very extensive repairs which will cost a considerable sum. Also the traffic congestion at this point prevents a quick response.

The sale of the old station for business purposes would, no doubt, bring one half the amount necessary to pay for a new station at the top of the hill.

With the continued increase in the erection of homes throughout the city more fire alarm boxes should be purchased and installed, the old pony boxes replaced with modern and safe types.

Steps should be taken looking toward the replacement of at least five old type boxes each year. Also the purchase of five new boxes for new locations. Ten new boxes purchased each year for five years would soon bring the fire alarm system of boxes to the number necessary to protect the city.

operation of the property, and this we believe to be, true, as otherwise we would not show very good judgment in making a proposal to buy the property. It has been said that the property has been increasing in value, and this is certainly true, because material additions have been made and betterments in excess of depreciation have been put in from year to year.

The figures published in the Norwich Evening Record of June 28th show additions to the gas and electric property during the entire 20-year period of $1,185,713.97, of which $610,608.00 was from the net earnings from operation during that period. Furthermore, the Department's report to the Public Utilities Commission covering the year 1923 shows a surplus of $624,496.16.

We do not question the value of this property; neither do we question the results, or criticize the manner of present management of the property. The main question it seems is: What actual benefits have accrued to the City of Norwich gas and electric customers, and the taxpayers, through the ownership and operation of this property for 20 years? And what will be these benefits in the future? The property is being operated at a profit, has increased in value through expenditures for betterments, but has the taxpayer, or the user of gas and electricity benefited by either of these conditions? From the figures published in the Norwich Evening Record it is clear that all of the net profits, and more, earned during the 20 years of operation have gone into additions to the plant. These net profits have consequently not been available either in lower rates to the consumer, or in any reduction of taxes to the taxpayer. Is there any reason to suppose that another 20 years operation will produce any different result? If all of the profits earned go back into the property by way of betterments, it is certainly very clear that these betterments are paid for out of the rates charged for the sale of gas and electricity, and the rates are consequently loaded by an amount equal to the cost of these betterments. This is a considerable item, as the report of the Department for the five fiscal years ending April 30th, 1923, show that during that time $214,397.00 was spend for betterments. Had these betterments been permanently capitalized instead of being taken out of earnings, then the same operating results as to net earnings could have been obtained with that much less revenue from the consumer. If money for permanent financing should have cost as much as 10%, it still leaves a loading of the rates for those five years of $282,957.00. During the same period it cost the Department considerably more for its power than it would have by purchasing power, and this excess power cost (using the 1923 figures as a basis, and taking the other years in proportion to the number of electric meters shown in the reports), aggregates $293,955.00. Adding to this the $282,957.00 net loading for betterments, makes a total loading in rates for the five years of $576,912.00, or approximately $115,000.00 per year taken from the consumer of gas and electricity and put into betterments.

If we owned the property, we would be compelled by the Public Utilities Commission requirements, and also by the urge of proper financing, to permanently capitalize betterments, and we would of course obtain the saving in the lesser cost for power. This is the basis upon which we feel justified in agreeing to make a 20% reduction from the present electric rates. Under our ownership, if betterments amounted to, say, $100,000.00 in a year, that amount would be permanently capitalized, and we would need in revenue only about $8,000.00 to carry it; whereas, under the present ownership and operation, it would require the full $100,000.00 or $92,000.00 in excess revenue. The amount spent for betterments by the Gas and Electrical Department for the calendar year 1923 was $96,647.00, so that $100,000.00 is not an excessive figure.

In additon to these considerations, there is the further fact that our ownership of the property would immediately place it in the grand list and make it subject to tax of perhaps $25,000.00 a year, and this amount would be additional cash revenue to the City treasury. The users of gas and electricity would then benefit in cash by a 20% reduction in rates and the City treasury would gain in taxes; whereas, at the present time, the user of gas and electricity is carrying the full cost of betterments, and is getting, as taxpayer, no benefit out of the ownership of the property. The expenditures which the Gas and Electrical Department has made for extensions and betterments of plant have, of course, increased the book and actual value of the property, but it must be borne in mind that those values are still in the property and that they will remain there until the owner—that is to say, the taxpayer of the City—realizes upon that value through the sale of the property. It, in the meantime, as has already been shown to be true, the results of operation of the property do not return to either the user or taxpayer any benefit from year to year, then it is clear that he cannot realize upon the increase in value of the property either by its ownership or operation, but he can only do this by selling it.

One of the benefits claimed for municipal ownership and operation is the low cost of street lighting, and, if the question of taxes be ignored, that is a fact. The City pays from its tax revenue certain amounts to the municipal plant for street lighting, but of course it is true that the City's revenue is reduced by the fact that a municipal plant is not taxed. In the Gas and Electrical Department's report to the Utilities Commission covering the year 1922, the revenue accounts show "for public street lights $18,367.30;" and they show, under miscellaneous revenue, an item "Maintenance of Street Lamps $8,860.99," the sum of which must consequently represent the total cost of street lighting, or $27,068.19. A part of this is presumably from the Town, but we do not know how much. This factor, however, is of no consequence if we express the cost of street lighting in terms of cents per candle power year. According to the report, there was at that time a street lighting installation of 137,600 candle power, so that the cost, per candle power year, was 19.6 cents. New London at the same time had a street lighting installation of 197,880 candle power which cost 20.1 cents per candle power year. Norwich street lighting, at the New London rate, would cost $37,680.00 or $812.80 more than is charged by the Gas and Electrical Department. The City was, however, denied the revenue from taxes, so that to make an actual comparison with New London, or any other place, taxes which would be, perhaps, $25,000.00 should be deducted, which would make the total actual cost for Norwich street lighting only $2,680.00 per year under our operation.

It has been suggested that, while we have offered a 20% reduction in electric rates, we might keep that in force for a year or so, and then increase the rates at our pleasure. This brings up a comparison between the present rate situation and the rate situation in the case of a so-called private corporation.

When we establish a rate for a given class of service, it is filed with the Public Utilities Commission and published. In case no opposition is presented, the rate will become effective not less than 30 days from date of filing. At any time, in accordance with Section 3625 of the Public Statutes, any Town, City or Borough, where any public service company is furnishing service, or any 10 patrons of any such company, may bring a petition to the Public Utilities Commission alleging that the rates made by the company, as prescribed by the Commission, are unreasonable; and, thereupon, the Commission shall fix a time and place for hearing the question, upon the findings from which, the Commission shall order just and reasonable rates. At these hearings before Public Utilities Commissions, the burden of proof is upon the company, and not upon the petitioner, because, naturally, the company is possessed of more information as to costs than is the petitioner. That is to say, that in a complaint against existing rates, the company must prove them to be just and reasonable, and all the petitioner has to do is to make his objection. Under municipal operation, Section 403 of the Statutes provides that the Board of Gas and Electrical Commissioners are entrusted with the price and quality of supply of gas and electricity. Section 506 provides that the price shall not be changed oftener than once in three months, after being advertised at least one month. No provision is made for appeal from such rates, and apparently none is possible, except to the Board which makes the rate. It is, of course, argued that under municipal ownership and operation the consumer is paying the rate to himself as a taxpaying owner, and consequently he does not need special protection. The fact remains that there is no apparent redress for the customer who actually pays the bill, and it would seem that the customer is actually without any protection whatever as to the rate he is going to pay. If he pays too much, it simply goes into the property, and he gets no benefits from it.

We have been asked if we would guarantee to continue a certain rate for a definite period of time. This is a difficult and unwise thing to do because of the impossibility of seeing very far into the future; but, as just pointed out, the protection really seems better for the customer under private operation than is now provided under municipal ownership. It would not be sound judgment to guarantee any flat meter rate for a period of time, but it is certain that it would be very difficult for us to justify in Norwich a rate in excess of those for the same service in similar communities. A fair index of what might happen is given by what has happened. We took over the Putnam Light & Power Company on April 1st, 1922, and since that time have made two reductions in the electric lighting rates, aggregating 20%, and we also readjusted the gas rate so as to do away with the service charge. We took over the Danielson & Plainfield Gas and Electric Company on January 1st, 1923, and have made a reduction of about 18% in the lighting rates. All of these reductions were voluntary upon our part, and, it was unnecessary for our customers to go to the Public Utilities Commission for that purpose. If it would seem wise or necessary to separate the operations in Norwich from the rest of The Eastern Connecticut Power Company's territory, so that there could be no effect upon the rates in Norwich by the operations in other parts of the territory, this could be easily taken care of by making Norwich a separate division, or by incorporating a separate company to be capitalized for the purchase price. On the matter of rates, our policy is to keep them as low as possible, consistent with the fact that we must deliver good service; and, from the past history of all electric companies, it is very evident that all rates are higher now than they will be in the future; because the cost of distribution will decrease as the number of customers and load increases.

As to the general conditions of operation under so-called private ownership as compared with municipal ownership, the question of rates has just been covered, protecting the customer against the company through appeal to the Public Utilities Commission, but providing no appeal in the case of municipal ownership.

In the case of refusal to serve a customer—where, perhaps, an extension of line is required—under municipal ownership, Section 502, provides appeal to the Gas and Electrical Commissioners; and, under company operation, Section 3636, provides for appeal to, and hearing before, the Public Utilities Commission.

On the question of standard of service which must be rendered, Section 503, provides that this matter be entrusted to the Gas and Electrical Commissioners; while under company operation, Section 3629, provides for fixing such standard by the Public Utilities Commission, and this is done in a very practical and rigid manner by the Commission's engineers.

Three sections of the Statutes require that the company shall have its construction made and kept up to the standards which are set by the Public Utilities Commission through its engineers; while under municipal operation this matter is not even provided for.

The standard of meter accuracy, and the question of adequate plant and equipment are, under company operation, passed upon and determined if necessary by the Public Utilities Commission; but under municipal operation neither of these important factors are mentioned.

TO SUMMARIZE:

Our proposition to purchase the gas and electric property was made only after it appeared to us that the saving, through the purchase of power, would probably be absorbed rather than passed on to the users of the service. The property is being operated at a profit and has considerable physical value, but the profits are being put into betterments which prevents the users of the service, or the taxpayer, from receiving any benefit from such operating profit.

Apparently the only way for the City to realize any benefit from the value of this property is through its sale; which, in addition to reducing the City's debt from $2,100,000.00 to $400,000.00 will give the users of electric service a saving of approximately $83,000.00 per year.

The present cost of Norwich street lighting is $27,068.00 per year, whereas full normal rates from a private corporation, minus the probable revenue from taxes upon putting the property into the grand list would leave a net cost for the same lighting of but $2,680.00 per year.

The permanency and control of rates under our operation, we believe, gives the customer better protection than he now has under municipal operation.

The net result from the purchase of power instead of generating it by steam is a saving in operating expenses of $55,000.00 to $60,000.00 per year. The net result of the sale of the property to us is a direct saving to the customers of approximately $83,000.00 per year, and a tax revenue of possibly $25,000.00 per year, or a total of $108,000.00 per year; and this saving is not in accounting or in reserve, but in cash.

Our primary object is to sell power to the City of Norwich to replace that power generated by steam in its own plant; but, in view of the fact that the economic waste represented by the saving in purchasing power might not result in the benefit which it should create, we are ready to purchase the property as outlined; and it appears that there is a considerably greater and much more definite benefit to the City, the taxpayer, and the user of gas and electricity in the sale of the property than there is in the purchase of power.

Sale of the property will reduce the City's debt from $2,100,000.00 to $400,000.00.

Save to the users of electric service $83,000.00 per year in the reduction of rates.

Add materially to the City's grand list and tax revenue.

How has the City's ownership and operation benefited the consumer, when all the profits earned have gone back into the property, instead of being used to reduced rates?

Why should the City continue to own and operate the property when its electric customers can secure the same service at 20% less cost?

Is the pride of possession worth $108,000.00 per year?

With all profit going into property, how can the taxpayer benefit by or collect these profits except by selling the property?

THE EASTERN CONNECTICUT POWER COMPANY.

COLUMBIA

At the meeting of the Grange Wednesday evening, during the lecturer's hour a short and impromptu program was well given by the young people. Miss Beatrice Collins played a piano solo with skill and Miss Lucy Green gave a humorous recitation; readings were given by Margaret Blakeley, Lila Seeley and Eva La Bonte, and Miss Helen Field sang a pleasing solo. Brother Charles Adams of Groton, detailed by the State Masters, to inspect the books of the secretary and treasures, found them in most excellent condition and complimented the grange on having such efficient officers. Details for the celebration of the Grange on Independence day, were considered by the committee having the matter in charge.

Thursday evening the Hornet and Miller Minstrel company of Willimantic gave a performance at Yeoman's Hall, under the auspices of the Grange. The company consisted of 16 men and women, the men appearing in black face and the girls wearing white bloomers. The numbers on the program were very enthusiastically and meritoriously given. Each member of the company sang a solo or appeared in duets very effectively while the end men were especially funny in their stories and jokes. The songs, You Can't Take Me Away from Dixie, Why I Kissed that Girl, I Love Her in the Springtime, Is He Yours or is He Mine and The Radio Girl, were rendered with telling effect. Mr. Richards gave a free exhibition of novelty dancing and there were exhibition dances, banjo solos and humorous sketches. A very enjoyable evening closed with dancing for all.

Independence day was celebrated in Columbia in a truly patriotic manner. The Ladies' band of Hampton under the leadership of Prof. A. E. Lyman stationed near the soldiers monument furnished the music for the day. The monument which was erected some time ago in honor of the men from Columbia who went to the World war, was officially transferred by first selectman J. N. Clarke to the custody of the American Legion and was accepted for the Legion by Philip Isham. Prayer was offered by Rev. Charles C. Haun and the oration of the day was delivered by Frederick Heinrich, of Woodstock, Conn. Mr. Heinrich delivered a fine address, referring to the liberties, priviledges and obligations of American citizens, and suggesting that it should be the duty of every citizen to vote, voting to be made compulsory or furnish a valid excuse.

A band concert in the afternoon on the lawn in front of the town hall concluded the public celebration of the day. During the afternoon there was a ball game on the Green between the Senators and Professors of Columbia resulting in a score of 19 to 17 in favor of the Senators.

Miss Ruth Jacobs, a student at Winthrop Training school near Boston, is at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Isham for a short vacation.

Rev. Charles C. Haun's father who has been visiting him during the past returned to his home at Woodstock, Va., Saturday, also his uncle, Robert Wisner of Philadelphia, who has been his guest returned the same day.

A closely contested ball game was played on Columbia Green, Saturday afternoon between the Lebanon team and a team composed of players from Columbia, Hebron and Andover. The battery for Lebanon was Williams and Pulks and for the opposing team, Jones of Hebron and Swartz of Hebron. The umpire was Everett Frink of Andover. In the ninth inning, the Lebanon boys scored two runs in quick succession, one being a home run, while Columbia failed to score, the score being four to two in favor of Lebanon. In the seventh inning when Claude Jones, having batted a fly ball, rushed to first base, and in passing it ran into a moving automobile, which was running very slowly. His head struck the hood over the engine. He was badly bruised about the face, but did not appear to have suffered any serious injury and later went to bat, striking a fly ball but failing to score.

Sunday morning the sacrament of the Lord's supper was administered to a large congregation by Mr. Haun, who preached on prayer, citing Jesus and His disciples in their continual use of it as our example. At the Christian Endeavor services in the evening the meeting was led by Miss Eleanor Collins, the subject being In His Steps.

Vesper services were held in the chapel Sunday afternoon by Rev. F. C. Williams, rector of Saint Paul's church, Willimantic, and are to be held during the summer.

WINDHAM

The entertainment for the benefit of the library on the afternoon of July 4th was very successful. Miss Dorothy Weir was in charge and was assisted by Mrs. Ada Lanabel, Mrs. E. K. Lerfingwell and Miss Gertrude Arnold. The reading room was attractive with red, white and blue flowers and the long table was daintily set with china, glass and silver the centre piece being of red and white roses and blue larkspur. At the punch bowl were Miss Elizabeth Abbe and Miss Harriet Guild; they were assisted by Miss Marguerite Cook, Miss Charlotte Lathrop and Miss Margaret Bixby. Ice cream was sold by Eden Cook, assisted by Mrs. W. A. Raynold. Miss Josephine Bingham was the cashier. The proceeds amounted to about $175.

Mrs. Julia M. Arnold received the congratulations of her friends in her 91st birthday Saturday. Although very lame from rheumatism, Mrs. Arnold's general health is good and she is keenly interested in everything and is able to be downstairs, after having been confined to the upper floor during the cold weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Parsons who have been in North Carolina are at Miss Neale's for a few days and later will have rooms in the little home for the rest of the season.

Mrs. Charles C. Abbe leaves Thursday to spend the summer at Bailey Is., Me. Mrs. Abbe has rented her house to Mrs. J. W. Follett and Dr. Elizabeth Follett of New York, for a few weeks.

Dr. Charles Byrne and Mrs. Byrne and son Robert of Hatfield, Mass., and Harry Little and Miss Mildred Little of Springfield, Mass., spent the Fourth at the Little home.

Mrs. Stephen Granderry and brother Charles Woodward of Hartford were in town Friday.

Mrs. Halsey Kelley of New York and daughter, Mrs. Burke Ewing and two children of Oklahoma City and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Kelley and daughter of Boston are at Miss Packer's for a month. Halsey Kelley spent the week end with his family returning to New York Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harved Prentice and son of Hartford called on friends in town Sunday. This was Mr. Prentices first visit to his native town in fifteen years.

The Willimantic W. C. T. U. meets with Mrs. Jennie Josephson Friday, for an all day picnic.

The Bulletin Social Corner members of this section are to have a meeting with Mrs. Edward Billings today.

Mrs. J. Alden Weir and Miss Dorothy Weir went to Redbank, N. J., Monday to spend a week with Mrs. Weir's sister, Mrs. Paul Leighton.

NORTH LYME

Mrs. Caroline Bill and Miss Jane Bill of New Rochelle, N. Y., were week end visitors at J. L. Raymond's.

Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Reynolds of New London were visitors there Sunday.

Miss Charlotte Stark is spending the summer with Mrs. G. L. Reynolds, in New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred O. Miner and Fred H. Miner went to East Lyme Sunday for a months' stay on Frank Phillips' farm where the Messers. Miner are to help with the haying and Mrs. Miner is to cook for the gang of workmen.

Dr. Sullivan of New York spent the Fourth with his family here.

Miss Helen Baborsky of Bloomfield, N. J., with a party of twelve friends spent the Fourth and week end at the Baborsky home here.

Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Gavin, Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Strong, Robert Strong and Henrietta Gates were in Essex Tuesday.

Truman Ives and family were in New York Sunday. Their son Billy returned with them after five weeks' stay in a New York hospital where Dr. Sullivan has been treating his eyes.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stark, J. Gicaonia and family were guests at J. W. Star's over the Fourth.

Over one hundred gathered on the lawn at Fred O. Miner's the Fourth for a community picinc and Old Home Day. Lunch at noon consisted of cold meats, potatoes, sandwiches, beans, cae, pie, ice cream and lemonade. Among those attending from out of town were C. F. Jewett and family, Ray Harding and family of LLyme; Lee Harding and family of New Britain; Mr. and Mrs. William Stark of Hartford; J. Gicaonia and family of East Longmeadow, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Reynolds, Miss Charlotte Stark of New London; Mrs. Caroline Bill, Miss Jane Bill, of New Rochelle, N. Y.; H. A. Gates and family of Little River.

Mrs. Carrie Brockway of Pittsfield, Mass., is visiting Miss Emily Stark.

There was a pleasant family gathering at George Babcock's the Fourth. Merril Babcock and family of Meriden; Mrs. Bertrance Elton, and children of New Britain; Alpheus Nye and family of Fitchvile. At noon all enjoyed a dinner of clam chowder. Mrs. Nye remained with her mother who is very weak and not expected to live many days.

Mrs. G. H. Strong visited Mrs. Hattie La Place Sunday.

FUNERAL OF ADMIRAL O. F. STANTON AT NEW LONDON TUESDAY AFTERNOON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, July 9.—The funeral of Rear Admiral Oscar F. Stanton, U. S. N., retired, was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the First Church of Christ and was attended by a large throng of mourners, among them many present naval officers and several former members of the government's marine craft. The dead admiral was accorded every tribute of respect within the gift of the government. The mahogany casket was draped with the American flag and upon it rested Admiral Stanton's chapeau and sword. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, assisted by H. W. Tuitt, chaplain aboard the U. S. S. Savannah. During the service a quartette from Kane Masonic lodge of New York, sang Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me. The honorary bearers were six naval officers stationed at the submarine base and the active bearers were bluejackets from the base, eight in number. The massive casket was borne from the church to the hearse on the shoulders of the bluejackets and with the two battalions of sailors standing at attention, and while the army band from Fort Wright rendered Nearer, My God, to Thee, the casket was placed in the hearse and borne to its final resting place in Cedar Grove cemetery, with an escort of 300 officers and sailors from the submarine base. At the committal a squad of marines from the base fired three volleys and as the casket was lowered into the grave a bugler sounded taps.

Miss Mary A. Denison, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Denison, Willetts avenue extension, until recently employed by the New England Collapsible Tube company, and who eloped Fourth of July, has been located. This morning Mrs. Denison received a letter from the girl stating that she was temporarily residing in Philadelphia.

The girl left her home during the afternoon of the Fourth, supposedly to go to the home of a girl friend to visit. She was observed passing through Bank street early that evening with a male friend and when she did not return home that night the police were requested to institute a search for the girl. It was ascertained that the girl boarded the Washington express that left New London Fourth of July night at 10.23 o'clock and all trace of her was lost from that time until today when Mrs. Denison received the missive from her daughter, telling of the whereabouts of the girl.

As was anticipated, Austin J. Ruddy, 54, of 51 West Colt street, former foreman of the citys' water and sewer department, who was painfully injured by falling on the sidewalk at the corner of Bentley and Stuart avenues, Ocean Beach, late yesterday afternoon, has sustained a fractured left hip. This morning an X-ray picture of the leg revealed the injury. As a result of the fracture Mr. Ruddy will be a patient at Lawrence hospital for several weeks.

The local members of the Ku Klux Klan were active here last night, for another cross was fired. This time the cross, which was erected near Evergreen Mountain, Gallows lane, shortly after 11 o'clock, was of large dimensions and the blaze could be seen from various parts of the city. The cross was substantially constructed and contained inflammable material, which was securely wired to the structure. The firing of the cross is one of several to take place in this vicinity in a fortnight, the other crosses being burned at Vauxhall street, in the vicinity of Cohanzie, Flanders and Noank.

Daniel Small, 121 Main street, complained to the police this afternoon that a bicycle owned by him had been thrown into the Thames river from the Central Vermont railroad wharf by Robert Coleman, 38 Hill street. Coleman was taken into custody by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock, but he was released upon satisfying the police that the bicycle entering the river was the result of an accident and not from malicious intent.

An automobile operated by W. B. Waterman, of the Ford service station, corner of Richards and Main streets, in being backed from the garage to Richards street, last night, struck a child's coaster in which was the little son of Mrs. Christine Evelyn, 12 Richards street. The youngster's leg was badly bruised and was treated by a physician.

Mrs. Ernest Richards and infant son, Reed street and Lloyd Holmes, Crescent Beach, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral of Miss Lena Trofaconda, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Trofaconda, 12 Home street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. John J. McGrath. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Richard Glidden of Groton, was fined $10 for operating a car without having registration for the machine. John Luke of Deep River, was penalized to the extent of $3 for failing to have his operating license in his possession when he appeared operating the car here.

Mary Shasha and Rose Gerre, Syrians, became involved in a quarrel a month ago. Their case was continued till Monday, when it was nolled, as the women seem to have resided near each other a month without having engaged in further disturbances of the neighborhood.

John Henry Quinn, a paralytic and Anna Kennedy Erickson were presented in the police court Monday, the former charged with selling liquor and the latter with conducting a disorderly house, both at 690 Bank street. But there was no evidence on which to base the complaint, so that the prosecutor wondered why he had brought it when he came to get the evidence connected with the case. Of course, the house harbored men and women who were drunk about a week ago when the case first came to the attention of the court, but there was nothing in what the court could glean today that would bring about the arrest of the couple for the offense alleged. The husband of the Kennedy woman, Albert Erickson, was in the house and he was drunk, and Mamie Merine also paid a visit there, and she was also declared to have had a "load" on when she appeared. Mrs. Erickson is suing her husband for divorce and Mamie appears to be acting as a go between to end the divorce proceedings. The "nest" is a bad one no doubt, but no liquor was proven to have been sold there.

With traffic volume in New London at its height and with more traffic officers constantly being needed, there has been a persistent demand for some time that the three supernumerary police officrs, who have not been assigned to duty, be given regular patrol duty. The demand for added police protection will probably be granted for it is rumored that City Manager William A. Holt will cause the three supernumeraries, William and Edward Reardon and Henry A. Silva to be assigned to duty the latter part of this week or early next week. Because of the lack of a sufficient number of patrolmen to patrol the city there are several sections that do not receive a visit from a patrolman from one week's end to the other.

With the cry for the assigning to duty of three available supernumerary officers there are those members of the city council who are opposed to Supernumerary Officer Silva being assigned to duty. At least three members of the council are not in favor of this officer being given a beat and their reason is that he has a police record. When Silva took the examination, together with the other candidates, Capt. Pinney had knowledge of the record of the applicant, Silva was allowed to take the examination and passed creditably. He, however, was placed last on the list of successful candidates, indicating that he would not be given patrol duty if it was possible to prevent it.

At the time that the supernumerary officers were appointed an ordinance was passed instructing the city manager to conduct examinations and appoint 12 officers, but to date only six such officers have been appointed.

Peter Truken of Oakdale, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer Thomas Cavanaugh and State Policeman C. F. Pobuda of the Groton barracks, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Truken's car was taken from him and placed in a garage, but a short time afterwards his wife appeared at the police station and made a demand for the machine. As she held an operator's license, Mrs. Truken was allowed possession of the car. Truken was not required to furnish a bond for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning, being allowed his liberty on his own recognizance, although he has been arrested many times.

The lawn fete held Tuesday afternoon and evening on the estate of Rev. T. Lawranson Riggs, Ocean avenue, for the benefit of the community house fund of the Catholic diocesan bureau's local branch, was a big success and was attended by prominent society representatives from many places. The fete was under the direction of Mrs. Blanche Lanman Carr, formerly of Norwich, and wife of Admiral C. A. Carr, of Montauk avenue.

Mrs. Francis Connors of Stonington, Mrs. George Terry and infant son, Denison avenue, Mrs. William Bronitsley, Bank street, Miss Bessie Gitlin, Moore avenue, Morris Mazur and Samuel Mazur, Shaw street and Norman Barrett, Waterford, were patients discharged at Home Memorial hospital today.

John J. McGarry, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McGarry, 303 Williams St. was admitted as a member of the State Bar association at a meeting, of the superior court in New Haven this morning.

Capt. and Mrs. Lewis A. Chase of the Salvation Army field department are to be stationed elsewhere after next Sunday. They have received notification of their early transfer, but the city to which they will go will not be known for a day or two. They have been located in New London for about three years.

There is a probability that the 200 men laid off in Department O at the plant of the New London Ship and Engine company a week ago, will return to work the latter part of this week or early next week for President Lawrence Y. Spear of the company today announced that the government had notified the Groton concern that a check for part payment of the work on the submarines, now in course of repair there, is on its way to New London. As soon as the check reaches here the men laid off will be called back. The lay-off occurred when the New London Ship & Engine company was unable to obtain payment for work performed on S type of submarines because of dissention in departments at Washington. The amount of money due for work already performed at the Groton plant is approximately $500,000. The lay-off of the 200 hands curtailed the payroll of the Groton concern about $10,000 weekly.

Robert Anderson has returned to his home in New York having visited with Fire Chief and Mrs. Charles Rose, for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Matson are entertaining Miss Ethel Austin, Pachaug, L. I.

Mrs. Julia Klemah Glidden, wife of Richard Glidden, Fred street, Groton, who was injured mysteriously on Ocean avenue Fourth of July night either by falling from an automobile or jumping from a machine, has regained her senses completely at Lawrence hospital, but steadfastly refuses to relate under what circumstances she was injured. Mrs. Glidden's husband, was taken into custody several days ago on a technical charge of violation of the automobile laws.

According to Glidden his wife has on several occasions jumped from moving automobiles and has previously been injured as a result of her leaps.

The financial result of the recent carnival conducted by New London lodge of Elks has not yet been determined, but it is not likely that the lodge will net as much money as was anticipated. It is understood that the expense of the carnival was something like $26,000.

The city council has decided not to make its ordinances regulating traffic and of course the parking of automobiles in the streets so stringent that autoists will be discouraged from a free use of their cars. One thing the ordinance has done is to prevent the leaving of cars in the highways all night, as has been the practice with many owners. That course saves garage hire during the summer months. The council has also decided that too much space was given up to public service cars and has allowed private machines to be parked near the soldiers' and sailors' monument on State street. The city manager is given more latitude in making rules for the guidance of auto operators in that he may relax conditions if he deems that such a course is warranted. No cars will be allowed to park within 60 feet from a line drawn from the center opposite fire engine houses that there may be no interference with apparatus when it is called into service.

Several members of the council wanted automobiles coming into town to come through the principal business streets instead of going around the border of the town, thus avoiding the most attractive section where the best stores are located. It was held that the restaurants, the hotels and the stores were in need of all the trade that comes from out of town sources and to encourage it there should be less stringency in the regulation of the auto traffic.

Recently the city adopted a rule of allowing merchants in the fruit and vegetable business to establish and maintain stands for the display of upon the sidewalk. Now stores that their stock to the extent of two feet never sought that privilege in the long term of years they have been established are seeking to display wares on the walk.

A move is being made for the extension of Hope street through to Blackhall street. The late Mayor E. F. Mahan suggested such a change in Hope street years ago, but as he owned property on Blackhall street and that property would thus be benefitted the change was never made. Now the Mahan idea is about to be adopted. The matter has been referred to the city planning board. There are other streets in the city where an extension through to other streets would be a great improvement. Green street might be extended through to Tilley street and North Bank street should be extended through to Main street.

New London and the New London County Historical society will undoubtedly observe the tcentenary of the visit of General Lafayette to this city. Lafayette came here in August, 1824. The battle of Fort Griswold occurred on the 6th of September the same year. Now it has not been decided on which of the dates the anniversary will be observed.

Three trivial cases of traffic ordinance violations came to the police court this morning, but Judge Prince suspended judgment in each and cautioned the offenders to be careful.

GALES FERRY

The funeral of Orrin Stoddard Bennett was held from his home in this place at 2.30 D. S. T. Tuesday afternoon, with a large attendance. The services were conducted by the Rev. W. D. Woodward, of the M. E. church of Gales Ferry.

Hark Hark, Thy Soul, was sung by a quartette, Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, Miss Hazel Banfield, Walter M. Buckingham and Danny R. Povey. The flowers were beautiful.

Burial was in the Gales Ferry cemetery the bearers were Walter M. Buckingham, D. R. Povey, Samuel E. Lester and Joseph Dumis. Henry Allen & Sons were in charge of the arrangements.

Two touring cars, with a party from Illinois, camped on the grounds at River Bend casino, near Red Top, over the Fourth of July. Each car bore the name of the state in large white letters, on a black banner over the back of the car. The party were relatives, including the mother, of an enlisted man at the submarine base.

[illegible] has returned after a few days' visit in New York.

Roy Gardner and Carl Johnson spent the week end at Gardner Lake.

Mrs. Carl Johnson and daughter Joyce, were Sunday visitors at E. F. Comstock's.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Church entertained a large party of relatives and friends on the Fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Langdon were in New York over the holiday.

A genius is a married man who has a new excuse every time he stays out late.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

STOCK KPRICES STRONGER

New York, July 8.—Stock prices gave another impressive demonstration of strength in today's active market more than two score issues attaining new peak prices for the year. Buying was influenced by a continuation of easy money rates, reports of improvement in hte steel trade and indications that the democrats would select a conservative candidate as their presidential nominee.

Chief speculative interest was divided between the public utility and rail shares, which combined, furnisheds more than half of the day's new high records for the year. American Water Works common continued its sensational climb by moving up 7 1-4 points to 104 1-4, or about 22 points above last week's low. West Penn Power, a subsidiary, moved up more than 4 points to 88, also at a new peak price. General Electric touched a new peak price of 244 5-8 and then eased to 242 1-4, where it was up 1 1-4 points on the day.

New high records in the railroad group were registered by Union Pacific at 137 3-8, Illinois Central at 108, Northern Pacific at 64 1-8, Baltimore and Ohio at 60 1-4, and St. Louis Southwester at 43 1-4. Southern Railway and Louisville and Nashville touched record highs for all time at 66 1-2 and 99 3-4, respectively.

Steel shares, which have been inclined to heaviness in anticipation in another unfavorable tonnage report by the U. S. Steel corporation on Thursday, rallied with the rest of the list. U. S. Steel common crossing 101 for the first time in four months. Oil shares continued to hold relatively firm despite the extension of crude price cuts to the mid-continent territory.

Strong spots in the industrial and specialty list included U. S. Industrial Alcohol, National Biscuit, Loose Wiles Biscuit, Nash Motors, Allis Chalmers, Jordan, Martin Parry, Maxwell A., and Mathieson Alkali, all up one to 4 1-2 points. The only conspicuous weak spots were Manati Sugar, which broke 7 1-8 points; Philip Morris, off 2 5-8, and Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron, off 1 1-4.

Call money held at 2 1-2 per cent., all day. Time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with no change in rates.

Foreign exchanges held steady with trading restricted pending developments at the conference between Premiers Macdonald and Herriot at Parsi. Demand sterling ruled around $4.33 1-2 and French francs just above 5.10 cents.

BOND PRICES SHOW IMPROVEMENT.

New York, July 8.—Bond prices today registered moderate improvement with numerous speculative issues breaking into new high ground for the year. Railroad liens led the advance in the domestic list, but persistent selling of Brazilian obligatons, based on uneasiness over the Sao Paulo revolution had an unsettling effect on foreign bonds.

Widening inquiry for the low priced railroad issues led to several brisk rallies in this group, although the high grade descriptions on the whole made better progressive.

Reports that the Chicago and Alton reorganization plan soon would be completed contributed to a 2 point gain in the road's 3 1-2's. St. Paul, Erie, and New Haven liens were active and higher.

Wilson and Co., convertible issues developed fresh weakness today on reports that they would be subject to exchange under the company's refinancing plans, losses ranged from 2 to 2 1-2 points.

Early financing will include a loan of about $12,000,000 for the industrial mortgage bank of Finland. Bankers said no plans had been completed for the sale of bond issues aggregating about $20,000,000 for which the Pensylvania railroad made application to the intersetate commerce commission. The financing, it was believed, was being done for subsidiary liens.

ACTIVE DEMAND FOR CORN.

Chicago, July 8.—Broad active demand for corn today both for immediate and future delivery led to a sharp new advance in price. July corn smashed the season's top record, and Number 2 yellow here commanded $1.03 a bushel, likewise a new high record. The corn market closed strong, 1 1-4c to 1 7-8c net higher, July 98 3-4. In wheat the finish was unsettled, 1-4 to 1 1-4c down, with oats 1-4@3-8 to 5-8c up and provisions varying from unchanged figures to 7c advance.

Scarcity of receipts together with unwelcome showers and relatively low temperature had much to do with the eager buying which sprang up in the corn market. Besides, Texas reported crop damage in some sections, and the fact that the government crop report was due after the close tomorrow seemed to operate as an additional stimulus. Sales came almost entirely from holders who wished to realize profits, and the close was at the highest point of the day. Shipping business from here was the liveliest in a long while.

Wheat values were bearishly accepted by increased movement of new wheat in the southwest and consequent hedging sales as well as by rains in Canada.

THE CURB MARKET.

New York, July 8.—Public utilities assumed the leadership of the upward movement in today's curb market, which embraced practically all sections of the list. Except for losses of a point each by Prarie Oil and Gas and Imperial, the oil shares held up well in the face of cuts in mid-continent and Gulf Coast Crude prices.

Commonwealth Power was one of the outstanding features in the public utilities, touching a record high at par. Net gains of 1 to 7 points also were recorded by Hudson and Manhattan Railroad, Lehigh Power securities, Appalachian Power, Sierra Pacific, American Gas and Electric and National Power and Light. Baking stocks also made good gains.

In the mining group, Jib Consolidated was the active feature, touching another new 1924 high at 38 on the sales exceeding 100,000 shares.

Trading in bonds was active but the price range was narrow.

NEW HAVEN ROAD SHOWS JUNE SURPLUS

New York, July 8.—For the fourth consecutive month, the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad had surplus in June of slightly less than the $93,027 reported in May, according to preliminary estimates. This would give the road surplus of approximately $500,000 for the six months of 1924, the only first half year surplus it has had since 1917 which compares with a deficit of $4,169,000 a year ago.

BOLTON

The audience at the Congregational church Sunday morning were given great pleasure when Alexander Ware of New Jersey, who is visiting his aunt, Mrs. Alexander Bunce, played a violin solo.

Bolton people held a meeting at Bolton hall last week Thursday evening to discuss forming a stock company and having electric light power brought from the Manchester town line to Mrs. Louis H. Levey's summer home. It is estimated that the cost would be about $8,000. Mrs. L. H. Levey, Mrs. Charles Sumner and Samuel M. Alvord were appointed a committee to find how many people would purchase stock and power. Another meeting will be held Friday evening next.

Morgan Alvord, Myron M. Lee, Clifford Griswold and George Remer went on the Fourth to Andover where they entered a relay race with the boy there. During the race Myron Lee sprained his foot and had to drop out of the race.

An enjoyable community picnic was held at Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Sumner's, the afternoon of the Fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Finley and family of Long Island have come to their summer home, "Shady Nook" for the season.

Miss Grace Taylor and niece, Miss Ruth Hutchinson of New York are visiting the former's brother and wife, Rev. and Mrs. Frederick C. Taylor.

Rev. Father James Timmins, of South Manchester stated a catechism class of the Center Sunday, which he will continue for two months. He is assistant pastor at St. James' church, South Manchester.

Warren Toomey and Miss Maude Floyd of Hartford have been visiting at David Toomey's.

Miss Ruth S. Jones has returned from a fortnight's visit with her schoolmate, Miss Beatrice Sprague, at River Edge, New Jersey.

POETRY

Daybreak

A wind came up out of the sea,
And said, "O mists, make room for me!

It hailed the ships, and cried, "Sail on,
Ye mariners, the night is gone!"

And hurried landward far away,
Crying, "Awake! it is the day!"

It said unto the forest, "Shout!
Hang all your leafy banners out!"

It touched the wood bird's folded wing,
And said, "O bird, awake and sing!"

And o'er the farms, "O chanticleer,
Your clarion blow; the day is near!"

It whispered to the fields of corn,
"Bow down, and hail the coming morn!"

It shouted through the belfrey tower
"Awake, O bell! proclaim the hour."

It crossed the churchyard with a sigh,
And said, "Not yet! in quiet lie."
—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

The Tide River

Clear and cool, clear and cool
By laughing shallow and dreaming pool;
Cool and clear, cool and clear,
By shining shingle and foaming weir;
Under the crag where the ouzel sings,
And the lwied wall where the churchbell rings,
Undefiled, for the undefiled.
Play by me, bathe in me, mother and child.

Dank and foul, dank and foul,
By the smoky town in its murky cowl;
Foul and dank, foul and dank,
By wharf and sewer and slimy bank;
Darker and darker the farther I go,
Baser and baser the richer I grow;
Who dare sport with the sin-defiled?
Shrink from me, turn from me, mother and child.

Strong and free, strong and free,
The flood-gates are open, away to the sea.
Free and strong, free and strong,
Cleansing my streams as I hurry along,
To the golden sands, and the leaping bar,
And the taintless tide that awaits me afar.
As I lose myself in the infinite main,
Like a soul that has sinned and is pardoned again,
Undefiled, for the undefiled;
Play by me, bathe in me, mother and child.
—Charles Kingsley.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

The umbrella of yours looks as though it had seen better days.

Well, it certainly has had its ups and downs.—The Progressive Grover.

Ann—I'm certainly at a loss to know what to give my brother for his birthday.

Jim—Why don't you give him money?

Ann—Oh, it mustn't cost as much as that Good Hardware.

Your husband is a novelist, is he not?

Yes

Where does he get his plots

Oh, he just rummages round my pastr Lenton Mail.

Mrs. Youngwife—So you have grown nine pounds a month. Don't you think you are getting a great deal stout as in carrying time?

Miss Oldun (aged 24)—Dear me, no. It's the only chance I've had in 24 years.—Boston Transcript.

"The Boss offered me an interest in the business today."

"He did?"

"Yes, he told me if I didn't take an interest pretty soon he'd fire me."—Good Hardware.

Stout Woman (newcomer to town and referring to rear driveway to grocery store):

Young man, can I get into the grocery store through this entrance?

Fresh Kid: Nothin' like tryin', lady. I just saw a wagon go through.—The Progressive Grocer.

"What are you crying about, Edwin?"

"'Cause Dorothy's mean to me," he sobbed.

"Wha thas she been doing?" asked his mother.

"I ate all my candy and now she won't give me half o. hers," was the reply.—Chicago News.

Visitor—Are you going to be a great man when you grow up, Willie?

Willie—You bet. I'm going to be an arctic explorer.

"An arctic explorer's life is full of hardships, Willie."

"You m. But I can stand 'em. I reckon."

"I like your spirit, my boy, there is a great deal of glory to be gained in a career of that kind."

"Yes m, and you don't never have to wash your face."—Passing Show (London).

KALEIDOSCOPE

The first telephone and the first railway in China were each put to use in Shanghai.

Albany is raising a fund for the erection of a statue to Joseph Henry, pioneer American scientist.

Hospitals established in Latvia after the war have been converted into health centers and served 34,000 persons during the first half of 1923.

When Mrs. P. W. Boyd, of Coatesville, Pa., returned home from a visit she was surprised to see a new centerpiece on her dining room table. It was a swarm of honey bees which had piled up and formed a heap the size of a peck measure. Mrs. Boyd gathered up the tablecloth and carried it to the lawn and the swarm of bees dispersed.

What will probably be the last big round-up of horses in western Canada will take place soon in the range country southeast of Calgary. The horses will be rounded into one central corral where owners may claim their animals. It is expected that about 10,000 horses will be rounded up.

A new railway line which will open up country in the eastern part of the state of Piauhy, Brazil, which has hitherto been accessible only by primitive means of transportation, is soon to be constructed. This line will connect the town if Petrolina, in Pernambuco with Therezina, the capital of the state of Piauly, and when completed will enable travelers to go by rail from Bahia to San Luiz de Maranhao, a distance of more than 600 miles.

The governor-general of Madagascar and dependencies has granted to a French company a concession of 25,000 hectares (a hectare is 2.47 acres) on the west coast of Madagascar for the growing of vegetable textile fibers to be used in the manufacture of bags. If, within four years, the grantees construct a factory with a minimum capacity of 625,000 bags annually, an additional 25,000 hectares will be put at their disposal, according to report from Consul James C. Carter, Tananarive.

Through a mistake, Dr. Perkins, a medical missionary in China, who was to have addressed a church gathering in Hinsdale, N. H., took the wrong train and arrived in Hinsdale, Mass. As it was impossible for him to correct his error, he decided to remain there for the night and went to the Congregational church to attend devotions. Making known his mission in life, he was invited to give his talk in the Massachusetts Hinsdale.

HENRY R. SWEET
Norfolk, Connecticut.

NORFOLK
Have you ever been to Norfolk?
Known the Berkshire's breezy air?
Found the days to be enchanting,
And the nights quite free from care?

If you have not had this pleasure,
And you are in search of rest,
Drop your wearisome vexations
And let Norfolk do its best.

You will find an Inn delightful
At the bottom of the hill,
Where you'll meet a gladsome welcome
And a spirit of "good will."

After you have seen the village
With its clubhouse, fountain, square,
Visited its rare old library,
Heard its chimes ring on the air

Then go out into the country,
To the golf course wend your way,
And just walk off all your troubles
As you play "the game" each day—

You will see a rustic shelter,
Picturesque and oddly fine,
With a fountain in its center
Asking you to quaff its wine.

In the dear old hills of Norfolk
You will find a blessing true,
Be it rest or joy or quiet,
It is waiting there for you!

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Child and sons, Roger and James of Putnam, are with relatives here for a few weeks.

Mrs. Emily Rose Allen, 92, the 11th of last October, died at the home of John E. Aldrich Sunday evening, after an illness of several months from infirmities due to age. She had been a resident here for about 40 years, a housekeeper for the late Stephen Morse and she had a life lease of the Morse homestead, for nearly 20 years she has boarded with Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich, who gave her every comfort, which probably added many years to her life.

Her only daughter, Mrs. Dwight Blackman, died many years ago; her nearest of kin is a sister, Mrs. Francis Conant, aged 95, of New York and a great-grandson, Frank Blackman of Westerly, a nephew, Mr. Ross in Providence and cousins in Putnam.

The funeral was held Wednesday at 2 o'clock at the home. Rev. E. D. Baker conducted the simple service.

Burial was in the Morse lot.

Mrs. Allen was the oldest member of the Congregational church and for many years was a teacher in the Sunday school. She had a remarkable memory and compared many forms relating to birthdays and anniversaries.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Wunderlich and daughter Leonora, and Miss Pauline Wunderlich of Norwich avenue are spending this month at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wunderlich at Pleasant View, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Sebastian Gabiga and family of Norwich avenue moved this week to their new home on Newent road near the Lisbon school.

Word has been received in town that Rev. Arthur Varley of Portland, Conn., former pastor at the Taftville Congregational church will not lose his eyesight as a result of an accident. The nerves of his ears have been affected however and he will continue to be treated for this trouble.

Rev. Frank Rand of Portland, Conn., formerly of Taftville, is a patient at the Waitham, (Mass.) hospital, having fallen and broken some of the bones in his knee. His condition is considered serious, because of his age.

A Sunday paper recently had a picture of the members of Castle Perilous, No. 3747, Knights of King Arthur, of the Taftville Congregation church.

Rev. Sylvia Gaucher of Quebec, Canada, is the guest of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Gaucher of Dion street.

Miss Florence Lukoff and Master Peter Lukoff of South B street are spending the summer in Blackstone, Mass.

Miss Mathilde Stapfer of the Ponemah house is spending the summer at Hyannis, Cape Cod, Mass.

Miss Mary Murphy of Hartford, spent the holidays with her mother, Mrs. Anthony Murphy of Merchants avenue.

Rev. U. O. Bellerose of Providence street is spending a few days on Cape Cod.

Miss Isadora Caron of Hartford, was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Joseph Caron and family of School street, over the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dugas and family of Merchants avenue are on a motor trip to Canada.

Miss Jennie McSheffery has returned to Hartford after spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McSheffery and family of South A street.

Mrs. William Shaw of Mystic, is the guest of Mrs. Everett M. Pingree of North B. street.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pepin and family of North A street expect to leave this week for a motor trip which will take them to points of interest in the Province of Quebec, Canada.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Congregational church held an open air meeting Sunday evening.

Louis Ethier of North B street has resigned his position with the Carding department of the Ponemah company.

Miss Dora Green of New Bedford, Mass., who has been spending the past week in town has gone to Groton to visit relatives before returning home.

Hay has been cut on most of the vacant lots in the village.

A very pleasant time was spent Saturday evening when a number of friends surprised William Vogtman at his home on Terrace avenue. The evening was spent in playing games and piano solos were rendered by Misses Gladys Thoma, Erma Vogtman and Gussie Thoma. Later in the evening refreshments were served by Mrs. Vogtman and Miss Clara Vogtman.

GASOLINE STATION BURGLARS HAD ESCAPED FROM PORTSMOUTH PRISON

The four men arrested Monday night in Groton through the vigilance of the Norwich police and the cooperation of the New London officers after the quartet in a stolen automobile had robbed the gasoline station of Joseph Hastedt at the drawbridge on the military highway, turned out to be four desperados who escaped from the Portsmouth, N. H., naval prison Sunday night.

After the break into the gasoline station had been reported by Mr. Hastedt, the Norwich police were so hot on the trail of the fugitives, one of whom had a gun, that they had no chance to make their escape and proceeded to new acts of vandalism.

The four men were presented for a hearing Tuesday morning at a Justice court held at the Norwich state hospital with Justice of the Peace V. P. A. Quinn presiding. They were charged with burglary and breaking and entering and were bound over to the criminal superior court Bonds for each were placed at $2,500 and as the men were not able to furnish bonds they were brought to the Norwich jail by Constable Michael Nolan of Preston.

A dispatch from Portsmouth gives the details of the escape from prison as follows:

Four naval prisoners, characterized by officials of the Portsmouth naval prison as "very Gespers 2" made off in a stolen automobile after their escape effected during a motion picture show Sunday evening.

The prisoners, two of whom had broken arrest previously apparently needed no outside aid as they found all the materials necessary themselves. One report was that the men passed the prison gates in a stolen car by having one of their number clad in stolen civilian clothes say the party comprised "an officer and three ladies."

The fugitives were offenses ranged from theft to manslaughter, are: George M. Maher Waltham Mass., manslaughter, sentenced to 10 years; Frank O'Neill, Sioux Falls, S. D., theft and robbery, breaking arrest and assaulting a sentry, 10 years; Joseph Whitney, Cambridge, Mass., theft and robbery and breaking arrest, 6 years, James S. McCool, St. Clair, Pa., desertion and theft, 5 years.

The prisoners are given the privilege of bi-monthly attendance at a motion picture show and this was held Sunday night in the auditorium, which is on top of the prison building. Lieut. Col. H. D. South, U. S. M. C., commanding officer of the prison, said that the prisoners are always counted in and counted out, and it was on the tally out that the four were missed. Sentries are stationed at the door, and on the stairways. Lights are subdued because of the show, and it is believed that the fugitives slipped out of the hall and down the stairs under cover of the semi-darkness.

The prisoners evaded the guards and gained the platform at the top of the cell block, Col. South said. They had apparently provided themselves in advance with a pair of tinsmith's shears, taken from a tool box, and working quickly and quietly, they cut an opening in the galvanized iron ventilator big enough for them to get through to the roof.

The completeness of their arrangements was again shown by the use of a practically new coil of rope to make the descent to the ground. In the yard some of the prisoners stole the automobile of Lieut. W. D. Baker, bearing a Michigan license, while others broke into the house of Gunner Frank P. Wallace, and took a civilian coat and hat. These were put on and the man so disguised apparently became the driver of the car, leaving his prison uniform behind him. Whether the others changed into women's clothes was not definitely established, but it was reported that all possibility there passed the sentries at the gate with word that the party consisted of "an officer and three ladies". The prison uniforms of two others were found outside the walls.

Whitney was wanted at Cambridge, Mass., by District Attorney Reading for robbery, and was to have been surrendered to the civil authorities shortly.

LAWN PARTY FOR 500 AT STATE HOSPITAL

Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 5, Mrs. Franklin S. Wilcox, wife of Supt. Wilcox, of Norwich State Hospital, gave a lawn party in the garden at the Superintendent's home for five hundred of the women patients.

The garden was very attractive, now that the gay summer flowers are in bloom and many pleasing forms of diversion were arranged for the guests of Mrs. Wilcox. A popular feature was a drill for thirty of the patients, in costume, directed by Dr. Katherine Bryan. Swahn's orchestra, played throughout the afternoon. There were games on the lawn, under direction of the supervisor of occupational therapy, Miss Beatrice Flather.

The hospital staff of physicians and nurses, about thirty in all, saw to it that all the guests enjoyed the fete.

Strawberry ice cream cones, lollipops and lemonade were served by Mrs. Wilcox who gave great pleasure to the patients able to be out and about and enjoy her hospitality.

EXPECT ELKS' TRAIN TO CARRY BIG CROWD

Norwich Elks are expecting to have a train full of 200 to 250 people go to Boston on Thursday to see the parade in the afternoon at 3.30 in connection with the grand lodge convention of the B. P. O. E. According to the announcement by the Norwich committee in charge of the train arrangements, the public generally is invited to make the trip. The train will leave here at 8 in the morning and be home again by midnight.

Past Exalted Ruler Arthur F. Campbell, who is the official representative of Norwich lodge, is attending the convention, and past exalted rulers who were there Tuesday for the election of the grand exalted ruler included James P. Hayes, Judge Nelson J. Ayling, James J. Casey, James Harrington, James E. McCormick, W. W. Beckwith, Thomas R. Cranev, William R. Stevens, John H. Carney and L. E. Millea.

NORWICH TOWN

The annual cradle roll party of the First Congregational church is to be held Friday afternoon, from 3.30 to 5.30 (daylight time) on the church lawn. All children of the parish under eight years of age are eligible to attend. The smaller children and infants will be accompanied by their mothers. This affair held each summer under the auspices of this church, is always looked forward to with much enthusiasm by the little folks and all interested. At this gathering the opening of the mite boxes will take place.

The Drop-in class of the First Congregational Sunday school is to hold a meeting this (Wednesday) evening at the home of Mrs. David M. Dean, of Town street, to formulate plans for future activities.

Rev. and Mrs. Peter S. Collins of East Lyme, have returned home, following a visit of a few days over the holiday season, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Turnbull, of Wauwecus Hill. They were accompanied by Miss Dorothy Turnbull, who is to be their guest for a week. Rev. Mr. Collins, formerly pastor of Lemingwell Baptist church, is now pastor of Flanders Baptist church, East Lyme.

On a motor trip to Hartford, Sunday, when a visit was made to the beautiful rose gardens at Elizabeth park, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Tague and son George, were accompanied by Mrs. William Young. All are of McClellan avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pieretti and family of Town street motored to Groton Independence Day and spent several hours at the home of Mrs. Pieretti's mother, Mrs. Lell Phelps.

NORWICH, ENGLAND, VISITOR IN THIS NORWICH TUESDAY

A visitor in Norwich Tuesday morning who inspected this city and its attractions with unusual interest was Rev. Kerrison Juniper, pastor of the First Congregational Church of St. Petersburg, Florida. The clergyman is passing six weeks in Hartford preaching for rthe National Moderator of the Congregational Church, Rev. Rockwell Harmon Potter pastor of the Center church of Hartford. He has already occupied the pulpit there three Sundays, therefore has tares weeks more to stay.

Rev. Mr. Juniper is a native of Norwich, England, a thriving and ancient town of over 100,000 population, with which Norwich, Conn., has had considerable correspondence in other years. Eight years ago Mr. Juniper came to Florida and for six years has been pastor of the largest Congregational church at St. Petersburg. In that way he came to know a number of Connecticut people and in his honor a reunion dinner was given Monday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mabrey, of Ocean Beach.

It was the Englishman's first experience with a regulation New England shore dinner. To enjoy it with him were the following acquaintances made at St. Petersburg: Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Crandall, Mr. and Mrs. Will Starr, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund D. Baker, Arthur C. Fuller and Henry P. Weaver, of New London, Mr. Weaver's son, Arthur Weaver, of Kansas City and his daughter, Miss Harriet Weaver of Ne wLondon and Mrs. Constantine of New York.

For his special delectation there was a feast of clam chowder, steamed clams, shoestring potatoes and broiled mackerel, potato salad, clam fritters, tomato, cucumber and lettuce salad, white bread, brown bread, loganberry pie and watermelon. The table decorations were rambler roses and ferns.

Mr. Juniper's only previous experience with clams has been with the southern variety—as big, he declared as a man's palm and he was greatly taken with the flavor and tenderness of the little Connecticut product.

Tuesday morning he was driven from the beach to Norwich by his host and hostess and was taken for a tour of the business and residential sections of this city, especially to the historic points about Norwich Town and Bean Hill. He had a drink of refreshing water from the old well at Norwich Town meeting-house, but he balked when offered a draught from the famous Benedict Arnold well, on the property of C. Morgan Williams, for he was told the legend of Benedict Arnold's boyhood pranks and of his naughtiness in drowning a cat in that particular well.

Through the courtesy of Miss Imogene Cash, librarian of Otis Library, Rev. Mr. Juniper was given an opportunity to look over Miss Caulkins' History of Norwich, as he was particularly anxious to learn just why this town was given the name of his English birthplace.

He told entertainingly of the Norwich across the sea, also a city built on hills, lying in the midst of an agricultural section, yet having two world-known industries, a big shoe factory and the plant where Colman's mustard is prepared. The city is on the River Wensum, and is rich in historic associations. The chief executive is a Lord Mayor who has associated with him a municipal commission. The city is the headquarters for canary birds in England and the football team call themselves "The Canaries."

The English Norwich is in the County of Norfolk, and because of the fact that Elder Robinson was born in Norwich and 32 from the Mayflower came from Norfolk County, while the ancestors of Abraham Lincoln were born near Norwich, Mr. Juniper laughingly declared that these facts had made him an almost-American citizen before he ever came to this country.

He thought the Connecticut Norwich beautiful and enthused over the charming residences with their well kept grounds, as well as the picturesque scenes along the Thames River. He returned to the beach with Mr. and Mrs. Mabrey Tuesday noon and will go back to Hartford today (Wednesday).

Before motoring from here, he mailed a colored post card of Norwich harbor to a friend who was lord mayor of Norwich, England at the time Rev. Mr. Juniper left that city for the United States.

BALTIC MAN'S NEPHEW ON ADVENTUROUS TRIP

Patrick Murphy of Baltic, who for 38 years prospected in the gold mining regions of the Black Hills of Dakota, Nevada and Alaska, is in receipt of a letter from his nephew, John E. Murphy, of Beverley Farms, Mass. A Boston Sunday paper of recent date carried a two-column story which featured a picture of Young Murphy and two other Massachusetts young men who left Boston and sailed from New York last week, bound for the wilds of French Guiana in South America, to regions where white men seldom, if ever, penetrate. The group is headed by George E. Greelev Jr., until recently head of the romance language department of the Gardner High school. The third of the adventurers is H. Leslie Smith of Arlington, a young scientist. These young explorers in addition to their search for gold—of which Greely is sure there is some—will try to find rare birds, fish, amphibians and reptiles to bring to the Harvard museum. The three young explorers are World war veterans, and saw active service at the front.

In speaking of young Murphy, the Boston paper had this to say:

"Another of the foot-loose trio is John E. Murphy of Beverly Farms, also a war-scarred young veteran. Murphy was in the Beverly High school when the war involved this country. He enlisted at the tender age of 15, getting by the enlistment officers because he said he was 18 and because his size and appearance were good visual backing for the lie. In Battery F, 101st Field Artillery, 26th Division, he saw nine months' active service at the front. He was twice badly gassed. He returned to Boston for government training at the Hawley Engineering school. He had a flare-up of the old trouble from the gas in France and had to lay off a while. Then he went to Northwestern University and l— to the Wentworth institute, from which he was graduated this June in electrical engineering. In speaking of the expedition Mr. Murphy said when he learned of his nephew's intentions of going to South America, he was imbued with the same wandering spirit that carried him to the gold fields years ago, and, had he been a younger man he would have joined the group of young explorers. During Mr. Murphy's long period in the west he staked claims in some of the best paying mines and today he is living in Baltic and enjoying the fruits of his dangerous and perilous experiences which he encountered in the mining districts of the far west.

Hand Gashed on Motor.

Cashier Henry L. Frisbie of the Uncas National bank, had the palm of his left hand badly gashed last week at Gardner lake, while operating a motor attached to a canoe. It took several stitches to close the wound.

The mule doesn't admire the short ears of the horse.

BALTIC YOUNG MAN WINS HIGH SCHOOL HONORS

Dudley H. Burr, youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. James G. Burr of Baltic, who graduated last month at Windham High school, Willimantic, crowned a record of unusual activity and ability in varied lines by receiving the highest honors that the school gives.

He received the Willimantic Rotary cup for leadership, ability and excellence in athletics and the Gager prize for highest honors in scholarship, at athletics, and extra curriculum activities. He was also awarded a $5 gold piece for being the best bat player during his four years at school.

Young Burr was a member of the football team for four years and was captain in 1921, a member of the baseball team for four years and captain in 1923, played on the basketball team for two years and was high scorer for the seasons of 1923 and 1924. He was president of the high school athletic association for two years, president of the Windham High School bank for the same length of time and president of the science club for the same period. He filled the position of joke editor of "Wyndonian"—the high school paper—in 1922 and 1923 and acted as athletic editor during 1923 and 1924. Young Burr carried the part of leading man in the high school play, Daddy Long Legs, and was a member of the dramatic and debating clubs and of the debating team.

He started his early training in baseball and basketball activities with Manager Harry Collins of Baltic, and a number of managers of different baseball and basketball teams in this state have been trying to get him to sign up with them. When young Burr was 11 years of age he saved the life of a Baltic girl and at that time he was in line for a Carnegie medal. He is an expert swimmer.

His many friends are congratulating him in receiving so many honors, and wishing him success in his college work which he will begin this fall. He is a brother of Jimmie Burr of Baltic, the well known member of the Trinity college football team.

WALLINGFORD HAS LOWEST INFANT MORTALITY RATE

The lowest infant mortality rate in the state of Connecticut is found in the city of Wallingford, according to an infant mortality report published by the American Child Health Association of New York city. This report places Wallingford's infant death rate at 33, which means that 33 babies out of every 1,000 born during 1923 died within their first year.

The 1922 and 1923 mortality rates for the 28 Connecticut cities of more than 10,000 population are as follows:

City	1923	1922
Ansonia	75	97
Bridgeport	84	80
Bristol	78	77
Danbury	71	97
Derby	77	89
East Hartford	103	66
Enfield	64	84
Fairfield	84	77
Greenwich	63	62
Hartford	88	79
Manchester	69	71
Meriden	71	69
Middletown	74	72
Milford	78	45
Naugatuck	64	98
New Britain	92	79
New Haven	75	74
New London	76	84
Norwalk	74	75
Norwich	77	66
Orange	64	48
Stamford	70	59
Stonington	85	79
Stratford	71	60
Torrington	65	62
Wallingford	109	33
Waterbury	83	89
Windham	90	89

The infant mortality rate for the entire state is 77 which places it eleventh among the 30 states and District of Columbia, comprising the Birth Registration Area. This area including 584 cities of more than 10,000 population, is covered in the report issued by the American Child Health Association.

As in 1922 Pacific Coast states again lead all sections of the country in low infant death rates, the average for the entire section being 57. Washington with a rate of 51, Oregon with 53, Minnesota with 62, and California with 66, head the list of all the states within the Birth Registration Area.

Santa Cruz, California, and Winchester, Massachusetts, hold the best infant mortality record with in the area, each having a record of 26. Spokane, Washington, with a rate of 48 stands first among cities of 100,000 to 250,000 population, while New York city and Cleveland, Ohio, head the list of the ten largest cities in the United States.

In cities of 250,000 or more a comparatively small number of infant deaths occur. It is in cities between 10,000 and 25,000 population that the highest rates exist. The following table gives averages of the 584 cities in the birth registration area grouped according to size:

Population	Rate
Over 250,000	75.9
100,000 to 250,000	80.5
50,000 to 100,000	79.3
25,000 to 50,000	78.3
10,000 to 25,000	81.6

The statistics issued by the American Child Health Association constitute an annual report designed to interest the entire country in the reduction of infant mortality and the necessity for birth registration. This report is part of a nationwide programme for child health built up by the American Child Health Association, of which Herbert Hoover is president.

Data for the Birth Registration Area was secured from the United States bureau of the census while figures from the territory in the death registration area were gathered directly from the state and local authorities.

PAYS $25 FINE ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

The case of Louis Tremontosi, charged with rape and seduction, which was continued from last week, was continued until next Tuesday, July 15th, in the city court Tuesday morning.

The continued case of Albert Lasch charged with reckless driving after he had collided with the Hartford bus on upper Broadway, one week ago Sunday, was again called up. Lasch entered a plea of guilty and Judge Libby fined him $25 and costs amounting to $41.23 which he paid.

The case of Vito DeBaritolo charged with violation of the dog law for not having [illegible] was next on the docket and the charge was nolled on actual costs of $12.

CASE OF SMALLPOX DEVELOPS IN PLAINFIELD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Plainfield, July 9.—Mrs. Peter Bellais of the state road, Plainfield, was taken ill with smallpox Sunday afternoon. She had been with friends in Danielson last week. As there are several cases in that town, it is thought she caught the disease while there.

Necessary precautions are being taken to prevent the disease from spreading in Plainfield. The employes in one room in the Lawton mills where Mrs. Belisle was employed, were called to the mill hospital and vaccinated Tuesday.

Miss Kirby, superintendent of the hospital, stated that the whole town would be vaccinated should another case be discovered.

Revoked Police Commissioners.

Clerk George E. Parsons of the superior court has received the following letter from the governor's secretary as given out by the governor:

Dear Sir: Governor Templeton has revoked the commissions of Theron C. Sweet and Edward M. Bryan, both of New London as policemen, made June 19, 1922, upon application of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company.

ANSON T. McCOOK,
Executive Secretary.

DAVIS ASSUMES LEADERSHIP OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY

West Virginian, Chosen on 103rd Ballot, Acknowledges His Nomination as Presidential Candidate in Address Before Convention Pledging His Devotion to the Cause of the Party—Thirty Names Placed Before Convention as Candidates for Vice Presidential Nomination—Davis Goes Into Conference With Party Managers Regarding Selection of His Running Mate—Byran Announces He Will Support the Ticket.

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 9.—John W. Davis, of West Virginia, nominated for the presidency by the democratic national convention in the breaking up of its history making deadlock, assumed tonight the active leadership of the party.

After appearing before the convention and sounding the rallying cry of a fighting campaign he went into conference with party managers regarding the nomination for the vice presidency. The stage of actual balloting for second place on the ticket had been reached but just before the first roll call began a recess of an hour was taken to permit of discussion that would enable selection of a nominee on which all elements could unite. Mr. Davis appeared before the convention shortly after midnight after it had heard Governor Alfred E. Smith voice his praise for the selection finally made to head the party ticket and promise unstinted support for his election.

The nominee began by an expression of gratitude and appreciation of the honor that has come to him.

"But grateful as I am of this great honor I think even more of the duties you have given me to perform. But I take comfort when I look at the banners displayed throughout this hall and reflect that they are not the standards of a phantom army but that they represent an army of millions of democrats ready as they always have been to battle for liberty and righteousness.

"The great principles of the democratic party,—honesty in government, that public office is a public trust equal taxation, an open door of opportunity to the humblest citizen in all this land, liberty at home and courage and honor and helpfulness abroad—these principles are as dear to the east as to the west, and revered by the north and by the south.

"And this great army is ready to do battle again to any who challenge any part of it. On this platform all progressives can stand, to this banner all liberals can rally, and for this cause all democrats can and I know, will stand united.

"I know this convention has had its differences, but all these things were but the thunderstorm that cleared the clouds away and left shining on the sun of coming victory and success.

"When I am duly advised of the nomination it will be my duty to speak further on these and kindred thems. I shall therefore do no more at the moment than to express my appreciation and to express my confidence that I shall lead in this campaign a united, a militant, and a victorious party."

Those who participated in the conference with Mr. Davis after he addressed the convention in the Garden were George Brennan, of Illinois; Senator Walsh of Montana, Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, Governor Smith, former Governor Stewart, of Montana, and Frank Polk, former under secretary of state.

The vice presidency was discussed and there also was some discussion of the chairmanship of the democratic national committee. In connection with the latter it was understood Mr. Polk and Franklin D. Roosevelt were discussed.

When the conference with Mr. Davis broke up it was said by some of those who had been participating that Governor Bryan, of Nebraska, was being strongly considered for the vice presidential nomination.

While the convention was assembling James M. Cox, the standard bearer of 1920, entered the hall and went to visit the Ohio delegation. He was congratulated on the important part he took in bringing about a nomination and getting the convention out of its deadlock.

Thomas B. Love of Texas, one of the principal McAdoo partisans was at the convention tonight warmly endorsing the selection of Mr. Davis.

Chairman Walsh did not come to the night session and left Representative Barkley of Kentucky in the chair. Meanwhile Mr. Meredith authorized the Associated Press to say that under no circumstaces would he accept the vice presidential nomination. That pointed the indicator back at Chairman Walsh despite his refusals. It was known that renewed pressure was being brought on him to reconsider his decision.

The evening prayer was offered by the Rev. Robert L. Kelley, Congregationalist, director of the American Association of Colleges.

Former ovornor McCorkle of West Virginia moved that James M. Cox be invited to address the convention.

Mr. Cox told the convention he had the satisfaction of knowing that the convention had acted wisely in selecting Mr. Davis whom he described as "one of the most respiendent statesmen of the last century" and a man of spotless record who was "a platform in himself."

The convention adopted a series of resolutions thanking everybody for everything.

Meanwhile Mr. Davis arrived near the convention hall and the crowd outside could be heard cheering.

While waiting for Mr. Davis to visit the garden the convention went on to the consideration of vice presidential nominations. First Chairman Barkley read a letter from Senator Walsh declining the vice presidential nomination. He said he preferred to remain in the senate and run for reelection. The roll call for vice presidential nomination speeches was called and Alabama yielded to W. L. Barnum, of Arizona.

He nominated John C. (Jack) Greenway, of Bisbee, Ariz. When Mr. Barnum finished the convention suspended the rules for the first time and decided to limit further nominating speeches to five minutes. California yielded to Texas and Thomas H. Ball, of Houston, was recognized to nominate Alvin C. Owsley, former commander of the American Legion.

Colorado yielded to Tennessee and Charles M. Bryan, of Tennessee, nominated George L. Berry, head of the Pressmen's Union.

Connecticut yielded to New Jersey. John A. Matthews, of Newark, N. J., nominated Governor Silzer. He previously had nominated Governor Silzer for the presidency.

Florida yielded to South Carolina and T. G. McLeod, of Columbia, S. C., nominated Mrs. Leroy Springs, of Lancaster for the vice presidency. Mrs. Springs is the first woman ever placed in nomination for the office.

Mrs. Ann L. Smith, a delegate at large from Illinois, also seconded the nomination of Berry. Walter Myers, of Indianapolis, seconded the nomination of Alvin Owsley.

A third seconding speech for Berry was made by Dan F. Steck, of Iowa.

Kansas yielded to Iowa and J. Ray Files, of Fort Dodge, placed in nomination Governor Jonathan M. Davis, of Kansas.

Louisiana yielded to Ohio and Garrett S. Clavpool, of Chillicothe, placed before the convention the name of Bennett Clark, son of the late Speaker Champion Clark of Missouri.

The name of William A. Gaston of Massachusetts was presented by Whitfield L. Tuck of Winchester, Mass.

Mayor John F. Hylan of New York city was nominated by Robert Dinsmore of Massachusetts.

Michican was called and Walter I. McKenzie of Detroit seconded the nomination of Alvin Owsley.

When Minnesota was called C. C. McCarthy, of Grand Rapids seconded the nomination of John C. Greenway.

New Hampshire yielded to Maine and Fulton J. Redman of Ellsworth placed in nomination Edwin T. Meredith, of Iowa, secretary of agriculture in the Wilson administration.

Mr. Meredith was sitting with the Iowa delegation and vigorously shook his head. He previously had stated that he would not accept the nomination.

S. J. B. Johnson, of Brooklyn, then seconded the nomination of Governor Silzer. Then Governor Morrison, of North Carolina seconded the nomination of Mrs. Springs of South Carolina.

The nomination of Governor Silzer was seconded by Charles B. Lenahan, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., and the nomination of Owsley was seconded by Mary E. Herbert, of Allentown, Pa.

Governor William S. Flynn, of Rhode Island, was placed in nomination by Isabelle Ahearn O'Neall, a member of the Rhode Island legislature.

W. W. Howes, national committeeman for South Dakota, nominated James W. Gerard, of New York, former ambassador to Germany.

The nomination of Governor Silzer was seconded by J. P. Leamy, of Vermont.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN WILL SUPPORT TICKET

New York, July 9.—William Jennings Bryan, who openly and vigorously opposed the nomination of John W. Davis as the democratic presidential candidate, announced today after Mr. Davis had been nominated that he would "support the ticket."

DAVIS NOMINATED ON 103RD BALLOT

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 9.—John W. Davis of West Virginia was nominated for president today by the democratic national convention after the 103rd ballot.

The opposition of William Jennings Bryan and the attempt of William G. McAdoo to deliver his strength to Meredith failed to stop him.

The general opinion around the hall was that the vice presidency would be offered to Senator Walsh of Montana, the chairman of the convention.

During the calling of the roll, which gave Davis his majority, New York and Illinois gave notice that at the end of the roll call they would change their votes. It bacame known that they would go to Davis.

So New York and delegation leaders all over the hall were on their feet clamoring for recognition to change their votes to Davis. Illinois changed to Davis, making his total 639. Then New York gave him 60 of her 90, making the Davis total 699.

The hall was in an uproar, the Davis band wagon was moving with full momentum and everybody was scrambling to get on. Changes in votes piled in faster than the clerks could record them.

Connecticut's 14 votes were cast for Davis.

The scenes of disorder swept the convention as everybody clamored for a chance to join the winning forces. When the uproar was at its height Thomas Taggart of Indiana mounted a chair and moved the nomination of Mr. Davis by acclamation. It was given with a roar.

Ballots Cast Wednesday.

The final ballot, 100th, cast just before adjournment early Wednesday morning and the remaining ballots cast on the presidential nomination follow:

Total voting 1,092. Absent or not voting 6; necessary to a choice, 727.

DAVIS SAYS LIBERAL PRINCIPLES MUST PREVAIL

New York, July 9.—John W. Davis, the democratic presidential nominee, declared in a statement late today: "There ban be no compromise with reaction. Liberal principles must and will prevail. This is the mandate of the hour and I shall obey it."

Mr. Davis asserted that not the least of the weighty obligations that had fallen to him was "the duty to put before the country as clearly as my powers permit the democratic creed and the democratic policy as the convention has declared them." He said he had no doubt that this creed and this policy would receive the militant support of all those who call themselves by the democratic name.

"I shall hope to rally to their aid," he continued, "that great body of liberal, progressive and independent thought which believes that progress is motion, government is action, which detests privilege in whatever form and which does not wish the American people or their government to stand still or retreat from the midst of a changing world."

Mr. Davis' statement follows:

Brazilian Troops Bombard Sao Paulo

Government Forces Attack Rebels' Defensive Positions in the Luz Barracks and Adjoining Railway Station.

Bunos Aires, July 9.—(By The A. P.)—Latest advices from Rio Janeiro indicate that the previous announcement of the capture by government forces of the rebel positions in Eao Paulo was premature. The positions now are being bombarded by heavy artillery, with airplanes co-operating, it is stated, and the official word is that "all is ready for the final assault."

The uprising has already cost several hundred lives and much property damage. After the loyal troops of the city had been defeated the arrival of government reinforcements forced the rebels to take up defensive positions in the Luz barracks and the adjoining railway station, and it is these places which are under bombardment. Previous advices were to the effect that they had been taken by assault.

A battle between rebel forces and 600 federal marines and soldiers transported to Santos by the batleship Minas Ceraes occurred Sunday at San Bernardo, near Sao Paulo. According to unofficial accounts the federal losses in this fighting were heavy, totaling 250 dead and 200 wounded.

Despite this resistance some of the marines apparently succeeded in reaching Sao Paulo, as their presence is mentioned in official accounts of the fighting there. The number of casualties in Sao Paulo is not known.

Although the rebels dominated the city for three days they were unable to capture Carlos Da Camp, governor of Sao Paulo state, who with loyal troops withstood a siege within the government palace until relief arrived.

Bolivian advices report the outbreak of an insurrection at Santa Cruz De Sierra, in the Bolivian department of the same name, bordering on Brazilian territory. The movement, allegedly headed by leaders of the liberal party aided by foreign free lances, is said to be aimed at separating the province from Bellvia and joining Brazil.

GOV. BRYAN FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 10.—Charles W. Bryan, of Nebraska, was nominated for vice president by the democratic national convention early today.

CROWDS SURROUND FUNERAL TRAIN AT BALTIMORE

On Board the Coolidge Funeral Train, Baltimore, July 9.—(By the A. P.)—Crowds lined both sides of the tracks as the special train bearing President Coolidge's family and the body of their son arrived at this city on its way to Vermont.

The casket was on a bier in a special compartment at the rear of the last car guarded by two marines. The compartment was lighted and the flower-covered casket was visible to those who silently watched it pass in the night.

DENIES APPLICATION FOR 'OIL" RECEIVER

New York, July 9.—Federal Judge Knox today denied the application for the appointment of a receiver for the Middle States Oil Corporation made in a suit brought by William Shivers, a stock holder. The court held, however, that its action was without prejudice for a future application.

FINANCIER LEAVES ESTATE VALUED AT $8,000,000

New York, July 9.—The estate of Frederick F. Ayer, lawyer and financier of Boston and New York, who died last month, was appraised at $8,000,000 in an application for letters of administration filed today by Mrs Lesley J. Pierson, his sister.

OFFICIAL RETURNS LACKING ON MEXICAN ELECTION

Mexico City, July 9.—The followers of both General Plutarco Elias Calles and General Angel Flores continue to claim victory for their respective leaders in last Sunday's presidential election. The official returns, however, are still lacking.

Local florists organizations yesterday sent a message of congratulation to General Flores, based on reports of victory said to have been received from their agents throughout the country.

Final Rites For Calvin Coolidge, Jr.

Thousands stand on White House Lawn With Bowed Heads During Simple But Impressive Service.

Washington, July 9—President and Mrs. Coolidge tonight took their boy Calvin back to Vermont to be buried in the family plot of the little cemetery at Plymouth.

A simple but impressive funeral was held in the east room of the white house late this afternoon, attended by government officials, ranking military officers, members of the diplomatic corps and intimate friends of the family.

On the white house lawn several thousand persons stood with bowed heads during the ceremony, having come to give visible expression of their sympathy.

Typical of their New England reserve, President and Mrs. Coolidge repressed outward manifestation of their grief. The family, broken for the first time, drew comfort from the service and Mrs. Coolidge listened attentively to the consoling words of the scripture. The president, on her left, sat with head slightly bowed. The son, John, on his mother's right, sat erect and listened earnestly to the pastor.

A little later, in the evening, the casket was closed for the last time, in the presence of the family, and soon thereafter, almost to the hour when three weeks ago, bubbling with joy, he returned home from school, the boy was carried to the funeral train.

Tomorrow morning a brief stop will be made at Northampton, Mass., where Calvin was born and where services will be held for him. From there the party, including members of the president's cabinet and others close to him in personal and official life, will proceed to Plymouth. Burial will be there late in the afternoon in the lot where the president's mother and sister lie. And tomorrow night those who made the journey will return to the capital.

The services this afternoon were of short duration, but the emotions of many of those who filled the east room, could not be concealed. As a quartet sang "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go" there were moist eyes, and broken sobs came from several parts of the chamber.

Then the Rev. Jannon Noble Pierce of the First Congregational church, the president's pastor, prayed God to "use the precious memory to make the family strong and love enduring."

"Thy love comprehends our sorrows," he continued, "and we thank thee for thy most divine comfort, and make us to live that when our time comes we may have his bravery, courageousness and soldier fortitude."

Opening the service, the pastor read the twenty third psalm and then other verses of scripture. These included John 16th; verses 1-3, 15-20, 25-27, and Romans 8th.

Two poems, recited often and admired by Calvin, "away" by James Whitcomb Riley and Tennysons "Crossing the Bar" then were read.

ELEVEN CONN. BOYS WIN YALE PRIZES

New Haven, Conn., July 9.—Recipients of 22 prizes offered by the Yale club of New York for excellence in freshman courses at Yale, announced today, show that eleven Connecticut, five New York, two Pennsylvania and once each Washington, D. C., and Kentucky students won the awards.

Among the prize winners were Alfred M. Bingham, son of Professor Hiram Bingham of Yale, who took three, and John H. G. Pierson, son of Charles W. Pearson of New York; Harry Resnick Jr., of New Haven and Hebdon Harris, son of Frederick T. Harris of New York, who took two each.

Other winners included Walter A. Burke, New York city; William M. Day, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Edward Darling, Wilkes Barre, Pa.; Leonard B. Clark, Portland, Maine; Jerome J Pickard, Seattle, Wash.; Morris Starr, Washington, D. C.; and Harold N. Tague, Louisville, Ky.

ARRESTED AT ANSONIA FOR STABBING AFFRAY

BELIEVE U. S. ARBITRATION WAY OUT OF DIFFERENCES

British and French Premiers Hit Upon Arbitration by This Country to Settle Their Differences Respecting Application of the Dawes Plan—Prime Minister MacDonald Concedes Reparation Commission Should Not be Robbed of Its Right to Say When Germany is in Default—M. Herriot Agrees to Give Up France's Perponderance of Votes in the Commission.

Paris, July 9—(By the A. P.)—The premiers of France and Great Britain today decided upon American arbitration as a way out of their differences respecting the application of the Dawes plan.

Prime Minister Macdonald conceded to Premier Herriot that the reparation commission should not be robbed of its right to say when Germany is in default in that plan and M. Herriot in exchange, agreed to give up France's preponderance of votes in the commission.

The French statesman consented that an American be called in to sit with the commission and to vote on the question of whether Germany at any time is failing to carry out her obligations under the plan.

Mr. McDonald gave M. Herriot further satisfaction respecting the interallied debts, assuring him that great Britain would consider the question with due regard for all of the elements bearing upon it.

Both agreed to pursue the question of security either through the League of Nations or otherwise until a definite settlement was reached.

The result of the conference between the two premiers is regarded in French circles as strengthening the Herriot cabinet and likely to save it from disaster in the senate tomorrow. It is remarked in opposition circles, however, that the abandonment by M. Herriot of French preponderance in the reparation commission may provoke criticism as it makes possible a majority in the commission representing claims of less than 49 per cent. of the reparations due from Germany.

It is understood tonight that the interpellations will take place in the senate tomorrow as scheduled and that Raymond Poincare, former premier, will speak for the purpose of making clear his own attitude on reparations whether he assails the cabinet or not.

NOT PRACTICAL FROM VIEWPOINT OF U. S

Washington, July 9—While withholding official comment pending complete analysis of the situation some government officials here today were inclined to regard the arrangement between Premiers Herriot and Macdonald, whereby the United States would be given a full vote in the reparations commission as one which would not work from the viewpoint of this country.

It was pointed out that the treaty with Germany provided that the United States would have no connection with the allied reparations machinery except after approval by the senate.

The present American representation with the commission has purposely been maintained with the utmost informality with a view to keeping this condition always in sight. These officials were unable to conceive the plan which apparently would recognize the informal status of the American delegate and give him a very formal and official voice in the commission's deliberations.

Only the first brief press dispatches had been read here, and it was said that no public comment could be expected on the plan until it was presented in more detail. Secretary Hughes was unaware of the dispatches, being in attendance at the funeral of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., and leaving then for the funeral train.

ADDITIONAL DUTIES FOR "NEW HAVEN" COUNSEL

New Haven, July 9.—Because of the importance of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad's investments in other companies, railroads and trolley companies, the jurisdiction of Edward G. Buckland, vice president and general counsel of the company has been extended so that it now includes law, finance and corporate relations, according to an announcement issued today. Mr. Buckland will also perform such executive duties as may from time to time be designated by the board of directors or the president, and he will be assisted by a general counsel.

The jurisdiction of Arthur P. Russell, vice president, includes real estate, taxes, valuation and public relations.

Benjamin I. Spock, formerly general solicitor of the New Haven company, and for the past six years general counsel of the Chase companies of Waterbury, will return to the New Haven August 1 as general counsel.

Norman S. Buckingham, now assistant to Vice President Buckland, will occupy a similar position as assistant to the general counsel.

BRITISH BLUEJACKETS ENJOY "LIBERTY" AT 'FRISCO

San Francisco, July 9.—Closing a day during which officers and bluejackets of the British navy in large numbers fraternized with Americans on United States soil for the first time in 40 years, Vice Admiral Sir Frederick Field predicted here last night that the time is near when "petty differences between England and America will melt away as the mists disappear in San Francisco harbor."

Sir Frederick, commander of a world cruising British squadron now in San Francisco bay, made his prophecy in responding to a tremendous ovation accorded him by 800 guests at a banquet.

DISCHARGE PHILIPPINE SCOUTS WITHOUT HONOR

Manila, July 9 (By the A. P.)—About 100 men of the 34th and 35th Ambulance companies of the Twelfth Medical Regiment of the Philippine Scouts will be discharged for refusing to perform their duties in addition to the 90 men of the 57th regiment who are to be discharged for insubordination and refusal to drill. The men struck for an equality of pay with white soldiers. A board of nine officers is investigating individual cases in both regiments. A number of men of the 57th regiment were discharged today without honor. The dismissal of the men of the 12th regiment begins tomorrow.

The eight ringleaders of the movement will be charged with mutiny and tried by courtmartial.

Approximately 500 men of the 57th regiment refused to perform their duties Monday but when the situation was explained to them all but 90 recanted.

The military authorities are making a thorough investigation of all scout regiments with a view to weeding out malcontents.

MAN DIED IN BARN FROM EXHAUSTION

Collinsville, Conn., July 9.—James Cosgrove, who gave his home as New Haven, died suddenly today in the barn of Alfred Codaire, two miles north of this town. Death, it is believed was due to extreme exhaustion following a walk from New Haven. The man, who was about 60 years old, was found in the barn by Mr. Codaire this noon. He appeared ill and Codaire called Dr. C. J. Kilburn, the town health officer. Cosgrove lived but five minutes after the arrival of the physician. Cosgrove, who told the doctor that he lived in New Haven, was seen in the vicinity of the Codaire farm yesterday and it is believed that he spent the night there.

Oliver Willard was adorned with the "tardy-cap" which he wore in a graceful manner. The speaker of the day was Rev. F. C. Williams, local Exchangite. After adjournment Mr. Nichols took a group photograph of the members which will appear in the next issue of the national publication.

In reference to rebuilding the highway between Windham Center and the village of North Windham, a distance of about three miles, First Selectman Russell A. Andrews has received a letter rom State Highway Commissioner John A. MacDonald which shatters the hopes of those who had expected that the work would be started this past spring. The Windham voters sanctioned the reconstruction of the piece of road with the assistance of the state aid, by a vote taken at the last annual town meeting held in October. According to Commissioner MacDonald the road has been surveyed and the plans are under consideration so that they will probably be let out in August.

Amid subdued "I'll bet yous" and predictions which were meant to be entirely forgotten if they were wrong, a gathering of some thirty-five people listened in on the national democratic convention, Tuesday evening, on the lawn of the Walter Dickie home, Oak street. The static was slight and the loud speaker transmitted the results so that all could hear.

A last warning is being issued to the public that attempting to make purchases in Willimantic today (Thursday) will be like trying to buy a drink in Taftville after midnight. The day is set aside for the clerks and they, as well as the merchants are not planning to mark time on the overheated sidewalks of Willimantic.

At the home of Mrs. Winfield Andrews a lawn party was enjoyed by members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Baptist church.

Louis Shakel and Charles K. Haddad have dissolved partnership after conducting business here for four years. Mr. Shakel will continue to run the business and Mr. Haddad will soon go into business with his brother in Norwich.

The wise guys who invariably take advantage of a national event, such as a prize fight or a democratic convention, to display the amount of solid knowledge which they possess on the inside dope, and are always prepared to bet a chicken dinner to a hot dog without mustard, that they are right, were traveling around rather sheepishly, Wednesday. The nomination of John W. Davis, although not altogether a complete surprise was a little uncertain a band wagon for the local "I Told Yous" to hop aboard and of necessity they are peddling out excuses today.

Dixon Van Zandt, a member of the firm of Avery and Van Zandt has received notification that he successfully passed the examination of the Connecticut Board of Embalmers. Mr. Van Zandt has received his license as a registered embalmer.

The officers elected are: Arthur M. Brown, president; D. L. Phillips and J. H. Tracy vice presidents; F. E. Robinson, secretary and treasurer. The directors are: F. E. Robinson, A. R. Young, A. C. Burdick, Alex McNicol, J. H. Kennedy, L. G. Buckingham and F. L. Kanahan. A. M. Clarke having moved from town, F. L. Kanahan was elected to fill his place. J. E. Phillips and L. M. Carpenter are auditors for six months.

The management of Ashland Baseball club is swamped with inquiries regarding the big game tonight with the Masked Terrors.

A hooded messenger ran out of the woods at the Voluntown game last Sunday and handed a letter to one of the Ashland players, challenging the latter to a game to be played at Ashland Park this (Thursday) evening. The letter stated that all of the invaders would be heavily masked and promised a terrific battle.

A request has since been received by the local management to have a band of drum corps meet the 6 o'clock trolley north-bound. Aside from this, there is nothing to offer except that an effort is being made to fulfil this latter request.

The invaders' identity remains their own secret. They may be the Ku Kluxes or the Old Black Joe's. Whoever they may be, Ashland will be there strong this evening.

The accident which befell Phillip McCrea, in Voluntown, is said to have been caused in a friendly tussle whereby he fell and cut his head.

With two mills still, black bass fishing is being pushed to the limit on Ashland pond every day. Wednesday there were a dozen boats out at the same time to enjoy the sport in mid-afternoon. The occupants of two boats on the south side of the Tracy island, caught a glimpse of one of the great snapping turtles that have for years inhabited these waters. One man described its head as being as big as a milk pail. Two fishermen, not long ago saw a fight between two of these great turtles at the foot of the run-way of Shea Bros' ice house. The big rentiles were at it for an hour, and as the men watched, one was overcome and drawn away by the victor. It was told that for, give and take no quarter, the equal never had been seen. A turtle of the snapping breed, although slow and dull in appearance, is able to literally shoot out his head, a foot beyond its shell, and that, with incredible swiftness, so quickly indeed that the eye is unable to follow its motion. A bird, alighting too near as the turtle lies still at the border of the pond, is snapped in an instant.

It is with the keenest sort of satisfaction and pleasure, that Jewett City sees still another advancement achieved by Arthur M. Brown, who is outstanding among its favorite and honored sons. As stated, editorially, in Wednesday's Bulletin, the county of New London and the state of Connecticut, may well express their pride, to see Mr. Brown, whose name stands for efficiency, clean manhood and justice, take over the important office of state's attorney. The real first pride and honor comes to his native town. Mr. Brown is of Norwich and Jewett City,—but he is of Jewett City, and the first roses come to the little sister burg up the line.

PLAINFIELD

The Plainfield Military Band gave the first in its series of concerts on Tuesday night in front of Senay's store. The lights for the affair were furnished by Mr. Senay. The band is playing this series of concerts to manifest the members' gratitude for the kindness showed them during the year, by the Plainfield people and merchants.

The program was as follows:

Passing Revue, March.
Poet and Peasant, Overture.
Elves of Spring—Waltz.
Around the Campfire (Selection of American Soldiers Songs).
Swinging Down the Lane, Fox Trot.
Mignonette—Overture.
Immotalles, Waltz.
The Pals, Cornet Duet.
Coming Thru the Rye, Medley Overture.
Larboard—Serenade.
Tenth Regimental march.

About 300 gathered in the neighborhood of Senays and enjoyed the fine music.

The Carders' Union of Lawton Mills met in Spinners' Hall Tuesday evening. President Joseph Houle in the chair. The members who attended the convention in New Bedford last week gave a report of what went on at the convention. A committee was appointed to have a social and dance sometime soon.

About forty girls ranging from 15 to 25, from New York City, are spending the summer at the Packer House, in Packerville.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Dougherty and Mrs. Henry Starkweather spent Tuesday on a business trip in Providence.

SUMMER COLORS NOW BEING WORN—BY THE OCEANS

"The much-traveled Atlantic is putting on its usual color show for the summer tourist. It is exhibiting a decided preference for blue, with soft foamy white ruffles. Sometimes it is wearing sage greens, deep indigo, or royal purple.

"Globe trotters will find the Mediterranean and the Caribbean tricked out in sapphire blue, the Red Sea in varying shades of henna, the Yellow sea in biege and tan, the shallows of the Gulf of Mexico in a soft turquoise, and the Antartic in olive green," according to a bulletin issued from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"In order to put on such a pleasing display of shade and hue, the seas have summoned to their aid many and varied hosts, notable among which are warmth and cold, sunlight and shadow, sand, silt, and possible volcanic dust, salt, lime and various and sundry kinds of diatoms and algae.

"Absolutely pure water is a clear blue color because the blue rays of sunlight are not absorbed by the water as the red rays are. Thus the open ocean seems intensely blue. Distilled water has a greenish cast due to the impurities which still remain after the distillation. This makes it clear why the shallow water in bays and estuaries is green or yellowish green. One explanation of the olive-green of the ocean in the vicinity of the south pole is that it contains enormous quantities of diatoms in suspension.

"Sometimes the ocean wears a gray gown, but that usually happens when the clouds shut out the sunlight and then in respect for the grim aspect of the frowning skies it subdues the tones of its garment.

"Two factors contribute largely to the blueness of the Mediterranean; there are few large rivers, which ordinarily bring enormous quantities of impurities, flowing into it, and there is a constant stream of salty water pouring into it from the Atlantic ocean through the Strait of Gibraltar. It is said by some oceanographers that the blue of sea water bears a direct ratio to its saltiness. As an example of this the band of tropical waters extending about 30 degrees on each side of the Equator, where there is tremendous evaporation under a blazing sun, is cited. It is true that these waters are very salty and an exquisite azure in color. On the other hand, the Arctic and Antarctic waters, which are cold and less salt, are vivid green.

"The Yellow sea derives its golden tints from the sediment brought to it by the Yellow river and several other streams rising near the desert areas in western China. Scientists also believe that the billions of minute living organisms found in its waters helped give it its name.

"In January, 1909, a peculiar phenomenon was observed in the Atlantic ocean. Running parallel with the warm clear blue waters of the Gulf Stream from Cape Florida to Cape Hatteras, there was a yellow river three miles wide. It lasted for a few weeks and then faded away into the surrounding ocean. Some cataclysm on the face of the deep, probably of volcanic origin, had evidently set this yellow stream in motion.

"The still reddish tint of the Red sea is imparted to it by millions of microscopic algae. A host of the minute Dinoflagellata, sometimes will redden the ocean for miles.

"The lovely blue of the waters surrounding the coral islands of the South Seas, which have long been famous in song and story, is said to be due to the calcium carbonate which is held in solution.

"The degree of penetration of light into water is a contributing factor in the color of various bodies of water. The Saguenay river, a tributary of the St. Lawrence from the north, is sombre and impressive because its waters seem almost black. It winds through high hills which shut out the light and its bed is cut 600 feet deeper than that of the river into which it flows.

"In 1901 the sea off the California coast turned almost black, the waters of Santa Cruz bay becoming particularly inky, but no satisfactroy explanation has ever been offered of the occurrence."

BUCHAREST CALLED "PARIS OF THE EAST"

Bucharest, where public meetings were banned and Rumania placed under martial law, has been called the "Paris of the East" but it might also be termed the "Brooklyn of the Balkans."

A bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society explains that the Rumanian capital is a city of churches —some 125 of them. One cannot walk far without encountering one; there is scarcely a view which does not include one or two of them.

"These churches are especially noticeable because of their numerous turrets and cupolas. The latter usually are plated or gilded. Despite the abundance of towers the church bells are hung outside in wooden porches a few yards away from the main building.

"All this is not to say that Bucharest is noticeably religious. The traveler finds rather that it is gay, vivacious, colorful. He stands on any frequented street and sees well-dressed, pretty women, many of them girls, who seem to have escaped the seclusion of the east and the chaperonage of the west.

"Here, indeed, is the clue to Bucharest. It is a Parisian city on the fringe of the Orient; a Latin oasis surrounded by Slavs. It expresses the curious Rumanian paradox of a country which begets a major part of its language, its religion, and its law from Slavic sources; and imports its institutions, its education, and its fashions from Paris.

"The restrictions of martial law will bear down heavily on Bucharest. Its many beautiful homes were centers of continual entertaining; its numerous cafes had developed the dining out habit as extensively as in Vienna and Stockholm. The Rumanian is naturally loquacious, vivacious, companionable. It is hard for him to remain aloof and alone.

"The presence of many soldiers will not be conspicuous, though their participation in the serious task of martial law enforcement will be a novelty. The city always loved the uniform and its soldiers with high heels, soft laced boots, and waxed mustaches added a colorful complement to its chic women. These soldiers showed their mettle by their brave defence of their city during the World war before an overpowering attack compelled the removal of the capital temporarily to Jassy.

"Adding to the color of the city is the practice among the prince and merchant owners of its many beautiful homes, of enclosing their grounds with a tall, black, iron fence. The railings and the ornate gateways are decorated in gold. Its public buildings are especially imposing. The post office has been called 'Olympian in its grandeur.'

"Within a decade the city's population more than doubled. Its visitors multiplied and it often required persistent effort to get a room in one of its large hotels or to obtain a table in one of their beautiful dining rooms. Many of these were open to the sky.

"Much of the gay life has gone from Bucharest for a year or so, while it made earnest effort to come to reparations agreements with other European powers. Meanwhile foreign creditors were pressing its merchants for private debts. The delay in adjusting these financial problems is largely responsible for the present political crisis."

Use for Sour Cream.

When cream is only very slightly sour it can be made quite delicious to serve with puddings in the following way: Put it into a bowl with the juice of a lemon and a good teaspoon of sugar and whip it until it is quite stiff. This increases the quantity and the sour flavor cannot be detected.

FORECAST SMALLER CORN CROP THIS YEAR

Washington, July 9.—Corn opened the crop season with the lowest condition ever reported on July 1 and indications of production are half a billion bushels less than last year despite an acreage 1.4 per cent. larger than planed a year ago.

The department of agriculture's first forecast of the season, issued today, placed total corn production at 2,515,000,000 bushels. An unusually cold May followed by an excessively wet June were responsible for the low condition of corn but were decidedly favorable for wheat, oats and barley which showed a decided improvement in prospect over a month ago.

Wheat production forecasts were increased 47,000,000 bushels over June predictions, with a total crop of 749,000,000 bushels now indicated, while the forecasts for data jumped 14,000,000 bushels to 1,356,000,000 bushels.

Smaller crops than last year of white and sweet potatoes, tobacco and apples are indicated but barley, rye, flaxseed, rice and peaches production will be larger than last year wheat stocks on farms on July 1, were smaller than a year ago and also less than the average for that date during the previous five years.

World wheat production reported with 1,647,000,000 bushels last year for the same countries which produced nearly half the wheat of the world oueside Russia.

The longest aerial power line span, one of 6,153 feet, is projected by a power company which will bring electric power into Seattle from across Puget sound.

The Unexpected Guest

Let the unexpected guest come—or half a dozen of them for that matter; with Mueller's in the pantry, you are ready to entertain them royally.

For Mueller's cooks in 9 minutes—without even soiling your hands. By the time the guests are ready to sit down, you'll be ready to serve them.

Many Simple, Easy Ways to Serve Mueller's
You can serve Mueller's just as you do potatoes—with butter, with sauces, with meat gravies or with sauerkraut.
Instead of creamed potatoes, serve Mueller's Elbow Macaroni, prepared the same way. In place of potatoes au gratin, use any one of the Mueller Foods; instead of fried potatoes, fry Mueller's Egg Noodles.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

In the town court Wednesday morning Judge W. Fanner Woodward heard two cases in which drivers of motor vehicles were concerned. Omer Boule, 20 of Jewett City, pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving. He had raced with a state police officer, not being aware of the identity of his pursuer and being convinced that whoever was chasing him wanted a little brush of speed. The same thing has happened before in the case of other drivers hereabouts and with the same results. The moral to be pointed is "Don't race." Boule was fined $25 and costs, the court remitting $15 of the fine.

J. E. McGowan of Cranston, R. I., was before the court to answer to a charge of parking his car too close to a hydrant. He was fined $1 and actual costs, a total of $4.64, which he paid. His case suggests to all motorists that they should exercise care in not parking too close to hydrants and the same applies to leaving cars within a short distance of the corner at intersectnig streets.

Dr. Millard Knowlton of Hartford, representing the state, was in Danielson again Wednesday keeping in touch with the health situation in this community. There were no special developments of interest during Wednesday. The situation appears to be well in hand, particularly on the West Side in the town of Brooklyn. Health Officer Dr. W. H. Judson is keeping informed as to the situation. Hundreds of people already have complied with the general order for vaccination and more are added each day to the list taking the precautionary measure. Strict quarantine is being maintained wherever necessary.

Warnings are being issued to all who venture afield during this period of drought to be extremely careful not to cause forest fires. There has been no rain of any moment for several weeks past and all the territory hereabouts is so dry that disastrous forest fires may result from a bit of carelessness. To the northeast of Old Killingly pond a fire that has swept over many acres of woodland, the flames at times leaping 50 and 60 feet in the air, has been raging and has caused very considerable damage. What has happened in that territory may easily be duplicated in any wood land section by the thoughtless. A special warning is issued against throwing lighted cigarettes from motor cars. This is a dangerous and very common practice. Cigarettes burn on and on after being discarded and are often swept into dry grass at roadsides when thrown from cars and immediately cause a blaze. Careless throwing away of a lighted match may also result in heavy losses for some one. Not in years has a more serious condition existed as to the danger of forest fires at this season than that which this territory is now confronted.

A force of men that fought the fire to the northeast of Old Killingly pond and just over the border in Rhode Island appeared to have conquered it late Wednesday afternoon, when residents of East Killingly reported that no smoke was rising from the area. The fire raged fiercely during Tuesday and Tuesday night.

Chautauqua is assured to Danielson for another year. It was stated Wednesday afternoon that about 95 guarantors had signde up for the 1925 series of entertainments, whereas only 80 were required to assure the reappearance of the attraction in Danielson. This year's Chautauqua program closed with the entertainment of Tuesday evening.

For the third consecutive day the mercury touched 90 degrees Wednesday during the afternoon, but a cooling breeze contributed to make the day a bit less stuffy than on Tuesday.

Captain F. O. Armington of the Service battery will be in New London today (Thursday) to confer with Adjutant Schroeder of the 192nd coast artillery relative to the annual tour of duty of the Service battery at Camp Eustis, Va. While it is not definitely settled, the impression is that the battery will leave here on the evening of August 19 or the morning of August 20.

Now this is something else again! The bobbed hair girls have competition. Their competitors are the long haired youths. These swains have cultivated flowing locks that, when they get astray, hang down over their chins. In these cuts the hair is shingled off to the scalp at the back of the head, leaving the rich fruitage of alfalfa on the top and sides. It makes a great head dress for diving through a windshield in case of collision.

Among other things that prisoners at the county jail over in Brooklyn are doing these hot July days is caring for the gardens on the jail farm, where a good crop of hay also will be harvested.

With the nomination of Davis Wednesday afternoon the interest of the radio fans in the democratic national convention began to wane quickly. The convention, however, has been followed very closely by Danielson radio owner and others privileged to listen in.

Danielson is left off the circus routes again thus summer, it is indicated by the bookings that have been made by the desirable tent shows touring southern New England or scheduled to do so.

A ledge encountered by excavators in the rear of the Keystone block is delaying the work of installing 6-inch mains there by the Crystal Water company. Blasting has been resorted to in the section where the ledge has been encountered.

Members of the Danielson Rod and Gun club are showing much interest in the crow shooting teams to be organized, as discussed at a meeting Wednesday evening.

In accordance with action taken by borough officials, a free clinic for vaccination will be held this (Thursday) afternoon and Friday and Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the health station in the town hall building.

Chief John McFarland said Wednesday that very little difficulty is being experienced in enforcing the new parking regulations. An occasional oversight has to be dealt with, but that is about all.

County Game Warden Charles Letters, of Putnam, is checking up fishermen to determine whether they have fishing licenses as required by law. Notices that these licenses are now required in Connecticut have been put up at many favorite fishing places.

James T. Sullivan, of Central Village, has taken a lease of the Dayville hotel, which has been closed for a long time, and is to reopen it for business.

It was stated Wednesday that bathing in public places is to be stopped temporarily, as a move in the interest of public health.

Miss Kathryn Brennan entertained over the week end. Miss Ada Ballou of Pascoag, Louise Seymore of Providence, and Terrance Brennan of Southbridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson and family of Allen Hill celebrated the Fourth at their home with the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schmidt and Mr. Schmidt's father, Mrs. Ida Mary and children, all of Providence; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schwartz and Miss Emily Hutmacher of Glocester, R. I. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bourassa and children of Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vanslett and children of Philipsdale, Mr. and Mrs. Tibble and children of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Green and Misses Hazel and Maude Greene of Putnam, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith and family of Moosup, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schimmelphenig and family of Wauregan, Miss Evelyn House and Emerson Sherwood of Scotland, Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Anderson, Jr., and children of Danielson, Mr. and Mrs. John Lane and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Harney and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Toutellott and family, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sutton of Brooklyn.

PUTNAM

According to people who have occasion to pass near the waters of Roseland Lake and its tributaries the order of the state commissioner of health forbidding bathing in the lake is being entirely disregarded.

Notwithstanding the action of the commissioner and the opinion of the attorney-general that that action is legal, it is understood that the matter will be contested in the courts. It is stated that those interested in bathing have obtained opinions from eminent lawyers in this state and in New York and that following these opinions they are continuing to use the lake as a bathing place.

It seems probable that this situation will soon bring about a test case by an arrest of some bather being made and the case taken to the superior court.

If the court convicts it may mean that a civil action will be instituted by the riparian owners to obtain damages for a taking of their property rights. This action would probably be against the Putnam Water Company which it owned by and is the city of Putnam, for the purposes of any such suit. This would put a burden upon the city that the taxpayers hope may be averted. No one wants to see the city debt increase as it is now overlarge with a correspondingly high tax rate.

D. B. G. Master James H. McGuilough and suite installed the following officers of Israel Putnam Lodge of Odd Fellows, Tuesday evening: Noble Grand, G. Stanley Shaw; Vice Grand, Eldon S. Johnson; secretary, Herbert A. Johnson; financial secretary, Lucius H. Fuller; treasurer, Leon T. Wilson; warden, Carl E. Weeks; conductor, Reuben ePterson; chaplin, Durham H. Hall; R. S. N. Clarence Shaw; P. G., James G. Gifford. Following the installation refreshments were served.

Hastened by an accident in which her hip was fractured, Mrs. Samuel K. Spaulding, 81, died at her home on Grove street, Wednesday.

Some weeks ago Mrs. Spaulding was found in her bedroom where she had fallen. An examination showed that her hip was broken and she did not have the vitality to bring her back to normal health.

Her husband died some fifteen years ago since which time he has lived alone. Mr. Spaulding was a veteran of the Civil war and was for many years employed as teller in the First National Bank.

Louis E. Perry has gone to Worcester to enter St. Vincent's hospital for observation and possibly an operation for stomach trouble. He has been in poor health for some time.

Past Exalted Rulers of Putnam Lodge of Elks entitled to vote in the grand lodge, were in Boston, Tuesday, to vote for a new grand exalted ruler. Among those that went from here were: Archibald Macdonald, Sr., J. W. Bartlett, Prosper Viegard, Andrew V. Frost, Lucius P. Merrill, George Lewis, Jr., and Ralph E. Thurston. Archibald Macdonald, Jr., also a past exalted ruler, is in Boston for the week as delegate to the grand lodge convention.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph G. Jenkins, who is teaching at a summer school in Keene, N. H., writes that he will be at his office in Putnam next Saturday morning to consult with officials or parents or anyone having anything interest concerning the schools. Mr. Jenkins' family is passing the summer near Keene.

Funeral services for Mrs. Emily Ross Allan, 92, who was probably the oldest person in Woodstock, and who died after a lingering illness Sunday were held at the home of Mrs. John Aldrich Wednesday afternoon. In early life Mrs. Allan was married and lived in the vicinity of Union, where her three children were born, all being now dead. About 6 years ago she moved to East Woodstock and became housekeeper for Stephen Morse, at his death, left her a sum of money and a life estate in the Morse home.

Mrs. Allan for years taught the bible class in the Congregational church. She had a remarkable memory and could repeat many chapters of the bible. She leaves a sister, Mrs. Conant of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dyer and children are at Hyannis, Cape Cod, for a short stay.

Mrs. Edward F. Perry is spending a few weeks with relatives in East Bridgewater, Mass.

State's Attorney and Mrs. Charles E. Searls will leave, Friday, July 18, for Nantucket, where they will remain until about the first of September. They will stop at Martha's Vineyard. Mr. and Mrs. Searls have spent a number of summers on the island but last year spent the time on the North shore, near Gloucester, Mass.

Miss Nellie Kent, a teacher in Clinton, Mass., and for some years a teacher in the schools of Putnam, is spending her vacation with Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Sandereen.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dumas are spending the month visiting relatives in Canada.

Lieutenant Governor Hiram Bingham will be the speaker at the meeting of the Woodstock Republican club to be held Wednesday afternoon, July 16. There will be other speakers and a musical program.

Mrs. Samuel Reynolds is the guest of her brother in Bristol.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bowen, of Worcester, are guests of Mr. Bowen's mother, on Laurel street.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schmanska have returned from a week's outing at Lord's Point.

PATROLMAN JOHN RYAN TO APPEAR IN COURT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, July 9.—Patrolman John Ryan of the Putnam police force, arrested last May on a bench warrant issued by Judge Hinman of the superior court on an information filed in court by State's Attorney Charles E. Searls charging that Ryan, on or about the first of July, 1923, illegally transported intoxicating liquor, is to ting of the superior court, criminal be given a hearing at a special sitside, in Willimantic, Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Ryan, who has never been put to plea, will plead at that time. Other matters will also probably be disposed of at the special sitting of the court. It is expected that Attorney William A. King of Willimantic will be appointed special public defender to look out for Ryan's interests as Ryan has given notice that he is without funds to hire counsel. Attorney Charles L. Torrey, the regular public defender for Windham county, felt that he was disqualified to act for Ryan, for various reasons.

The case of the Putnam patrolman has caused a great deal of interest and when Ryan first came into the limelight during the trial of Samuel Smith, landlord of the City hotel, last May, the whole city was stirred by rumors that his arrest was to follow, as it did within a short time.

Smith was charged with a violation of the liquor law. Ryan was one of those who conducted the raid at the hotel, but was not called as a witness by the state. Ryan was, however, called by counsel for the defendant and was asked if he had ever driven Smith's car while beer was being transported from Providence to Putnam. The patrolman emphatically denied this insinuation and stated that he had never driven the Smith car, except once for a short distance, on School street in Putnam.

Smith's wife and daughter testified that Ryan was in the habit of driving Smith's car and that one day about the first of July, 1923, they saw him drive it up to the hotel. Mr. Smith was in the car and, the witnesses testified, the car contained a number of cases which was brought into the hotel, Ryan helping to unload it.

This testimony as to a member of the city's police force set the court room afire and soon the news spread throughout the city. Speculation arose as to what, if any, proceedings might follow. Ryan went back to his duty on the force and as far as could be learned no action was being considered by the city officials and Ryan said that he was not going to demand a hearing.

The matter had become a thing of the past when, one afternoon, Ryan was placed under arrest by Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer of Dayville, acting for the state's attorney's office, and was taken to the office of the clerk of the superior court where, within a short time, he furnished a bond for his appearance at the next session of the criminal court.

To relieve the situation Ryan, of his own volition, asked the common council to grant him a leave of absence from duty until after there had been a disposition of the case against him. The request was granted by the council and since that time Ryan has not done police duty.

MY DAUGHTER WOULD CRY AT EVERYTHING

Nervous and Irritable. By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Became Entirely Normal

Clinton, Wisconsin.—"My daughter was in a very run-down condition, and was irritable, and would cry at every little thing she was so weak and nervous. As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped me when I was a girl I gave it to her to build her up, and the results were all that we could wish for. I wish that every mother with growing girls would try it for these troubles girls often have. I had taken it myself before my girl was born, and she was one of the nicest babies any one could wish to have. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to women and girls and cannot praise it too highly."—Mrs. I. A. HOLFORD, Box 48, Clinton, Wisconsin.

Mothers can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve their daughters of those troubles they so often have. They know from experience the value of the Vegetable Compound in the treatment of these complaints and many, like Mrs. Holford, give it to their daughters.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE IS KIN OF WESTERLY DAVIS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, July 9.—John W. Davis of West Virginia and New York, who was given the nomination for the presidency of the United States on the 103d ballot Wednesday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock in the national democratic convention, may or may not know that he has Westerly forebears. Representative Samuel H. Davis of the Second Westerly Representative district to the Rhode Island legislature, Wednesday afternoon, stated to a Bulletin reporter that although their political beliefs differed, yet their lineages paralleled—their fourth or fifth removed great-grandfathers were identical. Elder William Davis, pastor of the Westerly Seventh-day Baptist church 210 years ago, was their common ancestor. The church at that time was located in Hopkinton and had over a thousand members. In 1717 the church records, still in existance, show that Rev. William Davis was charged and tried for heresy, but was acquitted. The trial proved too much for Rev. Mr. Davis to endure and he retired from the ministry and went away.

Representative Davis was born in Jane Lew, Lewis county, West Virginia, and Presidential Nominee Davis was born in Clarksburg, W. Va., the son of John J. Davis, about 14 miles from Salem, W. Va., a well known Seventh-day Baptist community, and Representative Davis has verified his lineage through research by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Westerly Representative Davis delivered the keynote address at the republican state convention for Rhode Island, held in Providence April 7th, 1924, and his name has been frequently mentioned as a candidate for nomination for governor of Rhode Island on the republican ticket which will be voted on next November.

MYSTIC ART EXHIBIT TO BE OMITTED THIS YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Mystic, July 9.—The Mystic Art association has decided not to hold an exhibition this year, a matter of keen regret not only to the whole village but to many people in the surrounding towns and the nearby shore resorts, who have been accustomed to attend these exhibitions each year.

This decision was made reluctantly on the part of those who have charge of the work of arranging for the exhibitions, but, inasmuch as two exhibitions were held last summer and necessitated a vast amount of preparation, and due to the fact that those who do this work find themselves unable to give the required time to it this year, owing to the pressure of their own business interests, it was decided to omit the exhibit, believing that the interest always manifested in these exhibitions would be just as keen next year.

The Mystic art association was organized in 1914, the exhibition last year being the tenth annual exhibit of the association. During these years many notable pictures have been shown and a high standard has ever been maintained in the character of the exhibitions, the work of artists of national and international reputation being shown each year as well as a separate collection of sketches.

The officers of the association are: President, Dr. George S. B. Leonard; secretary and treasurer, G. Albert Thompson, a former director of Norwich Art school; chairman of art committee, Charles H. Davis; chairman of tea committee, Miss Elizabeth T. Mallory. Too much cannot be said in appreciation of the work of these officers and the various committees who have served with them in arranging and carrying forward the work of the annual picture shows and for the opportunity that has thus been given the general public of acquiring a broader knowledge of art than might otherwise have been possible. Especially is grateful knowledgment due to Evstic's famous though modest resident, Charles H. Davis, N. A., artist of international reputation, who has contributed so much of his skill and helpful co-operation in making these exhibitions of such excellence and merit.

Whaling has now been established on a scientific basis by the Norwegian industry. After years of extravagant killing when nothing but the blubber was utilized, whales are now being utilized completely, boneless whale meat being an important product. Fresh whale meat compares favorably with other meats, according to scientific tests conducted by Christiania University.

THE POWER COMPANY'S OFFER.

Probably the people of Norwich have read with much personal interest the statements made by the Eastern Connecticut Power company, to the committee which is investigating the propositions from the company, to either furnish electrical energy to the city or to purchase the local gas and electric plant.

As far as public service is concerned this company is furnishing electricity to all communities in this end of the state except Norwich. The only excuse for that would seem to be that Norwich could make it cheaper than it could buy it. But such isn't the case, and the experience of small plants is that there's no chance that it ever will be. Norwich has continued to maintain a steam plant for the production of a certain portion of its electric current in spite of the fact that it is able to purchase such current at a lower figure than it can make it. When other communities find that it is poor business to continue such an undertaking, when they recognize the wisdom of getting electricity at a rock bottom price, when available, and when industries are resorting to such sources and clamoring for cheaper power, good business makes it evident that such propositions as have been advanced, either for the purchase of the power or the buying of the plant, cannot be thrust aside without careful consideration.

Much enlightenment has been given by the statement by the Eastern Connecticut Power company. It doesn't appear that the company needs Norwich, except possibly to use some of its surplus power, but it does appear that Norwich needs the company's service in order to buy and provide electricity at a lower cost, whether it is for lighting or heating.

When the company shows that it has the facilities to serve, that it can save the city from $55,000 to $70,000 a year in the cost of its electricity and that the saving will be greater as a greater amount of electricity is used, there can be only one sensible answer to such a proposition.

The manner in which the company has set forth its proposition is one that inspires confidence and what it is doing for other communities similar to Norwich carries conviction. Taxed as it is Norwich needs to save $70,000 every chance it gets.

THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

After a sorry exhibition the democratic national convention has about completed its work. Two weeks and two days were required to accomplish what should have at least been done in a week. It was evident for some time before the convention that it was headed for a contest of no ordinary character but none anticipated that it would run on and establish a record which should never again be reached.

McAdoo came very near to a majority of the votes and Smith got a bare third when their votes were at their respective peaks. It was a battle to wear the other out which displayed plenty of stubbornness on both sides with precious little consideration for the party. The convention lacked that leadership that would have brought the candidates to terms long before they reached that point. There were plenty of candidatorial leaders but when it came to party leadership there was no one there.

The candidacies of McAdoo and Smith eliminated each other. The dark horse was expected to win and he did win in the person of John W. Davis, despite the determined opposition of William Jennings Bryan, whose influence was commanding up to the very end.

In the selection of Mr. Davis the democrats have probably named as strong a man as it was possible for them to agree upon at this time. Whether it will be possible for him to rally a united party in back of him, in view of the bitterness that has been aroused is something for the future to reveal. It is unquestionably true that he must live down the attack by Colonel Bryan and the charge of being the tool of big business, however harmless that may be.

Having broken the record for the length of the session and the number of ballots does not mean that the 1924 democratic convention has worked for party solidarity. It opened with an expected fight, the fight has been held and as is so often the case it must now be paid for.

FLYING AROUND THE WORLD.

Around the World in Eighty Days is a tale which many have read. It was written far in advance of such an accomplishment but speed has been developed since that time to such a degree that if the facilities could be commanded today a continuous flight around the world under such conditions as Lieutenant Maughan made the cross country flight would not require many days. With a string of airplanes placed at certain points about the world, a passenger might be transported, relay style, about the world in less than eight days.

No such record is going to be made for a long time to come, but it isn't [illegible] that it will [illegible] achieved. The American flyers are not going to establish any such record and they did not set out to. Their aim is to get around, and in doing so map out a course for those who will follow them.

Up to the present time the three American aviators have gone about half way around the globe and covering in that distance probably the worst part of their trip. From now on they are certain to encounter much better conditions for flying in Europe has developed landing grounds and courses there are well established. Till they get to the flight across the Atlantic the Americans should be able to make much better time than they have been doing up to now.

Thus far they have been gone about 114 days, not all of which were used in flight, and it is to be remembered that they did not intend that all would be. This is not a trip for speed, but an effort to get around the globe in the air. Speed will come later.

Pioneering in such an undertaking means the use of much time. Time has been lost by bad weather, illness and machine trouble. This experiment is no different than others—it requires plenty of time. No one has as yet made a flight around the world in an airplane. There is good promise that the Americans will succeed even though it requires six months to accomplish it. Those who undertake it later will have the benefit of their experience. Then will start the international race to lower the time.

FIGHTING THE CATERPILLARS.

In connection with the fight being made against the tent caterpillars, or that needs to be made, it has been frequently suggested that an effort be made to destroy all of the wild cherry trees. That idea develops from the fact that the tent caterpillars are decidedly partial to the wild cherry and it is figured that if those trees can be cut down and burned up there will be no more caterpillars.

There is no use wasting time and effort on any such proposition. The tent caterpillars, while fond of the wild cherry leaves, do not depend upon them for a living, and it is certain that they would not pine away mourning over the disappearance of one of their favorite bits of vegetation.

Anyone who is acquainted with the tent caterpillars knows that while they may be found first, last and all the time in the wild cherry trees that they do the least harm to humanity there. It is in fact preferable that they should have such feeding places, if they are to be tolerated at all, to inviting them to go from the wild cherry into the apple and pear trees, where they are not only farther from reach but actually destroy desirable crops.

What is needed, however, is not the extermination of the wild cherry but the wiping out of the tent caterpillars. All the effort that would be required for the cutting down of wild cherry trees would accomplish more if devoted to the killing of the caterpillars and the destruction of their nests wherever found. The proper amount of cooperation by all land owners would provide the protection that is needed in dealing with such a pest. Nothing but a wasted effort would result from the endeavor to get rid of wild cherry trees to spite the tent caterpillars. They don't get peeved and die off as easy as that.

A HALF CENTURY HENCE.

No one knows what the next 50 years will result in. No one knows what developments will take place, but it is fair to presume that it will be a period of progress.

Figuring on the matter of population and the effects of the new immigration law which went into effect this month, Congressman Johnson estimates that the population of the United States will be 200,000,000 in 1974. There is no community but what wants to grow and with a distribution of the 87,000,000 throughout the country considerable strides in population can be made. But it is now so much the number as the scratching that will be required to provide for them that concerns the congressman. He thinks with that population the struggle for existence will be on in earnest in this country.

Just about now this country is supporting 40 to the square mile. If that should be doubled it would make 80, but that would not equal the situation in Europe where 122 are supported on each square mile. If Europe can do it and have no greater struggle than it does at the present time, there is no reason for alarm over the fact that two-thirds of the present European problem would be faced by this country in a half century from now, by which time it can be reasonably expected that science in the various channels will aid materially in solving any problems that crop up then.

The United States has much undeveloped territory and it seems not improbable that there will be the failure to make proper use of the advantages that are open 50 years from now as is known to be the case today. If the interests of the country are served as it goes along there need be little fear of what will be the situation a half century hence.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Well, it's over, and 'tis well it is. What a relief!

It takes a lot of democratic backing and filling to get to a starting point.

What a reluctance there seems to be to giving consideration to a money saving business proposition.

It is a question whether July has forced a greater number into Palm Beaches or into the ole swimmin' hole.

Massachusetts auto death toll of 19 made a new record last week. It is a wonder the auto drivers of that state wouldn't try for a record backward.

The dates for the formal notification of the republican nominees for president and vice president have been fixed but the democrats were in no hurry to arrange an informal notification.

The New York convention is making a little more headway than the Rhode Island legislature, but the Rhode Island senators are having an easier time than the New York delegates have been.

ABOLISHING AN IDEA

"The nicest thing about getting married," mused the bride, "is that you have your own home and can do exactly as you please, with nobody to interfere! You are absolutely free, with nobody reminding you of what you know you ought to do but don't want to!"

"My poor child!" sympathized the lady who has been married for quite a long time. "What a remarkable notion! Where did you ever pick it up? Of course you have been in your own home precisely two days, so maybe there is some excuse for you and your girlish ravings. Still, in two days I should think you would have learned a lot about janitors, milkmen, the telephone and the woman across the hall! The troubles you endured back home were as nothing compared to the sinister coil which has now begun to fasten around you implacably.

"In the first place, when you set your grand new trash can on the left side of your back door the janitor will hurl it over on to the right side. Anybody he will remark aggrievedly, oughta know better than to set it on the other side when the stairs were as they are! And if you don't get rubbish in before 10 o'clock it doesn't get taken down till the next day. No matter how you yearn to finish that novel and let the breakfast dishes wait you have to hustle and get things ready for the unyielding janitor. And if you decide you won't bother to mark the milk card and maybe the man will leave some anyhow he won't leave a drop—and that will be the morning George decides he'd like some breakfast food for a change and with plenty of cream.

"Just as certainly as you take an afternoon luxuriously to shampoo your hair and get it done up on curlers the telephone will announce that the Gold-coast girls are on their way to see you—and they have gimlet eyes. You nearly stand on your head swatting dust under the davenport, emptying ash trays and straightening up generally, knowing all the time that your hair will still be wet and stringy and that you will look like the dickens! Of course you have the alternative of not answering the phone when you are contemplating a leisurely, lazy day, but that really is beyond human power.

"If you decide to sit down at 8:30, sew all day and emerge with a brand new gown to wear to the card club the next day, the lady across the hall bursts in at 10 to borrow a cup of sugar, stays till noon chattering aimlessly and prying into all your affairs and after you have refreshed yourself with strong coffee and start in again your dear friend Abigail Bumps comes over with her progeny, aged 4, 2 and 6 months, to have a nice cozy visit—and when they leave five minutes before dinner time your bitter tears are flowing over the molasses candy on the davenport's pristine plush, the gouges on the phonograph where mother's oldest angel hammered blithely with the bronze paper cutter. And you wear your old gown to the club.

"If you decide to keep a dog, cat or pet ant eater your lease won't let you. If you plan to go to the theater Thursday evening George's boss decides that Thursday is the night when he and Mrs. Boss are coming to call, and so they won't let you do as you choose. You can't buy jade-green dresses because George hates jade, you have to pack away your darling earrings because he suffers so at the sight of 'em. And—and never do get all the white meat of the chicken because you have chicken only when you have company and the company always gets all the good parts. The only way you ever will graduate from eating the neck and the wings is to be company yourself, which isn't often.

You can't buy operatic records because George is always spending the record money for jazz and when you decide to go to California, after you are older and richer, the company sends George for six months to Three Corners, Ala., and you can go or stay home as it suits you.

"In fact, you are entering on the most bullied and hectored period of your career, but all the rest of us are living through it—and let's make some tea and cinnamon toast and forget our sad, sad lives!"

"My word!" gasped the bride, leading the way to the kitchenette.—Exchange.

Davis, the Immigrant Boy

For many years James J. Davis hoped and planned to return to school and secure a better education, but the opportunity to do so never came and he had to complete his learning at night.

Born in Tredegar, Wales, he was brought with five other little Davises in steerage to this country. His parents settled at Sharon, Pa., he attended local schools, and worked after hours, first driving cows to and from pasture and then becoming handy boy about town.

At 11 he quit school and started to learn the trade of puddler in the steel mills. At 16 he could run a furnace and was admitted into the union. Next he worked in Pittsburgh mills; then in those of Birmingham and of other cities.

He drifted to Elwood City, Ind, he was 20, and he decided to learn the tin making trade notwithstanding that many tin mills then were shut down. He progressed rapidly and became a boss roller, at $10 a day.

Then he decided to run for the office of City Clerk of Elwood City. After four years in the city hall, he became county recorder. Realizing that he would not be able to go to day school he attended night classes and completed a two-year course in four months. He had studied after hours before and now had a well rounded education.

He joined the Loyal Order of Moose with its 246 members and its shadow of a heavy debt. Enthusiastic over its principles he, as 34, became its directing head, built it to success and then brought Moosheart the order's educational home for children, into being.

He was 47 when President Harding appointed him Secretary of Labor. Leaders of organized labor said that he had been away from the ranks too long and favored employers more than workers, while may capitalists called him a "hair-brained altruist who thought he could bring capitol and labor together."

Today there are many who say he is the most popular man who has been in the office for years. He is rated as a millionaire and has an education far above that of the average man.

Tomorrow—Lord Curzon's Humble Start.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Professor Albert Frederick Pollard, who has been named by the University of London to attend the Anglo-American conference of professors of history, which is to be held next December in Richmond, Va., is as keen a student of history in the making as of history already made. His name has appeared frequently in newspapers and magazines at the head of important articles on military and political developments. Professor Pollard, who is professor of history in the University of London, was president of the British Historical Association in 1912-15, and first Goldwin Smith lecturer at Cornell University. He perhaps has written as much in the way of separate articles on historical subjects as any historian of his standing. Five hundred articles in the Dictionary of National Biography are from his pen, and he also wrote about 50 articles in the latest edition of the Encyclopedia Britannia. He has also written many volumes on historical subjects.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Laurel Hill Road.

Mr. Editor: Let me heartily endorse your editorial this morning concerning the frightful condition of the Laurel Hill road within the city line. Those who use it know that it carries its own reflection upon the city. Probably the claims for damages are only a few of what might be presented, to say nothing of the irritation that has been caused.

In connection with this situation and the other work on Laurel Hill avenue, I wonder if it is known that the macadam which is being removed to make way for the cement road is being poured onto the dump instead of being utilized for the putting of the Laurel Hill road, or other streets of the city, in better condition.

Much of the macadam on Laurel Hill was brought from streets which have received brick or cement pavements, and there is much of the crushed and tarred stone that is good material for the betterment of other streets. Nothing better could be wanted for repair work.

"One weak spot and a whole new tire gone!"

The result of unseen "lumps" in the rubber

THE tread barely worn off—yet a blow-out ruins the entire shoe! What's the cause, you ask?

You could actually see the answer to this question if you had samples of tire rubber under a microscope. In ordinary rubber compounds, the rubber does not unit smoothly and evenly with the necessary strengthening materials. "Lumps" are formed—every "lump" a weak spot that helps bring a blow-out like this some day.

At last a rubber has been produced that reduces these "lumpy" formations to a minimum—that eliminates premature tire troubles. Four tire experts in the Thermoid Rubber Company discovered Crolide—an even-texture rubber that does not weaken with the stretching and straining that goes on inside a tire in use.

Crolide Compound is today used exclusively in the manufacture of Thermoid and Rexoid Cord Tires. You are invited to call and see these tires for yourself—also the famous Crolide Compound Tubes.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Trouble With the Luckymobile.

Oh, the Luckymobile is a wonderful car,
It goes as fast as a shooting star.
Over the road it goes whizzy wizzy,
Making the two little rabbits quite dizzy.

Pretty soon it stopped, all of a sudden, just like that, quick as the winds that blows off your hat, right in front of Dr. Quack's little house by Lily Pond Lake in Mudville.

"Wonder what's the matter? I'm not ill and neither are you," exclaimed Uncle Lucky to his little rabbit nephew. "Maybe I'd better hop out and in-vestil-gate, which means to look into, little reader of my stories.

But the nice old gentleman bunny could find nothing wrong with the Luckymobile. Still, it wouldn't budge when he tried to make it go.

"Let's call Doctor Quack," suggested Little Jack Rabbit.

"Hello, hello, please come out with your medicine bag," shouted Uncle Lucky.

The next minute, out waddled Doctor Quack, and hurrying down the walk, anxiously inquired the trouble.

"Thats' what I want you to find out," answered the old gentleman bunny, quickly.

"Put out your tongue," said the famous duck doctor, opening his medicine bag.

"There's nothing wrong with me," answered nice Uncle Lucky "but I think the Luckymobile has the jimjams. It won't go."

"Don't blame it. Here's what's the matter," answered Dr. Quack, bending down and pulling out from underneath a long piece of wire. "It was all tangled around the axle."

"Goodness gracious meebus!" exclaimed the old gentleman bunny. "How much do I owe you?"

"It was a simple operation," answered the famous duck doctor. "I'll charge you only two lettuce leaf dollar bills."

"Much obliged," sighed dear Uncle Lucky, handing over the two brand new lettuce leaf bills. Then, hopping into the Luckymobile, he drove away with his small bunny nephew. Pretty soon the old gentleman rabbit stopped the Luckymobile. He had heard a sweet voice singing, that was the reason,—a little bird's voice, that's what he had heard and he wished to listen to the music. Right close by, on the top of the Old Rail Fence, sat Johnny Wren, singing with all his might. Goodness me, he was singing so hard that he shook all over.

"Keep on. Don't stop," cried dear Uncle Lucky. "We've stopped but we don't want you to."

Just then Mrs. Johnny Wren peeked out of a big knot hole in one of the fence posts. "I was wondering why Mr. Wren stopped singing. Now I know."

"I just begged him to go on," answered dear Uncle Lucky. At which Mr. Wren commenced again his beautiful song while his pretty mate sat on the eggs to keep them warm.

POETRY

Breath

This is the long, long song that is never sung,
What every lover of life has known as wine;
That that is speech forever on the tongue,
Forever missing shape of word, too fine.
A passion to be tempered by a sound—
That this is honey of sun and the rain taste of the ground.

Little has ever been known of this or said,
Little need ever be said and little known;
This that falls away from the lips a thread.
Impalpable and glittering, is blown
And lost upon the elements like light—
This that is water of dawn and the sweet black ice of night.

Over this head Time poises like a wave,
Shielding an hour within its curving length,
An hour that has no thing to offer save
A curious pipe of madness and a strength—
This rythm mixing lightly with the blood.
This tonic of dusk and leaves and drink of the moon's tart flood.

—By Hazel Hall in the New Republic.

Caravans

What bring ye me, O camels, across the southern desert,
The wan and parching desert, pale beneath the dusk?
Ye great slow-moving ones, faithful as care is faithful.
Uncouth as dreams may be, sluggish as far-off ships—
What bring ye me, O camels?

"We bring thee gold like sunshine, saving that it warms not;
And rarest purple brings we, as dark as all the garnered
Bloom of many grapevines; and spices subtly mingled
For a lasting savor; the precious nard and aloes;
The bitter-sweet of myrrh, like a sorrow having wings;
Ghostly breath of lilies bruised—how white thye were!
And the captive life of many a far rose-garden.
Jewels bring we hither, surely stars once fallen,
Torn again from darkness; the sunlit frost of topaz,
Moon-fire pent in opals, pearls that even the sea loves,
Webs of marvel bring we, broideries that have drunken
Deep of all life-color from a thousand lives—
Each the royal cere-cloth of a century.
We come! What wouldst thou more?

All this dust, thee ashes, hav eye brought so far?
All these days, these years, have I waited in the sun?
I would have had the winged Mirage of yonder desert.

An English artist owns a cat which will not enter the house by the back door. It always walks up to the front door, which has a knocker at a convenient height; gives one or two knocks, and then waits for the door to be opened. If there is not an immediate answer it knocks again, until it has gained admittance.

The Laurentide Air Service, Limited, in connection with the Canadian Pacific railway, began on May 19 a flying boat service between Angliers, Quebec, the present terminus of the Des Quinze branch of the railway and Quebec's new gold fields. A flying boat, capable of carrying five people, including the pilot, will make regular scheduled trips, leaving Angliers on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The boat will fly to Lake Fortune and Lake Rouyn and will return to Angliers the same night.

Whether because of lack of intoxicating liquors or not, the consumption of milk and cream in the United States is rapidly increasing, according to the department of agriculture. The department's survey shows also that farm people who own cows consume more milk and cream than city people while farm folk who do not own cows consume less. The average per capita consumption in 1923 was fifty-three gallons, compared to fifty in 1922 and forty-nine in 1921. Average daily consumption in 1923 was 1.16 pints a person.

On top of a mountain in Chili, scientists are using the wind to make light used in order to see how to study the sun. At the Montesuma solar station a windmill has been erected to furnish power to light the observatory. The observatory is used by experts of the Smithsonian Institution, who measure the heat which reaches the earth from the sun. They are trying to find the relation between changes in the sun's heat and our weather. So with the windmill they put the weather to work to help in the discovery of the secrets of the weather, remarks Science Service.

A most unusual plant that reverses the natural order of things by eating animals at the London Horticultural hall is England, says Tit-Bits. This meat-eating plant is a native of the tropical East Indies. Its principal prey are mice, which are attracted to it by a very pungent odor emanating from the mouth of the blossom, formed into almost a perfect hole. The mice crawl into this opening and natural bristles on the petals close about the victim as it makes an attempt to escape. Digestive juices similar to those secreted in the stomach of animals are given off, and the victim is slowly consumed.

SAYS THIS STATE FALLS DOWN ON CIVIL SERVICE

Wednesday's meeting of the Norwich Rotary club was featured by an extremely interesting talk by Arthur Reed Kimball, a member of the National Civil Service League, president of the Waterbury Chamber of Commerce and a member of the state tuberculosis commission, who spoke on Civil Service. Mr. Kimball was introduced by President Hugh B. Campbell who presided at the meeting.

Mr. Kimball reviewed the history of the civil service, or merit system, which started in England over a century ago. He spoke of how it worked out with regard to the London constabulary and in India. He spoke of the growth of the civil service reform in America saying that while some progress had been made there was still that feeling that "to the victor belongs the spoils."

The first real awakening was in 1881 about the time that Garfield was shot and that in 1883 a law was passed requiring civil service examinations in some of the government positions. From time to time this had been extended, especially during Roosevelt's term, Roosevelt being a firm believer in the merit system and a champion of its cause. Taft was also a believer in civil service, but during Wilson's administration, especially during the war the system had declined. Harding was not a strong advocate of civil service, but in Coolidge we have a man who firmly believes in the system.

He spoke of civil service in Connecticut as it applies to state offices. He told of numerous incidents where a person perfectly qualified had been discharged and another person given the office simply because of politics. He said in closing that if Connecticut should establish a thorough civil service system that it was certain to save the commonwealth anywhere from $500,000 to $1,000,000 a year. He spoke especially of the prohibition enforcement agents, not all prohibition agents but those who have been proved to be dishonest.

At the conclusion of his talk he was given a hearty vote of thanks by the members of the Rotary club.

At the business session of the meeting reports from various committees were given, including the special committee in charge of the intercity meeting. It was announced by Chairman L. M. Carpenter that they had met with committees from other clubs and that it had been the opinion of the meeting that the annual meeting would be held at Ashland park on July 31. This met with the favor of the club and the matter was left in the hands of the directors.

E. LaRue Bliven announced that the Rotary baseball team would play the chamber of commerce team next week and the Arcanum club team the week following. Ed Tredennick of the Meriden club announced that the Meriden golfers would complete with the local team on July 24th at Meriden.

Arthur M. Brown, the new state's attorney, spoke briefly after an urgent request, saying that he appreciated the club's congratulations and that he would endeavor to uphold the dignity of the law in this section of the state.

F. Russell Smith was song leader for the luncheon and there was the usual club singing and various solos and group singing.

QUICK WORK CHECKS GRAIN ELEVATOR FIRE

A fire which broke out on the third floor of the Yantic Grain & Products Co., elevator building on North Thames street late Wednesday night resulted in a call for the fire department at 11.28 o'clock. Two lines of hose were quickly laid and ladders run up to the third floor where flames were shooting from beneath a window on the eastern side of the elevator. Quick work by the department saved heavy loss by fire, a small hole being burned through the side of the building under the window where the fire had started in the partition. The loss to grain stored in bins on this floor was small.

The fire was discovered by Israel Stamm and Milton Adnopos who were returning home and they sent in the alarm from Box 12, corner of West Main and Thames street. The fire evidently started from an overheated motor located close to the window on the third floor. The miller had worked late Wednesday and the motor had evidently became overheated, a spark landing in the grain dust near the window, later starting the fire.

The building is a huge wooden structure and had the flames gained more headway a serious fire would have ensued resulting in a heavy loss for the proprietors of the grain store.

TAXATION COMMITTEE CONFERS ON EFFORT FOR TAX EQUALIZATION

At the special meeting of the tax equalization committee, held Wednesday evening in the mayor's office in the town building, the committee was in session with the three assessors of the town of Norwich and a general discussion of taxation and how property in Norwich might be taxed on a basis of equality for all took place.

Chairman James L. Case of the committee presided over the meeting and asked for action on the suggestion of the executive committee presided over the meeting and asked for action on the suggestion of the executive committee as to how the meeting may best outline a method of procedure. The committee suggested that Assessor Fred Burroughs of New London and T. M. Russell, president of the Russell Manufacturing company of Middletown, be invited to address the committee at a meeting to be held on Monday, Aug. 4th. These men are invited to explain the situation existing in those two cities relative to assessing and explain how the situation was met and taxes equalized through revaluation of property and the establishment of basic values on property, land and buildings. The action of the executive committee was approved and the meeting will be held as scheduled.

Explains Assessors' Methods.

Chairman Case then asked for information from the assessors and Arad R. Manning, a member of the board, explained the working of the board and some of the situations met, in part as follows:

The tax year begins on October 1st and the month is devoted to the receiving of lists. We get the names and amounts, compare them with the previous year and make adjustments. Usually the taxpayer says there is no addition to the value of the property. Samples of the tax sheet to be filled out were then distributed and Mr. Manning explained the method of recording property.

Some people think, said Mr. Manning, that all the assessors do is finished when the lists are in, but this is really only the beginning of the work. These lists are then arranged alphabetically, checked against the list of the previous year and filed. The lists in the past 14 years have doubled in number, in 1910 there were 3833 lists, in 1919 there were 5082 and in 1923 there were 6625. After these lists are completed, some 25 per cent not returned by property holders must then be made out on the blue list and 10 per cent added.

The assessors are elected by the people and work under the state board of equalization and lists to be filled out are made out by this board. Under eight heads in 1910 there were 8307 items, in 1919 it went to 11,048 and in 1923 there were 15,325. Some of this increase is from buildings and land but the majority comes from automobiles. Automobiles were first listed separately in 1905, the lists showing 48. In 1923 there were 2850 automobiles under the various classifications and 303 soldier exempt. Under the state law ex-service men are exempt $1000 on property and this number has greatly increased since the last war. Ex-soldiers are buying property and the lists show many transfers and with the 5 per cent Norwich offers a fine inducement for ex-service men to buy here.

Transfers of real estate have grown rapidly. Last year 913 deeds were recorded while in 1910 there were but 484.

When the lists have been corrected the clerk of the board begins preparing his abstract and members of the board keep ahead and see that everything is correct before this work is done. The assessors then swear to the correctness of the work and the abstract is turned over to the board of relief.

The owner of property simply makes a suggestion and the assessors fix the value. If the list is low, it is raised and if no report is filed the assessors 10 per cent the property and if it is known that value has increased, they increase it in the tax list. In 1923 a total of 369 notices of raised lists were sent out and by January 31 the lists must be ready for the board of relief.

In February the board of relief sits for 20 days to hear claims, make its decisions and then all is ready for the town meeting.

Vast Increase in Work.

The vast increase in the work for the assessors makes it seem as though the work could not be done on time and the time is not far distant when October 1st will be too short a notice for the board to work on and the tax year must be moved ahead if the work is to be completed.

The members of the board then check through the street cards and this work takes about six weeks to complete, making out all new cards where transfers and changes have been made.

After this the assessors go through the records in the town clerk's office and a loose leaf system has been installed by the members of the board. Upon the pages of the book are written the old owner, new owner and all information concerning the property. If in this work changes are noted the list is again gone through and proper entries made.

The fire marshal now provides the board with a list of property changes and costs are figured. This, however, is in the city only and there is no way of checking the improvements in the town, there being fully as many changes there as in the city.

Norwich Averages 47 Per Cent.

Property in Norwich is valued for taxation on the average of about 47 per cent, said Mr. Manning, and at this time the question of inequality of taxation was brought up by several members of the committee. Mr. Manning replied that there is no disputing of the fact that there is inequality of taxation, but that the board of assessors is powerless to do anything about this until a basis of valuation is reached to work upon.

Scope of Committee Work.

Chairman Case then asked if it was the opinion of the committee and assessors that the committee was to find the solution of the problem of an equalization of values for taxation. The committee agreed that this was so, that the committee was not in session to raise or lower taxes, but solely to readjust values, placing them on an equal basis for all property owners, establishing a basis to work upon and bring the taxes to this fair rate. This point came out several times during the discussion and every time it showed convincingly that the work ahead of the committee was solely that of equalization of property values and establishment of a basis to work upon; that it was not a question of now big an increase should be made but that a fair valuation be placed on property, lowering the amount of any property owner, who may be in the lists for too great a valuation and increasing property not now in at a fair valuation.

Mr. Manning further explained that the assessors from April 1st until October 1st were kept busy getting ready for the lists of the following year. From April into June, street lists were compiled and everything cleaned up before the beginning of the new year.

Tax Map Progressing.

Asked about the tax map, Shepard B. Palmer stated that this work was progressing rapidly and that the city, with the exception of Preston annex had been mapped and the town as far as Norwich Town had been mapped out. He felt that this map would be invaluable to the assessors and the feeling of the committee was the same in this matter.

Michael J. Curran, former member of the board of assessors, said that it would be a good thing if the selectmen of the town acted as the fire marshal; that a law be passed requiring people in the town to file applications for building, thus giving the assessors this information about property changes in the town.

Chairman Case then asked what could be done in the assessors' office to secure a fair equalization of values and it was suggested that land values be established which with buildings would show a total value.

A general discussion followed and the assessors were asked how long it would take them to do the work of revaluing property themselves. Mr. Manning, Fred G. Prothero and John B. Oat, members of the board, stated that it would take several years; that nothing could be done unless some method was found to relieve the assessors of clerical work that holds them at the office throughout the year, allowing them little or no time to go out and look over property.

They suggested that the work should be done in one year, and the new valuation go into effect on October 1st. The question of having experts come to Norwich and fix values, having the assessors work with them was discussed. The question was also asked whether or not the people of Norwich would feel that the assessors could fix values, or whether it would be better to have experts do this. There was a divided opinion on this subject, some members of the committee feeling that the assessors were qualified to do the work if sufficient time for the work was allowed them. The question of using an automobile to go about the town looking over property was discussed, and the assessors explained how in the past year, by use of their own cars, they had found property changes which brought in many dollars more than the board cost the town for more than one year.

The general discussion brought out many problems for the board and committee and it was decided to await the addresses of Mr. Burroughs and Mr. Russell before further discussion was had on the subject.

SUSPICIONS IN DEATH OF NEW LONDON MAN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, July 9.—William N. Holt, about 46, of 82 Golden street, a printer in the employ of the Bingham Paper Box Co., died tonight under mysterious circumstances and Joseph Gowartzky of 35 Douglas street and George Bates, colored, also of Douglas street and two Poles are prisoners at the police station being held without bail to await an investigation to be conducted Thursday by Coroner J. J. Desmond. Medical Examiner Charles D. Kaufman who investigated the circumstances attending the finding of Holt's body stated that in his opinion Holt died from acute alcoholism. Holt who had been on a spree for a week or more, went to the home of Gowartzky this afternoon and there is known to have been furnished with liquor which was procured by Bates and one of the Poles.

During the early evening the occupants of the Gowartzky house went to the Bates residence and returned to the Gowartzky house about ten o'clock. The drinking continued with the return of the party to the Gowartzky house, for Bates and one of the Poles are known to have left the house for more liquor in beer bottles. During the progress of the drinking bout Holt reclined on a lounge where he apparently fell asleep. Shortly before midnight Gowartzky located Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray on North Bank street and requested the officer to go to Gowartzky's house as the man would be probably found dead there.

Ray and Patrolman Clarence Martin went to the house and at the foot of a flight of stairs and lying parallel with the stairs they found the body of Holt. An examination of the body revealed life extinct. The officers questioned Gowartzky who declared that he had left Holt on the lounge and did not know how the body came to be in the yard. The officers were satisfied that Holt's body was carried from the house to the yard by Gowartzky and his companions when they realized that Holt was dead. This theory is given credence from the fact that there was candle grease on the front of Holt's coat and that Gowartzky had a stump of a candle in his hand when he sought the police to go to the house, together with the fact the position of the body when found in the yard indicated that it was carried there and the victim had not descended the flight of stairs and collapsed and died.

FAST RACING FEATURES CARD AT COLUMBUS

Columbus, Ohio, July 9.—(By The A. P.)—The three fastest heats of year were recorded today in the Elks Home $3,000 stake for 2:04 pacers, one of the features of today's Grand Circuit card.

Jimmy McKerron won the first heat in 2:02 1-4, Hal Mahone took the second heat in the same time and the third heat in time only a 1-4 of a second slower. Hal Mahone was a strong favorite in the event.

The first event of the afternoon, the 2:15 trot, brought out a field of 11 starters, with Barksdale made first choice.

David Axworthy which ruled as second choice won the first two heats and the event, with Barksdale taking the third one.

While the consequence won the first heat of the 2:08 trot, he and Lady Bondsman, which constituted the Mahone entry were disqualified and not permitted to start in the remaining heats.

Al Maworth which finished second in the first heat was given first place because of the foul driving back of Lady Bondsman in running into Murphy, who was driving Hope Frisco, in the second heat. Al Maworth broke at the home stretch and Peter S. won.

Peter S proved the best of the small field in the third heat and won it and the race, Al Maworth finishing near the rear. The Southern Hotel $3,000 stake for 2:08 pacers was another split race. Kid Hal finished a surprise by winning the first heat. Colonel Bidwell, the favorite won the second heat, although he was very tired at the finish. By winning the third heat Russell Ongale sent the race into the fourth heat which was won by Kid Hal.

SUB BASE WINS FROM RIVERVIEW BY MEANS OF PETTY TECHNICALITY

Crawling out of a tight hole by a technicality, "Lefty" Harrell and his Sub Base team won from the Riverview club, 4 to 3, at the State Hospital diamond Wednesday afternoon, thus evening up the series between these two teams. It was apparently a case of win at any cost with the Sub Base team regardless of good sportsmanship.

The technicality that won for the Base came in the last half of the ninth inning, with the score 4 to 3 in favor of the Base. With one down Mills crashed out a triple and was resting on third with the tying run. Eddie Burns, one of the best little ball players that has ever been seen around here, came to bat. He flashed the squeeze play signal to Mills who started with Harrell's windup for the plate. Harrell, seeing that he was being crossed, endeavored to make a wide pitch and Burns leaned over the plate and laid down a beautiful bunt which Harrell fielded as Mills raced across the plate. Harrell, seeing that there was no possible chance of getting Burns, immediately appealed to Umpire Holden that Burns had stepped across the plate to hit the ball. Holden then waved Burns out and sent Mills back to third.

There was quite some argument but Holden asserted that he was right in his decision. Technically he was right, but it is doubtful if he saw Burns step out of the box. If Burns did step out, and he and Harrell were the only ones that saw Burns step out. It looked like a legitimate play to everyone on the field except Harrell and the umpire after Harrell had impressed it upon him.

Of course everyone knows that a batter has no right to step out of the box when he hits. But if this technicality was insisted upon at all times the game would be one continuous argument. If all these technicalities had been insisted upon the Riverview club would have won the game. Lefty Harrell himself many times steps out of the box when he hits. Hawes in running up on the ball several times in yesterday's game was out of the box. Dinty Moore violated Rule 51, sec. 2, when he took more than one minute in selecting his bat after the umpire had called for the batter. Dinty himself is a flagrant violator of Rule 50. If all these technicalities had been insisted upon it is doubtful if the Base would have scored at all. Riverview, however, did not insist on them, or, in fact, did not even call them to the attention of the umpires.

Harrell's crabiness in this case might not have been so noticeable had not he been continually crabbing along with Catcher Anchli. Several plays showed that the Base was out to win. Crompton made an unnecessary slide into first base in the third inning, cutting two gashes in Coullard's leg with his spikes. Warrant Officer Hawes tried to pull some very crude work in getting hit with the ball every time he came to the plate. Hawes' work was so extremely crude that he appeared positively ridiculous. Trying to be funny and endeavoring to get on base by such petty means is disgusting to any true lover of the game. Outside of these few marring incidents it was a good game.

Up to the eighth inning when he was taken out, Roy, who pitched for Riverview had outpitched the left-handed wonder from the Base. Roy should have been returned a victor in this game except for the slack base running of the Riverview club and their ragged field work at critical times. Riverview outhit the Base 13 to 7, enough hits to score five runs provided they had run the bases properly.

The Hospital had 11 men left stranded on the bags during the game, two of whom should have scored with proper base running.

There was no scoring until the fourth inning, although Riverview had runners on third in both the second and third innings. The first tally came in the first of the fourth when the Sub Base ace Mangold on when he was hit by Roy, with one down. Anchli hit to Burns who touched second but threw wild to first, Anchli going to second. This play should have been a sure double play. Two hits that followed scored Anchli.

Two more runs were scored in the sixth when Dinty Moore, after taking such a long time to select his bat tripled. Mangold scored him with a hit. Mangold was advanced when Anchli singled. Orsi tried a bunt on the third strike and was out. Compton hit to Kendricks, short who had ample time to make a neat double play but he mussed up his chances by colliding with Burns who was on the bag to take the throw, Kendricks deciding to make the play himself. Mangold scored on the mixup. The Base's last run came in the eighth when Zemke passed Mangold. Mangold went to third when Belair pegged wild into the dirt. Mangold scored on Orsi's hit.

The Riverview club scored two runs in the seventh on clean hitting. Coullard doubled and scored when Mills doubled. Burns scored Mills with another double. All this being done with two down. Their next run came when Allard singled and scored on Belair's hit after the Base had thrown the ball around wild. This ended the scoring.

EAST ENDS WIN THEIR FIFTH STRAIGHT GAME

The East Ends with Harry Mills in the box won their fifth straight game in the twilight league, Wednesday evening when they defeated Battery B, 3 to 1. The game was a pitchers' battle between Gaudette for the soldiers and Mills for the East Siders, Mills having the shade over his opponent. Gaudette allowed five hits and Mills five, the former struck out nine men while his opponent whiffed two less.

The league leaders again went out and won the game in the first inning. Walz was safe when Burelle fumbled his slow roller, and successive hits by Mills, J. Pedace and Riley scored three runs. The soldiers didn't score until the sixth, when Eichleberg walked, went to second on a fielder's choice and scored on Robertson's hit to right field.

Gaudette had a good fast ball, a fast-breaking curve, and a baffling change of pace, the one bad inning being responsible for his defeat. Mills on the other hand had everything and was steady throughout.

For the second consecutive game, the East Ends fielding was excellent, the outfield again pulling sensational catches. In the field for the soldiers, Eichleberg featured with a catch in deep center field of Leonard's long hit. Score:

ECHOES FROM THE STANDS
(By Matt)

The best game of the league.

A few more of these games would please the fans.

Hope the Nuggets play a good game tonight. If they do t will be the first one this season.

Ox Madden says he is going to surprise the fans this evening. Probably he is going to refrain from pitching.

Mills did some pretty pitching in the third inning fanning Dutch with three men on and holding the Soldiers scoreless.

St. Armour and Red Burelle made a pretty double play in the last of the fourth. Saint making a difficult catch and pegging to Red at second.

The battery work of Mills and Riley and Gaudette and Robertson was the best seen on the grounds this season.

It makes no difference whether the Battery is ahead or not, they are there all the time and are making many friends by their fast work.

DANIELS ALLOWS P. O. TEAM BUT 3 SCATTERED HITS
(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, July 9.—Allowing but three men to face him per inning, Tillie Daniels was easily returned the victor over the Post Office nine this evening in an Industrial league contest. The New London Ship and Engine team fielded well behind the fine twirling of Daniels and he was able to shut out the Post Office employes by a 5 to 0 score.

The game took but an hour and ten minutes to play and was well played by both nines. There was hard hitting and with fast and sure fielding both teams were able to hold down the opponents score. Bunching two of their seven hits in the fifth inning, the Ship workers crossed the platter twice and gained the decision right there. The next two frames found the winner annexing a run in each inning, these scores coming as the result of long distance hitting.

Both Daniels and Cranker pitched good games, but the former was more effective and but three men faced him every inning. His support was good also and he allowed but three hits in seven innings of play. Cranker started off well and but for poor support at times the score of the Ship and Engine would not have been so large. The winners were in the hitting mood while the Post Office team was held in complete subjection by Daniels. Score:

How It's Done In the Majors
By Frank Frisch
Captain New York Giants

Any inning. Runner on first. None out. Batter bunts ball in front of plate.

What is the play to make?

Too many teams overlook the chance for a double on such play, and they field such a ball to first, in order to catch the runner. This is just what the team at bat wants, but many such bunts can be fielded and relayed to second in time to force the man out at that base, and the catcher of pitcher, in fact whoever fields such a ball, should make a play to second, if it is at all possible to nail the runner coming down from first at that time. When a play is made in that way, that is if the ball is fielded perfectly and thrown accurately, a great many double plays follow.

INDIANS BEAT ATHLETICS IN DOUBLE HEADER

Philadelphia, July 9.—Cleveland took both ends of a double header from Philadelphia today winning the first game 3 to 1 and the second 6 to 2.

The initial contest was a pitcher's battle between Smith and Baumgartner with the local hurler weakening at the finish while in the second game Dawson obtained the verdict over Eddie Rommel, the Athletics star pitcher. Scores:

REDS BEAT OUT PHILLIES IN LAST OF EIGHTH

Cincinnati, July 9.—After Philadelphia had taken a two run lead in their half of the eighth inning today on singles by Henline and Mitchell and a triple by Harper, the Reds came back in their half of the round and scored five earned runs on seven hits off Mitchell, Betts and Pinto, winning the game 6 to 3. Mays pitched effectively except in the eighth. The score:

Football Officers Elected

Detroit, July 9.—Morrie W. Johnson, of Philadelphia, was elected president of the United States Football association, the national soccer organization, at a meeting that ended early today. Other officers elected were;

William J. Patrick, Bayonne, N. J; Herbert S Murry, Providence, R. I., and Armstrong Paterson, Detroit, first second and third vice presidents, respectively; W. L. Cummings, Chicago, treasurer, and Andrew M. Brown, Bayonne, N. J., secretary.

Accepts Challenge

The Falls Rovers accept the challenge of the West Ends for a game to be played Sunday, the game to be played at 3:30. The Rovers will have their regular lineup.

AMERICAN ATHLETES CONTINUE TO PILE POINTS IN OLYMPIC GAMES

Olympic Stadium, Colombes, France, July 9.—(By the A. P.)—America with her mighty track and field forces is steadily piling up a formidable margin over Finland and also squared accounts today with Great Britain in the spectacular duel of the two nations for the Olympic speed laurels, when the veteran American whirlwind, Jackson W. Scholz, New York A. C., swept to triumph in the 200 metres dash. The Stars and Stripes went up on the victory pole with the greatest thrill that has yet marked the historic athletic fray.

Finishing the last ten metres like a catapult, Scholz won a sensational race by inches from his countryman, Charles W. Paddock, who, after leading to within a few strides of the tape, threw what seemed to be certain victory for him to the winds by slightly turning his head to see his closest rival. That fleeting instant of waywardness cost the Californian the glory of an Olympic crown, but did not change the final triumph of the United States.

Saving in this way the second of her most prized track crowns, America accomplished almost the complete downfall of the British fliers, for Harold Abrahams, the Cambridge ajar, who had given a setback to the United States Monday, when he captured the 100 metres event, finished a poor last, while his countryman, E. H. Liddell, only succeeded in taking third place with the slightest of margins over George Hill, University of Pennsylvania, and Bayes Norton, of Yale.

America made it two out of three in the day's finals, when Dan Kinsey, University of Illinois, won another brilliant duel with Atkinson, of South Africa, for the laurels in the 110 metre hurdle race.

Willie Ritola, Finland's "iron man," has gained the greatest individual glory of any of the athletes thus far. Today he won the gruelling 3,000 metres steeplechase for his second victory of the games and in doing so he broke the world's record, covering the distance in 9 minutes, 33 3-5 seconds, as compared with the previous record of 10 minutes 2 2-5 seconds, set by P. Hodge of England in 1920. This was the second world's record for Ritola, as he took the 10,000 metre championship on Sunday in 30 minutes 23 1-5 seconds, bettering his own world's mark by 12 1-5 seconds.

With 12 events, nearly half the program, completed, the United States tonight had amassed a total of 135 points, nearly twice as many as Finland, which was in second place with 73. Great Britain trailed third with 34 1-2.

First place laurels also rest with the Americans, who have taken six events, while the Finns have captured four, and Great Britain two.

RED SOX TAKE BOTH GAMES FROM BROWNS

Boston, July 9—Boston took both games from St. Louis today 5 to 4 and 5 to 0. In the second game Fuhr, back in the game after an attack of jaundice, pitched admirably, holding the visitors to six hits and getting brilliant support. Todt and Lee fielded sensationally in each game. Sisler knocked in three runs in the first game but went hitless against Fuhr. The scores:

ANNOUNCEMENTS

BREED THEATRE

What promises to be one of the finest entertainments ever offered the Norwich movie fans is a double star feature program which will be presented at the Breed theatre today.

The first of the double headliners is Buster Keaton's latest effort in the most original five-reel comedy ever made, Sherlock Jr. If you've got the blues and you feel downhearted just go to the Breed theatre, where Buster Keaton is appearing in Sherlock Jr., for three days, and you'll forget all your troubles when you see what Buster is up against as a smalltown movie operator. You'll laugh until it aches when you see him as a detective who unearths trouble and is then buried under it himself.

William Shakespeare himself has described Buster Keaton's newest Metro picture, Sherlock Jr. as a comedy of errors. That's a good description, and although Mr. Shakespeare won't be at the Breed theatre on Thursday when the picture opens, we know you will agree with him. For Sherlock Jr. is the peppiest, most hilarious film of the year.

"Big Dan" is the second feature with Charles Jones, who for many years has been intimate with every phase of sport, is adapted particularly to the role of a fighter. His characterization of Big Dan was pronounced perfect by many critics in cities where the production has already been shown.

BREED

The management of the Breed theatre has made arrangements for the showing of the sensational motion picture, Some Wild Oats, which was recently shown for several months in Chicago, Milwaukee and New York, breaking all records of attendance.

Some Wild Oats is the most daring sensational and beneficial motion picture that was ever produced for the screen. It brings the entire subject of Venereal Disease before the public in a most effective manner. The picture leaves nothing to one's imagination, it boldly puts the subject before you in a very frank and inoffensive manner, calling 'a spade a spade," it goes into detail and puts before you the naked truth. Unlike the other motion pictures on this subject, Some Wild Oats has an original story which is true to life, entertaining and educational at the same time. It is a story of a young farmer boy who comes to the big city to have his last fling before entering the navy. His experience teaches one a remarkable lesson.

The picture was made under the auspices of the New York and Chicago Health Department Officials. The picture has been endorsed by the city officials and prominent citizens of Chicago, New York, Milwaukee, Buffalo, St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha. On account of the frankness of the subject and scenes, it has been decided by the management not to show this picture to a mixed audience. Therefore, special shows will be held for men only and special shows for women only. The times for these will be announced tomorrow.

Every father and son, mother and daughter, should see this picture. It will relieve them of the embarrassing moments that parents have in explaining the mysteries of life to their children.

Palace Theatre

It is not often that entertainment seekers are awarded with such thorough enjoyment as that which is afforded by B. P. Schulberg's latest Preferred Picture, Poisoned Paradise.

It is exceptional in every detail and is certainly destined to surpass in popularity the novel which is from the versatile pen of Robert W. Service.

Admirable teamwork toward making Poisoned Paradise the fine picture it is, is contributed by the members of its all-star cast, headed by the always popular Kenneth Harlan and Clara Bow, the clever little newcomer whose work wins fresh recommendations with every new picture in which she appears.

A wife who trips merrily down the primrose path of pleasure only to find it is not without its deep shadows, is the theme of the comedy-drama, The Tie That Binds.

This is the story by Charles K. Harris, the song composer who wrote After the Ball, Break the News to Mother, and other successes.

Mary Ellen is the wife in the story. After several years of marriage to David Winthrop, a designer of mechanical toys who is out of work most of the time, she suddenly decides to leave husband and baby and be independent.

The cast consists of Barbara Bedford, Walter Miller, Raymond Hatton, William P. Carleton, Robert Edeson, Julie Swayne Gordon, Marion Swayne and Effie Shannon. It was produced by Ben Goetz and directed by Joseph Levering.

Added attraction, new story The Telephone Girl, featuring Alberta Vaughn and an all star cast, no advance in prices.

NEW LONDON HORRIFIED BY CASE OF WATERFORD FATHER AND SON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, July 9.—One of the most brutish conditions that has ever come to the attention of the local authorities was revealed this afternoon with the arrest of Joseph Perry, a middle-aged resident of Broad street extension, Waterford, and his son, Walter, aged 16, both charged with incest. The father and son were taken into custody by Sergeant Clifford Gorgas and Officer Henry Albright of the state police barracks at Groton upon complaint of the aunt of Perry's daughter. This evening the father and son were brought before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton in Waterford and were held for trial in the Waterford town court tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The elder Perry was held in bonds of $5,000 and the son was held in bonds of $1,000. As neither of the accused could furnish a surety on his respective bonds, both are locked up at the New London police station to await trial.

The victim of the beastly acts of the father and son is the 14 year old daughter and sister of the accused, Elizabeth Perry. The girl alleges that she had been subjected to the brutish attacks of the father and son three and four times weekly since last February.

Recently an aunt of the girl became aware of the situation and complaint was lodged with the state police. The case was investigated, and a statement being obtained from the girl, a warrant for the arrest of the father and son was issued by Grand Juror John Malone.

The girl is being temporarily cared for by an aunt, who is a resident of Bilnman street, this city.

The girl is one of eleven children, the eldest of whom is 26 and the youngest three. The mother of the girl died four months ago and it was shortly after the death of the mother that Perry and his son are alleged to have begun their finendish acts.

Another case, which is similar, but in which a youth and girl of about 14 are the offenders, will claim the attention of the juvenile court within a day or two. The boy and girl involved are the kin of well known residents of Waterford.

The eleven boats at moorage at the customs house pier, seized from time to time, as rum-runners, are to be augmented, for a rum-running craft that was seized off Bridgeport a fortnight ago has been ordered to be tied up with the other seized craft in this port.

Fortunato Fella, a laborer, residing on Mitchell court, evidently does not appreciate his liberty, for after serving about three months in jail he was liberated today and tonight he was re-arrested and for an offense that will probably get him a longer term in jail. April 24th Fella, who had been arrested a number of times for non-support, was convicted of the charge in the police court and was sentenced to three months in the county jail. Because of good behaviour Fella was liberated this forenoon and this afternoon he went to his home where he quarrelled with his wife, presumably because she sought the courts in an endeavor to compel her husband to support her. The quarrel became violent and finally resulted in Fella attacking his wife. He brutally beat her with his fists and after knocking her down he kicked her several times about the chest, inflicting severe wounds. Fella ran from the house after the assault and it was a short time later that Mrs. Fella lodged a complaint with the police. About 7.30 o'clock the police were informed that Fella had gone to the home of an acquaintance in Clark Lane, Waterford. Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray, Patrolman Sloan and Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin went to the Clark Lane house in the police car, and as the machine approached the house Fella, who was in the yard attempted to escape by running into the woods. He did not succeed in getting away, however, for the officers quickly overtook him and brought him to New London, where he was locked up, pending the convening of the police court tomorrow morning.

Russell N. Putnam, a Bank street merchant residing at 55 Squire street, reported to the police this evening that a thief had entered his home and had stolen his watch, a Hamilton some time within a few days. Putnam stated that he wore the watch last Sunday and upon retiring he placed the timepiece on his dresser. That was the last seen of the watch by him and he decided to report his loss to the police. Putnam prized the watch highly because it was a gift to him by his father, the late George N. Putnam, who prior to his death, was head of the Putnam Furniture Company in this city.

An automobile owned and driven by Mrs. J. E. Underhill, 307 Huntington street, struck a youthful cyclist this evening at the corner of Broad and Williams street. The youngster, who resided at 23 Eastern avenue, was knocked from the wheel but receved only bruises and scratches, as was determined by an examination of the child at a private hospital.

Michael Steinberg, 28 Belden street, was taken into custody late this afternoon by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock, charged with breach of the peace, upon complaint of Mrs. Nathan Hochman, 28 Belden street, a neighbor. Mrs. Hochman alleged that Steinberg visited her house, engaged the woman in an argument and created so much noise that the neighbors were attracted and will appear as witnesses against the accused in the police court tomorrow morning.

George Brinkley, Virginia and Rose Severini, 95 Bayonet street, patients at home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Announcement is made that the marriage of William H. Foley, Newark, N. J., son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Foley, Kittery, Me., and Miss Mildred Bradford, daughter of Mrs. Anna Bradford, Eastern Point road, Groton, will take place August 9th.

William Hook, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hook, of Kearney, N. J., and Mrs. Viola Thomas, of New London, were married yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George L. King, 65 Connecticut avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bougon were the attendants. The groom is a chief petty officer assigned to the U. S. S. Savannah.

Robert W. Young, of Waltham, Mass., and Miss Florence Tourjee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Tourjee, of Blydenberg avenue, were married last evening at the residence of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Myron E. Genter, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. Following a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Young will make their home in Bangor, Me., where Mr. Young is employed by the Young Men's Christian Association.

Joseph Giancopoulus, 26 Bank street, reported to the police this morning that his bicycle had been stolen from in front of his place of business.

Sam Morris, a truck driver from Chelsea, Mass., on the way from New London to Norwich, has queer notions about his rights in the road—notions not those entertained by drivers generally. When Morris reached Quaker Hill he was on his left side of the road, as Thomas Darrow, also a truck driver, came along on the way to New London. Darrow was from Providence, where they hold the same ideas that are entertained in Missouri. He clung to his side of the highway, but Morris crowded the Darrow truck and it smashed into a stone wall, and was damaged somewhat. Morris was fluent in excuses, but was arrested just the same for reckless driving and when the men told their stories of what happened before Justice Thomas F. Morton this morning, the latter concluded that Morris was wholly at fault. Then came the fine, which was convincing to Morris that he had made a mistake.

Mrs. Richard Hawes and infant daughter, of Best View, Waterford, Miss Florence Douglass, Waterford, and George Congdon, Niantic, were patients discharged at Lawrence hospital today. Congdon suffered the amputation of the little toe of his right foot a fortnight ago, a broadaxe falling upon that member while the man was at his work at the plant of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott company.

An automobile owned and operated by Joseph Fluett, 12 Union court, in being backed at Ocean Beach last night, struck the entrance to the garage of Arthur Rudd, causing one of the doors of the structure to be ripped from its hinges.

An automobile owned by George S. Palmer, of Pequot avenue and driven by Christopher E. Holt, 47 Gorton street, was in collision with an unidentified machine, which bore Connecticut registration, N-7356, this morning on Montauk avenue, corner of Thames street. Neither car was badly damaged.

Mrs. Joseph Deaton, 4 Montauk avenue, complained to the police this morning that during the night a go-cart was stolen from in front of her home.

Among the alleged violators of the automobile law who will appear before Judge Prince in the police court tomorrow morning will be Lloyd Armstrong, 33 Granite street, son of former Mayor and Mrs. Benjamin L. Armstrong. The accused was ordered into court this forenoon by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock, when Armstrong was detected operating a machine without having an operator's license.

Automobile thieves were busy in New London last night, and although two machines were stolen it was apparently the intent of the parties taking the cars to use them for pleasure, more than it was to steal the machines, for in both instances the cars were found abandoned and without damage. Samuel Jordan, 14 Spring street, parked his car in front of his home during the early evening. While Jordan slumbered the car was stolen and was left alongside the highway on Logger Hill, Waterford. Some time after the car had been abandoned State Policeman James Dooley in passing over the grade, observed the car without any lights displayed and caused the machine to be driven to the Groton barracks where it was later claimed by the owner.

Michael Baldessen, 78 Shaw street, also decided to park his car for the night in front of his home. Sometime after the car was placed alongside the curb a thief entered it and drove the machine away. This morning it was discovered abandoned about a mile and a half west of Niantic, by an employe of the Flanders garage. Baldessen was notified of the whereabouts of the machine and that was the first he knew of the theft for he had not noticed that it was missing when he left home to go to his work this forenoon.

Peter Trunken, an Oakdale farmer, was fined $100 in the police court this morning for operating a Ford touring car yesterday afternoon while under the influence of liquor. Peter drove down Bank street and at Howard street, where Policeman Thomas Cavanaugh was doing traffic duty and trying to keep the large number of cars moving without accident. Trunken was mixed up in the crush of cars. He was as mixed in his movements as he was in his brain. Officer Cavanaugh could not allow that, so he sought to take Peter into custody. But the latter was moving so fast that the policeman called to State Officer Pobuda on a motorcycle and the latter overhauled Trunken. Then the state cop drove the Trunken car to the police station. In court today Peter was indignant that he should be accused of having drunk intoxicants. He said his only beverage yesterday was water and milk, and clinched that statement by saying that he never drank intoxicants. The police officers contradicted him point blank and declared that Trunken was drunk—good and drunk, that his breath was odorous with the smell of liquor and that in all ways he indicated that he was intoxicated. That settled the matter with the court and the fine was imposed. Trunken was warned about being accused a second time and was told that the penalty would be severer on another conviction. Trunken had a difficult time in raising the fine and costs, but he succeeded so that he did not go to jail.

Three cases of traffic ordinance violation were treated as have been previous cases of the sort—nolled. The violation consisted of parking in the space on State street allotted to public service vehicles. The council has now changed the provisions of that ordinance so that private cars will be allowed there hereafter as there are not nearly public service cars enough to fill the space apportioned to them.

Two boys from East Cambridge, Joseph Marchant and James Conway, were taken from a train from Boston and charged with trespassing upon railroad property. They are 19 years old and said that being unable to get work at home they decided to go to New York and ship on a vessel bound to sea. The lads were turned over to Probation Officer Mansfield that he may find a way for them to continue their search for a sea-going vessel, or return to their homes in Massachusetts.

Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney let it be known this morning that he intended to assign the remaining three members of the supernumerary force to duty next Sunday, as was predicted would be the case in these columns yesterday. Captain Pinney stated that the three officers, William and Edward Reardon and Henry Silva, would be given duty at Ocean Beach where great congestion occurs every Sunday because of the volume of motor traffic. If the order of Captain Pinney is adhered to and all three officers are provided duty there is very apt to be a howl made by some members of the council for it is known that three members of that body are opposed to the assigning to duty of Silva because he has been arrested. Captain Pinney is aware of the fact that Silva was once apprehended upon complaint of his wife, but also declares that the court exonerated Silva of any wrongdoing by failing to establish a conviction. Captain Pinney was also aware of those facts at the time Silva took the examination for appointment along with a dozen other applicants.

ALLEGED ATTEMPT TO BOMB MINISTER'S HOME

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 9.—One man was murdered, another was shot and seriously wounded and an alleged attempt was made to bomb the home of a minister in a series of depredations in this city early today.

The murdered man was Patrick G. urke, proprietor of a soft drink place. He was killed by bullets fired from an automobile containing four men in front of his home. The slayer escaped. Robbery is believed to have been the motive.

Floyd Ault, 24 years old, of Akron, Ohio, an immigration inspector who was appointed to the immigration force about ten days ago, was shot and probably fatally wounded while patrolling the upper river bank for alien smugglers just after midnight. Police believe rum runners are responsible for the attack. Four men armed with sawed-off shotguns closed in on Ault and another inspector. Ault was shot in the abdomen. He is in a hospital and his recovery is doubtful.

A gang of men in an automobile drew up to the home of the Rev. W. C. Crofts, a Presbyterian minister, and one of the men is alleged to have run toward the house; to have lighted a match and to have thrown something at the house.

Alexander Selkirk was an adventurer, born in Largo, Scotland, in 1676. He was a skillful seaman and made several voyages to the South sea, in one of which, having quarreled with his commander, he was put ashore on the island of Juan Fernandez with a few supplies. Here he lived alone for four years and four months, when he was rescued by Captain Woods Rogers. He returned to England in 1711, and is said to have given his papers to Defoe, who, from them, wrote the story of "Robinson Crusoe. Selkirk died on the ship Weymouth in 1723.

BROADWAY THEATRE

A great week and double show of vaudeville and pictures is scheduled for the Broadway theatre the last half of this week starting today.

The vaudeville program follows:

Alma Mater, Marie & Co. is an excellent comedy variety act with five people featured. You'll like it sure.

Gene Mortini, the accordeon virtuoso, offers an Accordeon Recital.

Well & Gladys Ahern in an oddity, A Spinning Romance is an attractive novelty comedy act.

Roattino and Barrette in A Classy Italian comedy skit Mariuce On the Links is a bright comedy with music.

The photoplay is Week End Husbands featuring a star cast.

If you enjoy keen-edged drama that will pull you out of your seat with its very tensity; if you enjoy remarkable portrayals of presentday human beings; if you like your picture entertainment served up with the piquancy of absolute realism; if you are looking for a story that will keep you pepped up with enthusiasm from the first scene to the last fade-out don't, whatever you do, miss this one!

It will send you away with that "I want some more" feeling!

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

PUBLIC UTILITIES SHOW NEW PEAK PRICES

New York, July 9.—Strength and activity of the public utility issues, more than a dozen of which established new peak prices for the year, was the outstanding development in today's active stock market. Elsewhere, considerable irregularity developed as a result of heavy professional selling, based on the belief that technical reaction was warranted after nearly five weeks of almost steadily rising prices. The reaction, however, did not get very far, net losses in the pivotal issues being limited to fractions.

American Water Works common was again the individual feature, jumping 8 1-2 points to a record price for all time at 111 1-2, or more than double its price on May 31. West Penn Power, one of its principal subsidiaries jumped nearly 7 points to 96 7-8, also a record top. Pronounced strength also was shown by United Railways investment common and preferred, buying of which was said to be for the account of the same interests that have been operating in the American Water Works issues. Other strong spots in this group included General Electric, Public Service of New Jersey, Columbia Gas, Brooklyn Union Gas and Philadelphia Company, all at their best prices of the year.

Independent strength also was shown by a number of the chemical and low priced railroad shares. New 1924 high records in these groups were established by the Frisco, St. Louis Southwestern and Seaboard Air Line common and preferred issues, Erie second preferred, Southern Railway, Nickel Plate, the Commercial Solvents issues, Allied Chemical preferred and Texas Gulf Sulphur. Davis Chemical closed nearly 4 points higher at 52 1-2.

U. S. Steel, common, Baldwin and American Can all closed fractionally lower. Studebaker closed unchanged at 38 after having established a new 1924 top at 38 7-8.

American Smelting established a new high price 66 7-8, despite reports of low red metal prices. Recent strength of the copper shares, however, is based on the higher quotations for silver, large quantities of which are mined by most of the large copper companies. Speculative disappointment over the placing of Woolworth (new stock) on a 03 annual basis was reflected in a two point drop in that issue.

Call money held at 2 per cent. all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged in quiet trading.

Foreign exchange rates held relatively firm with trading restricted pending further developments on the reparations situation. Demand sterling ruled around $4.33 1-4 and French francs were moderately active around 5.05 1-2.

THE BOND MARKET.

New York, July 9.—The upward movement of bond prices was partly checked today, although new record high prices were established by a variety of railroad issues. Trading was rather colorless except for the sharp breaks in Wilson and Company convertible bonds in the late dealings.

Reports of the gradual suppression of the Sao Paulo insurrection steadied Brazilian obligations, some of which made slight recovery from the lowest levels reached on the recent decline. Activity relaxed in other sections of the foreign list, but Finland 6's dropped to a new low level price for the year with the offering of $12,000,000 seven per cent. bonds of the industrial mortgage bank of that company, which are guaranteed by the government.

The movement of the Wilson issues, in which recessions of 5 to 10 points greatly reduced recent gains, was attributed partly to speculative operations based on uncertainty over the company's refinancing plan.

New financing includes a $5,000,000 preferred stock issue of the Illinois Power and Light Corporation at $95 a share, and 3,000 shares of the Carolina Power and Light preferred stock at $99.50 a share. Bankers were said to be negotiating for a Japanese public utility loan to be offered next week.

THE CURB MARKET YESTERDAY

New York, July 9.—Industrial securities showed renewed strength in curb market trading today, the motors and public utility issues joining in resistance to profit taking towards the close which overtook early advances. The oils absorbed last attention.

Active demand for Durant Motors points. General Motors also was well bought, closing fractionally higher.

Republic Railway and Light moved up to 10 1-2 points to 38 on a small turnover. Lehigh Power securities and American Gas and Electric were steady in this group, Lehigh gaining more than two points on the day and American Gas 1 3-4. Appalachian Power showed early strength but lost a point at the close.

CORN GOES OVER DOLLAR MARK

Chicago, July 9.—Corn jumped over the dollar mark today for July delivery, the first time since 1920. Both September and May corn reached the topmost price set this season. Unfavorable weather together with current belief that the government report this afternoon would show the corn crop condition to be the lowest ever known was chiefly responsible. Corn quotations closed strong, 1 1-8c to 2 1-8c net higher, July 1.00 3-4 and September 96 7-8 to 97. Wheat finished unsettled, 1 1-2@1 5-8 to 1 7-8c up, September 1.14 3-8 to 1.14 1-2 and December 1.17 1-4 to 1.17 3-8, with oats at 1c to 1 7-8c advance and provisions showing 15c to 25c gain.

Rushes to buy corn began as soon as the market opened, and the day's last transactions were at virtually the tip-top reached. The fact that temperatures were somewhat more seasonable failed to offset persistent rain, especially as rural offerings were scarce, and shipping demand here good. Before the day was ended, much profit-taking took place, but the buying continued to be of surprising volume to the last.

Wheat owed its strength largely to unfavorable crop comment from the Canadian northwest and to assertions that the domestic spring crop was in danger from black rust.

NUMBER FIVE

tions may be searched in vain for one which has excelled this in freedom or frankness of discussion, or whose actions have been more clearly the result of the unfettered wishes of the assembled delegates. The resolution and endurance they have exhibited is but proof of their sense of the solemn responsibilities to the country under which they acted and of the supreme vitality of democracy.

"I cannot but feel deeply sensible of the honor done me by the convention and am even more conscious of the weighty obligations that have fallen to me by its deliberate and unanimous choice. Not least of these is the duty to put before the country as clearly as my powers permit, the democratic creed and the democratic policy as the convention has declared them.

"That this creed and this policy will receive the militant support of all those who call themselves by the democratic name I do not doubt for an instant. I shall hope to rally to their aid that great body of liberal, progressive and independent thought which believes that 'progress is motion, government is action,' which detest privilege in whatever form and which does not wish the American people or their government to stand still or retreat from the midst of a changing world.

"There can be no compromise with reaction. Liberal principles must and will prevail. This is the mandate of the hour and I shall obey it."

LIFE SKETCH OF JOHN WILLIAM DAVIS

New York, July 9.—John William Davis, the democratic nominee for president, was born in Clarksburg, West Virginia, in 1873, the only son in a family of six children. His father, John J. Davis, also a native of Clarksburg, was an attorney and constantly active in civic enterprises. He served in the state legislature, and was twice elected to congress. Mrs. Anna Kennedy Davis, the mother of John W. Davis, was a native of Baltimore.

Mr. Davis was an alert student, being graduated from Washington and Lee university at the age of 19. After receiving his bachelor of arts degree, he spent three yars studying law and won the law degree at the age of 22 in 1895. He was admitted to the bar the same year.

The following year he returned to the university to become professor of law. He taught one year, then began the practice of law in Clarksburg in partnership with his father.

When in 1898 the democrats in his town sought to send him to the house of delegates, the lower house of the legislature, he was reluctant to interrupt his professional practice and refused the nomination. He finally acceded, however, and was elected easily. He was made chairman of the judiciary committee of the house and later floor leader of his party. After one term in the legislature he returned to his law office.

Between 1899 and 1910 the only political offices he held were those of county chairman, member of the state executive committee of his party in 1908, and delegate to the national conventions of 1904 and 1908.

When in 1910 the democrats of his district chose him for representative in congress, he was again reluctant to accept. A unanimous vote of the convention won him over, however, and he conducted a vigorous campaign and was elected in a district that had been republican for twenty years. He was re-elected in 1912.

In the house of representatives as in the legislature, Mr. Davis was made chairman of the judiciary committee. He took an active part in the impeachment and trial of Judge Robert W. Archbald.

As a result of his service on this committee President Wilson selected him as solicitor general in 1913, and Mr. Davis resigned from the house to accept that office.

In the summer of 1918 Mr. Davis went to Europe as a member of the commission of three Americans to treat with Germany as to the exchange of prisoners of war. He was in Berne on this mission when, upon the resignation of Walter Hines Page, Mr. Wilson made Mr. Davis the American ambassador to Great Britain. Mr. Davis returned to this country for a conference with the president, and took up his work in London in November, just as the war came to an end. In his capacity of ambassador he was present in Versailles during the peace conference.

Mr. Davis' name as candidate for president was placed before the democratic national convention in San Francisco in 1920 by Governor John J. Cornwell of West Virginia. He received a vote which reached a maximum of 76 on the 39th ballot. Mr. Davis at that time was busy as ambassador in London.

After retiring from the diplomatic service in 1921, he began the practice of law in New York city, in association with the firm of Stetson, Jennings, Russell and Davis.

Mr. Davis was married in 1899 to Miss Julia T. McDonald of Jefferson county, West Virginia. After her death he married Miss Ellen G. Bassel, daughter of John Bassell a West Virginia attorney. He has one child, Mrs. William MacMillan Adams, who lives in Copenhagen.

Three years ago Mr. Davis bought from A. C. Bedford, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of New York, a country home near Locust Valley, Long Island, where he now lives. Mrs. Davis votes in Locust Valley, but Mr. Davis still casts his ballot in Clarksburg.

The democratic nominee is a member and vestryman of the Episcopal church of St. John in Lattingtown. He is a thirty-second degree Mason and a member of the Metropolitan and University clubs in New York as well as the Chevy Chase, Lawyers' and National Press clubs of Washington. He was president of the West Virginia Bar Association in 1906 and of the American Bar Association in 1922.

Mr. Davis was not an active candidate for the democratic nomination for president, either in 1920 or this year. His attitude was expressed on June 19 in a letter which he wrote to the Davis-for-President club of Chicago. In it he said:

"I am not a candidate for the nomination and any decision to the contrary must come from the party and not from myself."

"My only desire," he added, "is that the party shall choose the man best calculated to lead it to success, for I agree with you in thinking that the national situation imperatively demands the return of a democratic party to power. With the record of the last three years before them, it is inconceivable that the people should voice their approval of those now in power.

TAFTVILLE

Castle Perilous, K. O. K. A. held a conclave in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church, Wednesday evening. An initiation of some new members was followed by a social hour in the recreation rooms.

Curtis Hedler of Terrace Avenue is spending the summer vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Chris Hedler of Baltic.

Miss Doris Palmer of North Third avenue is spending a week with friends in Plainfield, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pianko of South B Street have purchased a house in Norwich and have moved there to occupy it. Mrs. Pianko's brother and sister, Stanley Straub and Genivieve Straub accompanied them.

Mr. and Mrs. Hector Brunelle and family of North A Street are spending the summer months at Quebec, Canada.

Miss Jennie McSheffery and Miss Isadora Caron are spending the week at Block Island, R. I.

Miss Noulia Patenaude has resigned her position with the Cloth Department of the Ponemah Company.

Some very exciting roque contests are being held each evening on the roque grounds on Poneman Heights. Usually, all three courts are in play, and many of the players have become expert in the game. There is always a good crowd of spectators on hand to watch the contests, which never fail to be interesting. The present courts are the result of a great deal of hard work by the players, as they were laid out in the woods, where the removal of stones, stumps and even full grown trees was necessary. They have been in good condition all season, and are not only used in the evening, but oftentimes through the day.

Ferdinand Laroche of Providence, R. I., is spending the remainder of the week with relatives on Norwich avenue.

The monthly meeting of Branch 98, Polish Workers Mutual Aid Society was held Sunday afternoon at the clubrooms on Norwich avenue with the president in the chair.

A quantity of inquiries regarding the 1923 Federal income tax, arrived at the local postoffice Tuesday and Wednesday, proving that the government is tireless in investigating people who they believe should have made tax returns and who didn't.

Ernest Pollard of South Second Avenue has purchased a new automobile, and Walter Drew of Lisbon is also numbered among the new car owners.

Local people had their ears glued to the radio all day Wednesday in an attempt to listen in on the Democratic convention in New York. Even those who were not radio owners visited friends or crowded the stores where sets were operating, to hear the results of the convention.

A number of the members of Troop I, Boy Scouts will attend Camp Tippecan, the camp of the scouts under the jurisdiction of the Norwich Scout Executive at Beach Pond, this season. The local boys are planning to take along a radio to while away the hours around the evening campfire. They will be in charge of Scoutmaster Victor H. Davis.

Edward Preston, a student at Northfield, is at his home in Lisbon for the summer vacation.

Edmund Proulx has built several new garages near his home on Hunters avenue.

THREE ARRESTED FOR QUAKER HILL COLLISION

Shortly before 11 o'clock Wednesday morning a Ford truck, driven by Leo Geronard of 1091 Westminster street, Providence, R. I. while rounding the curve at Quaker Hill, was crowded off the road, and, hitting a rock, was badly smashed.

According to Geronard a machine was approaching him and at the same time a Ford touring car, Massachusetts registration, driven by Samuel Morris of 154 Pearl street, Chelsea, started to pass the Geronard machine. Turning off the road to avoid a possible accident between the Morris machine and the approaching car, coming from the opposite direction, Geonard turned sharply to the right and in so doing was wrecked.

State Policeman Harry G. Allbright placed drivers of all three cars under arrest and they are now being held for a hearing.

NERVY BOY DIVER BRINGS UP BODY OF DROWNED KOVALENKO BOY

Alex Kovalenko, a nine year old boy, son of Terenty Kovalenko of 76 High street, was drowned early Wednesday afternoon in the Yantic river at a point above the Central Vermont trestle that crosses the east branch of the river, and the body was recovered about 3 hours later by a thirteen year old boy, Chester Diwicki of 77 High street.

The water at this point is about 10 to 12 feet deep and young Kovalenko who could not swim, had gone into the water with a home-made life preserver with which he was paddling about. This was constructed of two tin cans connected with a piece of string and by placing the string under his arms the can supported him in the water. The string broke, it was reported, and he sank from sight and did not rise again.

The drowning was reported to the police and Officers Daniel O'Neil and Myron Morgan spent about three hours dragging over the spot where the body went down. Street Commissioner John C. Donovan provided a grapnel which they used and they located the body a number of times, feeling it turn over on the bottom of the river bed as the grapnel would catch hold temporarily. But as the body was naked there was no clothing for the hooks of the grapnel to fasten into, and it would slip from the hooks.

At length a young man about 16 years old volunteered to dive where the officess pointed out the spot in which the grapnel had last located it. On his second attempt he saw the body on the bottom, but he came up without it and his nerve failed him when he tried to locate it again.

Young Diwicki was shown where it was thought the body lay. He missed it on his first dive, but got hold of an arm on the second and brought the drowned boy to the surface of the water, where Officers Morgan secured the body and brought it to shore. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve gave Undertakers Shea & Burke permission to take charge of the body.

The boy was born in Norwich in May, 1918. He attended the Mt. Pleasant street school and had finished the third grade. His mother died during the flu epidemic, but he is survived by his father, one sister Natalie, and two brothers, Fred and John.

CIGARETTE BUTT STARTS FIRE IN BURLAP BAGS

Smoke coming from the S. & W. Self-Service Grocery store, 272 Main street, which was discovered by Fireman Thomas Tracy as he was driving past the place in his automobile about 6.40 Wednesday evening, revealed a fire in the building for which Mr. Tracy telephoned in a call to the central station as soon as he had located the blaze in the cellar. A bell alarm from box 23, at the corner of Main and Ferry streets, was rung in immediately afterwards.

The apparatus of the department was quickly on hand and the fire was fought under the direction of Chief H. L. Stanton and Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft, who were able to ring the recall in 40 minutes.

The fire was discovered to have started in a pile of burlap in the grocery store cellar, burned through into the cellar of the adjoining Brooklyn Outfitters store at 266 Main street, and spread up along the studding for six or eight feet. Hose lines were led in first through the clothing store and then through the grocery store, making a quick and successful fight against the flames. The water damage was in the two cellars, and there was water and smoke damage to shoes and clothing of the Brooklyn Outfitters. Both stores were filled with dense smoke that will account for considerable damage to the stocks.

Leon Sachner, treasurer, of the Self-Service Grocery, told the fire department heads that he had had one of his employes piling up burlap bags in the cellar Wednesday. The man is addicted to smoking cigarettes and it is believed he must have dropped a butt among the bags, causing a fire that had been smoldering for some time before the lucky discovery of the smoke by Fireman Tracy.

The clothing store carried insurance but the grocery store had none.

Both buildings are owned by Beckenstein and Taylor, proprietors of the clothing store, above which are three floors occupied by a rooming house.

CLUB SENDS SYMPATHY TO PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

The Progressive Missionary club of the Central Baptist church held a most enjoyable outing Wednesday at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Utley, 43 Mott avenue, Neptune Park, twenty-seven being in attendance. A tasty picnic dinner was served by Mrs. Henrietta Tefft, Mrs. William Covey and Miss Maria Briggs. At the business session it was voted that an expression of sympathy be sent President Coolidge in the loss of his son. A gift of $5 is to be made to the Salvation Army. An invitation from Mrs. Carl Brown for an outing at her summer home was accepted with pleasure. During the afternoon bathing was enjoyed by a number of the party.

STEALS WATCHES AND RINGS FROM ROOMERS

Theft some times Tuesday morning from three roomers at the boarding house of Mrs. Ouillett, 248 Main street, has been reported to the police and suspicion has been directed towards a man and a woman who were transient roomers there Tuesday. As all the rooms were locked, it is believed the thieves must have been provided with keys that fitted the doors.

Louis H. Dumford had two watches and a ring taken from his room. Arthur Sylvia had a brown hand bag taken, and a woman lodger had a ring stolen.

HAD GOOD DONATIONS FOR BACKUS HOSPITAL

Donations that were very satisfactory in quantity and variety were made for the Backus hospital Wednesday which had been set aside as the time for bringing in to the different churches and to the Community house such hospital supplies as old cotton and linen, jelly glasses and cold cream jars and garments. All the articles were eventually assembled at the home of Mrs. E. La Rue Bliven, 228 Washington street, chairman of the committee, brought there by a truck of the Norwich Paper Box Co., which collected the donations from the different churches.

NEW LOCATION FOR THAMESVILLE PLAYGROUNDS

The recreation commission has through the efforts of Chairman William Fitzgerald secured a piece of land owned by John Woodmansee in Thamesville.

This was formerly used for playgrounds. Mr. Woodmansee was very willing to cooperate with the commission and it is planned to conduct activity there instead of the school yard where the school janitor interposed objection when the session was to open Tuesday.

Miss Sarah Hyman will meet the children this (Thursday) morning at 9 o'clock and a very interesting program has been planned for them.

Workmen's Compensation

Workmen's compensation agreements as follows have been approved by Commissioner J. J. Donohue:

General Navigation Co., inc., New London, employer, and Frederick N. Beebe, Groton, employee, infection in forearm, at rate of $13.44.

Inland Paper Board Co., Versailles, employer and Tony Gall, employe, mashed finger, at rate of $14.75.

Henry J. Markle, Mystic, employer, and Raymond Smith, New London, employe, nail torn off finger, at rate of $17.50.

MAROONED IN BOAT ON NIANTIC FLATS

Marooned on the mud flats of the Niantic river during the heavy fog Tuesday evening, the enforced absence of Edward and William Williams, young sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Williams of the Niantic River road threw a bad scare into members of their family and caused considerable apprehension in the neighborhood. The youngsters had left the Niantic Camp ground at 10 p. m. to row across the river to their home on the Waterford side and it was nearly 2.30 Wednesday morning when they reached home.

An unusually heavy fog had settled over the river and soon after leaving shore the boys lost their bearings. Later their rowboat was grounded on the flats far from both shores and it was a long time before their craft was again freed. When the boys failed to return home, members of the family drove to the camp and were informed that they had rowed away at 10 p. m. It was feared they had met with mishap and members of the community were aroused at an early hour. As searching parties were being organized the youngsters reached home, smiling and except for being wet to the skin, were none the worse for their experience.

IKE MARVEL'S GRANDSON WINS YALE HONOR

Alfred Mitchell Bingham, son of Lieut. Gov. Hiram Bingham of New Haven, an annual summer resident in Salem, was one of 11 Connecticut boys in the freshman class at Yale university to receive three of the 22 prizes offered this month by the Yale club of New York, for excellence in freshman courses at the university. The other winners were from New York, Pennsylvania, Washington, District of Columbia and Kentucky.

Young Bingham is a grandson of Mrs. Alfred Mitchell of New York who owns a summer home at the Pequot and he is also the great grandson of the late Donald Mitchell of this city, known in literary circles as Ike Marvel author of the Reveries of a Bachelor, which he wrote at the Mitchell homestead in Salem. He entered Yale last fall where his father is a member of the faculty.

Other Connecticut students who won the above awards are Sheldon Kahn of Hartford, John H. Speer of Bridgeport, William Ginsberg and Herman M. Levy of New Haven, who each won one, and Harry Resnick, Jr., of New Haven who took two.

GUARDS TAKE QUARTET BACK TO PORTSMOUTH

Three guards from the naval prison at Portsmouth, N. H., arrived here on Wednesday morning after the four men who escaped from the prison last Sunday night and were arrested in Groton when the Norwich police put the New London officers on the trail of the men who had robbed the Hastedt gasoline station at the drawbridge on the military highway.

The men had been bound over to the superior court but State Attorney Arthur M. Brown directed that they be surrendered to the federal authorities and Deputy Sheriff Oscar H. Main delivered the men when the guards went to the Norwich jail after them.

The four men were securely handcuffed and were taken from the jail in time to catch the 2 p. m. train for Boston. They would be back in Portsmouth before 10 o'clock.

RULES FOR REVIVING A DROWNED PERSON

With the summer season well upon us it is time to give a thought to some of the hazards incident to summer sports, as a possible means of preventing loss of life says the weekly bulletin of the state department of health.

One of the most popular sports is swimming and also one of the best forms of exercise. But there are hazards connected with it that must be recognized. Swimming out too far and miscalculating one's endurance for the return to shore has led to many a drowning accident. Taxing one's strength by swimming too long may result in cramps and a fatal accident. Misjudging the power of the ocean with its strong undertow and high surf may result in the loss of life even among experienced swimmers. Carelessness with water craft, sail boats, row boats, canoes and motor boats, may be the cause of needless loss of life.

Everyone should be able to swim—but also recognize the need for caution—especially in unfamiliar waters, such as vacationists are likely to encounter.

It has been reported that seven thousand lives are lost in the United States yearly from drowning. Many of these lives might be saved if everyone knew how to revive a drowned person.

An effective method is the "Schafer" or the "prone pressure" method. Everyone should be familiar with this method and so be able at a moment's notice to come to the rescue when a drowning occurs. These rules should be part of the equipment for every vacationist.

Rule 1. Lose no time in recovering the body from the water. Do not lose time by taking the body to a place of shelter—operate immediately.

Rule 2. Quickly lay the person prone, face downward with head lower than the rest of the body so water will run out from throat and lungs. Wipe dry, mouth and nostrils. Separate the jaws and keep them apart with cork, stone, or knot in a handkerchief.

Rule 3. Kneel across patient. Place your hands over the lowest rib. Lean forward and put your weight straight over the lowest ribs. Exert this pressure for three seconds. To count three seconds, say: 'One thousand one, one thousand and two, one thousand and three.'

Rule 4. Do not remove the hands from the ribs; but release the pressure from the ribs for two seconds, by squatting backward. To count two seconds, say: 'One thousand and one, one thousand and two.'

Rule 5. Repeat Rules 3 and 4. Alternate thus (three seconds pressure and two seconds release) until breathing is restored. This method of resuscitation at once expels water and produces the identical results of normal breathing.

Rule 6. If an assistant is available he should attempt to keep the body warm, by sheltering it from the wind, rubbing hands and soles of feet, making hot applications. Camphor or ammonia may be applied to nostrils to excite breathing. Warm the head nearly as fast as other parts of the body to avoid congestion.

Rule 7. Send for a physician as soon after the accident as possible. After breathing is restored, remove the patient to a warm bed where there is free circulation of fresh air. Administer in small doses stimulants being careful not to let the patient choke or strangle.

JUDGE AND MRS. BROWN ON NOTABLE TRIP

Included in a party of more than a thousand American and Canadian lawyers and their wives who will sail from New York Saturday on the steamship Berengaria will be Judge Allyn L. Brown and Mrs. Brown of this city. Most of the Americans are members of the American Bar Association which has chartered the steamship to bring them to London to study English courts and legal methods, and enjoy the hospitality of the English legal bodies for a week.

They will arrive in London July 19. One of the greatest rounds of entertainment ever planned to overseas visitors will be given by the government, the king and queen, and the bench and bar. Special religious services will be held in Westminster Abbey July 20. The following week a garden party, banquet and ball will be given at the famous Gray's inn, followed by similar festivities at the other inns and the Inner and Middle Temple, when all the superb gold plate of these inns will be brought out.

The round of festivities includes an at home by American Ambassador Kellogg and Mrs. Kellogg at Crewe house, the presentation of the Blackstone Memorial, Lord Mayor's reception and banquet, luncheon and lawn party at Sulgrave Manor, visits to Oxford and Cambridge, garden party at Cliveden, the seat of Lord and Lady Astor, garden party at Buckingham palace.

Visits are planned to Shakespeare's birthplace, the ancestral home of Washington, the British Empire exhibition at Wembly, and other places of interest. The municipality of London will give a great banquet at the Guild Hall, and the City Guilds will vie with each other in showing hospitality.

King George and the Prince of Wales will participate in some of these ceremonies, as they, like William H. Taft, John W. Davis, and James H. Beck, are honorary members of Lincoln's Inn and the Middle Temple.

The American Bar Association will also be entertained in Edinburg, by the Scotch bar, in Dublin by the Irish bar and in Paris by the French bar.

Judge and Mrs. Brown are to return the first week in September on the steamship Majestic.

CONNECTICUT IN EARLY ON VOTE FOR DAVIS

Connecticut threw its 14 votes in the democratic convention to John W. Davis of West Virginia on the 103rd ballot which resulted in an overwhelming majority for Mr. Davis for the nomination of the democratic party for president. The vote of the New England states was not entirely cast for Mr. Davis on this ballot, but went as follows:

Connecticut, John W. Davis, 14; Massachusetts, Underwood, 23 1-2; Smith, 5 1-2; Davis 2; Walsh of Montana, 2; Glass, 1; New Hampshire, Davis 3 1-2; Walsh of Montana, 4 1-2; Maine, Underwood, 10; Davis 2; Rhode Island, Davis 10; Vermont, Davis 8.

By this check it is seen that Connecticut was in early on the vote, picking the winner before the movement to jump onto the band wagon was started. Davis had but 53 votes before Connecticut gave him 14 sending him to 67 votes on his march to the nomination in the longest and most tiresome session of balloting for a party candidate for the presidency every held by any political party in this country, running 44 ballots above the record of 59 ballots required to nominate Stephen A. Douglass in 1860.

SMALLPOX CASES SHOW IN WINDHAM COUNTY

During the past week five more smallpox cases have been discovered in Brooklyn, and ten more in Killingly and Danielson says the state department of health. Five of these new cases were in new families, and the balance were secondary cases in families where smallpox already existed.

Smallpox is so contagious that its control in a susceptible population is difficult. The one factor of most importance in its control is vaccination. The people in nearby communities as well as the people of Danielson and Brooklyn can protect themselves by vaccination.

NEW HAVEN RAILROAD PLANS SUNDAY EXCURSIONS

The New Haven railroad has a new plan of running a series of excursions from New England towns to New York on Sundays. It is pointed out that six days a week the passenger equipment of the New Haven is utilized in handling the enormous commuter traffic, but Sunday the amount of passengers handled is comparatively small. For this reason it is the belief that special rates will induce the residents of communities not too distant from New York to make Sunday trips.

Preliminary figures for June give the railroad a surplus of about $90,000, which brings the surplus for the first half of the year up to $800,000. This contrasts with a deficit of $4,169,000 in the first six months of last year. The June report, however, will show that the New Haven, along with the other railroads of the country, has suffered a loss in freight business during the last few weeks, especially when compared with the same weeks of last year.

Eastern Connecticut Health

Reports of communicable diseases in Eastern Connecticut up to July 7 are made by the state department of health as follows:

Diphtheria—New London 2.

Whooping cough—Colchester 1, New London 3.

Measles—Groton 2, New London 2, Norwich 1.

Smallpox—Brooklyn 5; Danielson 6, Killingly 4.

NEW DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE POSTPONES ORGANIZATION

Decides to Put Off Selection of a New National Chairman Until After Davis Notification Ceremonies at Clarksburg, W. Va.—Davis Returns to His Long Island Home—Gov. Bryan Will Confer With Middle Western Party Leaders at Chicago on His Return Trip to Nebraska—Women Demand Equal Representation on Resolutions Committee in Future Conventions.

New York, July 10.—(By the A. P.)—Eager to attack post convention details the democratic national committee found itself today unable to bring fagged wits to serious and decided to put off the formalities of organizing for the campaign until overworked executives and party leaders caught up on sleep.

Tonight New York was a deserted village so far as the national convention was concerned. Hastily abandoned campaign buttons and multi-colored badges were heaped in various hotel repositories as evidences of the historic struggle which gave Madison Square Garden its great day. Weary, but smiling and exuding optimism of a November success the phalanx of delegates, alternates and advisers started homeward to tell the folks of the "strong and able candidates" resultant of their protracted labors.

The candidates themselves, after a day of consultation and greetings—during which the presidential nominee was introduced to his running mate for the first time—prepared for a brief spell of organized and intensive rest. John W. Davis, already committed to a campaign "direct to the country" returned to his home at Locust Valley, Long Island, with definite plans only for rest. Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska prepared to return to Lincoln, planning to stop off at Chicago for a conference with middle-western leaders in the party.

Following the suggestion of Mr. Davis, the new national committee at a perfunctory first session today, approved a motion to postpone organization and the selection of a new chairman until after the Davis notification ceremonies at Clarksburg, W. Va., probably in about three weeks.

Women members of the national committee, meeting separately, formally demanded through a resolution by Miss Elizabeth Marbury, national committeewoman from New York, that women have equal representation on the important resolutions committee in future conventions. The meeting also approved a resolution lauding the work of Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, of Missouri, vice chairman of the national committee. No recommendation for a successor for Mrs. Blair was made.

The two-hour session of the women members, presided over by Miss Caroline Ruth Rees of Conn., was marked by several parliamentary tangles and flashes of colorful debate on a resolution also presented by Miss Marbury, limiting the authority of the woman vice-chairman in the matter of appointments and plans for the convention. That there were deep seated differences between members of th committee was denied by all.

Friends of Chairman Hull of the national committee, made a formal presentation of a set of cuff link studs, in recognition of his services at the democratic helm. Committeeman Norman E. Mack of New York, presented the gift in behalf of the entire committee.

Cordell Hull stands higher with the members of the national committee, and the democrats of the nation than any man I have known in my service of twenty-four years on the national committee," Mr. Mack said. "Everyone is going away delighted with his management of the convention."

Senator Swanson of Virginia, on behalf of senatorial friends, described Mr. Hull as "one of the most efficient and unselfish public servants," he knew.

DAVIS BESIEGED BY THRONG OF ADMIRERS

New York, July 10.—After a hectic day, during which he surrendered good naturedly to a throng of admirers and photographers who besieged him repeatedly at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, tonight escaped from an inundation of congratulatory telegrams, dined with Charles W. Bryan, his running mate, and William Jennings Bryan, and prepared to go to his country home at Locust Valley, Long Island, for a brief rest before taking up detailed plans for his campaign.

William J. Bryan, who had opposed Mr. Davis' nomination, met the nominee in a corridor of the hotel immediately after Mr. Davis' meeting with newspaper men this morning. Mr. Bryan held out his hand, smiled and said: "I am at your command."

The nominee went to the home of Frank L. Polk, former undersecretary of state, and spent the afternoon receiving callers and answering some of the messages that had poured upon him. Among the callers were Thomas L. Chadbourne of New York, one of the chief supporters of William G. McAdoo's candidacy during the convention J. V. Sanders, former governor of Louisiana; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of Governor Smith's campaign manager; Clem Shaver of Clarksburg, W. Va., manager of Mr. Davis' pre-nomination campaign, and George White of Ohio, former chairman of the democratic national committee.

GOV. BRYAN NAMED ON THE FIRST BALLOT

New York, July 10.—John W. Davis of West Virginia and Gov. Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska are the democratic party's candidates for president and vice president.

Emerging on the 103rd ballot as the democratic national convention's choice for the presidential nomination the West Virginia lawyer and diplomat swept away great waves of bitterness churned up during the 15 preceding days of stormy conflict. Then, taking command immediately, the new head of the party guided the convention swiftly toward the selection of his running mate, the brother of William Jennings Bryan, his most vigorous opponent throughout the balloting.

Governor Bryan was chosen vice presidential nominee on the first ballot.

Governor Bryan was John W. Davis' choice. Thirty candidates received votes on the ballot and it was evident there was no choice. Before the clerk could count the result, several states switched to Bryan. This caused a landslide, and other states followed suit, giving him the nomination.

The vote on the ballot by which Governor Bryan was nominated was:

Bryan	739
Berry	209½

SECURITIES STOLEN FROM NEW YORK BANK

Pittsfield, Mass., July 10.—Most of the $23,950 worth of stocks and bonds seized here in connection with the arrest of three men were stolen from the Wyoming Banking company of Wyoming, N. Y., on April 3, the police learned today. A vault was broken into there and a large amount of securities and jewelry stolen. John A. Murphy, James Ryan and George House, the men arrested here on charges of having stolen goods in their possession, are being held in jail awaiting trial, July 15.

London, July 10.—A special jury sitting before the lord chief justice today decided in favor of the defendant a breach of promise suit for pounds sterling 30,000 brought by Mrs. Frances Mendham against Robert Lebaudy, brother of Jacques Lebaudy, self-styled "Emperor of the Sahara."

CALVIN, JR., BURIED AT PLYMOUTH, VT.

Plymouth, Vt., July 10—(By the A. P.)—In the little village cemetery where the maples and evergreens throw long shadows across the old tombstones on the hillside, they buried Calvin Coolidge, 16 year old son namesake of the president, today. Restraining in large part outward manifestation of their sorrow, the president, Mrs. Coolidge and John, the elder son, stood with bowed heads during the short, simple commitment service under the sod are spaces reserved for the last across the grave.

The cemetery where Calvin was laid at rest lies on a little hill dominated by the green mountains which overshadow this village. In the family plot lie the mother of the president, ancestors and kinsmen and in the same grassy row where the grave was dug are space reserved for the last resting places of the president, John and his mother.

Much of official Washington, including eight cabinet members, the speaker of the nation's house of representatives and the governors of two states attended the services here. The party from Washington came in the closely guarded train which was halted at Northampton for services in the Edwards Congregational church where Calvin was a member.

After the last note of taps had echoed away, the family group went for a short time to the old white farm house of the president's father, Col. John C. Coolidge, where the president took his oath of office on August 3 a year ago. Then, accompanied by the elder Coolidge, the little family, broken now by death, started on the journey back to Washington.

The funeral party upon arrival at the Ludlow Railroad station 13 miles away, halted a bit as the six marines from the presidential yacht, Mayflower, who had guarded the body, bier constantly in Washington and on the train, carried the casket to the waiting hearse. Then the procession, more than a mile long, drove over the long road among the hills to the burial ground.

It was necessary for all to walk up the sloping hillside from near the road to the burial place. When they had gathered there, the casket, in the hands of the marines from the presidential yacht Mayflower, was lowered. A mixed quartet sang softly "My Faith Looks up to Thee."

The Rev. Kenneth B. Welles, pastor of Edwards Congregational church Northampton, who had taken Calvin into the church, read a few lines of scripture and offered a brief prayer. Again the quartet sang—"Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead Us." The Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the president's church in Washington, recited the verses, "He Leadeth Me", and pronounced the commitment. The strains of "Mercersburg Hymn," song of the school attended last year by the boy, were sung and the Rev. Mr. Pierce gave the benediction.

FUNERAL TRAIN LEAVES ON RETURN JOURNEY

On Board Coolidge Train, Ludlow, Vt., July 10.—President and Mrs. Coolidge left here early tonight on the return trip to Washington and by the schedule of the special train will arrive at the capital tomorrow morning. John C. Coolidge, father of the president, left his home at Plymouth with Mr. Coolidge to go back with the bereaved family. It is his first trip to Washington since he administered the oath of office to the president in his Plymouth home a year ago.

The strain of the long day had told a little on Mrs. Coolidge tonight. It was reported from the president's coach that she was tired, but otherwise feeling as well as could be expected under the circumstances. Comforting all the day was John, a year and a half older than his brother and a constant companion of Calvin since babyhood. Although he felt the shock of his brother's death keenly, today he was the most composed member of the Coolidge party, constantly at his mother's arm.

Several members of the president's party, including the cabinet members, Frank W. Stearns of Boston and Mrs. Stearns, missed the trip to the home of the president's father at Plymouth after the service at the cemetery. The automobiles were slow in getting away from the cemetery and they lost the presidential car, making the return immediately to Ludlow. At the farm house home the family rested while Colonel Coolidge packed up for his journey to the White House. Later Mrs. Coolidge and John took a short walk about the grounds.

As they arrived at the train all members of the family appeared greatly rested by their visit to the Plymouth home and their drive over the 13-mile mountain road to Ludlow. Both the president and Mrs. Coolidge thanked the driver of the automobile which conveyed them to Plymouth and back.

RUTH HOLLISTER'S DEATH DUE TO ALCOHOLISM

New York, July 10.—Jacob Plater, of Newark, N. J., who was arrested after Mrs. Estelle McCollough, an actress known on the stage as Ruth Hollister, was found dead in her apartment last Thursday night, was discharged today.

Assistant District Attorney Manley said the medical examiner's investigation showed the woman had died of alcoholism.

Forty Thousand Elks Parade in Boston

Mammoth Procession Brings to a Close 60th Annual Convention of the B. P. O. E.

Boston, July 10—More than 40,000 members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, brilliant in many colored costumes, parading behind two score bands, brought to a climax here today the sixtieth annual national convention of the order which opened its session in this city on Monday. Gov. Channing H. Cox, Mayor James M. Curley, and Grand Exalted Ruler John G. Price of Columbus, O., reviewed the three hour long parade.

Heat and high humidity brought about the prostration of about thirty persons, one of whom, however, was seriously affected the police reported. Nearly a score received slight injuries in the crowded aisles in grand stands along the Boston Common. Several fainted.

Drill teams in multi-colored uniforms preceded many of the lodge groups, floats, portraying historic scenes or local characteristics, broke in many places the long line of marchers. The Jackson, Mich., drill team five successive times winners of the National Elk drill trophy, in red fezes and jackets and blue pantaloons, stood out prominently with well executed maneuvers.

Three live Elks in a motor truck case accompanied a small band of Idaho paraders. The Revere Beach, Mass., lodge marched behind a float with a dozen bathing girls in one piece bathing suits attended by two husky life guards. New Bedford was represented by a spouting sperm whale. A facsimile of the first union flag flown in the Revolutionary War on June 17, 1775 at Somerville, preceded the lodge from that city. Plymouth was represented by the scene of the landing of the Pilgrim fathers with the lodge members marching in purple costumes in Colonial cut. The Philadelphia lodges, headed by their officers on horse back, reproduced the New Year carnival of their city.

Cambridge Elks, 1500 strong, in purple caps and gowns marched behind a float that boasted of Harvard, Radcliffe and other educations institutions within the city limits. Also in line were a small group from Panama in white with white helmets and the contingent from Portland, Oregon, in purple uniforms cut in the fashion of the Canadian mounted police. Zouave uniforms with every possible color combination featured many units. Texans in sombreroes and chaps marched between Gloucester fishermen and Colonial troops with three cornered hats, long swallow tail coats and knee breeches.

At the state house the parade was reviewed by Gov. Flynn of Rhode Island, Gov. Templeton of Connecticut, Major General Andre W. Brewster, Rear Admiral Louis de Steiguer, commandant of the Boston navy yard and Major General Clarence R. Edwards, commander of the Massachusetts department of the American Legion.

The Philadelphia lodge took three first prizes awarded to Parding units. The awards announced tonight were as follows:

For best appearance in line, lodges outside of Boston—first, Philadelphia; second, Camden, N. J., third, Detroit.

For most novel display, lodges outside of Boston—first, Philadelphia; second, Plymouth, Mass.; third, Wilkesbarre, Pa.

For largest membership in line, lodges outside of Boston—first, Philadelphia, second, Detroit, third, Chicago.

For largest membership in line, lodges in New England and outside of Boston—first, Cambridge; second, Providence; third, Lowell, Mass.

For the most attractive float, lodges outside of Boston—first, Quincy, Mass., second, Gloucester, Mass., third, Holyoke, Mass.

To the lodges having the greatest aggregate mileage based on member registerin and appearing in line—first, Chicago; second, Rochester, N. Y., third, Sayre, Pa.

To the lodges west of the Mississippi having the greatest aggregate mileage based on number registerin and appearing in line—first, Dallas, Texas, second Portland, Ore., third, Canal Zone.

BRITISH PREMIER EXPLAINS HIS VISIT TO PARIS

London, July 10—(By the A. P.)—The British prime minister, Ramsay Macdonald, made a statement in the house of commons today explaining his recent visit to Paris and his discussion with M. Herriot, the French premier, on the reparations situation. It is evident from this statement that Mr. Macdonald has gone a long way to allay and meet French resentments and susceptibilities, even to the extent of temporarily giving up some of his own pet ideas, in an endeavor to help the Herriot government ward off an initial attack by the Poincarist bloc in the French senate.

It had been agreed by the British ministers and liberal leaders to await the outcome of the debate in the French senate before debating the subject in the British parliament; hence, the British debate now is scheduled for Monday.

In the memorandum accompanying the original British invitation to Italy, Belgium and Japan to attend an inter-allied conference, the British government proposed that in the event of a German default, the matter might be referred to the league of nations or the Hague arbitration tribunal, thus lifting it out of the hands of the reparation commission. It was this prospect that caused so much resentmen in France and gave M. Poincare a weapon with which to attack Premier Herriot.

The British prime minister's statement shows that idea of reference to the league or the Hague had been dropped and that in its stead an endeavor was being made to secure American help for such arbitration duties. He refused to acknowledge that he had withdrawn anything, explaining that the whole question had been left to the pending allied conference to decide. But, in essence, it is a withdrawal, since no mention is now made of the league or the Hague, and it is considered evident that Mr. Mcdonald concentrated his whole efforts on preventing so far as he was able, any contretemps likely to lead to the overthrow of the Herriot government, or miscarriage of the coming conference. The prime minister admitted that the French government was still withholding its opinion on the proposed American arbitrator.

Two other important points came out in Premier Macdonald's statement, namely, that the British government declined to associate the question of inter-allied debts with the experts' report, and would equally refuse to agree to any military pact with France. come taxes.

THROWS OUT CASE AGAINST GRAIN CORP. RECEIVER

New Haven, Conn., July 10.—Federal Judge Thomas today handed down an opinion in which he threw out the case of the National Grain Corporation against Clifford B. Wilson, of Bridgeport, receiver of the corporation, which was a claim for $1,800 damages. The court criticized Wilson in selling $2,000 worth of cheese for $200 even though the corporation was a bankrupt at the time and had no jurisdiction over the cheese.

NEGRO HELD FOLLOWING ASSAULT ON WOMAN

Bridgeport, Conn., July 10.—Harry Deene, negro, was arrested here today, charged with carrying concealed weapons, following an assault on Mrs. Antonetta Guerra, 40, which she told the police was committed by a negro. She said while in the cellar of her home she was struck over the head with a blunt instrument. Deene admitted having been in the cellar and said he went there to get some wine. He carried a blackjack, numerous keys and a screw driver.

MARRIAGE OF BROOKLYN BROKER IN STAMFORD

New York, July 10.—Archibald G. Gwathmey, Jr., Brooklyn broker, and Mrs. Betsy Binford Judd of Fort Dodge, Iowa, were married in Stamford, Conn., on July 4, friends of Mr. Gwathmey were informed today.

Mr. Gwathmey was granted a divorce from his former wife on the ground of desertion by a Florida court last year. A month ago he successfully defended suit brought by his wife in which the name of Mrs. Judd was mentioned. The jury supported Mr. Gwathmey's contention that the relation between Mrs. Judd and himself were "platonic."

UPHOLDS TEACHER'S RIGHT TO INFLICT PUNISHMENT

Bridgeport, July 10.—Acting Judge J. Moss Ives in common pleas court today rendered a verdict for Mrs. Julia B. Walker, Fairfield School principal, sued for $2,000 by Mrs. Emma O'Rourke, whose 12-year-old son, James, Mrs. Walker had punished. The right of a school teacher to inflict corporal punishment is upheld and the court finds that the punishment of "Jimmy" was not excessive.

BAR ASSOCIATION WANTS TO CHANGE INAUGURATION DATE

Adopts Resolution Urging Congress to Advance Date From March 4th to Third Monday in January—Would Have United States Senators and Representatives Take Office on First Monday of January—Barristers Believe Moving Inaugural Dates of Members of Congress Back to Initial Month of Year Would Give Them More Time to Carry Out Nations Business.

Philadelphia, July 10—Election of officers, including Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes as president, and the adoption of a resolution urging congress to change the date of the presidential inauguration from March 4 to the third Monday in January featured the closing session today of the annual convention of the American Bar Association.

The resolution, which was submitted by William L. Putman, of Boston, would have United States senators and representatives take office the first Monday in January. In discussing the resolution before its adoption William C. Coleman, of Baltimore, said the members of the Bar Association believed the president should take office as soon after his election as possible and that by moving the inauguration dates of members of congress back to the first Monday in January "would give them more time to carry out the nation's business."

Charles Henry Butler, of Washington, chairman of the committee on federal taxation, told the convention that his committee had succeeded in getting congress to pass a law protecting the rights of persons who filed waivers with the commissioners of internal revenue on assessment of income taxes.

PREDICTS SINGLE SYSTEM OF RADIO BROADCASTING

London, July 10 (By the A. P.)—The whole civilized world will eventually be served by a single system of radio broadcasting, it was predicted today before the world power conference in a joint contribution made by W. J. Brown, of Metropolitan cities, Great Britain, and Dr. W. H. Easton, of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, of the United States.

The system, it was stated, would be based on the use of inaudible short waves sent out by large stations and caught by small local stations which would re-broadcast them on audible wave lengths. The possibilities of this new system were proved last year, it was said, by tests between the inaudible station KDKA at East Pittsburgh, Pa., and the station 2AC at Manchester, England, which rebroadcast audibly.

MAILING OUT REFUNDS ON THE INCOME TAX

Washington, July 10—The treasury today mailed out 2,163 checks to taxpayers covering the amount of refunds due them as a result of the 25 per cent. reduction granted by congress in this years tax bill. The checks totalling $40,397, represent the first batch of refunds to be disposed of by the treasury from the whole number of 1,658,000 persons who remitted the tax in full in advance of enactment of the legislation. The treasury expects to have all of the refunds—about $15,000,000—turned back by the middle of September.

FATHER AND TWO SONS BOUND OVER

Haddam, Conn., July 10—Charles L. Pettee and his sons, George, 21, and Charles, 16, are held for the superior court in $1,500 bonds on the charge of breach of the peace with Dr. Francis H. Reilly, of New Haven, as the complainant.

On Saturday, Dr. Reilly with his family, stopped his automobile at the side of the road in front of Pettee's orchard." The attractive estate of Mrs. Pettees. Mrs. Pettee, it was said in court, came out of the house and ordered Dr. Reilly to drive on. She claimed that as the family owned the land on both sides of the road it had control of the road and that Dr. Reilly had no right to park his car there.

Dr. Reilly contended that he was not in the wrong, it is said, and Mrs. Pettee called her husband, who after an argument sent his daughter into the house to call the sons. Both came out, it is asserted, one with a shotgun and the other with a rifle. The doctor claimed that there were threatening words, and he asked a passing motorist to drive along the road and find a state policeman whom he had seen at Higganum.

The motorist brought back Officer Kominsky, who was later joined by Officer Henry in charge of the Centerbrook barracks. Mr. and Mrs. Pettee and the two sons were arrested. At a hearing before Justice of the Peace Bell D. Russell, the father and sons were held under bond but Mrs. Pettee was released on her own recognisance. The charge against her was that of abuse of the officers.

HELD ON CHARGE OF TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

Bridgeport, July 10.—On the strength of a recent decision handed down by Chief Justice George W. Wheeler relative to the transportation of medicated alcohol, probable cause was found against Thomas J. Casey, aged 21, of 1439 Quinnipiac avenue, New Haven, in city court today, and Casey was bound over to the September term of superior court in bonds of $5,000 charged with transporting liquor.

Casey was arrested Tuesday by Federal Enforcement Agent Edward B. Doolan, group head of the federal liquor forces in this district. The truck which he was driving, containing 18 barrels of alcohol, was seized. When the seizure was made it was thought the alcohol was pure grain alcohol which might be used as a constituent of "whiskey." Investigation showed that it was medicated alcohol. When it was discovered that the alcohol was medicated alcohol, the federal agents decided it would be futile to attempt to secure a conviction on a charge of transporting liquor. It was therefore decided to turn the case over to the state courts. With Justice Wheeler's opinion to the effect that transportation of alcohol so medicated that its medicating ingredients can be removed is illegal, it was decided by Judge Ralph T. Swan in city court today to bind Casey over.

The truck is said to be the property of John C. Castricone, 1341 Hall street, New Haven.

Donohue, Jr., and made arrangements to obtain food supplies for over four hundred people and two hundred animals who make up the circus. This circus is on its thirty-seventh annual tour. A street parade and two performances are given in each place visited. Fourteen cars are utilized to transport the principals and paraphernalia of the show.

Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, one of the delegates from the second congressional district to the national democratic convention at New York, which came to a close yesterday morning returned to the Thread City Thursday forenoon. On his way up Railroad street he was given an impromptu reception and obliged to relate much of the proceedings of the beotic gathering. According to Mr. Fenton, it was a wonderful three weeks and the accommodations were all that could be asked for by the delegates. In Mr. Fenton's opinion the ticket chosen is a very strong one Mr. Fenton was not surprised that the convention lasted as long as it did, as before leaving for New York he remarked that he did not expect to be back in the Thread City until Thursday of the third week of the deliberations.

Ground has been broken for the foundation of a brick business block for Dr. Owen O'Neill on the latter's property situated just north of the Hill block on North street. The contract for the erection of the building, which will be either a two or three-story structure, has been let to E. C. Johnson & Company. In preparing the land for the new building, the one and one-half story, two tenement house in the rear was torn down some few weeks ago. The new structure will be built of tapestry brick and will have a frontage of thirty-five feet and a depth of sixty feet. The entire lower floor is to be used by Dr. O'Neill in his medical work and the upper floor or floors for office suites.

Baseball rivalry between Manchester and Willimantic has been in existence ever since the national game was first played in these parts. Occasionally it has died down but always flares up again with increased intensity. Such an occurrence will take place this coming week end when the local Thread Makers go to Cheneytown and a return game here is played. Manchester will have at least one new face in the lineup, Jerry Fay, first sacker, who socks 'em far, wide and handsome at times. Lefty Thompson and Jack Burkhardt will do the twirling for Bronkie's team and Pete Wood and Rube Richards for the home club. The regular Willimantic team will take the field in both contests.

During the course of the day about twenty called and registered, after which they were put through their paces.

Miss Dolly Marceux of No. 89 Ives street, one of the three women who were brutally assaulted by Fred Luzvick late last Saturday night is now considered in a critical condition and it is possible that she will not survive her injuries. Miss Marceux, who is a sister-in-law of Luzvick sustained a dislocated shoulder and a fractured elbow, together with a wound on the head that has been found to be a fracture of the skull and which has resulted in paralysis of her body. Her condition was such yesterday that Dr. Samuel J. Turcotte and Dr. Clarence E. Simonds held a consultation and pronounged the woman to be in a serious condition. In view of this development, Luzvick, who was released Wednesday on a bond of one thousand dollars for his appearance in court next Monday morning on charges of intoxication, breach of the peace and assault, was re-arrested on Thursday and locked up, pending developments. In the event of the woman's death, a charge of manslaughter will be brought against him.

Cold as ice—

this new breakfast and made with QUICK QUAKER without bother or muss! Here's the recipe.

IN thousands of homes, summer breakfasts have taken on a new charm. A dish so different, so lusciously unusual that hot weather appetites instantly take on new life.

To treat yourself and delight the family, do this:

As you prepare dinner tonight, cook your regular breakfast quantity of QUICK QUAKER (the new Quaker Oats that cooks in 3 to 5 minutes).

When done, pour into a pudding mould and let cool. Then place in the refrigerator over night. Cut in medium thick slices and serve at breakfast with fresh or cooked fruits or berries and sugar—float with rich milk or cream.

The combination is delightful. A world noted chef discovered this new way. Just for the joy of it, try it.

Red Seal Records

			DOUBLE-FACED Number	List Price
Widmung (Dedication) (Schumann) In German / Dein blaues Auge (So Clear These Eyes) (Brahms) In German	Maria Jeritza / Maria Jeritza		1022	$1.50

Many think Schumann's "Dedication" the greatest of his songs. All will agree that it makes a wonderful record as sung by this famous soprano. Coupled with it is a mastersong of Brahms. High and fine contributions.

Brown October Ale (from "Robin Hood") (Smith-De Koven) with Male Quartet / Stein Song (Hovey-Ballard)	Reinald Werrenrath / Reinald Werrenrath		945	1.50

Two robust songs of good fellowship. Both delivered with heartiness, and with beauty of tone and clearness of articulation. Men especially will want this record.

Concert Songs and Instrumental

In the Garden of To-morrow (Cad. Jr.-Deppen) / My Thoughts of You (Rossando-Davis)	Elsie Baker / Elsie Baker		45420	1.00

Simple and homely contralto songs of hope and longing, softly chanted by one of the loveliest of voices. A record you will enjoy—and continue to enjoy.

La Gazza Ladra—Overture—Part I (The Thievish Magpie) (Rossini) / La Gazza Ladra—Overture—Part II	Victor Symphony Orchestra		19331	.75

To our recent recording of the "Semiramide" overture, we add, by general request, this equally brilliant one from Rossini's "Thievish Magpie." A favorite number and this record will be a favorite, too.

Light Vocal Selections

You Know Me Alabam' / Nobody's Child	Georgie Price with The Troubadours		19355	.75

Songs of the million, for the million; clear-toned sentimental numbers of the fox trot type. Sung and played with force—and recorded the way such songs should be.

Dance Records

To-night's the Night—Fox Trot / Just Leave Me Alone—Fox Trot	Philip Spitalny and His Orchestra / Jack Chapman and His Drake Hotel Orchestra		19356	.75

Two contrasting fox trots on one record—a lively one with a vocal refrain, and a gentle one. A record that will please every dancer.

There's No One Just Like You—Fox Trot (with vocal refrain) / Why Don't My Dreams Come True?—Fox Trot (with vocal refrain)	Coon-Sanders Original Night Hawk Orch. / Coon-Sanders Original Night Hawk Orch.		19357	.75

Charming fox trots with Coon and Sanders themselves in on the vocal refrains. Both are melodious and both are good for every variation of the fox trot. The kind of recording that makes Victor the favorite for dance music.

Good Night Sleep Tight—Fox Trot (with vocal refrain) / I'm Haunted By That Swanee River Song—Fox Trot	Waring's Pennsylvanians / Waring's Pennsylvanians		19362	.75

Smooth fox trots, full-harmonied, with snappy banjo work and vigorous golden trumpets. Excellent dance records which you will enjoy whether you dance to the older or newer steps.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

A suit for damages, $1,000 being claimed, is brought against the borough of Danielson by Delphine B. Billings, of Dayville. Mrs. Billings claims this amount for injuries she alleges she received when she turned her ankle and fell on the sidewalk, on Main street, south of the railroad crossing on a recent Saturday evening.

It is set forth in the papers in the case that in falling Mrs. Billings received certain specified injuries; that her fall was caused by her having stepped into a depression in the sidewalk. Papers in the case were turned over to Attorney E. L. Darbie as the counsel for the borough. Mrs. Billings is represented by a Norwich attorney.

Harold B. Atwood and William M. Franklin are to head respective crow shooting teams of the Danielson Rod and Gun club. This announcement was made Thursday following an informal gathering at which the plan was discussed. Already about a dozen applications have been received from men who wish to be on the teams and the applications of others will be welcomed. It is planned to have two teams of about 15 members each. It is hoped to have them organized and engaged in active competition in the warfare against crows within a week, the contest for points to continue until January 1. The feet of crows shot will be taken as evidence of the kill and all such will be reported to Walter L. Hoyle, who will keep tally on the work of the members of the two teams.

Lots will be drawn to determine on which of the two teams applicants will be listed.

Danielson has been getting some unfavorable advertising in Providence and Hartford papers during the present week, and the effect of it already is being felt on business here, through circulation of these papers in surrounding territory.

New telephone directories, the semi-annual issue, are expected to be distributed in Danielson within a few days.

Appointment of even such a worthy man as John W. Davis to be the democratic party's party's candidate for president isn't going to heal the wounds caused in this territory by the two weeks' turmoil in New York. Democratic votes by the dozen are going to other party candidates this fall.

As in Killingly, a drive is being made in the town of Plainfield to collect over due personal tax accounts. Deputy Sheriff Tillinghast, who has the matter in charge, is making good progress with the work.

Wildwood park was a favorite resort on the half-holiday and in the evening the mid-week dance crowd at the new dance palace was large.

No parking signs at Reynolds and Broad streets indicate to motorists that cars must not be left at any time in the dangerous narrow strip of the roadway running from Broad to Main streets.

Mme. Joseph Cyr, who has been here in charge of her business interests for a number of weeks, has returned to her home in Montreal.

The city water supply, to the palates of many, has taken on a peculiar taste that is sometimes noticed in the hot weather season. This is not regarded as having anything to do with the purity of the water supply, which is excellent.

With many stores closed Thursday afternoon—the first of the summer half-holidays — Danielson's business section was not a place of much activity.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira D. Martin of Sanford, Fla., were visiting friends here Thursday afternoon, motoring up from the south. They leave today (Friday) for Maine, where they will visit for a time.

Saturday, July 19, will mark the opening of the annual camp meetings at Douglas, and there will be a representation from Danielson at the services.

Numbers of Danielson Elks were aboard the special train that left Putnam Thursday morning for Boston. The train left Boston at 11 Thursday night on the return trip.

Attorney Louis A. Woisard, personal tax collector for the town of Killingly, is engaged in sending out notices to delinquents numbering between 800 and 900, relative to their not having squared accounts. If these notices do not bring prompt payment, the collector will take the necessary action to force collection. About 4,000 residents of Killingly are required to pay the personal tax.

Thunderstorms Thursday afternoon brought some relief to this section from a week of excessively hot weather.

Harry L. Hampden of Providence was a visitor with friends in Danielson Thursday.

Paul A. Gareau, recent graduate of Killingly High school, is to enter Holy Cross college this fall. Mr. Gareau is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gareau of Potter street.

The Roundabout club will meet to-day (Friday) with Mrs. Orray E. Potter of Broad street.

Charles C. DeVere of Worcester was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Thursday.

Collisions between motor cars have been reported here as the result of one machine following so closely after another and the unexpected stopping of the leading car—a warning to other drivers to keep a proper distance away from machines ahead.

Commander Thomas A. Beckett, At-torney Louis A. Woisard and Herbert Hopkins have been named as delegates from Leo J. L'Homme post, American Legion, to the state convention to be held in Torrington in August.

A degree will be conferred at the meeting of Rebekah lodge this (Friday) evening.

A number of linemen employed by the S. N. E. Telephone company in this territory under Foreman William Reynolds are having a vacation of two weeks.

Responsibility rests somewhere for allowing a guard, who has been on duty at quarantined houses, to leave his watch Thursday morning and go about the borough distributing circulars. In the meantime, the houses were unguarded. The guard said he was acting under orders, so the responsibility does not rest upon him. It was a cause of sharp criticism, however.

PUTNAM

With the Elks' band of Willimantic in the lead, playing "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here", members of Putnam Lodge No. 574 marched from their rooms on Main street to the railroad station, Thursday morning where their special train was waiting to take them to Boston and a big time. People who lined the sidewalks wished that they were in it, but, with the old sun beating down, consoled themselves by thinking of the hot pavements, the crowds and the tired end of a perfect day when the special left the South station of the Hub. The members of the antlered brotherhood, however did not know whether it was hot or cold, rainy or fair, the itinerary calling for a good time on July 10th and they were out to have it, all else forgotten. They arrived home at one o'clock this (Friday) morning just as enthusiastic as when they left and appeared willing and ready to repeat, should occasion offer, not next year, but immediately.

Members of the lodge made a good showing. They looked natty in white flannel trousers, dark coats, purple B. P. O. E. ties and purple hatbands lettered to denote their lodge, its number and whence they came.

At the railroad station stood the locomotive and five cars, a combination baggage and smoking car and four day coaches. The engine stood proudly puffing away in its decorations of purple and white. On the front of the locomotive were two American flags and entwined about the boiler and cab were the colors of the order. The large driving wheels had been touched up with red and white paint. While the locomotive was not of the most modern type it looked young and flapperish in its decorations.

On the middle car was a banner extending its whole length. This was inscribed—"Putnam Lodge B. P. O. E. 574", and as the train passed through the villages along the 62-mile run to Boston the villagers did not have to ask each other where that particular train came from.

There was a big gallery at the railroad station as the Elks' Special pulled out at eight o'clock. Other trains from points down the state passed through Putnam during the morning, but none, in the eyes of Putnam, had anything on the local lodge in the way of railroad trains.

There were not many to welcome the return of the brothers. A few belated taxi men and a policeman or two saw the detraining early this (Friday) morning and are unanimous in their testimony that the lodge withstood the strenuous day in excellent shape.

A rumor gained currency in the city Thursday afternoon, that there was a case of small pox in Putnam. Investigation disclosed that this was not the fact. The story probably started when it became known that a young man in the Grove street section of the city had been quarantined as a precautionary measure by the state board of health.

This young man went to Danielson on the Fourth and was somewhat exposed to the disease in a family where he visited. When he became aware of this fact he immediately went to a Danielson physician and was vaccinated. State and local authorities were notified and the young man was ordered to remain in his home for a week or so in order that it might be determined whether his exposure would result in the appearance of the disease. It was learned late Thursday afternoon that there is no small pox in Putnam as far as known. This instance denotes that the health authorities are closely guarding the situation and that the warning given recenly that vaccination is the best preventive for the spread of the disease may well be acted upon. There are cases of small pox in a mild form, mostly among children, in Brooklyn, Danielson and Plainfield. As these three towns are close to Putnam the health officials are taking unusual precautions to forestall the possible outbreak of any cases in this city.

The body of Mrs. Narcisse Mont-ville, for many years a resident of this city, was brought to her home in Putnam, Thursday, her death following an operation at St. Vincent's hospital, Worcester, where she went some days ago. Mrs. Montville leaves her husband, two sons, one an engineer on the N. Y. N. H. & H. railroad and the other employed at the freight depot, and a married daughter living in Uxbridge. Mr. Montville has for many years been a track foreman on the New Haven road.

While the front of the Putnam Inn is being remodeled a three story addition is going up in the rear, not visible from Main street. The lower part of this addition will be used in enlarging the store on the ground floor while the two upper stories will add a number of sleeping rooms to the hotel.

When the first performance of the Sells Floto circus goes on next week there will be one section of the big top where all of the actors can be sure of an enthusiastic reception. This section will be occupied by a group of youngsters from the Windham County Temperary Home who, one and all, have been invited to the show by the Putnam Rotary club. The kiddies will be shown everything and given a chance to feed the elephant. There will be no limit, except one of safety, on the amount of peanuts and pink lemonade allowed to be consumed.

F. W. Messenger of Chicago is to occupy the pulpit of the Baptist church, Sunday morning. Mr. Messenger was for a number of years agent of the Grosvenordale Company at North Grosvenordale. While there he became the leader of a religious cult known for their fervor. When Mr. Messenger went west he engaged in religious work and is now engaged in publishing a religious calendar. Mr Messenger's son and daughter attended Putnam high school as there was no high school at Thompson at the time the family resided there.

William Marshall Barrett, 75, of Woodstock, died at his home in North Woodstock village Wednesday. He had been in poor health for some time, due to hardening of the arteries.

Mr. Barrtet was born in the house where he died, in September, 1848, and had always lived there. He was, besides being a farmer, a carpenter by trade and was one of Woodstock's most widely known men. While taking an interest in the affairs of the town he took no active part in politics and never sought public office.

Mr. Barrett was a brother of Mrs. H. L. Burt of Putnam and besides his sister leaves his wife and a son, Marvin Barrett of Woodstock.

Joseph Liveronis, 48, who has been in poor health for some time, died at his home in Woodstock, Tuesday morning. He was the father of 13 children, only three of whom, two grownup sons and a small daughter, with the wife, survive him. Burial is to be in Southbridge.

Fred Bellevue, 13, of South Wood-stock, is at his home with a broken arm. He had climbed a tree and when he fell put out his hand to break the fall and several bones in his wrist were fractured.

George Holt, a miner, was fined $7 by Justice Charles M. Perrin of North Woodstock after being arrested by the state police for speeding. A complaint against L. Olney Brott of Thompson was nolled for insufficient evidence.

Mrs. Harold C. Burnham of Hart-ford, recently engaged as choir director of the Congregational church, will begin directing the church choir shortly after the first of September.

Miss Ellen Wheelock is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Emma Tafft, of Uxbridge, Mass.

Armand Gagne and Henry Baker, of the Bradley theatre orchestra, and Napoleon Williams, are camping on Laurel Point, Alexander's Lake and during their stay will entertain other members of the orchestra from time to time.

Mrs. Helen Rich Baldwin, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Frank Rich, Grove street, is in Buffalo, N. Y., on a business trip for a milk concern. They will visit Niagara Falls before they return.

The annual picnic of the Baptist Sunday school was held at Bates Grove, Webster Lake, Thursday. It was decided to go to Webster instead of Roseland Park on account of bathing being forbidden in the Woodstock Lake by the state board of health. The first truck left the church at ten o'clock in the morning. This was followed by a second truck about noon to accommodate those who could not leave earlier. During the day there were games, sports, boating and bathing and about one o'clock a fine picnic lunch was eaten in the grove.

Mrs. A. S. Macdonald and daughter Kay left Thursday morning to spend a few days with Mrs. W. L. Taber at Poquonnoc Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Williams are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Williams, of Boston.

State's attorney, Charles E. Searls, announced Thursday that there would be no special sitting of the criminal side of the superior court this (Friday) morning at Willimantic, as was announced Wednesday. The State's Attorney stated that matters which it had been expected would be brought up at the special sitting were not ready and that, after consulting with Judge George E. Hinman, it was decided that the only matter ready for submission to the could being the putting to plea of Patrolman John Ryan of the Putham police department, on a charge of violation of the liquor law, it was not deemed advisable to assemble court officials for this one matter.

JAMES A. CALNEN DROPS DEAD WHILE PLAYING TENNIS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, July 10.—James A. Calnen, 53, dropped dead while playing tennis, on a court across from his home, No. 29 Summit street, shortly after 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Mr. Calnen had taken advantage of the clerks' annual holiday to engage in his favorite pastime with an associate employe, Frank Hevrin of 228 Jackson street. As he was about to serve a ball, he suddenly toppled forward and died before help could reach him.

Medical Examiner Dr. Louis I. Mason pronounced death due to myocarditis. Mr. Calnen was a native of this city. He was a registered pharmacist and was manager of the J. J. Hickey Drug company store, corner of Jackson and Union streets where he had been employed for a number of years. He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Miss Claire Calnen, a teacher in Rockville High school. Both Mrs. Calnen and her daughter were away at the time of the sudden death of Mr. Calnen.

He was a member of San Jose Council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus. Besides his wife and daughter, he leaves his father, James Calnen and three brothers who reside in New York.

To Erect Temple

A temple costing $3,000,000 is to be erected in Ste. Anne de Beaupre to replace the destroyed one, according to an announcement of the Redemptorist Fathers; as well as a monastery costing $500,000, to provide accommodation for the residing fathers. At the same time it was also stated that in view of the importance of the work a contest carrying a prise of $15,000 may be opened to architects.

Makes Wire Stronger

By subjecting crystals of rock salt to high heat pressure just before they begin to decay a Russian scientist claims to have discovered a method for making wire stronger than steel from them.

JEWETT CITY

There has never been since the establishment of the borough electric lighting system, the necessity for as important and costly changes in the line arrangement as those going on at present. The local superintendent and his linemen are co-operating with the wire gang from the American Tel. & Tel. system. The high poles of the latter company, as they pas through the borough, are carrying by a former mutual agreement the electric wires for the local service.

When the job was first done, some twenty years ago, the electric wires were strung underneath the telephone wires. In case of difficulties on the upper arms, the trouble-hunter was obliged to crawl through the current carrying wires. In accordance with the present law the system is being changed over wherever this condition exists. It will be well toward the close of the summer before this big job can be completed. An added cost is seen, when it is learned that the borough linemen, are at work, temporarily dropping the current wires down to the pole a ways, to allow the fixing in places of the telephone wires. Then the tension system must be raised out and over to new cross-arms on top.

The telephone company is also doing the big job of replacing 45 to 55 of their 25 and 30 foot poles, with new ones, which must be 35 feet high, to carry joint construction. The changes will affect South Main street, Railroad avenue, Mechanic and Mathewson streets. The present borough commission has for their consideration and adjustment, a greater one summer's expense than has heretofore been presented to a previous board. Both telephone and electric engineers declare that when the work is done the Jewett City layout will be a moled system.

Rev. Howard S. Stephenson, pastor of the Second Congregational church returned Wednesday from a visit to Kentucky, his native state. Among the delegation from the Blue Grass state at the democratic national convention in New York was a senator friend upon whom Mr. Stephenson wished to make a friendly call. At the Madison Square Garden, the Jewett City man learned that his friend had returned to Kentucky. Fortunately Mr. Stephenson met the governor of his native state, whose delegation were standing solidly for McAdoo on every ballot. In the return home of one of the delegates a vacancy in the delegation was established. The governor also a delegate, proceeded to get a line on the alternate book, with the result that certified tickets were forthcoming, and the Jewett City minister enjoyed the rare privilege of acting alternate, in the solid votes for their candidate.

Had the delegation been subject to poll, or been supporting different candidates these courtesies could not have extended. Mr. Stephenson would have no right to vote on his own initiative.

Tuesday evening the Griswold hu-mane officer had brought to his attention a case that for inhuman details is seldom equalled. The man who lives on the Daniel Vaughn farm, about a mile south of the borough owns a valuable collie. Tuesday afternoon, a passerby, somewhat below the owner's home came upon the dog in the road, with one foot cut entirely off and another foot cut partly through the first joint of the leg. The humane officer ordered the dog mercifully put out of his misery. Facts so far established are to the effect that some one, as yet unknown, ran the dog down with a mowing machine. The officer located a farm, not far away where grass had been cut during the day with a machine.

Germany's War Strength

During the World war, Germany mobilized 18,250,000 men. They were equipped with 60,000 machine guns, 9,000 mine-throwers, 15,000 pieces of artillery and 685,000 horses.

Machine to Aid Farmer

A boon to the farmer who is confronted with the problem of profitably disposing of his surplus straw is promised in a new straw rope-making machine which spins the straw into an article of commercial value. The machines produce ropes of two strands, the straw being fed into narrow troughs and carried forward by means of scored rollers to the spinning boxes.

Curious Fish

There is a curious fish called the remora, which is one of the laziest creatures in the world. On the top of its head is a powerful sucker, by means of which it attaches itself to the underside of other fish, or even of boats. In this way it makes journeys of hundreds of miles without moving a fin.

Volcanic Deposits.

There have been reported the results of physical, chemical and biologic! studies of the ash deposits in the Carib country of St. Vincent laid down at the time of the eruptions of the Soufriere in 1902 and 1903. The deposits, which range in depth from 14 to 18 inches, consist of coarse, sandy types. They show small contents of organic carbon and nitrogen, are extremely deficient in calcium carbonate and contain moderate amounts of available phosphoric acid and potash. They give evidence of a moderate activity of putrefactive bacteria. Nitrogen-fixing organisms of the Azotobacter type are present. The soil possesses appreciable nitrogen-fixing and ammonifying power, but no nitrifying power. Considerable progress has been made in the conversion of these sterile ash deposits into fertile soils.—Washington Star.

To Clean Furniture.

Remove the dust from the crevices with a painter's brush with long bristles. Wipe the surface with a soft cloth wrung out of warm suds of white soap. When dry, pour a mixture of equal parts of turpentine and paraffin oil into a saucer, dip the paint brush in the mixture just wetting the tips of the bristles, and remove the surplus by squeezing the end of the brush for an instant in a piece of cloth. Go over the carved portions with this, and treat the plain surfaces with a little of the same mixture applied with a piece of cheesecloth. Finish by polishing vigorously with a piece of flannel or velveteen.

BRYAN FOR SECOND PLACE.

After the democrats took plenty of time in settling upon John W. Davis of New York and West Virginia as their party leader, the selection that was probably the best in the list of candidates they hastened to complete the combination by naming Governor C. W. Bryan of Nebraska as his running mate.

So far as balancing the ticket by naming the second member on the ticket from the west, as long as the head was from the east and south, there was no surprise, but it reminds one of the old saying that politics makes strange bed fellows.

John W. Davis at the head of the ticket called forth not only the opposition of William Jennings Bryan, but received the denunciation of the Peerless One in an address before the convention. That the Bryan brothers feel alike in this respect is indicated by a statement which was made by Governor Bryan on arriving in New York for the convention in which he warned the party against naming John W. Davis who he declared to be "another Coolidge" and declared that should Davis become the nominee he would stump his own state for La Follette.

It's the irony of fate that he should now be linked with the terrible Davis by being made second fiddle on the same ticket. Will the nomination cause him to undergo a change of view? Is he going to take off his coat and work for Davis because he has been nominated with him? Have the spots on the leopard been changed?

It is clear why there are those who are urging La Follette to pick Governor Bryan as his running mate, but the wonder is whether the aim was to cater to the Bryan influence, as well as to the western vote, in the naming of the Nebraskan governor.

Bryan was a dominating influence for a long time during the prolonged convention, and it is going to be used throughout the campaign for such virtue as it is believed remains within the name. But just how is Governor Bryan going to reconcile the fact that "John W. Davis is another Coolidge"?

DODGING IMMIGRATION LAW.

Our attention is being called to the fact that even though we have established new immigration restrictions it is entirely possible that we are not going to exclude all that we expect and possibly many of those whom we are most anxious to keep out.

In the fixing of the quotas for the various countries, based upon the number of the respective nationals here, our neighbor to the north, Canada, was not included. There was no desire to keep such people out. But such an opportunity for neighbors to go from one side of the border to the other was not disregarded by other than Canadians. It was recognized as a loophole, of which others might take advantage.

Canada is desirous of getting immigrants. It has a large territory which it desires developed and it knows that it has been losing many of its settlers. By getting into Canada it is possible for immigrants to filter across the border unobstructed, and the estimate has been made that a tenth of those who came here from Canada in the past year have been those who could not have gotten in under our immigration laws.

This is much the same situation that has been encountered in South American countries where those unable to get in here have settled and quickly become citizens only to move to the United States almost before their new citizenship had taken. These and the smuggling of immigrants are problems which arise in connection with the enforcement of the new law.

It is a situation for which Canada is not responsible. Out of consideration for the non inclusion of Canada in the restrictions it is not improbable that some agreement may be made with the dominion which will result in Canada so classifying its immigrants that they will be prevented from deserting to this country in violation of our laws. It is at least one phase of the immigration problem that is bound to come in for much attention in the early future. We have no more desire for such immigrants than for the smuggled variety.

ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE.

At the annual convention of the American Bar association in Philadelphia, one of the speakers was C. H. Yost, editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, who dwelt upon the crimes of violence in this country and law enforcement. He expressed himself in these words: "The instrument of justice and law enforcement throughout America are manacled by a preposterous system of criminal jurisdiction that gives crime every advantage over justice, and creates the disgraceful paradox that law often cannot be enforced because the law will not permit its enforcement. Crime is disgracefully prevalent in the United States because the administration of justice is not sound, because, in fact, it not only permits, but encourages crime."

Have you ever felt that way about it yourself? There are times when it appears in the prosecution of criminals and the pursuit of crime that aid is actually being given to the escape of the guilty from the penalty which they have invited.

When crime in this country and the enforcement of criminal law are compared with the same in England we suffer by the respective showings. We are disposed to delays, long drawn out trials, the stalling of trials until the evidence has disappeared and the witnesses died, to many policies of leniency and to making everything about as easy for those who have defied law and order as it is possible to do.

In dwelling upon this condition Mr. Yost has voiced the sentiments of not a few. He has endeavored to direct the thought of those to whom this matter should be uppermost in a way that will bring about a correction of the situation. Certainly crime has gotten to the point where all possible discouragement instead of encouragement should be given to it. Whether he convinced the bar association that much trouble lies in the administration of justice has not as yet been disclosed. In placing food for thought before it he has, however, voiced a layman's view which cannot be entirely disregarded.

THE DROWNING TOLL.

Regardless of the many drownings which have occurred this spring and summer, they continue to feature the news almost daily. The number may be large or small, but it is disclosed that there are those who are tempting fate in a manner entirely unjustified and as the result are paying the great penalty of losing their lives.

There are those who venture into the water and suddenly find themselves beyond their depth; there are those who go overboard without knowing how to swim in the expectation that they can do as they have seen others do, there are those who dive into too shallow places and there are those non-swimmers who seek the deep water with crude types of life preservers apparently unmindful of the consequences that lie within their path when something goes wrong.

It is the unexpected that gets no previous thought. It is the unwillingness to keep away from danger that makes possible too many of the drownings, and it is the refusal to obey the restrictions of safety that leads to many instances of near drownings as well as actual loss of life.

A Massachusetts girl lost her life when an inner tube which was supporting her in the water burst. A Norwich boy was drowned when the string broke that joined two tin cans which were being used to buoy him up in deep water. Repeated are the instances of drownings where persons incur a risk that is grossly unjustified because of their inability to take care of themselves in the water. There are not a few instances where the responsibility for their presence in such places and under such conditions rests upon others than themselves.

THE BRAZILIAN REVOLT.

Brazil does not believe in giving revolutions in that country plenty of rope. Its view is that they must be promptly suppressed and its acts in accord therewith. Though the revolt in the state of Sao Paula appears to have been well planned it is destined to be of short duration, if in fact it has not already been brought to its knees.

Sao Paulo is the great coffee raising state. It is the state that produces much revenue and it can be imagined that Brazil does not show a disinterestedness when there's a possibility of secession in that quarter.

For the revolutionists Sao Paulo with its world wide business has many attractions. There are those who have figured it out as to how they could get away with the establishment of a new government there and separate from Brazil. They have tried it but always with failure. In spite of the fact that the state maintains its own army. Brazil is therefore on its tiptoes for action in case it is needed to suppress trouble there. It doesn't rely upon talk about peace. It prepares to meet such conditions as it knows from the past are liable to be forced upon it.

Sao Paulo is a state made up of many foreigners. It is rich from the fact that it supplies the world with coffee. Its soil is such as to permit of no competition that amounts to anything elsewhere and so great is the monopoly that it virtually controls the price of coffee throughout the globe, simply by the regulation of its crops from year to year.

Brazil is not disposed to lose Sao Paulo and it doesn't require much study to thoroughly understand why. There's no wonder that it is ready to put down any uprising that develops, and to do it at once.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Life is one convention after another.

Building new roads is a great thing. But keeping up those already built and in use is quite important.

Once again the British have blocked an English channel tunnel. Peace hasn't much more than a toe hold in Europe.

The report that there are 80,000,000 fewer hogs in the country than last year doesn't take into consideration the road hogs.

La Follette suited the communists at St. Paul and he suits the socialists at Cleveland, proving again the old saying that birds of a feather flock together.

It is too early to tell whether Mexico has escaped a new revolution through the selection of a president by going to the ballot box.

The communistic leaders of the farmer-labor party are insistent upon giving support to La Follette. Do they figure they can get their radical, bolshevic demands satisfied from such a leader?

If the democrats were afraid to adjourn to Kansas City they might have tried Hazardville, Conn. But for the way democrats are acting in Rhode Island Hope Valley, R. I., might have been suggested.

Norwich could have had the Eastern Power company's plant located within its limits a few years ago but turned it down. Is it going to refuse to save $65,000 to $70,000 a year now through the help of the company?

CERTAIN DRAWBACKS

"It is going to be so nice to have a wedding in the family!" declared the stout, comfortable relative who was able instantly to give the middle initial of the man who married the second cousin of Jim's wife's sister. "And you can have just everybody, seeing you are having it in the church! Of course you've got the Jasper Hasbeens on the list, haven't you?"

"I never in the world heard of them!" declared the bride-elect with lifted brows. "And I can't say I like the sound of 'em! What are they?"

"My land!" ejaculated the stout, comfortable relative in extreme disgust. "Do you mean to say your folks have never mentioned the Hasbeen family in your hearing? Why, Jasper Hasbeen's father saved your uncle's son from bankruptcy way back in the '90s, and family feeling alone should keep you from even the thought of leaving them out! They don't go out much and I don't suppose Jasper has a dress suit, but that doesn't make any difference. I think we should rise above mere externals. His wife, Sadie, wears a wig that doesn't match her eyebrows and it sort of gives her a queer expression, but she makes the best apple pie I ever ate. I guess you'll have to keep them overnight, too, because they come from quite a distance!"

"Is there any more bad news?" asked the bride-elect.

"Why, I hadn't heard of any news," the comfortable relative said obliviously. "And of course your mother told you to put down the names of George Artichoke and Sally Butter and oh, yes—Sesame Liverpool?"

Wait a minute," the bride-elect said faintly, groping for a chair. "It is too much all at once! I am positive that individuals with names like these would put a permanent crimp into any affair, no matter how carefully handled! I know just what Sesame Liverpool looks like—she has a nose that comes to a point and a scrawny neck and she is addicted to carrying lilies in one hand and posing against mantelpieces and pillars——"

"Why, where'd you ever see her?" excitedly demanded the relative. "That's her, all right!"

"This is terrible," gloomily murmured the bride-elect. "I know that kine. I saw one once. Nobody'll notice my dress at all because she'll attract all the attention. Can you give me a little light about Sally Butter?"

"I went to school with her," the comfortable relative admitted, wrinkling her brows, "but I can't say I've seen her since. She is a relative, however, and must be asked. I remember her specialty was embroidering cattails on green felt and maybe she'll send you a cattail lambrequin for the piano or the mantel."

"I had expected," the bride-elect said tremulously, "to cut rather a dash before Reginald's family and to carry out this wedding with spiffiness and class, but it begins to look as though we might just as well be married beside the kitchen stove, with the family cat snoozing in the rocker by the window with the row of red geraniums in it? I just won't ask all these queer people!"

"You gotta," declared the comfortable relative, shaking her head emphatically. "The only way you can escape it is to elope and not ask anybody. No doubt at this moment Reginald is going through the same agony. He had his list all made out glittering with names of the high and mighty and along comes grandma or somebody like me and calls to his attention several persons who really should be hanged as horse theives or worse, who are related to him and who must, therefore, be invited to the festivities. He's probably just as mad as you are this minute!"

"He couldn't be!" the bride-elect declared, moving toward the telephone with a dark glint in her eye. "This elopement idea looks good to me!"—Exchange.

Lord Curzon's Humble Start

George N. Curzon was the son of a poor Irish parson—peer, was born near Derby and his boyhood was one of denial.

At Eton he made a record for brilliancy and at Oxford University he not only won distinction in his studies but was chosen president of the Union Society before he was 21 years old.

At 23 he became private secretary to Lord Salisbury, then Prime Minister. Next he was elected to the House of Commons and his accomplishments were so marked that, at 32, he became Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs and later was promoted to the position of Secretary for Foreign Affairs.

He made a study of the Near East, visited there, wrote books on the subject and gained a reputation as a writer and debater in Parliament. It was conceded that he was the man who certainly would become Prime Minister of England.

He married the beautiful Mary Leiter, daughter of the Chicago millionaire. The wedding attracted international interest and life's outlook was brighter than ever.

There came a vacancy in the Viceroyship of India, he was appointed and was successful beyond expectation. Then came a dispute with Lord Kitchener, at that time Commander-in-Chief in India, and Curzon resigned and returned to England.

With the forming of the war coalition Government in 1918 Curzon was the first choice as Foreign Secretary and his administration won admiration. Diplomats praised him, he was an orator and a social leader. His first wife having died, he was married to the charming widow of Alfred Duggan, of Buenos Ayres, and his home was the scene of many functions attended by royalty and statesmen. Then he had to give up office, and the hope to be Prime Minister was still only a dream.

With all his talents, it is said, he was unable to get along with the man on the street but there are many Curzon enthusiasts in England who still believe that he will yet become Premier of England.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Americans in Paris who have in any way come into contact with the Consul-General, A. Montgomery Thackara, will regret that he is leaving his post at the end of this month. For nearly a dozen years—that is to say, the most difficul years in modern times is Paris—he has fulfilled his functions with conspicuous success. Mr. Thackara is now in his seventy-sixth year. He is a native of Philadelphia and attended the public schools of that city. Decided upon a naval career, he entered the Annapolis academy and after his graduation in 1869 served for nearly 15 years in the navy. In 1882 he resigned and entered mercantile life in Philadelphia, in which occupation he continued until 1898, when President McKinley appointed him United States Consul at the busy French port of Havre. Here his meritorious service won the recognition of President Roosevelt who made him Consul-General at Berlin in 1905. In 1912 he was transferred to Paris. Mr. Thackara was married in 1880 to a daughter of William Tecumseh Sherman.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Child Labor Amendment.

Mr. Editor: Thank you for your editorial on the child labor amendment.

There is an old-time political adage "that nothing is settled until it is settled right." The fact that Arkansas has already ratified the amendment and Georgia has refused on the ground that it would abridge her state sovereignty is pretty good proof that the child labor amendment is the right way to settle this vital issue. It is easy to see why Georgia has refused to ratify, when we consider that she has 89,000 children 10 to 15 years old engaged in gainful toil. Many of them, if not most, are in her mills. What can be expected of a state so unmindful of the mental and physical well being of its children!

Now about Connecticut? Is it not true that a recent report showed sensational increase in child labor in Waterbury? That 800 per cent more were given permits to work than in 1922. We have been wont to think that it was the south that was guilty of this child slaughter and lo, we find the same mote in our own eyes!

It is self evident that there is only one cure for this disregard of the mental and physical well being of the nation's children—the child labor amendment, which will put all states on an equality. If there is one thing more necessary for the safety of American civilization than another, it is general education for all, says our wise and just president. Mr. Coolidge. In his recent address upon federal supervision of education; he says, "it is necessary that education should be the handmaid of citizenship." He also said, "We have submitted an amendment to the national Constitution designed to protect the child life of the nation from the unwarranted imposition of toil, that it might have greater opportunity for enlightenment."

One of the most encouraging efforts put forth in the interest of this amendment has come from the Massachusetts branch of the American Federation of Labor, representing approximately 350,000 organized workers. It is their hope that through its central bodies and affiliated unions, to awake the people to the vital necessity for a national child labor law. They intend to make it the main issue before the annual convention, which opens in Boston on August 4th. I cannot help believing that if our churches and women's clubs would take hold of this measure as seriously and zealously as the American Federation of Labor have determined to do, there could be no doubt of the success of the amendment. If the mother heart of the nation is not stirred with pity for the helpless children, more than a million of them, what hope have they? What are the 27 million women voters going to do about it? When God made women the mothers of men He saw them in terms of their best, and saw them as potential workers with Him for a new world. When God put into the hands of women the vote, He gave them the power to build a finer world than now exists. Our very first duty is to protect our children from the commercial greed which threatens the destruction of the most valuable asset of the nation.

The ides of this 1924 are thrilling.

Stories That Recall Others

One Way Out

A little three year old girl has just recovered from a severe cold. Her mother leaving home for a few minutes' chat with a neighbor, was giving final instructions.

"Now, Betty," she said, "I'll be just across the street, and I don't want to see you outside without your hat."

"All right, mother," smiled Betty sweetly, "you just pull down the window blinds."

A Good Point of Resemblance.

Geneva, four years old, was inquiring of an aunt as to whom she thought she (Geneva) resembled physically.

"Nearly everybody thinks I look like my mother," she asserted.

"Anyway, I'm the same color as she is." Geneva hopefully volunteered a few seconds later.

"WHY I DO NOT BELIEVE IN MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP"

In the Journal of Electricity, Ole Hanson, former mayor of Seattle, under whose administration the street railway system of that city was purchased, and a former strong advocate of municipal ownership, tells why he has undergone a change of mind. He says:

"What do I think of municipal ownership? Such ideas as I have are probably no different than those of thousands of other business men who have a grain of common sense. Theoretically, municipal ownership is absolutely right. So, too, are the League of Nations and Prohibition. Practically—well, they have their drawbacks.

"No one can argue against the theory of municipal ownership. Interest rates for municipal bonds are less; they are tax exempt; there is a feeling that in all municipal bond issues the city is back of the securities. Municipally-owned utilities pay no taxes. They can obtain franchises at cost. Condemnation proceedings for them are a simple matter. Run properly, municipal enterprises should be able to sell their product cheaper than private companies run for profit.

"But do they do this? In most cases, I do not think so. The reasons are obvious.

"In the first place, municipal properties are immediately removed from the tax roll, thus increasing the burden upon the taxpayer in general. Every taxpayer shoulders a heavier burden. So, too, indirectly, does every citizen, whether or not he is benefited by municipal ownership of that particular city-operated enterprise. The purchasing power of every dollar he spends for food, clothes, rent and entertainment is reduced by that fractional sum necessary to make up the deficit in the public treasury caused by the loss to the city of the taxes formerly paid by the private company.

"The loss of efficiency in the operating staff resulting from municipal ownership is a well recognized phenomenon. Private companies will pay for brains, and brains are one of the chief requisites for the successful operation of a business as technical and intricate as a public utility. The brains can be Republican or Democratic, so far as the public utility is concerned, just so the knowledge and performance are there. Municipal enterprises often will pay a higher rate than the current market price for hands, as evidenced by the support given them by labor. Municipal or government ownership is synonymous with more jobs, more pay, less work. They will not pay, however, for brains. I have seen cities with a $30,000,000 street car system, municipally owned, refuse to pay more than $5 000 a year for its head! Ridiculous, of course, but remember that salaries are fixed in municipalities not on account of what a man can earn, but on what the public thinks is a fair wage.

"In the development and construction of public works, contractors are notoriously delinquent. They depend upon the municipality to change their contract and not inforce its penalties. Few, if any municipal utility projects are ever constructed within the original estimates. Political promises are made, an undertaking started and from that day on, the cry is for 'money, money, money.' Another million and the job will be completed, is the plea. That million is voted, and another, and still more. Usually such an alarming total is built up that the public refuses to vote additional funds and the municipal project is left high in the air. This has happened in more than one instance.

"Every man's job in a private company depends upon his making good. Either make good or leave, is the doctrine. This may seem crude but it is very efficacious. In a municipality the job often depends on political control, influence or votes. Because of this, municipal enterprises are usually over-manned. There are more men than jobs. Two job-seekers are placed on the payroll when one could do the work. There is a woeful lack of efficiency. The public pays the bill.

"The public itself does not understand technical matters. Voters, as a mass, are more likely to listen to the oratorical spouting of a politician than the hard facts of a business man. In the furore before a municipal election, municipal business cannot be kept out of politics. We have had many demonstrations of the utter futility of mixing business and politics. Like oil and water, they do not go together.

"The politician's job is a business of holding office. He is on the job from two to four years. What would you think of a private company that changed managers that often? The politician has no personal responsibility. His constituents—the voters—are notoriously lax taskmasters. In order to hold office he often sacrifices the vital interests of the municipality for his personal political gain.

"The cause for the spread of municipal ownership is largely attributable to the selfish desires of these same politicians who see in the control of utilities an opportunity for more power. They are aided by certain misguided theorists who actually believe that it will work. Another factor in the present situation is the fact that the public has not yet recovered from the domineering acts of some of the public utility companies of forty years ago. What is needed is a stronger public conviction of the truth in the statement, 'more government finess, statement, 'more business in government and less government in business.'"

It is only when a man dies that every one's his good qualities comes to the surface.

THE ERRING WIFE AND MOTHER is the woman who sacrifices her health and consequent happiness to her ambition. We all know such women—anxious that their homes shall be kept immaculately clean and attractive, and their children well dressed they overdo and soon bring on some feminine ailment which is evidenced by nervousness, irritability, headaches, backaches and other aches and pains attending such ills. Every woman should remember that the most successful remedy for such conditions is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which for fifty years has been restoring women to health, strength and happiness.

Keeps Old Law

Maryland is the only state in the Union which still requires a religious ceremony for marriage. Other states are satisfied with a civil ceremony. Maryland, together with Virginia, Kentucky, Louisiana and Mississippi, permit marriage of a girl at twelve years of age, while New Hampshire makes the age thirteen years.

WANDERLUST

Beyond the East the sunrise, beyond the West the sea,
And East and West the wanderlust that will not let me be;
It works in me like madness, dear, to bid me say good-bye!
For the seas call and the stars call, and oh, the call of the sky!

I know not where the white road runs, nor what the blue hills are,
But a man can have the sun for friend, and for his guide a star;
And there's no end of voyaging when once the voice is heard,
For the river calls and the road calls, and oh, the call of a bird!

Yonder the long horizon lies, and there by night and day
The old ships draw to home again, the young ships sail away;
And come I may, but go I must, and if men ask you why,
You may put the blame on the stars and the sun and the white road and the sky!

RELATES HOW NORWICH FIRE DEPARTMENT WORKS

The regular meeting of the Norwich Lions club was held Thursday noon at the Wauregan Hotel with President George A. Finn in charge. The meeting opened with the singing of America after which Lion George Madden led in singing popular songs.

CHIEF HOWARD L. STANTON

President Finn introduced as the speaker of the day Chief Howard L. Stanton of the Norwich Fire Department, who has been actively engaged in the fire department work in this city for over fifty years. Chief Stanton spoke most interestingly on the Methods of the Fire Department in Norwich. In his talk he reminisced on the history of the Norwich department from the time when the first piece of apparatus was installed in 1769, relating interesting facts and statistics of the department in those days, gradually working up to the methods used by the department in the present day. In closing, Chief Stanton said, our department is one to be proud of, that it was as up-to-date as any in New England in proportion to the size of our city. At the conclusion of his talk he was given a rising vote of thanks.

During the meeting plans were made for the next meeting of the club to be held at Watch Hill. The club meeting will take the form of an outing and there will be bathing, sports and a dinner.

President Finn was given a rising vote of thanks for the manner in which he directed the Salvation Army drive, in spite of the conditions now prevailing.

The club voted a contribution towards the fund for relief of the devastated regions of Lorain, Ohio, and also voted that a message of condolence be sent to President and Mrs. Calvin A. Coolidge.

The meeting closed in the usual form with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner and the salute to the flag.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Michael J. Malone

Funeral services for Mrs. Michael J. Malone were held Thursday morning at 8:15 o'clock from her home, 240 Central avenue, with solemn high requiem mass in St. Mary's Memorial church at 9 o'clock. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the service and the many beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem in which Mrs. Malone was held by her many friends.

The mass was celebrated by Rev. William A. Keefe, rector of the church, assisted by Rev. Charles W. Brennan of Norwich Town, deacon, and Rev. James O'Meara of Montville, sub-deacon. The music was in charge of Henry LaFontaine and at the offertory Miss Sadie Driscoll sang Pie Jesus. For the waiting hymn Miss Driscoll sang Beautiful Land on High. For the recessional a quartette in charge of Miss Mary Buskley and Mrs. T. J. Donovan rendered Lead Kindly Light.

Burial took place in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Keefe and Rev. Father Brennan conducted the committal service. The bearers were John Fountaine, John Williamson, two son-in-laws, John Corcoran, Daniel Drew, William Ryan and Michael Bray.

Arrangements were by Cummings & Ring.

Given Miscellaneous Shower

A number of friends tendered Miss Anna Siegel Tuesday evening a miscellaneous shower at her home at 96 Mechanic street in honor of her approaching marriage to Leonard Levine which is to take place Tuesday evening July 15 at Sharon Spring house, Sharon, Mass. A buffet supper was served. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received by Miss Siegel.

Colchester Road Meeting.

A special town meeting has been called for Saturday by the selectmen of Colchester to see if the taxpayers of the town will authorize the selectmen to raise money for a new state road from Broadway to the Hebron line on the Amston turnpike, a distance of a little more than a mile.

HANDLEMAN DISCHARGED HERE, IS WANTED BY POLICE OF TROY

Morris Handleman of Worcester, on trial in the city court Thursday on a charge of theft of $9,000 worth of unset diamonds from the jewelry firm of John & George H. Bliss, Inc., 126 Main street, on the afternoon of Nov. 24, 1923, was discharged by Judge A. F. Libby after the evidence had been heard, but is held in the Norwich jail to await the arrival today (Friday) of officers from Troy, N. Y., where Handleman is wanted for skipping $2,500 bail.

Handleman was brought here from Portland, Maine, on June 15, and has been in jail since then while the case has been continued several times.

City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins prosecuted the case and Handleman was defended by John Dunn of Westerly.

Clifford E. Wilson, owner of the jewelry firm, was the first witness for the state. He detailed the circumstances of the robbery, telling of a man coming into the store and purchasing a child's ring and then looking at diamonds and ivory. Mr. Wilson took the diamonds in a wallet from the safe to show him, and as he was putting th ewallet back into the safe two men came into the store and asked to look at watches which he showed them. Meanwhile the first man came back into the store. August W. Tilly, an employe, asked him what he wanted and he said he wanted to see Mr. Wilson. He waited in the store until Mr. Wilson had finished with the other two and he then changed the ring for a larger one and left the store.

Mr. Tilly testified to noticing the man come in the first time and return later when he asked the man what he wanted. Mr. Tilly said he discovered that the diamonds were gone from the safe about 4 o'clock and he at once notified Mr. Wilson at his home and also notified the police. Neither Mr. Wilson nor Mr. Tilly could identify Handleman positively as the man who had been in the store. They had noticed the man was of sandy complexion which was one particular in which Handleman corresponded to the man who is believed to have stolen the diamonds.

Police Shief George Linton testified to the report that was made to him of the robbery and the description that was given him of the alleged diamon thieves.

Annie Samocha, 31, and her husband, Michael, 30, living at 31 Clinton avenue, were before the court on breach of the peace charges for an alleged assault by Mrs. Samocha upon Mrs. William Burke of 29 Clinton avenue in which Mrs. Burke was bitten in the arm, knocked down in the street and kicked in the thigh until she was black and blue. Both the accused were sentenced to five days in jail, with sentences suspended.

Another Norwich Town woman was before the court on a breach of peace charge. The case was continued for three months.

A Norwich man paid $3 for having driven his automobile past one of the flashing beacons on the wrong side.

McALL MISSION INFLUENCE FOR TEMPERANCE IN FRANCE

The Norwich branch of the McAll Mission is interested in the report of a line of influence exercised in France, which is described as follows in the McAll publication:

Although many Americans hold a contrary opinion, sentiment adverse to strong drink is not lacking in France. A significant temperance movement steadily gains force in that country and one of the strong factors in the war on alcoholism is La Mission Populaire Evangelique de France popularly known as "La Mission Populaire." On this side of the Atlantic it has a sustaining ally in the American McAll Association. Early in its history, which dates from the period of the Paris Commune, the mission won official approval as a force making for sobriety and good order. Two years after its establishment, in a time when the authorities of Paris were disposed to regard all public meetings with suspicion, the prefect of the Seine said to the mission's founder, the late Robert McAll, "Go where you will, open as many stations as you like, for I have learned that wherever you have a hall, there I need fewer policemen." The French government in later years made Dr. McAll a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, "in recognition of his services to humanity."

That in a country of abundant wine the temperance work of the Mission has been carried on in such a manner that the McAll organization is now more strongly entrenched in the popular favor than ever before, shows that tactful methods have been followed. A temperance society of France known as The Blue Cross, is actively promoted by La Mission Populaire which has been particularly successful in enlisting the interest of young men as volunteer workers. In this, as in all other phases of its work, the Mission is Christian but not denominational, since its aim is to cooperate with all of the Evangelical churches of France. There have been many striking examples of interest and success in the temperance campaign. The 1924 report of the American McAll Association says that "At Desvres it is singularly appropriate that much emphasis should be placed on temperance work, for the station there was established through the gratitude of a man whose life had been saved from the evils of drink."

GROTON SILENT COP ASSAULTED IN NIGHTTIME

Early Thursday morning it was discovered that the silent policeman on the corner of Broad street and Thames street, in Groton, had been struck hard and removed from its original position. The beacon was badly damaged and completely uprooted. The lantern was torn from the top of the framework and a huge chip had been knocked from the heavy concrete base. The electric wire connections had been ripped, necessitating the excavation of the earth base to make repairs. As soon as the authorities were notified a gang of men was placed on the job and the silent cop was immediately repaired.

The police department says that the accident happened somewhere about 1.35 Thursday morning. No report had been received by the police or other officials from anyone in regard to the mishap, but the police have a clue which may lead to an arrest.

A short while after the time at which the accident is supposed to have occurred, one of the men in a garage, a short distance from the scene of the accident received a message from some one who was stranded in the highway. A man was sent out and he returned with a Studebaker light six coupe bearing Connecticut registration number 3414. It is alleged that the coupe was found driven hard upon a rock. The bumper was badly bent into a V shape and the right mudguard was dented. The car was towed to the garage, where it is awaiting repairs.

As yet no direct evidence which might warrant an arrest has been reported.

FIRST HALF HOLIDAY FOR NORWICH STORES

Thursday afternoon was the first of the Thursday half holidays for Norwich stores and from shortly after noon the business district of the city presented a deserted appearance, an unusual sight for most everyone.

Immediately after the stores closed, employes and employers who had planned for the day left the city for the shore or country. Ocean Beach was a favorite with many people in the afternoon and it was pleasant there until nearly 5 o'clock, when a heavy rain fell for a short space of time. In Norwich, too, there was a heavy fall of rain but it came too late in the afternoon to spoil the plans for the half holiday.

The Thursday half holiday plan has proven to be a big thing in Norwich and employes, employers and the public in general welcome the chance of enjoying a half day each week, in some cooler spot than the downtown section of Norwich.

A man's pride would be vanity if possessed by his neighbor.

HARTFORD GIRL SCOUTS CAMP AT GALES FERRY

Camp Merritt, the camp of Hartford Girl Scouts, at Gales Ferry, opened July 5, with a corps of enthusiastic leaders and a group of still more enthusiastic scouts.

This year the camp is divided into ten colonies of three tents each, two for the scouts and one for the two counsellors belonging to each group. Each colony is made up of two sides, the Green or the Gold, which are in strong competition for points on scout work—duties, games and fun. At the end of the summer Mrs. Merritt the Hartford commissioner is going to give a silver loving cup to the winning side.

A chart which records the points gained every day is hung on the bulletin board on the south piazza. At all times of day clusters of girls crowd about the chart to see which side is ahead in swimming, fatigue duties, games, dramatics, basketry, dancing, songs, nature study, first aid, etiquette; in short all first class, second class and merit badge work.

The following are the counsellors and advisers: Marion Young, camp director; Irene Muller, Hartford director for Girl Scouts, assistant camp director and trained nurse; Marion Studley, advisor on staff for camp paper, Story Teller and director for dramatics for Greens; Neva Langwortny, director of sports, dancing, "jerks," and hiking; Helen Rose, swimming director, advisor on dramatics for Yellows; Dorothy Beals, advisor on dramatics for Yellows; Molly Gorse, manager of camp shop; Laura DeLamater, advisor of boating; bugler; Edna Volin, song leader. Somer merit badge work and advisor for dramatics; Mary Kingslandsmith, basketry; Beatrice Johnson, assistant for swimming; Ruth Blaisdell, nature worker; Leg Woodward, assistant for nursing, also first class scout instructor; R. Alice Kendall, secretary and bookkeeper.

Birthdays are coming fast, two almost every day so far.

Plans for plays, dances and games to be presented in competition on Friday afternoon are well underway.

Milk babies, the underweight girls, are filled daily with cups and cups of milk.

The infirmary, Chanzee, "The Comforter," paints throats with argyrol, takes splinters from fingers and feet, binds turned ankles or wrenched hips and administers castor oil or calomel!

The following places are represented this week at Camp Merritt: Madison, Conn.; Waterbury, Conn.; East Hartford, Conn.; West Hartford, Conn.; Tariffville, Conn.; Rockland, Mass.

After their long rides on Saturday afternoon from Hartford, Waterbury and Madison, the Girl Scouts of Camp Merritt were mighty hungry. When the bugle blew, all rushed for the dining room, 62 strong. Good old fashioned Boston baked beans and brown bread, with stewed peaches for desert made the delicious and hearty supper. So good have all the meals been that the Scouts cheer Mr. and Mrs. Bush in this fashion:

We'll cheer for the Bushes
We'll cheer for the Bushes
And because the food's so fine
We'll cheer them all the time,
We'll cheer, cheer, cheer for the Bushes.

And that is how we all feel.

The camp is sufficiently near Norwich to permit all interested visitors to come to the competitive dramatic presentations on Friday evenings at 7.30 o'clock, standard time. Both the Green and Gold sides will extend welcome.

NEW HAVEN ROAD EXTENDS OFFICE'S WORK

The jurisdiction of Edward G. Buckland, vice president and general counsel of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co., has been extended so that it now includes law, finance and corporate relations. Mr. Buckland hitherto had charge of law and finance, but the importance of the company's investments in other companies, railroads and trolley, is necessitating added attention to the relations with these properties.

Mr. Buckland will also perform such executive duties as may from time to time be designated by the board of directors or the president, and he will be assisted by a general counsel who will relieve him of the detailed work of the law department.

The jurisdiction of Arthur P. Russell, vice president, includes real estate, taxes, valuation and public relations. In cooperation with Vice President Buckland, Mr. Russell has been since its inception in immediate charge of the valuation work, and will handle it to the final valuation, which it is hoped will be issued by the interstate commerce commission during the coming year.

Effective August 1, Benjamin I. Spock, formerly the general solicitor of the New Haven company, and for the last six years general counsel of the Chase Companies, Waterbury, will assume the duties of general counsel. Mr. Spock's long association with the company, and wide acquaintance in the territory which it serves, specially fit him for the duties of this office.

Norman S. Buckingham, now assistant to Vice President Buckland, will occupy a similar position as assistant to the general counsel.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

OBITUARY.

Timothy Clifford.

Relatives in Norwich received word Thursday of the death in Philadelphia, of Timothy Clifford, formerly a resident of Norwich, but for the past 14 years living in Philadelphia. Mr. Clifford was employed in a shipping plant in Philadelphia and a telegram was received from the company informing relatives of his sudden death there.

Mr. Clifford was born in Norwich, Dec. 23, 1882, the son of the late Dennis and Margaret Clifford, who at that time resided in the Falls district. Mr. Clifford continued to reside in the Falls district until about 1910, when he left for Philadelphia.

Mr. Clifford is survived by his sister, Mrs. David Lavarge, and an uncle, Timothy Clifford, both of this city. His body will be brought back to Norwich for burial.

News of his sudden death will come as a shock to his many friends here. He was a man of kind disposition and was always ready to lend a helping hand to a friend.

Mrs. Henry D. Hunt.

The many friends of Henry D. Hunt and his wife Bella will be grieved to learn of Mrs. Hunt's death which took place in France, June 23, after a long illness.

Mrs. Hunt was of a genial and gentle nature, cultured and refined, making friends wherever known and without effort endearing herself to all who knew her.

For many years she taught successfully in the school of music till her tastes led her to teach French, her native language.

Some fifteen years ago she was called without application on her part to the Fielden-Chase school in Providence and only a few years ago to the Wheeler school.

She had a most successful year's work teaching French, beginning in September, 1923, at The Lincoln school, and the teachers and pupils only recently remembered her with a purse of gold.

For many years she was a lecturer at the "causeries" of the French Alliance, and was this year offered the position but was too ill to accept.

Mrs. Hunt was a member of the Trinity Methodist church, her father, Dr. Mathieu Lelievre, author of several theological works, being a Methodist clergyman in France for the past 65 years.

Having an intense desire to see her father and her relatives once more, she sailed from New York on steamer Paris, June 11, accompanied by her son and survived the hardships of the voyage so she had a week's stay with her father and brother near Havre.

She is survived by her husband, Henry D. Hunt and their son, Theodore, residing at 18 Harrison street, Providence. Mr. Hunt formerly resided in Columbia, this state. She is survived also in France by three brothers, two sisters, their families, and many nephews and nieces.

Choir Picnic at Black Hall.

The choir of Grace church enjoyed a picnic Wednesday at the shore cottage of Miss Sarah Lane of Black Hall. Automobiles kindly supplied by Mrs. W. H. Fitch of Norwich Town, Miss Olive Bishop of Yantic, Herbert M. Hitchon and others conveyed the members of the choir to the shore. Refreshments were donated by various women, Mrs. Ellis Bentley being in charge of providing for them.

Franklin Street Chimney Fire.

A chimney fire at 58 Franklin street in the old Alling block, now owned by R. Alexander, resulted in a call on Thursday morning at 11.55 o'clock for the fire department. Twelve gallons of chemical were used to extinguish the blaze. It was the third call for the department in 24 hours, two being bell alarms.

HOW FAT I WAS

And How I Lost 50 Pounds in 8 Weeks With Marvelous New Parisian Discovery Which Causes Sensation in New York.

Simple, Easy—Does Away With Exercise, Worthless Reducing Creams and Garments.

No one can ever believe that once I weighed over 180 pounds. Those who knew me then and meet me say I look 10 years younger. I never could get clothes to fit me; all my friends called me FATTY, and even my own family thought I was a most unattractive woman. For years I suffered, until one day in Paris I discovered the real cause of excess fat —I found out exactly what to do to reduce, and I safely and easily lost 50 pounds in about two months. I have never regained one pound and never felt or looked better. I have given out my secret to hundreds of people who have obtained the most astonishing results. If YOU have tried everything known to reduce and have not succeeded—if YOU feel so discouraged that you have decided to remain fat, NOW THERE IS HOPE FOR YOU. I suffered so much for years with this burden of fat that I am glad to be able to help all fat people by giving them a real way of reducing. Go to any good drug store, get a package of the latest French discovery called SAN-GRI-NA (remember the name), take two small tablets before each meal and watch a steady decrease take place in your weight. SAN-GRI-NA not only reduces you, but it acts as a general tonic—the moment you start taking it you will feel your entire system filled with strength and energy. SAN-GRI-NA IS GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS. It is the only thing I ever found to reduce me after I had tried diets, exercise, drugs, worthless reducing creams and garments. Remember that with SAN-GRI-NA I took off 50 pounds in two months. I have never regained a pound since, and my health is envied by everyone.

SAN-GRI-NO is now sold at Lee & Osgood, McLaughlin's, or Bray's Drug Stores.

NURMI IS SENSATION OF OLYMPIC MEET, SHATTERING TWO RECORDS

Olympic Stadium, Colombes, France, July 10—(By The A. P.)—Within two hours this afternoon Paavo Nurmi, Finland's great distance runner, raced to spectacular victories in the 1,500 and 5,000 metre events, breaking the Olympic records at both distances and winning an Olympic triumph such as no individual has ever achieved before.

Nurmi captured the 1,500 metre run against a fine field in 3 minutes 53 3-5 seconds, chipping off 3 1-5 seconds from the old record. He won the 5,000 metres from his fellow countryman, Willie Ritola, in 14:31 1-5 seconds, beating both the Olympic and the world record by several seconds.

But even this super triumph of Finland's greatest ace could not check the onward march of the United States for the Americans demonstrated vast superiority in the pole vault and hammer throw, the remaining finals of the fifth day of the Olympic competition, and lengthened their mounting point lead over the rival Scandinavian nation in the dual for international supremacy.

The glory which went in double measure to Nurmi was also shared for the day by two young Americans, Frea Tootell, Boston A. A., who captured the hammer throw by a decisive margin from his countryman Matt J. McGrath, New York A. C., veteran of four Olympics, and Lee Barnes, the 17 year old California high school boy, who won the pole vault laurels in the jump off with his coast rival Glenn Graham, after they had tied for first place which equalled the Olympic record.

These feats sent Finland's emblem and the Stars and Stripes exclusively up the victory pole for the day. But another hero sprang to the front in Joseph Imbach, unsung and unheralded Swiss whirlwind, who won his heat in the second trials of the 400 metre run in the world record time of 48 seconds, a performance which came with startling suddenness.

Nurmi swept over the line a winner, in his second effort of the day, of the 5,000 metre run after a thrilling race with his countryman Ritola, who earned no small share of the glory himself when competing for the fifth straight day, he pushed his more illustrious teammate to a record in a finish which saw the two Nordic stars only one yard apart.

Perhaps even more amazing than Nurmi's triumphs, were the marvelous stamina and speed of Ritola, already twice a victor in record time, who though racing 26,000 metres in five days, yet had power to run stride for stride with the world's fastest distance man.

Nurmi's 1,500 metre victory was so decisive as to rob it of the spectacular elements of the longer race. Ray Watson, the American star, provided the chief thrill when he struck gamely to the heels of the flying Finn until 300 metres from the tape. But Watson as he ran could not match the machine-like strides of the speeding runner ahead of him, and wilted so badly near the end that he was unplaced.

Nurmi slowed up crossing the tape, looking over his shoulder at Scharer, another Swiss star, who came from the track, to take place in the last few strides from Stallard, Great Britain, who collapsed at the tape just as his teammate Lowe, the 800 metre winner, came through to capture fourth place from the pair of Americans, Ray Buker and Lloyd Hahn.

The 5,000 metre run was a three cornered affair for nearly two-thirds of the distance, with Elvin Wide, the Swede keeping pace with Nurmi and Ritola far ahead of the rest of the pack. But through the final stages the two Finns fought it out alone, while Wide, thoroughly beaten for the second time in the Olympics by his Scandinavian rivals, was lucky to save third place from the brilliant closing rush of the American John Romig, who conquered Siplia, another Finn, for fourth place, and gave the best distance running performance any American has yet shown in a field which the tardy blonds of the north are otherwise monopolizing.

These triumphs saw Finland's fortunes in high tide, but though the chief contender against America for Olympic laurels ran up 31 points this afternoon, the weavers of the shield, tallying in all four events and monopolizing the pole vault and hammer throw, added 41 1-2 to their score.

Thus with three days left the United States holds the formidable total of 376 1-2 points, to 103 for Finland, Great Britain is third with 46 1-2, and Sweden fourth with 24 1-2. These are the outstanding competitors among the dozen who have been placed in the sixteen finals so far.

MOOSUP TO PLAY LOCAL DUWELL TEAM SUNDAY

The local fans will finally get a chance to see the Duwells stack up against a real team Sunday at the Duwell field when the Moosup team comes to Norwich to play the second game of the series between the two teams.

The local boys played at Moosup two weeks ago and suffered their only defeat of the season after a hard game which ended 5 to 4 in favor of Moosup. It is a safe bet that Sunday's game will be hot all the way through, as the local lads won't let any sure thing slip through their hands and its a sure thing that Moosup won't let the series last much longer if they can help it.

The local support has been very poor during the season, the cry being that there haven't been any good teams here as yet. So it is to be seen Sunday whether Norwich wants good baseball or not as Moosup is considered one of the best attractions in the state. If the fans fail to do any better than they have it will be "good bye" baseball in Norwich.

Moosup has only been defeated twice during the season, once by Taftville and once by the Willimantic Thread Mill, runners up in the state league. The players on the Moosup team are all well know and can individually be stacked up against any semi-pro players in this section of the state.

Either "Lefty" Harrell, star twirler of the Sub Base team or "Chick" Davis mainstay of the Taftville A. A. will start in the box for Moosup and it is needless to go into details as to the reputation of either as they have both performed creditably on numerous occasions this season in this territory. Allard, high school wonder from Plainfield, who is making quite a hit down at the Stae Hospital by his nifty catching and heavy stick work, will do the catching. Frecette will cover first "Eddie" Burns, the former gob, considered the fastest baseball player that ever donned a State Hospital uniform will play second.

"Joey" Kendricks formerly of the Ware team will play short and "Dinty" Moore the hard-hitting side kick of Eddie Burns will complete the infield at third.

In the outfield will be Harry Mills, known as the versitile ball player, and Noel Ang Stricke also havey hitting boys who can be seen in action any Saturday at the State Hospital. No fan can truthfully say that this is not a real fast aggregation of ball-players and should give the local boys a hard tussel on Sunday afternoon. The Duwell lineup will be the same as has played all season.

BENEFIT GAME TO BE PLAYED FOR FRANK SILVA

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, July 9.—A benefit game will be played at Morgan Park Sunday afternoon, the two contesting teams to be selected by Umpire Sullivan. All proceeds derived from the game will go to Frank (Gee) Silva. Silva was recently badly burned about the body when trying to put out a fire at a Standard Oil station in this city, where he was employed.

Being incapacitated for a period of over six weeks and likely to be under the doctor's care for the next two months to come, Frank Silva, his wife into considerable expense and friends of his, among those being Manager Charles Chester, of the Corticelli Silk team in the City league, Nick Dardis and Paddy Sullivan have been working hard to make the benefit game from which a small purse will be derived a success. These three men have received the cooperation and backing of the merchants in the city, and the game will be proceeded by a field day in which several events will be run off. Winners will receive gifts donated by the local merchants. Another feature will be the band of the 192nd Field Artillery C. N. G. of this city furnishing the music during dull moments.

The undertaking is expected to be successful from present indications and from information received today it looks as though the advance number of tickets procured by fans up to date will be exceeded by a large margin the afternoon of the game.

Frank (Gee) Silva was formerly manager of the New London Independents, managing that team last year. Besides being manager, Silva has been a regular member of the Independents and played third base. Silva's ball playing days are over now as the result of the accident, which may not mainm him for life but will keep him from doing any hard physical labor. The Knights of Columbus claimed him as the regular third sacker in the first year of the City league baseball. He later turned to umpiring in this league and was successful. He gave up umpiring and again donned the uniform and played with the Corticelli Silk Co. Pioneer Hose team of Greton, the New London Ship and Engine nine in last year's Industrial league. The unfortunate accident which Silva met was a painful one and his friends in the city and out and those who at any one time came into contact with Silva will no doubt express their sympathy for him and help out the benefit by attending the game.

SENATORS LOSE GROUND IN PENNANT RACE

Washington, July 10.—Washington lost clear claim to the American league leadership today for the first time since it attained that position June 24, by losing the first game of a double-header to Detroit, 12 to 10, after thirteen innings. The defate sent the Senators into a first place tie with New York which won two games from Chicago. More than four hours were needed for the first game and the second went only five innings to a 3 to 3 score because of darkness.

The overtime contest was a see saw with Detroit using four pitchers and Washington six. Twenty players got into Washington's linup in the opener. Scores:

FAVORITES WIN FEATURE EVENTS IN FAST TIME AT THE COLUMBUS TRACK

Columbus, Ohio, July 10. (By the A. P.)—Favorites won three of the four events of today's Grand Circuit racing card, which was characterized by ideal weather conditions and fast time.

In the Columbus Dispatch stake for 2:05 trotters, Nat Ray's Peter the Brewer, a long shot, upset predictions by winning the first two heats in fast time, while the favored Grey Worthy was never a serious contender. In the final mile, Cupid's Albingen won though closely pressed by Peter the Brewer.

The other stake decided today was the Hotel Deshler for 2:11 pacers, which was won by Baron Worthy in straight heats from a big field, after Driver Johnson gave way to Harry Stokes to drive Anoakia. She then won the next two heats, the second mile of the race being more than five seconds faster than the first. In the third mile Murphy made a great bid with Iskander but could not quite reach. Miss Dillon was a straight heat winner in the first race of the afternoon, the three year old trot.

RED SOX MAKE IT THREE STRAIGHT FROM BROWNS

Boston, July 10.—Boston made it three in a row against St. Louis today behind the excellent pitching of Fullerton. The score was 8 to 2. Fullerton yielded five hits, three of which with Wambsganss' error, gave the visitors their two runs in the seventh. The batting of Wambsganss was a feature with a single and two doubles in four times up. Score:

BENTON WINS HIS OWN GAME WITH DOUBLE

Cincinnati, O., July 10.—Benton not only pitched good ball today, but drove in a run with a long two-bagger in the fifth inning, and Cincinnati beat Philadelphia 2 to 1. The visitors' only run was scored in the first inning on a wild throw to the plate by Pinelli. The Reds bunched three hits to tie the score in the fifth, and won in the sixth on two passes by Glazner and a single by Pinelli. The score:

YANKS TAKE TWO AND TIE FOR FIRST PLACE

New York, July 10.—The New York Yankees climbed in the American league race with a double victory over the Chicago White Sox here today. The world's champions won by the scores of 6 to 1 and 18 to 5. The first game was a pitching duel for six innings between Pennock and Connally but the Chicago pitcher weakened in the seventh when New York scored five runs after two were out. Ruth's twenty-third home run of the season was made during this onslaught. The Yankees slugged their way through to an easy victory in the second game, driving out twenty-two hits for a total of 39 bases, a season's record. Hendrick hit a home run with the bases full in the sixth inning of the final contest. Scores:

NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, July 10.—Joseph Perry, middle-aged resident of Broad street extension, Waterford, with his son, William, 18, was taken into custody late yesterday afternoon by Sergeant Edward Gorman, of the Groton state police barracks, and State Policeman Henry Albright, charged with incest upon the former's daughter, Elizabeth, 14. Both were held prisoners at the New London police station over night because they could not obtain a surety on their respective bonds of $5,000 and $1,000. They were presented before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton in the Waterford town court this morning. Probable cause was found and the elder Perry was held in bonds of $2,500 for trial before the next term of the superior court. He furnished a surety on his bond of $2,500 for appearance at that time. The youth was allowed his freedom upon his own recognizance and will be used as a witness for the state when the case comes to trial. The girl is now in the care of an aunt at Niantic on Bilnman street, this city, and will remain there until the trial of her father.

The girl has made a written confession in which she alleges the occurrence of the bestial acts by the father and the youth many times since the death of the girls mother last February, the girl declaring that the father had improper relations with her as often as three or four times weekly.

Another disgraceful case came before the court when a youth and a girl of parents well known in Waterford were on a charge of fornication. Both were held in bonds of $500 for their appearance at the next term of the superior court. Neither of the accused is yet 16.

An automobile owned and operated by Henry Edwards, 20 Hempstead street and a machine owned and driven by Henry Wolfe, 24 Lincoln avenue, were in collision this morning, corner of Williams and Mercer streets; Wolfe's car was damaged.

An automobile, owned and operated by Max Merins, 20 Colt street, and a car owned and operated by Simon Mandell, 8 Goldberg avenue, Norwich, collided this forenoon on Main street, at the corner of Federal street. Merin's car was slightly damaged.

It was ascertained today that the automobile that was in collision at the corner of Montauk avenue and Thames street yesterday with a car owned by George S. Palmer, Pequot avenue, and operated by Christopher Holt, of Gorton street, was owned by George Raynes, Station 7, Waterford.

Patrolman Charles Hammond caught a juvenile bicycle thief late last night. The youth today was turned over to the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield for appearance in the juvenile court Saturday. The wheel was returned to the owner this morning.

Lawrence Kelley, 24, of New London, made his escape from the Norwich State Hospital, Preston, this morning. Kelley is described as about five feet, five inches in height, weighs about 150 pounds, has light hair, blue eyes and when he escaped wore khaki trousers, blue shirt and cap. Another patient, Harry Van Wagner, 29, Norwalk, escaped also. Van Wagner is described as being about five feet, five inches in height and weighs about 140 pounds. He has brown hair, blue eyes and wears glasses. Van Wagner was dressed in grey trousers and white shirt.

John McNeil, Jr., Farnsworth street; Miss Margaret Bellanger, Center street; Mrs. John Gadbois and infant daughter, Niantic, and Mrs. Annie Gurney, Montauk avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

Edward A. Ackley, conservator of Jeanette K. Ackley and Lucy A. Pratt, has sold a house and lot, corner of Pequot avenue and Converse Place, to George K. Howe.

Samuel P. Johnson and Ray Leeds have sold a parcel of land on Ann street to Kenneth H. Holmes.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of Gaspero Guerri, 5 Evergreen avenue, to be suspended. Guerri, who is employed by Dr. Tracy Farnam, Pequot avenue, was recently in charge of a commercial automobile that struck John MacDonald, four years old son of Mr. and Mrs. John MacDonald, 508 Pequot avenue, near the home of the child. The boy died of internal injuries the following day at Lawrence hospital.

Paul Gager, 192 Bayonet street, complained to the police late last night that a burglar was attempting to gain entrance to the Gager house through a rear window. Patrolman George McCaskey was assigned to the complaint, but by the time the officer reached the house the crook had made his escape.

Fortunata Fella completed serving a term in the New London county jail yesterday and today began serving another. Fella is possessed of his own peculiar notions of his duties to his wife and family. He has not supported them in a long time, and seems to entertain the opinion that as he does not work he is relieved of the responsibility he assumed when he married. He has been prosecuted several times for the same offense for which he was sent to jail today—breach of the peace, which consisted of striking his wife a smashing olow in the face. Fella headed for his home when he was released from jail because he was without money and could not get food and a place to sleep without cash. Mrs. Fella shut the doors on him. He insisted on entering and when he got inside, as he admitted in court, just slapped his wife in the face. As she has to work when she is not able to do so, and support four children ranging in age from 4 to 14 years, she would not stand that sort of treatment and called a police officer who put an end to the vacation Fortunata had begun in the morning. Today he was sent back to jail for a stay of thirty days.

Michael Steinberg, of Belden street, was complained of by Mrs. Hochmann, residing in the same street, because Mike had struck her boy, Moe. It was alleged that the man struck the boy without reason and without right. It was a sort of neighborhood row obviously, so the court found Steinberg not guilty. The boys and their parents were warned not to come into the court again if they wanted to escape the penalty of annoying the neighborhood.

Harry Funk, stationed at the coast guard academy, was charged with recklessly operating an automobile and was fined $25. Policeman David Nagle accused Funk and said the motorist was so careless that last night Funk nearly ran him down as the latter was crossing State street from south to north at Bank street. Officer Nagle represented and Funk admitted that the latter did not sound his horn or give any warning that the policeman was in danger. The only excuse Funk could offer was that the street lights were so bright he was confused in seeing past them. That was not considered a reasonable excuse for menacing a man, so the fine was imposed.

The fire department was called out early this morning by an alarm from Box 24, in front of the plant of the Connecticut Power company, Water street. The fire was caused when gas leaking from a pipe connection in the street that was uncovered for repairs, became ignited from a lantern that marked the excavation where the pipe was located. As the flames appeared to be dangerous an alarm was sent in by a watchman. With the arrival of the department the fire was quickly extinguished and without damage.

The pumping apparatus of the city's fire department has received the annual test within the past 48 hours. All the pumpers performed satisfactorily and are ready for any emergency.

John Oscar Tucker, a sailor stationed at the Newport, R. I., training station, and Miss Margaret Hallisey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hallisey, of Green street, were married Tuesday night at the parsonage of the Second Congregational church by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee.

Mrs. Arthur Nelson and Miss Elizabeth Luce are spending a week with friends at Sag Harbor, L. I.

Miss Anita Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Adams, formerly of New London, now of Plainfield, N. J., is being entertained by Miss Adams' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Belcher.

Residents of the southerly end of the city have lodged complaint with Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin because of the large number of men and youths who loiter about the corner of Bank, Shaw and Truman streets, the congregating of the gang making it annoying to pedestrians. The officers on the beats where the loitering has taken place received orders tonight to keep the loiterers moving.

A man whose identity was not revealed fell in a fit on Main street, near the corner of Crystal avenue this afternoon. It was at first believed that he was seriously injured as a result of his fall to the sidewalk and the Lawrence hospital ambulance was summoned, but before the ambulance had left the institution it was decided that the man was not in need of medical attention and the order for the ambulance was countermanded.

Francis J. McManus, 19 Winthrop street, will be in the Groton town court Monday next charged with reckless driving. McManus was taken into custody last week by Capt. Andrew McCarthy, of the Groton police, but when McManus' case was called last Monday the accused failed to appear. A warrant for McManus' arrest was then issued and this afternoon he was located and rearrested. This time McManus was compelled to furnish a surety on his bond of $100 for appearance. Abraham Katz, of this city, qualified as McManus' bondsman.

Everyone who passes the burned Hollandersky building on Bank street, near Pearl, wonders what action is to be taken by the city government to have the structure removed or by the owners to rebuild or reconstruct the unsightly building. It is now being used as a billboard on the principal business thoroughfare of the city.

It was said when the city erected the pier just north of the ferry slip that fishermen would bring their catches to the pier and that residents of New London would be enabled to get their supply of sea food at a reasonable price and that they would not have to hand over big profits to the dealers. But the claim does not hold good. G. M. Long & Co. were driven from the stand that had been a fish market more years than the memory of man runneth back, but now the fishermen are charging just as much for fish as any dealer charges, and the fishermen are not as accommodating as are the dealers and their clerks. When weakfish are selling at the boats for 30 cents a pound and mackerel at 25 cents, as they were today, the fishermen are asking a higher price than are the marketmen. The city should get a goodly rental for the berths the fishermen occupy for their vessels if the same price is to be asked for fish at the dock that is charged in the stores.

Miss Ethel Buckley has returned home after a visit in Rochester, N. Y., and the White Mountains.

Miss Loretta Heavey is spending a few days with friends in Boston.

Howard A. Edgecomb has returned to his home in Groton, having enjoyed a motor trip to Worcester, Mass., and Hartford.

Largest Newspaper

In 1859 there appeared in New York the largest newspaper on record, measured by the size of the sheet. The dimensions were 9 by 6 feet. It was called the "Illustrated Quadruple Castellation," and consisted of eight pages. For eight weeks 40 people were busy with its compilation. It was intended by the founders that a copy should be issued every century.

The Tavern of the Seas

Cape Town is popularly known among maritime men as the Tavern of the Seas, principally because it is the harbor of many strange crafts—probably more than any one port so far off the trans-oceanic paths. Recently a tiny craft arrived after a voyage of 17,000 miles. It was only a 27-ton yacht and was manned by three Danes.

Oldest House in Germany

The oldest dwelling in Germany, possibly the oldest in Tudope, is located in the little hamlet of Winkel, in the valley of the Rhine, and is 1,200 years old.

Apostle Spoons

Genuine old Apostle spoons, very popular in the Sixteenth century as christening gifts, bring very high prices in auction sales nowadays. The largest sum was $24,500 for a set of 13 dating from the time of Henry VIII.

Ripe When Green!

From the standpoint of the harvester, the banana is ripe when it is green, says Nature Magazine. In order that it may withstand the hardships of travel, the fruit is gathered before it begins to take on the tinge of yellow.

This Bird Is Ugly

Among the many curious birds occurring in Africa those conspicuous for their beauty have frequently been pictured. The shoe bill, which is unique in its outward appearance and in its physical characteristics, probably holds the palm for ugliness.—Nature Magazine.

WESTERLY

Business places in Westerly began Thursday to blaze forth in a riot of color, running rampant. Decorators will be busy from now until Saturday morning preparing a silent welcome to the eighteenth annual state encampment of Rhode Island Spanish War Veterans and Auxiliary. The convention hall as the large lettered sign reads over the front entrance, will be the Rhode Island State Armory, Railroad avenue and Dixon streets. The state encampment comes to Westerly this year upon the invitation of Robert Bruckner camp, No. 6, S. W. V., of Westerly.

Department headquarters will be opened in the state armory at 8 o'clock Saturday morning, July 12th, for the registration of attendants, the issuing of credentials and the receipt of encampment badges. The credential committee will be Department Adjutant George A. Swan, Dept. Quartermaster J. S. Tinsley, Dept. Marshal George M. Purdy and Comrades Arthur N. Nash and Herbert E. Taylor, of Robert Bruckner camp, No. 6, of Westerly. The eighteenth encampment will be officially opened at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

Department encampment, Saturday, July 12th, for the entire day will be taken up with the business of the encampment. Saturday night there will be a grand ball in the state armory.

Sunday, July 13th, the forenoon will be given up to sight-seeing. In the afternoon will be held a street parade which will start from the state armory at 2 o'clock. At 2:30 o'clock in Wilcox park will take place the unveiling of the "Hiker" monument.

The Hiker monument memorial movement was begun some time ago in Westerly and the necessary amount was secured by subscriptions, entertainments and from other sources. Some weeks ago the foundations were laid on the east side of Wilcox park, between the Granite and Grove avenue entrances, a commanding sight sight with open, surrounding space to set it off to advantage.

Thursday morning the 10-ton natural granite boulder, eight feet in diameter, with the only cutting to flatten it at the base to rest squarely on the foundation and at the top where the large bronze figure of a Spanish war soldier will be mounted, was brought from the works of the New England Granite Co., on Quarry Hill, and placed in position under the direction of William H. Ledward.

On the bronze tablet fastened to the side of the boulder will appear the inscription.

"To the Soldiers and Sailors who served and to all patriotic men and women who helped defend the nation's honor in the war with Spain. Dedicated July 13, 1924."

In the Sunday parade members of the various camps in Rhode Island who have uniforms have been directed to wear them. The camps will also bring their colors for the parade. It is anticipated that with the large number of guests in the vicinity of Westerly combined with the week end holiday there will be a record breaking attendance not only of delegates and members of the order and their friends, but of the general public as well.

To provide for the women delegates and members who wish to attend the two-day session, canvas cots have been provided in the state armory on Dixon street and for the men at the hall over the Bliven Opera house on Main street.

A good dinner will be served at Majestic hall, Saturday. Robert Bruckner camp will tender a breakfast and dinner to all attending the encampment at the same place Sunday.

Michael A. Sullivan is the Rhode Island department commander, and Geo. A. Swan, R. I. Dept. Adjutant.

The various committees of the encampment are: Auditing, P. C. William G. Laird, Camp 1; P. C. Maurice H. Cook, Camp 4, and P. C. Eugene L. Mason, Camp 1, are hereby appointed auditing committee. They will audit the books of the department and make their report to the encampment. The books of the department adjutant and quartermaster closed on July 3.

Credentials, Dept. Adjutant George A. Swan, Dept. Quartermaster J. S. Tinsley, Dept. Marshal George M. Purdy and Comrades Arthur N. Nash and Herbert E. Taylor.

Reception, P. D. C. William A. Stafford, P. C. Shelby C. Nicholas and Comrade George E. Leonard.

Press, P. D. C. Marshall W. Hall, P. C. Walter M. Baker and Comrade Harry T. Powers are hereby appointed press committee. Past Commander Walter M. Baker is also appointed recording clerk of the encampment.

PLAINFIELD

The B. P. O. E.'s of Plainfield were well represented in Boston Thursday as many members left on an early train to attend the convention. Among those who went from Plainfield were Henry Fontaine, Lester and C. D. Salisbury and Samuel King.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Driscoll and family and Mrs. Wilfred Provost motored to Providence, Thursday. Miss Catherine Driscoll will be treated by a specialist today while in Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Swanson and John Davis motored to Providence and visited friends recently.

A subscriber to the Norwich Bulletin thanked the reporters today for having brought an old acquaintance to hame whom he had not seen for 20 years. This old friend although not living in the state has his Bulletin every morning. Recently he saw in the Plainfield news an item about an old friend visiting the town where he is residing. Through the Norwich Bulletin two old friends were brought together after a lapse of a score of years.

Citizens of the village are aroused over the failure of the town's in handling the mosquito situation. It is next to impossible to remain outdoors after dusk. Around 8 o'clock every evening a swarm of mosquitoes descends on the village from the swamps surrounding the town.

People have been talking of getting a petition to the town officials.

If the town wished it could easily rid the place of such a nuisance by killing off the larvae in the spring.

Friends of Clarence Kingsley who up to a few years ago resided in Plainfield, were surprised to read Thursday that he had recently married Miss Loretta Curran, a Willimantic teacher.

Mrs. William Cantwell and Miss Marion Lee are spending the week end with friends on Block Island.

Joseph Corinoyer, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Corinoyer and family and Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Ballard attended the funeral of Rosanna Lebeau, a relative at Arctic, R. I.

On the Quoit grounds of the S. M. C. was the was great excitement on Tuesday afternoon when the village quoit champions Burke and Gosselin defeated Ashley and Mathewson in a three game match. The champions swamped their rivals by winning the three straight games.

Only in Australia

The bower bird is found only in Australia. His nearest relative in our country is the starling, a black bird with a metallic gloss and with spots of yellowish-white among his feathers. The starling is more friendly than his Australian cousin.—Nature Magazine.

Guard Themselves

When the sunshine is very intense, plants guard against it by either increasing the thickness of their leaves or decreasing their size and number; in the opposite case they increase their leaf surface.

Painted in the Kitchen

Vermeer, the famous Dutch landscape painter of Delft, painted his masterpieces in his kitchen and sold them to buyers who came there.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

LOOK OUT FOR THE LEAF SKELETONIZER

A good many orchards are not yet aware that the leaf skeletonizer is commencing its attack this season, and already in some orchards has caused considerable damage. This insect pest caused tremendous damage to the orchards in this section last year. It works in the manner suggested by its name. The leaf is skelentonized, showing the small veins, but with the intervening sections completely despoiled except for a thin, transparent tissue. The leaf, when noticed, is invariably colored with the outside edges rolled toward the center, showing the reverse side of the leaf. If the worm is still at work, a small, delicate web is found holding the leaf in this rolled position, affording almost complete protection from spray to the yellowish larvae. It is during this larval stage that the destruction of foliage is begun and completed. It is, however necessary to control this pest if the trees are not to be entirely defoliated. In the early part of the larval stage the appearance of the larva is that of a tiny green worm which may be seen on the surface of the leaves. At this time it has not rolled the leaf and may be easily killed by spraying with arsenate of a strength approximately 1 1-2 pounds dry arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water. A single application at the time of the first appearance of this skeentonizer may be sufficient to control. If considerable damage has been done and larvae are present at varying stages of development, several sprays may be necessary before they are controlled.

VARYING SOIL ACIDITY AFFECTS ALFALFA

Farmers who are desirous of adding alfalfa acreage to their crop system may have experienced poor success in the past and still feel confident that they had taken all precautions to insure a good stand. For the benefit of such men, it is well to call attention to the fact that soil on a farm may vary greatly within a distance of several yards as to its acid nature or lime content, even though heavy applications have been made uniformly over the ground. This is due to natural conditions. It has been found repeatedly that certain sections of land receiving two tons to the acre of lime may still show a very acid reaction in spots. It is easy to see that the resultant crop of alfalfa would be very spotty under such conditions.

Once the land has been thoroughly sweetened and well prepared, the next essential for the production of a good alfalfa crop is the selection of some hardy northern grown seed. Alfalfa seed produced in the Dakotas is especially adaptable to climatic conditions where freezing and thawing are of common occurrence throughout the winter.

Before the seed is sown it should be thoroughly inoculated, with bacterial cultures now commonly available in most seed and hardware stores. Acid phosphate in itself is a very good medium for sweetening an acid soil and is also and aid to nitrogen producing plants.

It has been proved many times that when these three factors are sufficiently emphasized a successful crop of alfalfa is assured.

THREE DISEASES THAT DAMAGE GRAPES

In general there are three kinds of disease that bother the grapes and two kinds of insects. The diseases are black-rot, mildew and anthracnose. This latter disease may be identified on the fruit by its dark brown spots with a red border. It also attacks the vine. The mildew looks like a powdery white patch that may be found on the leaves, stem or fruit. The black rot is recognized by finding small black pimples on the fruit. These three diseases may be controled by thorough sprayings of Bordeaux mixtures. The proportion, to use is four pounds of blue vitrol, four pounds of lump lime to 50 gallons of water. In severe cases of any of these diseases it will pay to spray every 10 days until the disease is controled.

The two insects most common on the grapes are the rose chafer and the grape-leaf hopper. It requires a different remedy for each. The former is an eating insect and thus may be controled by poison, while the latter has to be controlled by a contact spray. Where Bordeaux is to be used, the rose chafer may be controled by adding three pounds of dry lead arsenate of lead powder to the 50 gallons of Bordeaux. If just the chafer is troubling the vines, spray should be mixed up as follows: Two quarts of molasses, three pounds of powdered arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water. To control the hopper, add one-fourth pint of nicotine sulphate or black-leaf, 40 to the 50 gallons of Bordeaux, or it may be mixed with 50 gallons of water alone.

ADVISES ON CLEARING POULTRY OF WORMS

This is the time of the year when the mortality is liable to be quite heavy if poultry are infected with intestinal worms. There are a number of ways that they can be controlled, but when once a yard is infested it is difficult to make an actual clean-up and become free of these pests again. These worms lay eggs, they are voided and deposited in the soil. They may live there one, two or three years and then be picked up again by the bird. If meanwhile she has been freed of these intestinal parasites she is again infested as soon as these eggs hatch in the intestinal tract again. For this reason when a plant once becomes badly infested it is best to feed tobacco dust in the dry mash at all times. The proportion to use is two pounds of tobacco dust (that contains 1-1-2 per cent nicotin sulphate) to 100 pounds of the dry mash. The dry mash should be kept in front of the birds at all times until the worms are gotten rid of. It also helps to give epsom salts to the birds about every three weeks. Some poultrymen like to give the salts in the amount of water that the birds will drink up during the day, rather than to make the solution too concentrated. In this way the birds are not purged, but they are cleaned out just the same.
AGRI

FOWL TUBERCULOSIS SOURCE OF TUBERCULOSIS IN SWINE

Field observations by federal veterinary inspectors support the belief of research workers that tuberculosis in poultry is an important source of similar infection among swine. A report submitted to the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture by Dr. Ralph Graham, one of its inspectors, is of particular interest because it indicates how easily avian tuberculosis can be detected.

Inspection of the premises where the hogs originated showed that none of the cattle were infected and that no dairy products from any public creamery had been fed to the swine.

With this possible source of infection eliminated the veterinarians turned their attention to the poultry. Slaughter of a few suspicious looking fowls revealed the presence of avian tuberculosis.

This was the case on more than two-thirds of the premises visited. It is believed by the veterinarians making the inspections that avian tuberculosis could have been located on virtually all of the places visited if it had not been for the practice followed by some of the farmers of killing all chickens that appeared unthrifty.

Route of Storks in Migration.

Some interesting details of the route followed by storks in migration, as ascertained by the well-known investigator, Herr Christian Mortensen, are given by the Danish Ornithological magazine. Between 1901 and 1920, 1,500 storks were ring-marked in Jutland under his auspices, and information was obtained as to 55 of them. They flew southward from Jutland in September, then to the east along the Oder to the western Carpathians, across Hungary to Transylvania, thence to the Sea of Marmora, and probably along the coast lands to Asia Minor and Egypt, and onward to the Transvaal, Natal, and Orange Free State. Their rate of flight during migration is estimated at 15 miles a day on an average. The distance from Jutland to the Orange Free State is about 15,000 miles. These birds remain in the South until the end of January, and then probably return by the same route.

Orange From Asia

The sweet orange is a native of eastern Asia and was carried to India, Asia Minor, and the south of Europe along the Mediterranean. The early navigators of Portugal are supposed to have brought it home from India.—Nature Magazine.

How Bananas Grow

A banana plant produces but one bunch of the fruit, as nature's compensation provision has been made for permitting the plants to grow closely to one another. The banana does not grow in the drooping position of the market display. The tips point upward.—Nature Magazine.

HOPE AND ENCOURAGEMENT

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

There are times when the shocking incompetency and shortsightedness of the rising generation, masculine, tends to make the impartial observer blue. There are other times when the coolly calculating immodesties of the flappers, feminine, increase his blueness.

What is the world coming to? he wonders, when accumulating evidences of the decadence of both manhood and womanhood piles up, like the flotsam before an onrushing deluge?

At such times, he is tempted to despair of the future of the republic, nay, of the whole human race. Who is to do the world's work and who are to serve in its behalf, when the places of present workers are taken by these physical, mental and moral emasculates whose weak faces and simpering affectations are most visible in the ranks of the oncoming generations?

We recall the story, only recently read, of the poor boy who, forty years ago, started in as floor-sweeper in a big Chicago store at $2 a week, and has just been made manager of that same store at $25,000 a year. Or that other story, also recently told, of the sturdy youth who began his railroad career as trackwalker on a one-horse little road, and has risen till he is now president of one of the biggest roads in the west.

Then we wonder where the store managers and the railroad presidents and the other big, doing men of the future are to come from. That's when things begin to look blue for that future. That's when we begin to grow blue, ourselves.

Well, I can't blame anybody for that outlook. But I am sorry for those who find themselves forced into it.

I don't how how true is the hackneyed assertion that nobody ever loves a fat man. But I do know that nobody loves a pessimist and that the pessimist usually ends up by also loving nobody, not even himself. When that state of affairs comes to pass, he isn't having a good time, any more. Nobody can have a good time who lives in an atmosphere of eternal and unmitigated grouchiness.

Therefore I rejoiced greatly at two fresh modern instances which I have just read about in two widely separated newspapers, one published in an eastern and one in a western city. The cause for my rejoicing is that they both seem to suggest that all isn't yet lost; that some of the old stock still survives; that there are still corpuscles of the old blood coursing through some veins; that the old ideals and the old vigor and the old iron will still are to be found in the younger set. For instance:

..There's the story of the boy out in Ohio who lives twenty-five miles from the nearest academy, on a small farm which tries to produce a living by dairying. In order to take a course of special instruction at that twenty-five miles distant academy, this boy gets up long before daylight every morning, milks the cows, does the other "chores" and drives a rickety old flivver to school so as to be there by eight o'clock. He attends to his studies till five p. m., then flivvers back the same twenty-five miles, and does another man's work at the barns. Eh?—Then there's the other story which some of you may have read of the New Hampshire lad who has been travelling every day forty-eight miles and back to win his degree from Harvard, because circumstances forbid his going into residence at Cambridge.

By and by, when these two lads have become successful and honored men, some of their fellows, who now lie in bed till mother calls them to breakfast and who would rather live on somebody else's charity than earn their own way by chopping wood or sweeping out stores or mending railroad tracks——some of these flapdoodles will sneer at them for their "luck." They may even express maudlin sorrow that they never had these two's "chances."

Isn't it enough to make a horse laugh? Or turn a pig's stomach?

"Luck?" "Chances?" These two young men are making their own luck and creating for themselves not "chances" but certainties. The success they attain will be earned, not found nor begged nor stolen. It will come to them, just for the same reason that water runs down hill, because it can't help going that way.

D'ye know, the reading about these two young fellows has chirked me up amazingly. As I understand it, there are forty-eight states in the union,—some bright geography student correct me if I've overlooked any. Only two of the forty-eight,—Ohio and New Hampshire,—are thus far reported from. That leaves forty-six others. It isn't reasonable to suppose that they aren't each as good states as Ohio and New Hampshire. Nor it is reasonable to suppose that the two we're talking about in Ohio and New Hampshire are the only two in those states. There are probably more, not many, but several, who are showing as much spirit, as much "git-up-and-git" as the two mentioned. These two just happen to have got into the papers, that's all. The others haven't yet. But they will. Later on. Where there's smoke there must be fire.

There was that Coolidge lad, young "Cal," up in Vermont, some years ago. He was about the same sort as these two, sticking to his job early and late, doing it the best he knew how, yet always fitting himself to tackle a bigger job when that bigger one came along. We didn't hear anything about him in the papers, those days. Yet he was doing exactly the same thing in exactly the same way, those inglorious days on the Vermont farm, which he has since been doing as governor of Massachusetts and president of the United States. That is, he was doing the work set to his hands with all his strength and all his will. There are others such. There must be.

Suppose there are actually half-a-dozen in each state, half-a-dozen such young fellows, tending to their jobs and fitting themselves for bigger jobs when bigger ones develop. That makes 288 for the whole country. It's a big country, to be sure, but that's a big leaven, too.

If one such youth arrives, by road of the store sweeper-out, at the headship of the big mercantile store, and another arrives, by the road of the track-walker at the presidency of the big railroad, and a third arrives, by the route of the Vermont farm, at the presidency of the United States, what may we not expect from the hypothetical 288 whom we have postulated as the whole country's minimum output?

They are all moving, as these two from New Hampshire and Ohio, of whom we have been talking, by one road or another of steady industry and sharp-sighted vision and sturdy will, towards unknown ends of vast accomplishment.

No people's future is hopeless so long as its numbers include even a few such.

In the days when you and I sat on our low hand-hewed plank benches in the little red schoolhouse, the schoolma'am used to tell us that we each had a chance to become president of the United States,—if only we'd learn to spell right and work out the problems in Colton's Mental Arithmetic. Though I never was so irreverent as to doubt her statements, even in those days I used to think myself that the chance for each individual of us and the other tow-heads in the country was a mighty slim one.

We simply can't all of us be railroad presidents. There have got to be trackwalkers and graders and brakemen and freight agents and engineers We can't all be managers of big stores. There must be some to sweep out and some to open boxes and some to show goods and some to run elevators. We can't all be presidents of the United States, for some of us have got to put in our best licks to pay the taxes which support the president and several hundred thousand other government servants.

You can't make good bread without leaven. It is equally certain that you can't make good bread out of nothing but yeastcakes. Even the best milk isn't all cream. There is a big lot of skim milk left, after the cream has risen to the top.

My point is that, so long as there is any cream at all in the milk, it isn't wise to throw it away. So long as there is any leaven working in the dough, there's hope for the loaf.

If there were only two young men left in the country, one in Ohio and one in New Hampshire, with the self-rising power working in them, the outlook wouldn't be specially rosy. But the fact that we hear about two affords reasonable ground for hoping and believing that there are more, perhaps two or three hundred, as I have previously suggested.

That's enough to keep the mass fermenting, anyway. Enough to keep it sweet; perhaps to leaven it till it's fit for something.

And in that lies the hope for the future.

Sodom was a great and wicked city, yet the Lord would have spared it had there been only ten righteous men found in its walls. We prate overmuch about the sacredness of "majority rule," but the leaders are always a minority. They must be, in the very nature of things. It is always the small edge of the wedge which goes first. The thicker end follows only after the thin end has opened the way. So long as even a few of our youth fight the good fight and maintain the old-time standards, so long we may continue to hold on to hope.

As we grow older, we're most of us inclined to lose courage and minimize every bit of evidence attainable which hope. That's why I'm trying to stress suggests both hope and encouragement.

Star-light is not sun-light, of course. But to wayfarers stumbling uncertainly along an unknown road, even the faint gleam of a few distant stars is better than pitch blackness.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

STOCK PRICES REACTIONARY.

New York, July 10.—Stock prices turned reactionary today but not until after a sensational bullish demonstration had been staged in the public utility shares, 21 of which established new peak prices for the year. Net losses in the standard and industrial issues ranged from one to three points.

While the market letters of most commission houses expressed satisfaction with the democratic national ticket, many observers agreed that it was without apparent effect on the day's price movements. To some, the action of the market indicated that the selection of a conservatice candidate had been discounted and that a period of profit taking was in order.

American Water Works common was again the individual feature, establishing a record high for all time at 118 1-2 and then dropping abruptly to 102 for a net loss of 9 1-2 points on the day. The six per cent. preferred closed three points higher at 97 after touching a record peak at 99. Other outstanding public utility shares were Columbia Gas, United Railways investment common and preferred, Virginia Railway and Power, American Express, West Penn Power, People's Gas and Philadelphia Company, all of which broke through their previous 1924 high prices but failed to maintain their gains.

Publication of the U. S. Steel CCorporation's unfilled tonnage figures for June showed a decrease of 565,582 tons, somewhat smaller than was expected. This inspired a short-lived buying movement in the steel shares and other standard industrials. U. S. Steel common which had reached a new peak on the current movement at 101 1-2 in the early trading eventually fell back to 99 3-4 for a net loss of one point. Baldwin and American Can each closed more than a point lower and Studebaker yielded fractionally.

Further cuts in crude oil and gasoline prices were overshadowed by a sharp decline in crude production for the week ended July 9 and a substantial increase in gasoline consumption, but most of the oil shares reacted in sympathy with the general list. Superior showed independent strength as a result of a federal court decision awarding the company a judgment for $3,500,000 against the Atlantic Refining Company, which is equivalent to nearly $4 a share on Superior's outstanding stock.

Marked heaviness developed in a number of the Tobacco shares, American Tobacco breaking nearly five points and Genaral Cigar, Lorillard and Philip Morris losing 2 to 3 1-2 points.

Losses of a point or more were also quite common in the railroad group, some of the most conspicuous being Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred, Frisco preferred and Seaboard Air Line preferred. Chicago and Eastern Illinois issues showed independent strength.

Call money again ruled at 3 per cent. Time money and commercial paper markets were dull with no change in rates.

Foreign exchange rates improved slightly in reflection of the more hopeful feeling regarding a reparations settlement. Demand sterling advanced 3-4 of a cent to $4.24 1-2 and French francs ruled about five points higher at 5.10 cents.

BOND PRICES FORGE AHEAD.

New York, July 10.—Shaking off early hesitation, bond prices today forged slowly ahead, with high grade issues leading the advance. Independent weakness, however, was shown by a number of speculative rail and industrial liens, giving the market an uneven appearance.

Buying orders today embraced a wide list of high prices, railroad securities, including Southern Pacific 5s and Delaware and Hudson refunding 4s, both of which advanced a point. Public Service Corporation of New Jersey 9s and western Union 6 1-2 were active and higher.

Profit taking, however, reduced the gains of public utility obligations, as stocks of these companies failed to maintain the strength which characterized their early dealings. Losses of one to two points were recorded by Northwestern Bell Telephone 4s, Interborough refunding 5s stamped, Seaboard refunding 4s, Wilson convertible 6s and Hershey 6s.

The improved tone in the investment market was reflected in the ready subscription of new bond issues which were offered today, although the volume was not large.

THE CURB MARKET.

New York, July 10.—Prices of curb stocks reacted in sympathy with the decline on the "big board" in today's relatively quiet market. While a sharp decline in Crude Oil production and a heavy increase in gasoline consumption were widely believed to have more than offset additional crude price cuts, oil shares sold off with the general list, but with the exception of a three point drop in Prairie Oil and Gas, the net losses were relatively small.

A three point gain in National Tea was one of the features of the industrial list. Lehigh Power securities touched a new top at 83 and then fell back a point while Commonwealth Power sagged from 100 to 98 3-4, off 1-4 on the day.

Durant Motors dropped more than a point to 16 7-8. Radio shares declined fractionally. Chief interest in the mining group was again confined to the penny shares, which showed mixed price changes.

CRITICAL CROP CONDITIONS IN CANADIAN NORTHWEST

Chicago, July 10.—Critical crop conditions in the Canadian northwest, the result of hot winds and drought, gave an upward swing to the wheat market today after an early decline. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 1-2 to 7-8c net higher, September 116 to 116 1-8 and December 118 to 118 1-8 with corn ranging from 1 1-4c down to 3-8c up. Oats at 5-8@3-4 cents off to 1-4c advance, and provisions unchanged to 32 cents higher.

At first, the government crop report was the chief factor in the wheat trade, and selling was general, the report being general construed as bearish. Aggressive buying developed on the declines in price, however, and with the Winnipeg market showing decided strength a quick advance here ensued.

Great dearth of moisture was reported in Northern and Central Saskatchewan and Alberta, and it was said, that recent rains elsewhere in the Canadian wheat belt had fallen where least needed. In this connection, too, messages from Calgary said damage from hot winds was so severe that crop insurance had been cancelled as no longer of any use.

Warm, sunshiny weather today and indications of considerable improvement in the corn crop outlook this week formed something of an offset for the extremely bullish character of the government report on corn All deliveries of corn, nevertheless, touched new high price records for the season, despite heavy profit taking on the part of holders. Cash demand remained brisk.

Walton Ferguson of Stamford, who died April 7, 1922, left an estate appraised at $4,908,476, which he willed should be divided between his wife, Mrs. Julia Ferguson; his sons, Walton, Alfred L., and Henry L. Ferguson, and his two daughters, Miss Helen Ferguson and Mrs. Grace C. Dater. Mr. Ferguson was the owner of Fishers Island, N. Y., in 1880 with his brother, E. M. Ferguson. The island is nine miles long, three miles of which they sold to the United States government for use as an army reservation, at present known as Fort H. G. Wright. They also sold from time to time, small tracts on the east end to individuals for summer estates. Alma Gluck, the prima donna, and her husband, Zimbalist, of New York, were among the purchasers. However, more than half the island belongs to the estate today.

Mrs. Ferguson was president of the First National Bank of Stamford at the time of his death. He was formerly associated with Henry C. Frick.

The Ferguson summer home on the island is one of the picture places on Long Island sound and is occupied each season by members of the family. This summer Mrs. Ferguson has her two sons with her and one daughter, Miss Helen Ferguson.

An architect of Auckland, New Zealand, has designed a theater with disappearing shops incorporated in its front elevation. The shops, opening on the street during the day, would at night be lowered bodily into the basement, leaving their roofs to form part of the floor of the vestibule of the theater.

SUMMER SLUMP IN EMPLOYMENT IN STATE

A decided slump in the employment situation in the state is indicated in the report of the operation of the state's five free employment bureaus for the month of June, just issued from Hartford. The report shows that 61.8 percent of all applicants for employment were supplied with situations during the month as compared with 74.4 percent during the preceding month. Of the male applicants 56.7 percent were furnished with situations against 73.9 percent during May, while but 68.8 percent of female applicants found employment as against 80.8 percent during May. Applicants for help were supplied in the same ratio as during May, the figures showing 89.4 percent furnished with help during June as against 89.5 percent during May.

He who lives for himself and self alone is a successful failure.

U. S. SAVED MILLION BUYING OWN SECURITIES

Washington, July 10—Official figures on the operation of the sinking fund made public today by the treasury show that the government saved more than $1,000,000 in buying back its own securities in the year ending June 30.

BROADWAY THEATRE

The great double week end show presented at the Broadway theatre yesterday more than came up to all expectations.

The acts in order of their appearance all of which scored big were as follows:

Gene Martini is an accordeon virtuoso who offered an accordeon recital. He goes from jazz to the classical with a bit of descriptive melody in between.

A real funny and classy Italian comedy skit was offered by Routtine and Barrette entitled Marinee. On the Links. This bright skit kept all in good humor.

Will and Gladys Ahern carried off individual honors with their oddity A Spinning Romance. It is a combination of rope spinning, songs and talk.

Alma Mater Marie and Co., closed the bill. This clever company of five people offered a delightful comedy romance interspersed with song and dance.

On the screen we saw Week End Husbands. It is more than big entertainment that will keep you enthralled throughout—it is more than keen-edged drama that will thrill you every moment—it is more than splendid picture production, wonderfully cast and elaborately presented.

Palace Theatre

There is now being shown at the Palace theatre, a picture of so unusual a plot and so excellent a treatment, that it is hard to reduce it to the ordinary critical formulas. That production is Poisoned Paradise, the latest release by Preferred Pictures Corporation.

How this strange story is worked out to the satisfaction of the audience we shall leave as part of your treat when you see the picture. As an extra recommendation, however, we shall add that there is a cast which merits the attention of everyone who likes first class acting. Kenneth Harlan as the Englishman gives a thoroughly eloquent performance as does little Clara Bow who in a brief year before the camera establishes herself as one of the finest screen actresses we have.

A plot of the first order, a cast that leaves nothing to be desired, and situations that make you forget you are sitting and watching pantomimic puppets racing across the silver screen, are the things that make The Tie That Binds, which opened yesterday at the Palace theater, entertainment with a quality bound to please the most fastidious.

Extra added attraction new story of the Telephone Girl with bewitching Alberta Vaughn.

No advance in prices.

Educational Film Comins to the Breed

Men and women together will not be admitted to see the motion picture, Some Wild Oats, which is coming to the Breed theatre on Sunday. The reason for separate shows is due to the delicate subject and scenes which are frank and do not hesitate in calling "a spade a spade." It tells everything and shows everything, yet it is done so well that it does not offend its audience.

Arrangements will be made for special shows and reels for women, only and special shows and reels for men only. No children under sixteen years of age will be admitted.

Some Wild Oats is a film that should be seen by everybody. It is a film that bares the dangers and snares that beset young men and young women who stand on the threshold of life, with everything to learn and no experience to guide them.

The picture has a tremendous appeal to women. As Dr. Fronczak, Commissioner of Health of Buffalo, said at the private showing of the film: "Not only should every father take his son to see this picture, but every mother in the city as well, should bring her daughter. I have never seen a film which bared the dangers of sex indulgence in so inoffensive and so comprehensive a way."

The picture deals with the terrible results of immorality, but the story is told so vividly and is so well acted that it becomes one of the most interesting screen pictures ever seen. Willian Jefferson, a son of the late Joe Jefferson, has the leading part, and he is supported by a company of unusual excellence. It relates the adventures of a country boy in a great city who is about to join the navy. Another young man, who has become tainted by immorality, takes him in hand and shows him the danger that follows association with people of the underworld. He is saved, but not until he has had plenty of experience in the dance halls, the cheaper cabarets and other resorts of questionable character.

Never before in the history of motion pictures has a film caused as great interest and sensation in Chicago as Some Wild Oats where it was shown for four months at the Barbee Loop theatre, breaking all records of attendance for a motion picture. This photoplay has had similar success in Milwaukee, Buffalo, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha. In each of these cities it was endorsed by the local officials.

A great many women do garden work because they like to, and a great many because they have to. It's healthy work No one denies that. It can be beautifying too, if you'll make it so.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Closed Car Have Changed Motoring Habits

The coming of the closed car has brought about some widespread changes in motoring. With the open car, partly on account of the dust that was picked up, but more from remembrance of way side repairs that were characteristic of the cars of a few years back, motorists got into the habit of wearing any old clothes in the car. The whole motoring world heaves a sigh of relief that automobiling has now become a pastime of well dressed people. Milady drives to tea or Mah Jongg in moire silks; the man of the family has enough confidence to trust his best suit to the family sedan.

The rules for car washing as given by the manufacturers of the famous Mobo auto soap are few and simple. Plenty of water, two sponges, a hose if you have it, and a good mild auto soap, such as Mobo. First flush off any dirt with clear water. Then, with a solution of Mobo auto soap and water go over every part of the car thoroughly with a sponge. One sponge should be used for the body and the other for running gear. Then, flush off soapy solution and finally, rub down the varnish surface dry with a chamois.

If these car washing instructions are religiously adhered to new cars will retain their factory finish for an indefinite period and old cars will soon become well-appearing.

BROADWAY THEATRE

The Broadway theatre presents Daughters of Today, which has created a sensation in the film world and wherever shown has broken all records both for public comment and the size of the crowds attracted to the theatres, according to the newspaper clippings and the film magazines, and regarding which there is already much comment in Norwich.

Described as A Slice of Life Today, Daughters of Today deals with the problem of every American mother and father. Are the girls worse than the boys? Where are the young men and women of today drifting? How many parents know the company their children keep? Whose fault is it when tragedy stalks into the home?

Though the play has wild youth, romance, tragedy and thrilling heart interest, its greatest strength is said to lie in the fact that everyone see himself or herself reflected on the screen, for the story is one of life in every community today. The film has a large cast headed by Patsy Ruth Miller, Ralph Graves and Zazu Pitts.

Double Feature Program at the Breed

Advance notices of Buster Keaton's new Metro feature, Sherlock Jr., declared it to be the most original comedy ever made. This production opened yesterday at the Breed theatre and entirely bore out the claims made for it—Sherlock Jr. is truly "something new under the sun." Never has such a delightful combination of slapstick and fun been put together in any theatrical medium, stage or screen.

The picture kept the audience in stitches from the opening scene to the final fadeout as Buster trudged and scampered across the screen, with a face as long as an eight-day clock. Keaton has outdone his work in Our Hospitality, which, by the way, was one of the cleverest satires on American life in the early eighties that has ever been made.

In the second feature nothing seems more appropriate than a ringside background for Charles Jones. The tall bread and square-jawed, star seems to fit adequately a pugilistic setting. This is provided for him in Big Dan, whose titular role he takes modestly.

Dan receives a patrimony of a gymnasium and a training camp, all the worldly possessions left behind by his famous pugilist father. Upon returning from service in France, Dan finds that his wife has deserted him. He transforms his country training camp into an outdoor school for boys. Tired of coaching prize-fighters, he remains at his training camp, drowning his sorrow in work. He does not hear from his wife, Nellie.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

A Visit With the Wrens

You remember in the last story that the two little rabbits had stopped to listen to Johnny Wren as he sat on the Old Rail Fence, singing to his pretty mate in her nest.

Pretty soon the kind old gentleman rabbit whispered, "We must be going," and he tried to start up the Luckymobile without making a noise. But, dearest me and dearest you, the Luckymobile gave a loud kerchoo.

At once Johnny Wren stopped singing, and little Jenny Wren looked out of her wooden house in the Old Rail

Please keep on with your song.

Post.

"Beg pardon," apologized kind, polite Uncle Lucky, "I'm sorry. Please keep on with your song."

"Let's talk a while, instead," answered Jenny Wren. "Johnny must be tired. He has been singing all the morning to keep me contented."

"Maybe I'll rest a while," agreed Johnny Wren. "Not that I'm tired singing to Jenny, but we had a long journey up from the sunshiny south, —over a thousand miles."

"Goodness gracious meabual!" almost shouted dear Uncle Lucky. "Some distance. You'd better let me motor you down this fall in my car. It will save you getting wing-weary."

"That's very kind of you," said Jenny Wren. "But we make the trip rather easily. We don't hurry through like some birds. We make visits on the way."

"Your feather dress always looks so new in the spring," chimed in Little Jack Rabbit, who up to this time had been listening quietly like a good bunny boy.

"We always get new suits on the way up from the south," answered Jenny Wren, with a smile. "It is brown and gray, much like your own, little rabbit, only it is made of feathers instead of fur."

"So is is," agreed the bunny boy. "I think it is very pretty. Then, too, Hungry Hawk can't see you so plainly. You seem almost part of the foliage at times."

"Some wise little bunny, eh!" chuckled the old gentleman rabbit. "But, goodness gracious meabual We mustn't sit here all morning. I just stopped to listen to Johnny's pretty song. We must be going," and lifting his old wedding stovepipe hat polite Uncle Lucky started off in his Luckymobile.

By and by, after a while and bump and a smile, but more than a mile, they saw a standpost on which a sign was fastened.

"This way to Carrot City."

"Other road to Lettucemere."

"Which shall we go?" asked the

TAFTVILLE

Mrs. Alfred Linderson of North Third Avenue has been spending this week at her summer home in North Stonington.

The Aowakiya Camp Fire Girls held their regular weekly meeting in the parlors of the Taftville Congregational Church. An interesting program, planned by the guardian, Mrs. E. Tracy Clark and the Assistant Guardian Miss Elsie Heap, was carried out.

The big catalpa tree at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lambert of North B Street, is covered with a mass of white blossoms.

John Panek of North Third Avenue has been a recent visitor in Hartford driving back a new sedan that he recently purchased.

Lisbon Pond is proving an attraction for many of the youngsters of the village, who know how to find relief from the present hot weather. Many also go to Mohegan Park daily, via the Taftville entrance for a dip in the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pekos and family have taken a house on Terrace Avenue.

Arthur Bickmore of New Haven, Ct., was a business caller in the village Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Emerson and children, Mary and Jeanette and Mrs. William Emerson and daughter, Margaret, of Lisbon, have been recent visitors at Oakland Beach, R. I., making the trip by motor.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Wilenski have moved to the village and have taken a house on Norwich avenue.

The committee in charge of the annual picnic of the Taftville Congregational church school has announced that the date of that event this year will be August 16th. As in former years, the picnic will be held at Ocean Beach, the trip to be made by special trolley. Although, always held in July the date has been changed this year as members of the Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls will be in camp this month.

Henry Couture is spending several days in New York City.

Matthew J. Hatton of Providence, R. I., called on friends in the village, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse C. White and son James of Pratte Avenue are to leave this week for a motor trip to Canada.

The rose gardens at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Heinrich of North A Street are being admired by all who see them. Several varieties of roses and ramblers are in full bloom, making the place one of the beauty spots of the village.

William H. Whitehead of Boswell avenue has been a recent visitor in Groton.

Wilson D. Theroux of Norwich was a caller in town Thursday.

THAMES TEXTILE CO. BEGINNING BUSINESS IN NORWICH LOCATION

A new Norwich corporation that begins business with expectation of orders to kepe it going day and night for months has begun business in this city and is located in the No. 1 mill building of the Shetucket mill property in Gregneville that is now owned by the Atlantic Carton Corporation

The new concern is the Thames Textile Co., a corporation capitalized at $50,000, with Arthur S. Cowan of Hyde Park, Mass., as president, Harold A. Johnson as treasurer and general manager and Thomas J. Gifford of New York as sales manager. Mr Johnson will be the resident officer of the company, but has not yet established his residence here.

The concern has been in operation about a month and in that time has put in two looms which are operating with auxiliary machinery. Orders have been placed for more looms, which it is expected will be received in about two weeks, and when these have been installed the plant will be operated with a day and night shift. The line of manufacture is drapery and novelty textiles in combinations of cotton, woolen and silk.

All the officers of the company are practical textile men. General Manager Johnson is a graduate of a textile school and for eleven years was with Brainard & Armstrong of New New London, part of the time as assistant superintendent of the weaving department. For a number of years also he has been with the Crompton & KKnowles loom works of Worcester, Mass., the largest fancy loom manufacturers in the world. President Cowan is likewise a man of large practical experience in the textile world, and sales manager Gifford is with the Turner Halsey Co., of New York city, who are the exclusive selling agents for the Thames Textile Co.

CORONER FINDS WM. H. HOLT DIED FROM ALCOHOLISM
(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, July 110—An inquest was conducted this afternoon at the police station by Coroner J. J. Desmond, Norwich, to determine whether William N. Holt, New London printer, who was found dead by the police in the yard of Joseph Gowartsky, 25 Douglass street, late last night, was a victim of foul play. With the conclusion of the exaxmination of the witnesses, about a dozen, Coroner Desmond rendered a finding that Holt died from acute alcoholism. The witnesses, including Gowartsky, George Bates (colored) Wilch Ustash and Louis Schnosky, all told how Holt visited the Gowartsky house during the late afternoon and evening, the gathering indulging in liquor, which was of the hooch variety and was obtained by Bates and Ustash at a North Bank street store. After imbibing much of the liquor several hours, Holt, who had been on a spree six or eight weeks went to a lounge where he apparently fell asleep. When an attempt was made to arouse Holt it was found that he was dead. The body was taken from the house and deposited upon the ground near a stairway leading to the residence of Gowartsky. The police were then notified and after an investigation held Gowartsky, Bates, Ustash and Schnosky pending the inquest. The quartette were liberated late this afternoon as Coroner Desmond could find nothing criminal upon which to hold the four companions of Holt.

Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin, however, took a hand in the case this afternoon, when he was furnished with a statement made by Bates and Ustash that the liquor that was supplied the party was purchased by them at the North Bank street store, which is conducted by Morris Lubchansky. Prosecutor Cronin issued a warrant for the arrest of Lubchansky and a search warrant whereby the place was overhauled by a squad of officers in charge of Sergeant Nelson Smith. Lubchansky was found in the place and was taken into custody. He was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $500 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. A small quantity of liquor was seized at the place and will be used as evidence against the accused.

CORONER'S AUTO SKIDS AND TURNS OVER

Coroner J. J. Desmond was the victim of an unusual automobile accident Thursday afternoon when his Buick touring car skidded and turned over on the Norwich-New London highway. The coroner came out of it unhurt but the machine had two wheels broken and the top crushed.

Mr. Desmond was driving towards this city, traveling on a dry portion of the road near the witch hazel mill crossing, when he suddenly came onto an oily surface that had been wet down by rain, this being the southern limit of the rail storm. As soon as he reached the wet road, his machine skidded, turned around, and shot off to a bank at the side of the road that turned it over so that it lay with all four wheels in the air. The coroner stayed at the wheel throughout and when he crawled from under the machine was brought to this city by a man who drove along at that time.

Before they had left the place, another machine, a closed car filled with passengers, came along and performed similar evolutions to the coroner's but without turning over. A little later a Norwich man in an Essex coach, who was returning from New London where he had just secured his driver's license, skidded around near the same spot.

RUBE COSTUME FOR ELKS IN BOSTON PARADE

Norwich Elks were prepared to make a hit in Boston when they left here Thursday morning at 8 o'clock by special train to take part in the big B. P. O. E. parade. They had rube costumes consisting of a long, yellow duster, big straw hat, carpet bag and red bandana handkerchiefs. The party numbered about 200, including the ladies. The Elks' band, directed by John M. Swahn, and costumed as well, furnished enlivening music for the trip. The party was expected to arrive home about 3 o'clock this (Friday) morning.

GRACE CHURCH AUXILIARY HELD PICNIC AT PARK

Under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, a delightful outing was held Wednesday evening at Mohegan park. The thirty-five or more attending were conveyed to the park in automobiles. The party included members and their husbands, also the church rector, Rev. Robert B. Day.

At 6.30 o'clock an appetizing supper of baked beans, cold meats, lettuce, potato and cabbage salad, rolls, pickles, cake and coffee was served by the committee in charge. Mrs. Charles Kimball was chairman, Mrs. John Hart, Mrs. George Fraser. The tables were attractively decorated with Dorothy Perkins and red rambler roses.

Following the supper a variety of different games provided diversion.

Drove With Lights in Rain.

While driving through Quaker Hill Thursday afternoon during the rain storm, the rain was so dense and the atmosphere so dark that automobilists turned on their lights as a measure of precaution.

PORTSMOUTH OFFICER WILL GET BACK HIS AUTOMOBILE

The automobile that was stolen from Portsmouth, N. H., Sunday night by the four men who escaped from the naval prison and were caught in Groton in the machine has been handed over by the Norwich police to the naval authorities at the submarine base. It will be secured from there by the naval officer at Portsmouth to whom it belongs.

FUNERAL.
Mrs. William T. Mallinson

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the funeral services held for Mrs. William T. Millison Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock from her late home at 24 Baltic street, and a wealth of beautiful floral forms were sent by loving relatives and friends.

The service was conducted by Rev. Dixoxn A. Brown, pastor of the A. M. E. Zion church who was assisted by Rev. St. Claire Grimstead of New London, Rev. G. G. McGee, pastor of Mt. Calvary Baptist church and Rev. Mr. Dennis of Hudson, N. Y. During the service a quartette comprising, Mrs. David Hall, Jr., Mrs. Charles Hall, Mrs. Lee Hughes and Prof. William E. Geary sang the following selections, Nearer, My God, To Thee, It is Well With My Soul, I Must Tell Jesus and Asleep in Jesus.

Burial was in the family lot in Maplewood cemetery where the committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Dennis and benediction pronounced by Rev. Mr. Grimstead. The bearers were John Harris, obert Johnson, William Fields, Peter Parris, John Reeves and James Hackley.

Arrangements were by Cummings and Ring.

Rio Janeiro, July 10—The government officially announced today that it was concentrating troops from the states of Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo and Minas Geraes, in connection with the outbreak in the city of Sao Paulo.

REPORT THERMOS IN $4,000,000 MERGER

Merger of the Icy Hot Bottle company, of Cincinnati, and the American Thermos Bottle cmopany, of New York, was under way in New York, Thursday, according to a story published in Cincinnati.

A group of Cincinnati bankers and financiers are said to be interested in the deal, which will bring together two of the largest and oldest manufacturers of vacuum bottles in the United States. The combined assets of the two companies would be about $4,000,000, it was said.

None of the officials of the Thermos Co., which has its factory here and officers in New York, could be located Thursday night to confirm or deny the report.

MAKES FINDINGS IN THREE LITCHFIELD COUNTY CASES

Winsted, Conn., July 10.—Findings in three Litchfield county fatalities were made today by Coroner S. A. Herman.

John Partyka, of New Britain, is found criminally responsible for the death of John Ryan, of New Britain, who was killed in an accident to an automobile May 5 at Norfolk. Three others in the machine, which was driven by Partyka, were seriously injured. The coroner says the car was stolen in New Britain May 4 from Charles A. Parsons. Partyka has been in Litchfield jail since the accident without bail charged with manslaughter.

Carl C. Jestersen, of Winsted, is absolved from blame for the death of Alice A. Bensiee, 11, who was struck by Jestersen's machine here June 16. Raymond F. Russell, of Pittsfield, Mass., operator of a truck which killed William Gorman, of Ashley Falls, Mass., at Canaan, Conn., May 29, is exonerated from criminal responsibility. The finding says Gorman was intoxicated and walked into the path of the truck.

APPOINTMENTS TO POWER ADVISORY BOARD

Harrisburg, Pa., July 10.—Appointment of sixteen educators, publicists and engineers to the giant power advisory board of which Major General William Crozier, Washington, D. C., former chief of the ordinance department of the United States army, is chairman, was announced today at Governor Pinchot's office. The board will be asked to pass upon the final report of the giant power survey before it is submitted to the Pennsylvania legislature.

Appointees announced today included: Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university; William Allen White, Emporia, Kas.; John R. Freeman, Providence, R. I.; Raymond B. Stevens, Landaff, N. H.; Professor Henry S. Graves, of the forestry school of Yale university; Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams college, Williamstown, Mass.

FINDS FOURTH OF JULY DEATH ACCIDENTAL

Bridgeport, Conn., July 10.—Coroner Phelan returned a finding of accidental death today in the case of Milton Willis, 19, of Brookfield, killed by the accidental discharge of a gun July 4. Willis was about to hand the gun to Edward Wilcox, 14, when it was discharged.

UNFILLED ORDERS OF U. S. STEEL CORP.

New York, July 10.—A decline of 365,584 tons in unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation in June compared with the preceding month, was shown in figures made public today, placing the total at the end of the month at 3,262,505 tons, the smallest reported in 13 years.

On May 31, 1911, the amount was 3,118,187 tons. The decrease in June, however, was 214,774 tons smaller than the drop reported for May. Unfinished business on June 30 last year was 6,386,261 tons, a falling off in tonnage within a year of about 50 per cent.

GYPSY MOTH QUARANTINE EXTENDS TO THIS COUNTRY

The quarantine against the gypsy moth in this state is to be extended to conform to the federal quarantine it was decided at a hearing before the officers of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station held at the capitol. The quarantine will affect nursery stock, forest products such as Christmas trees, lumber, telephone poles, railroad ties and cord wood. The extension will take in the following towns.

All towns in Hartford, Tolland, New London, Windham and Middlesex counties: Barkhamsted, Canaan, Colebrook, Cromwell, Goshen, Harwinton, Litchfield, New Hartford, Norfolk, North Canaan, Plymouth, Salisbury Thomaston, Torrington, Winchester, Branford, Meriden, North Branford, North Haven, Wallingford, Waterbury and Wolcott.

Those attending the hearing were: Director W. L. Slate, Jr., Dr. C. O. Britton and John T. Ashford of the experiment station; D R. Rogers of Boston, representing the federal authorities; F. G. Brubaker of Cheshire; W. W. McCartney of New Haven and F. J. Rippon of Manchester.

FRENCH SENATE VOTES CONFIDENCE IN HERRIOT

Action Followed Premier's Statement Before Upper House That the Role of His Government Was to Re-establish Cordial Relations With Great Britain—Senator Dausset Declares Dawes Plan Reduces Germany's Debt to Allies and That France is Justified in Asking Reduction of Her Inter-Allied War Debt —Premier Herriot Stated He Was Powerless on Question of War Debts.

Paris, July 11.—The French senate today by a vote of 246 to 18 expressed its confidence in Premier Herriot after the premier had stated before the upper house that the role of his government was to re-establish cordial relations with Great Britain.

SAYS DAWES' PLAN WILL REDUCE GERMANY'S DEBT

Paris, July 11.—(By the A. P.)—The joint text drawn up in Paris by Prime Minister Macdonald and Premier Herriot during their interview in connection with the inter-allied London conference represents all the progress that has been made up to the present toward an accord between France and Great Britain, the French premier declared before the senate today, explaining his negotiations with the British prime minister. He said that the Chequers interview bound neither country.

Replying to interpellations concerning Mr. Macdonald's declaration in the house of commons yesterday on the inter-allied debts, Mr. Herriot repeated the substance of the Chequers conversation which was confirmed in the joint text of the Paris interview. In the course of which Mrn Macdonald agreed that both governments should study the question in a spirit of equity.

Senator Dausset, who preceded M. Herriott, declared that the Dawes plan surely reduced Germany's debt to the allies and that France consequently was justified in asking a reduction of her inter-allied war debts. He asked the premier if he was taking steps in that direction and also whether he had in view an early funding of the war debts without which the stability of French currency was impossible.

AMERICAN OBSERVER HAS ARRIVED IN LONDON

London, July 11—(By the A. P.)—The American preliminaries for the inter-allied conference which is to discuss means for making the experts' reparations plan effective, began with the arrival from Paris tonight of Colonel James A. Logan, the American observer of the reparation commission. He is the guest of Ambassador Kellogg of Crew House, and had a two hour discussion with the ambassador soon after his arrival.

Mr. Kellogg hopes to have Colonel Logan sit beside him at the conference table throughout the sessions, and the British are planning to make this arrangement for the ambassador and his adviser.

Owen D. Young, who helped to draw up the experts' report, is expected to arrive from New York in time for the opening of the conference, July 16. Although his presence will be entirely unofficial it is expected that he will be asked to take an important administrative position if the conference agrees upon a method of putting the new reparations scheme into effect.

TREASURY HALTS SALES OF CETIFICATES AND STAMPS

Washington, July 11.—The treasury today ordered suspended all sales of treasury savings certificates and stamps effective July 15. Acting Secretary Winston said the present money market did not warrant the treasury paying 4 1-2 per cent. interest on the savings securities when money may be obtained at much lower interest.

Further sale of certificates will be held in abeyance until conditions have changed. Call money was quoted at two per cent. in the New York market yesterday and it was recalled at the treasury that the last issue of treasury certificates of indebtedness was floated at a rate of 2 3-4 per cent. The savings certificates bear 4 1-4 percent compounded semi-annually over a period of five years.

More than $4,000,000 in treasury certificates are now outstanding. The last sales—in the form of war savings stamps—were made in 1918, but none have been retired and each subsequent year has seen a new issue. Almost $1,100,000,000 of the new issue of 1924 have been sold.

Sale of the certificates was suspended in 18 states last February 2 on account of the financial condition in some of the northwest sections. Objection then was raised to the federal government continuing to take money out of areas where banks were failing and conditions generally regarded as poor.

RUM PIRATES BOARD ANOTHER LIQUOR CRAFT

New York, July 11.—Following the report from Halifax that the French steamship Mulhouse was boarded off the New Jersey coast two weeks ago, by rum pirates who took a cargo of liquor valued at $500,000, prohibition officials here today received word that a second ship also was boarded by pirates who killed the captain and threw his body overboard. The identity of the steamship was not revealed, but it was said to be also of foreign registry.

The raids were directed by one of the biggest bootleggers in this country, according to the report, in retaliation for the cutting of rum prices by the foreign ships. The liquor seized in the raids was thought to New York for marketing, said the report. The seizure on the second ship was said to have consisted of whiskeys, brandies and cordials valued at more than $250,000.

French consular authorities at Halifax are investigating the raid reported by Captain Ferrene of the Mulhouse, which put into Halifax Tuesday.

EFFORT TO SOLVE PROBLEM OF DESERTION

Portsmouth, N. H., July 11—Prisoners in the Portsmouth naval prison were called upon today by Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur, to furnish material to assist in solving the problem of desertion, the largest single factor in sending sailors to naval prisons. The occasion was a visit of inspection of the navy yard and prison by Secretary Wilbur, who left the presidential party after the funeral of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., at Plymouth, Vt., yesterday to come here.

Addressing the 400 prisoners in the mess hall, Secretary Wilbur asked two questions: the first "Why did you join the navy?" and the second "Why did you leave the navy?" Each prisoner was asked to write out his answer, the material thus obtained to be used in an effort to decrease the number of desertions.

FACES CHARGE OF APPROPRIATING FUNDS

New Haven, July 11.—A continuance was granted today in the case of Fred C. Clapp, 28, of Springfield, when he was arraigned in city court, charged with embezzlement. The local detective bureau wishes additional time to investigate the case. According to the police, Clapp is alleged to have appropriated funds of Leon Bunnell, a trucker of New Haven. Clapp was arrested yesterday in Springfield.

"LIFER" AT WETHERSFIELD IS DECLARED INSANE

Hartford, July 11.—Mrs. Amy E. Archer Gilligan, serving a life sentence at the state prison for murder, has been declared insane and a request has been forwarded to Governor Templeton by Warden H. K. W. Scott, for her temporary commitment to the state hospital for the insane at Middletown. Her mental trouble is of a peculiar nature, and the request for removal to the hospital was made after an examination by Dr. Percy B. Battel, physician at the prison and Dr. Frederick T. Simpson, consulting physician in insanity.

Mrs. Gilligan, who was sentenced to imprisonment for life by Judge John E. Keeler, in 1919, after one of the most sensational criminal trials in the history of the state, has been a model prisoner until about two weeks ago, prison officials said last night. Since then she has been a disturbing element in the ward and has been so troublesome that examination of her mental condition was considered necessary.

The prisoner appeared to be unwilling to do anything she has been requested to do. Matrons said that she acted as though she would not try to understand what was requested of her. At no time has the prisoner been violent, officials say. Dr. Simpson said that she apparently is suffering from a mild form of temporary insanity.

The request made to the governor for her removal asks that she be transferred to the hospital for the insane for a temporary commitment at that institution until the temporary insanity has passed.

ABANDON WESTBORO AND MARLBORO TROLLEY LINE

Worcester, Mass., July 11.—Manager Page of the Worcester Consolidated Street Railway company announced today that beginning Sunday the company will abandon the operation of the West boro and Marlboro line and that part of the Worcester and Auburn line from Auburn village to Oxford town line. In doing this Mr. Page says the company will save a profitless mileage of about 225 car miles a day. Several men who are now operating one-man cars on the two lines will be laid off.

As to other suburban lines the abandonment of which has been under consideration stated that no decision had been reached as to their future. The company claims today's action is the result of continual wage boosts.

HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR DEATH OF HIS FATHER

Greenwich, Conn., July 11.—Louis Berman, of Portchester, N. Y., who was found responsible by the coroner, for the death of his father, Herman Berman, fatally hurt when a car driven by the son was in collision with the car of S. J. Baroff of New York city, here two months ago, was today held for the superior court by Judge James R. Mead on a charge of manslaughter. Bonds were fixed at $3,000. Baroff who is president of the International Labor Union Bank of New York, was exonerated from blame by Coroner John J. Phelan, who investigated the collision.

MAY RAISE LEGATIONS AT PEKING TO EMBASSIES

London, July 11.—An exchange of views between Washington and London regarding the raising of the British and American legations at Peking to embassies as the result of soviet Russia's decision to appoint a full, fledged ambassador to China has not brought a definite understanding on the question. It is stated the British are disinclined to change the Peking legation to an embassy despite the diplomatic precedence the soviet ambassador would have over the British minister.

If Japan decides to follow the lead of Russia and raise the Japanese legation at Peking to embassy status it is believed the British authorities are likely to consider the question.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

L. of N. Commission Ends Task.

Geneva, July 11.—(By The A. P.)—The league of nations commission for reduction of armaments has concluded its task, with Hugh S. Gibson, American minister to Switzerland, as observer, of drafting the text of a convention for international control of traffic in arms and munitions.

DAVIS HAS BUSY DAY RECEIVING CALLERS

New York, July 11—Before leaving late tonight for what he hoped would be a quiet week-end at his country house at Locust Valley, Long Island, John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, put in a busy day receiving a continuous procession of callers, among them William G. McAdoo, Governor Smith and Cordell Hull, chairman of the democratic national committee.

After an hour's conference alone with Mr. Davis, Mr. McAdoo said he had called simply to pay his respects to the nominee, whom he had known for many years. When asked whether he would support Davis and Bryan, the Californian replied: "I'll deal with that question in a statement that I shall issue before I sail for Europe tomorrow if I can find time to prepare it."

Simultaneously with Mr. McAdoo's call at the house of Frank L. Polk, where Mr. Davis spent the day, David Ladd Rockwell, who had charge of Mr. McAdoo's campaign, for the nomination, made public at a hotel a letter to Mr. Davis in which Mr. Rockwell pledged his support and asserted that no candidate ever had had a clearer title to a nomination than Mr. Davis. Mr. Rockwell told correspondents that it was inconceivable to him that Mr. McAdoo should decline to give his support to his successful rival.

Though Mr. Davis discussed party organization, especially the selection of a national chairman and campaign manager, with Mr. Hull and George White of Ohio, who had charge of the Cox campaign in 1920, he reached no decision as to the choice of a democratic field marshal for the forthcoming campaign.

Mr. Hull said after his visit to the nominee that he would not continue as national chairman after the formal opening of the campaign, and Mr. White said he thought it very unlikely that he would again take charge. Clem Shaver of Fairmont, W. Va., a resident of the nominee's home town and an old friend of the family, who by reason of being a member of the Davis club, Clarksburgh that launched the Davis boom has been considered a possible chairman, spent a large part of the day with Mr. Davis.

The nominee probably will not make a choice until next week.

Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy; George E. Brennan, Chicago leader; David Hunter Miller, a member of the legal advisory staff of the peace commission; Herbert C. Bell, New York state chairman; Hollins Randolph, chairman of the Georgia convention delegation; John S. Cohen, Georgia national committeeman and publisher of the Atlanta Journal, and J. B. Cotton, a son of Mr. McAdoo's law partner, were others who paid more than perfunctory visits to Mr. Davis.

After selecting a national chairman and arranging for the notification ceremony, Mr. Davis hopes to be able to turn the machinery of party affairs over to his manager long enough to take a vacation of perhaps two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson today invited Mr. and Mrs. Davis to visit them at their summer home at Islesboro, Me., for this interim, and the nominee will accept if he can clear up organization problems by the end of next week.

FELLED BY SON AFTER SHOOTING WIFE

New York, July 11.—A thirty-year family quarrel ended today, police said, when Cornelius Lyons, 60, a plasterer's helper of the Bronx, shot and killed his wife, Delia, also 60, and seriously wounded Philip Kilian, realtor, who rushed to Mrs. Lyons' assistance.

After reloading his revolver three times and firing 15 shots, only three of which hit his victims Lyons was felled by a blow from a monkey wrench in the hands of his 13 year old son, Cornelius Lyons, Jr.

Lyons told District Attorney McGeehan that he was driven from his home by his wife when he pleaded for a reconciliation with her. They had been separated for some time.

ANDERSON CASE TO COURT OF APPEALS

New York, July 11.—The case of William H. Anderson, former state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, who is serving a term in Sing-Sing for forgery, will be taken to the court of appeals soon, it was announced today by former Governor Charles S. Whitman, Anderson's counsel.

Mr. Whitman said he desired to overcome the erroneous report that all hopes of Anderson's vindication were lost when the appellate division of the supreme court a short time ago unanimously affirmed his conviction.

The argument on the appeal will be heard in the early fall, Mr. Whitman said. Anderson, who received a one to two year term, will be eligible for release December 24.

FORMER "VALLEY GANG" HEAD IS SENTENCED

Chicago, July 11.—Terry Druggan, once the head of the noted "Valley Gang" of reputed beer runners, and now credited with millions invested in breweries, was sentenced today, with his partner, Frank Lake, to serve one year in jail and pay a $1,000 fine by Federal Judge Wilkerson for contempt of court.

Brice Armstrong, prohibition agent, accused them of piping real beer from the Standard Beverage company plant, in steam pipes under the street to a garage used for delivery headquarters. The plant had been padlocked by the court for a previous conviction.

SPRINGFIELD POLICE SEARCH FOR TWO MISSING MEN

Springfield, Mass., July 11.—The police are searching for traces of two unidentified men, believed to be Poles, who hired a small boat and rowed out on the Chicopee river yesterday just before a violent wind and rain storm broke. Louis Jerome, whose wife rented the boat to the men, reported the fact to the police today, saying that the boat was lost to sight in the smother of wind-blown rain and not seen again. One of the men was said to have had a bottle of liquor.

B. and O. Passenger Train is Wrecked

Sixteen Passengers Injured When Coach Split Switch and is Hurled Into Cattle Car Standing on Siding.

Cincinnati, O., July 11.—The splitting of a switch by the third coach behind the locomotive in the east bound Baltimore & Ohio passenger train, No. 4, this afternoon, resulted in the injury of 16 persons, four seriously, and the wrecking of the coach which smashed into a cattle car standing on a siding.

Those injured seriously suffered from lacerations, bruises, fractured ribs and broken legs. They were Miss Helen Kitchen, 20, of Chillicothe, O., Leroy Frye, Madisonville, Tenn., clerk; George Hill, Loveland, Ohio, and Mrs. Carrie Ray, of Midland City.

The others were treated at the scene of the accident for minor cuts and bruises.

The remaining coaches in the train did not jump the track and although the passengers in them were shaken up they were not injured. After the wreckage had been cleared away the train proceeded to its destination.

Police Rescue Crew From Insane Sailor

Armed With Axe He Had Taken Command of Rum Runner—Drove Crew Below Decks.

Sydney, N. S., July 11.—Police, answering distress signals flown by the rum-runner Annie S. as she crept into port today, rescued the crew from an insane sailor, armed with an axe and chisel, who had taken command of the vessel.

The single-handed mutiny was staged by Lewis Quelleon of St. Pierre, Miquelon, who according to Capt. White of the Annie S. Quelleon ran amuck soon after the vessel left the island, bound for the American coast with a cargo of assorted liquors.

Captain White was the first victim of the madman's attack, but he dodged the flailing axe and barricaded himself inside the pilot house. In the meantime, according to the captain, Quelleon drove the crew below decks and set fire to the forecastle in an attempt to drive his shipmates out where he could yield his axe on them.

Thus, with Captain White a prisoner in the pilot house and Quelleon unchallenged master of the decks, the vessel and all hands narrowly escaped foundering in Cabot Straight, said the skipper. He steered for this port, with distress signals flying. Police this morning boarded the rum ship, overpowered Quelleon after a battle, and brought him ashore in chains.

Beats The Magic Moccasins

When Hiawatha strapped on his magic moccasins he could measure a mile at a single stride. But, at best, he traveled at a snail's pace compared to the speed you can make today.

Glance through The Bulletin and in a few minutes you have covered the earth. You jump from New York to San Francisco, Pittsburgh to London, Toledo to Timbuctoo. You know what is going on the world over almost as soon as the events occur.

Turn to the advertising columns of The Bulletin and you are transported to the grocers, the clothiers, the music store; you visit the factory of a manufacturer, or talk with the inventor of a new household appliance. Right in your own arm chair you can check values and compare prices.

Merchants and manufacturers who put advertisements in The Bulletin must give good value. They know that advertising by increasing the number of their sales will enable them to lower prices and give you more for your money—and at the same time increase their own income.

Read The Bulletin's advertisements and you'll be miles ahead of the magic moccasins.

Gillespie, at Aldrich Lodge, a summer resort near Cody, Wyo., today was turned over to the city health authorities for analysis by Melvin H. Strauss, proprietor of a Denver fruit store.

Strauss warned all of the recent purchasers of the olives to refrain from eating them until the report of the laboratory analysis is made.

LINER GOES ASHORE AT ST. JOHN'S N. F.

St. John's N. F., July 11.—The Canadian Pacific liner Metagama, bound for Quebec for permanent repairs after patching up her damages sustained in collision with the Italian steamer Clara Camus off Cape Race, June 19, went ashore at the harbor entrance today. Badly listed, in was difficult to control her, and tugs surrounded her in an effort to get her free.

The liner was hard aground and it was expected tonight that she could not be floated before high tide at about 3 o'clock tomorrow morning. Four tugs tried in vain to get her off the shoal but the lines broke repeatedly. The steamer Sylvia, here from New York, was arranging to assist the stranded vessel when the tide rose.

READJUSTMENT OF BUSINESS CONDITIONS IS UNDERWAY

Federal Reserve Board Says Readjustment is Characterized by Decrease in Industrial and Trade Activity and Lower Prices—Calls Attention to Reduced Earnings of Industrial Workers With Consequent Curtailment in Their Buying Power—Lowered Prices Have Carried to Every Commodity Except Food Which Remains Almost Unchanged.

Washington, July 11—An important readjustment of business conditions characterized by decreases in industrial and trade activity and lower prices was declared by the federal reserve board tonight to be underway throughout the United States.

The board called attention to reduced earnings by industrial workers with a consequent curtailment in their buying power and sharp decreases in production. The lowered prices have carried to every commodity except food which remains almost unchanged.

The considerable expansion of production during the early months of 1924," the board said, "was followed by important curtailment of certain industries, in response to a lessened volume of current purchases and a hesitancy on the part of manufacturers in placing forward orders. In fact there has been in recent months a larger decrease in production of certain commodities than in their current consumption, and in consequence stocks of these commodities have been reduced."

In connection with the credit situation, the board said that the earnings assets of the twelve federal reserve banks was lower at the beginning of this month than at any time for six years. They were approximately $225,000,000 below the figure of the same date last year. The declines in earning assets have been general in all banks but have been particularly large in the New York bank.

Practically all important industries showed decreased employment in the last two months as compared with a year ago. The largest reductions in payrolls were reported in the automobile, iron and steel and women's clothing business.

The reduced earnings of factory and other industrial workers were reflected in smaller department stores sales. Mail order houses also showed smaller movements from their shelves during May and early June.

Prices of commodities at wholesale dropped more than a full one per cent. average in May and a greater drop appeared in prospect for June, complete figures for which are not yet available. The general level with the exception of food prices for May, the board reported, was six per cent. below the level of May, 1923.

Compared with a year ago, the reports added, the sharpest price decreases were in building materials, house furnishings and metals. Prices of farm commodities and foods, which did not advance in early 1923, when most other groups showed increases, suffered much smaller declines.

FARM INTERESTS AFTER RELIEF LEGISLATION

St. Paul, Minn., July 11—(By the A. P.)—Representatives of farm organizations in many central and northwestern states opened a two day conference today with a view to formulating a plan for bringing about agricultural relief legislation in the next session of congress.

Called by the supporters of the McNary-Haugen farm export corporation bill, defeated in the last congress, the conference heard F. W. Murphy, of Wheaton, Minn., sound a keynote that urged support of legislators favorable to farm remedial legislation.

A plan for determining prices of farm staples under the provisions of a revised McNary-Haugen bill, on a cost of production basis, will be presented by F. B. Layman, president of the Corn Growers' Association, and Paul Talbet, one of the organizers of that association.

This plan suggests the minimum prices for each year be set December 1, after the entire yield is harvested and the year's average cost of production ascertained, thus predicting the possibility that the price would go below the point at which the producer may obtain a fair margin above its cost of production.

ELKS LEAVE CONVENTION CITY FOR HOME STATES

Boston, July 11.—The 60th annual national convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, which opened in this city last Monday, having come to a close with the three hour parade yesterday, thousands of the fraternity departed for their home states on a score of special trains. Many thousands more remained to complete the entertainment programme of the local lodges.

The Jackson, Mich., drill team, five times winners of the fraternity's national drill team championship, left for West Point, where the Zouaves will give an exhibition drill before the academy cadets. Philadelphia's delegation who came to Boston by the steamer Voltaire, sailed on that vessel for the maritime provinces for a brief cruise before returning to their home port.

COPPOLLO UNABLE TO SECURE BOND OF $15,000

New Haven, July 11.—Harry Coppollo who was arrested last Tuesday, on a bench warrant in what is believed to be a drive by the police to clear up the schooner Wilkesbarre case, was still occupying a cell in the county jail tonight having been unable to secure bond orf $15,000. The Wilkesbarre was seized several weeks ago and a quantity of alcohol taken off her by the authorities. Coppollo is alleged by the police to have been a partner of Dominick Perrotti, of Westville, also arrested on a bench warrant. Perrotti has been released on $15,000 bail.

"NO BEER OR WINE" IN DEM. PLATFORM

Washington, July 11.—The legislative committee of the Anti-Saloon League, of America, through its chairman, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., issued a formal statement today declaring that "the wets have been defeated in their efforts to secure a 'wet' plank or a 'wet' candidate at the democratic convention."

"There is no smell of beer or wine in the democratic platform," the statement said, "and the candidate is a strong advocate of law enforcement."

PRES. AND MRS. COOLIDGE BACK AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, July 11.—Except for the regular semi-weekly cabinet meeting, there were no engagements at the White House today and both President and Mrs. Coolidge spent the day in seclusion after returning from Vermont, where their younger son was buried yesterday.

The special train with the president and his family, members of his cabinet and other who accompanied the body to its last resting place returned to the capital early this morning. The White House was at once re-opened to visitors, the flag run to full-staff and the usual routine of official life resumed.

The executive and his family, however spent the entire day in resting. Late in the afternoon, the president and his father, John C. Coolidge, who returned with him, from Vermont went for an automobile ride and to the naval dispensary to have the fathers eyes examined. The latter is to remain at the White House for an indefinite period.

More than 10,000 telegrams and thousands of letters of sympathy have been received at the executive mansion since the bereavement.

HUNDREDS VISIT GRAVE OF CALVIN COOLIDGE, JR

Plymouth, Vt., July 11—A steady stream of automobiles along the winding country road that leads past the little cemetery on the hill here brought a thousand visitors to the grave of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., son of the president, today. They halted their cars in the road where it runs through the hollow between the hills, climbed the steep ascent to the burial plot passed a while reverently and then passed on.

All last night and throughout the day the grave was guarded by sentries, members of the detachment of the Vermont national guardsmen, who will remain at the cemetery through Sunday. From time to time the guardsmen carried water to the burial plot to keep the heaped up flowery fresh.

FINE OF $110,000 AGAINST BRITISH STEAMER

Boston, July 11.—For alleged violation of the shipping laws forbidding vessels under foreign flags from engaging in commerce between American ports, a fine of $111,000 was placed by customs authorities here today against the British steamer Voltaire, which last Monday brought five hundred members of the Philadelphia lodge to the national convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

The Voltaire owned by the Lamport and Holt Steamship company, stopped here en route to St. Johns, N. F., and Halifax. The allegation charges that the Voltaire by coming here from Philadelphia at least violated the spirit of the law. Appeal from the fine may be made to the department of commerce at Washington.

WILLIMANTIC

The sudden death of James A. Calnen while playing tennis Thursday afternoon, came as a shock to his relatives and many friends. Mr. Calnen was a native of Willimantic, born September 28, 1873, a son of James and Catherine O'Loughlin Calnen. He was educated at Natchaug Grammar and St. Joseph's parochial schools and entered the employ of the John T. Baker Drug company, after leaving school. He learned the business and became an expert pharmacist, later entering the employ of Dennis Shea at the City Drug Store, becoming its manager and holding that position for twenty years when he became manager for the J. J. Mickey company on Union street. For the past few years he has been a member of the J. J. Mickey company.

Mr. Calnen leaves his wife, who was Miss Catherine Dwyer, a daughter, Miss Claire Calnen, who was graduated from the Connecticut College for Women at New London in the class of 1924. Miss Calnen has been a member of the Rockville High school faculty and has been engaged to teach at Windham school next year. Mr. Calnen also leaves his father, James Calnen and three brothers, William, of Fall River and of Pawtucket, R. I. and Benedict of New York and two sisters, Mrs. William J. King of New York and Mrs. Eugene O'Neill, of Astoria, L. I.

Fire which threatened the thickly settled district of Jackson place and the A Sussman Coal company yards caused considerable excitement, to the residents of that section at noon Friday. A quantity of pea coal in a bin was ignited by sparks which flew from a rubbish pile being burned nearby. The blaze spread from the bin to a shed owned by Dr. Charles M Girard in which was a sled of Mr. Sussman's and then to a woodshed in the coal yard. The fire was discovered by employes in the yard and Mr. Sussman telephoned the Bank Street engine house and sounded the alarm from Box 53. The LaFrance pumper and the hook and ladder truck responded, in charge of Assistant Chief Henry J. Kelley and Acting Lieutenant Michael J. English. A line of hose was connected and the blaze was extinguished in fast time. The damage has been placed at $500, $300 of which was caused to Dr. Girard's property and the balance to the Sussman company plant.

The continued case of George Morin, charged with assault on Stokes Watson was aired in police court on Friday morning before Judge Frank M Foss. Both men are public service automobile drivers. Frank L. Ford, another jitney driver, was the first to take the witness stand. He heard the commotion on Railroad street and saw Watson drive Morin twice to the ground, after being struck by Morin. George B McCrandell corroborated this testimony. Watson said that Morin had accused him of crowding him off the street and words over this led up to the assault. Watson alleged that he made an show at self defense. Morin claimed that Watson swung at him without provocation that he struck out to save himself. Morin was found guilty and fined $5 and costs amounting to $13.33 which was paid.

At her home in South Coventry, Miss Margaret Breen, 68, died Thursday afternoon, following a long illness. She was the daughter of John and Catherine Sheehan Breen and leaves two sisters, Mary and Nellie, and a brother, Patrick Breen, all of South Coventry.

Funeral services for Edward E. Clock, held at South Coventry Thursday afternoon, were largely attended. The bearers were William P. Jordan, Nelson A. Daniels, Carl Franz and Fred Thiem. Avery & VanZandt were in charge of the arrangements.

According to its report for the fiscal year ending March 31 and issued July 1, the American Thread company has total assets of $38,617,028.14. The authorized preferred stock of the company at $5 a share is $6,000,000. The common stock at $10 per share is $19,000,000. Upon the common stock issue a dividend of 10 per cent has been paid to the stockholders. The bonded indebtedness of the company due December 1, 1928, is $6,000,000 and the surplus and contingency fund aggregate $4,344,272.25. The net profit shown on the report is $1,501,544.65. The surplus of the company has been reduced five hundred thousand dollars in comparison with the report of last year.

The two sterling electric traffic signals, type F, recently purchased by the local fire department were being installed Friday. One is being placed on a telegraph pole in front of the Willimantic Savings Institute building at the corner of Bank and Main streets and the other is to be located at Lincoln square on the Lincoln block. The sirens will be ready for a test Monday. Electrician Amos C. Barber and men will wire the signallers Sunday.

Some of the local Elks who traveled to the convention at Boston Thursday, had a good time and got wet, were S. L. Cardinal, C. A. Lamoureux, P. J. Gagnon, A. J. Piche, Clement Hurteau, Joseph Bosse, A. Robitaille, Attorney Harry S. Gaucher, Lawrence Marrotte, P. J. Laramee, Theodore Margotte and A. Gingras of Bristol, all in a crowd. Others were Delegate Charles W. Hill, John B. Edgarton, Jeremiah Bocash, Donat Parent, Arthur Lavalley, Frank Lombardo, Attorney Thomas J. Kelley and son Arthur Kelley and E. Green.

A circus holds no more attraction for the loafer than the stunts of a gang of men laboring on a construction job. Scores of unemployed have made the vicinity of the site of the Capitol theatre on Main street a rathering place for the past few days. The work performed there Thursday and Friday was a thriller, in the vernacular of the spectators. The giant steel derrick and boom to be used in lifting the steel girders into place was being set up. The top of the boom pierces the air at a height of 90 feet but this fact apparently did not concern three human birds who perched on the swaying structure in nonchalant manner and did their work with precision.

Threadcityites, especially those who reside or conduct stores along Main street in the vicinity of the New Haven railroad and Central Vermont railway yards are probably attempting to figure out just what kind of coal is being burned in the locomotives. Merchants and housewives have been complaining of the large amount of smoke which comes from freight engines and it is expected that railroad officials will readily do all that is possible toward that end.

At the Mathieu cottage at South Coventry there was an afternoon meeting of the Social Whist club. Mrs. Mary Mathieu and Mrs. Dora Hovey were hostesses. Miss Marian Bernard won first prize, Miss Etta Edwards of Hartford, second and Miss H. Dumaine was given the consolation award. A radio program was followed by luncheon.

Fred Luzvick, who was re-arrested Thursday for assault on his sister-in-law, Miss Dolly Marcoux, was presented before the court again Friday morning. His bonds were increased from $1,000 to $5,000. The action came as the result of the serious condition of Miss Marcoux whom Lusvick brutally injured while intoxicated, last Sunday.

The Helping Hands of the First Society of Spiritualists was held in the afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. A. Terry. Mrs. Forest Ackley assisted the hostess at serving lunch.

Engine Company No. 4 answered to an alarm for a brush fire at 2.45 o'clock Friday afternoon on the Central Vermont Railroad property near Pleasant street. Three gallons of chemicals were used to extinguish the blaze.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Willimantic Greets First Boys' Store With Enthusiasm.

An innovation in Willimantic which will apparently be favored with a great deal of success is Hurley's Boys' Store at 700 Main street, the first of its kind to be established in this section. The store will be thrown open to the public this Saturday with a complete stock of every necessity and novelty for boys from ages of one and one half to twenty years. J. Edmund Hurley, the manager is hailed by the buying public as an excellent choice for the managership of such a store. He has had ten years of experience in the men and boys clothing business having been employed at the H. H. Remington Co. store for over six years and at the Church-Reed Company for the past four years. Through the knowledge acquired during a decade of dealing in boys clothing Mr. Hurley is enabled to conduct the store on a sound basis which guarantees satisfaction to every purchaser. The establishment will cater exclusively to boys and the stock includes all the well known and popular makes of boys garments. The various lines carried include the Jaffee cravanette, the Kaynee and Peter-Pan blouses and wash suits. Rosenthal and Ehlinger clothing and the Universal sleeping garments. A shipment of boys' stout suits is expected and this line will be kept in stock in a variety of styles. A feature of the opening is the remarkable values being offered, the prices having been mercilessly slashed on all goods and tickets being given away with every ten cent purchase for the awardment of twenty expensive rubber beach balls.

BREED THEATRE

Some Wild Oats is coming to the Breed theatre, starting Sunday night, for a limited period. It will be the only showing of this film in this town.

This is a picture which, for daring and plain talking, has seldom been equalled, especially when it is considered that the delicate subject of sex hygiene is handled in so sympathetic and inoffensive a way as to remove all objection from even the prudes, and to win the commendation of health officials all over the United States.

Some Wild Oats is a film that should be seen by everybody. It is a film that bares the dangers and snares that beset young men and young women who stand on the threshold of life, with everything to learn and no experience to guide them.

The picture has an all-star cast, featuring William Jefferson. While the picture is entertaining and instructive in a way, yet it is called the most daring and sensational motion picture yet attempted.

The picture deals with the miserable and often fatal effects resulting from a chance acquaintance of men and women on the streets of New York City, or any other big city, and drives home its lessons by showing the adventures of a green farm boy who comes to New York to take his last fling before joining the navy. A friend, who has trodden the primrose path before him and partaken of the bitter fruits, saves him from any real harm by a ruse—but that is another story that the film must tell itself. Many scenes of New York life are shown, including widely known dance halls, resorts and cabarets along Broadway.

Owing to the delicate nature of the subject and the plain speaking in the sub-titles, it has been thought best to segregate the audiences.

Electricity for the Farmer

The average productive labor hour on the farm is worth about 40 cents. To make every one of these 40 cent hours productive of its share of profit, it is necessary to reduce non-productive labor to the minimum, and in farming as in manufacturing it has been found that the best way to do this is to use labor-saving machinery. The small electric light and power plants now in use in so many farms accomplish a lot of this labor saving. Grindstones, fanning mills and many other light power appliances in the barn which used to require the time of two men are now turned by electricity. In the house the pumping, churning, separating, sweeping, washing and ironing are all done by electricity, relieving the farmer's wife of a great part of the burdens which have made her life a hard one. And of course electric light itself makes the farm home a bright and cheerful place to live.

Where electricity serves the farm family we find the best of living conditions, and we find too, that every member of the family makes each hour of labor pay a profit.—Carl W. Brown.

In 1882 arrangements were made to have sixty electric lights in the annual exhibition in Toronto as a great novelty. Now the hydro-electric commission which has its headquarters in that city has 384,000 customers taking electric light and power.

Stirs England With New Novel

Mary Borden Spears, American wife of Brigadier-General Edward Spears, M. P., whose recent novel, "Jane, Our Stranger," first published in New York, has caused tongues wildly to wag in England's best drawing rooms. For the book deals with a miscellance in highest international society; and "they say" that it is based on solid fact. Mrs. Spears was decorated with the French Legion of Honor and four British medals for her services in field hospital work during the war.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

PALACE THEATRE

Last times today big double feature program, 16 big reels. Poisoned Paradise the forbidden story of Rome and Monte Carlo with a preferred cast including Kenneth Harlan, Clara Bow, Raymond Griffith, and Carmel Myers. The Tie That Binds a powerful heart interest story with mystery and suspense. You'll shed a few tears at this one, extra added attraction The Telephone Girl. No advance in prices.

Sunday night only another big double feature program 15 reels.

Universal has produced a real western picture starring Jack Hoxie that is a combination of thrilling action, interesting story and pictorial beauty, in The Phantom Horsemen.

In one scene Hoxie took one of the greatest risks of his screen career, in a remarkable ride down a steep mountain slope, jumping his pony over a sheer bluff into a treacherous sand pit. The result is a thrill for the most blase fans. There are outdoor shots which make this picture unforgettable.

The story was written by Isadore Bernstein and filmed under the direction of Robert North Bradbury. This literary and directorial combination is responsible for some of Hoxie's best pictures.

The cowboy star was supported by an all-star cast which included Lillian Rich, Wade Boteler, Ruby LaFayette, Tell McKinnon, George Williams, Ben Corbett and others.

The new Rex Beach film production, Fair Lady, released by United Artists Corporation, that will be seen at the Palace theatre tomorrow night is a heart-throbbing romance set in pulse-quickening drama with an international coloring.

The action of the story has all of the typical Rex Beach snap, adventurous complications, but the theme is one of romantic love that will appeal to all normal humans of both sexes.

The story, like all the Rex Beach works, is one that keeps the spectator guessing right up to the last few scenes, and he will not be quite sure of how it is really going to turn out until it is all finished.

Added attractions, Aesops Fables, Al. S. John in the latest Tuxedo comedy His First Car. Palace orchestra. Performance commences at 2 p. m. daylight saving time. No advance in prices.

BROADWAY THEATRE

Daughter of Today which comes to the Broadway theatre for four days engagement beginning tomorrow is a picture that promises to be the subject of much discussion locally, if one is to judge from the reports from other cities in which it has played. While it is strictly speaking a straightforward drama of life among the members of the young Jazzy set, it nevertheless has proven to be a controversial subject among a wide number of people in all walks of life. Perhaps this is because it has a subject that strikes at the heart of every American home today and asks pertinently the questions: What is your daughter doing? What is the company she keeps and who is to blame when tragedy stalks her footsteps of indiscretion?

A splendid cast headed by Patsy Ruth Miller, Ralph Graves, Philo McCullough, Zasu Pitts, Phillips Smalley and Edna Murphy enact the principal roles in addition to which there is an ensemble of pretty girls who are effectively seen in the productions.

Other subjects include a new Jimmy Gump comedy Oh! Min and a new Kinograms, the eyes of the world.

STRAND THEATRE

Marked by splendid horsemanship and lightning gun-play, The Lone Horseman, which opens tomorrow at the Strand theatre, offers interesting entertainment for those who like their action served straight. A rapid pace is set at the very beginning of the film which is maintained to the very end. In other words—there is something doing every minute!

The closing chapter of the Santa Fe Trail will be seen.

The starring of the new serial man William Desmond and Eileen Sedgwick in Beasts of Paradise is scheduled.

Never before have so many big spectacular thrills been crowded into any one chapter play!

Every episode seethes with excitement, teems with suspense, bristles with new, big, spectacular thrills! See this tremendous and colorful continued love story enacted in jungle depths,—the desperate struggle in the subterranean chamber, the fire at sea, the elephat rampage, the typhoon, the tidal wave, the hand-to-hand conflicts with savage beasts, treasure thieves, ferocious beasts!

A fight for sunken gold that will leave you breathless!

A comedy completes the program.

Sale of Property

Real Estate Broker John A. Moran has sold the twelve apartment brick block on North Main street known as the Dupuis block, belonging to Joseph Lukaszewics and Antoni Marcinkiewick. The new owner, Charles Sloberg has acquired this property as an investment.

Broker Moran also sold the beautiful building lot belonging to S. Agranovitch on Julien street to C. Morgan Williams. Mr. Williams will erect a new house at once.

If people could ride up in elevators there would be less room at the top.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The charred remains of what evidently had been intended for a fiery cross lay on the hillside at Orient Heights, Friday morning. On the ground beside it lay a shingle on which was crudely scrawled the inscription "K. K. K. Beware the end is near. Damn the Catholics."

The cross was made of lumber of about 2 by 4 size, the upright about 12 feet in length and the cross piece about six feet.

Reports reaching the police during the day indicate that the cross, which had been partly wound with oil-soaked rags, had been set afire between 9.30 and 10 o'clock Thursday night. It did not burn well and appears to have toppled over, though it had been set in the ground and bolstered with rocks about the base.

A variety of opinions found expression as to the responsibility for the attempted cross-burning. Among the particular group of Christians at which the scrawled warning was directed there could be no alternative but to regard the use of the world-wide emblem of Christianity under such circumstances, and with an implied curse upon them, as little less than sacrilegious and a hideous travesty on the Christian faith and its teachings.

If such uses must be made of the cross of Christ one might be set up on Davis park, beside the honor roll to Killingly's sons who were in the world war, that its leaping flames may again illuminate the names of those of this community who served the nation in time of stress and let all read there that the great majority of them were Roman Catholics.

The Bulletin was quick to hear Friday morning that no official of the town of Killingly was responsible for the order that took a quarantine guard away from his work of watching homes and put him to work distributing circulars about the borough during Thursday. The order, it is understood, came from a representative of the state board of health. This information is, therefore, given to the public, which still believes that the place for a guard, is on guard, if there be any need at all for his services.

Officer Christopher Andrews has tendered his resignation to Chief John McFarland as an active member of the borough's police department. Officer Andrews has been on night duty for more than two years. He will continue to serve until his successor has been appointed and goes on duty.

A fine barn and its contents on the Frank Warren place at Killingly was totally destroyed by fire Friday afternoon, causing a loss estimated at between $4,000 and $5,000. Gregory Swirka, who with Mary Grysiewicz, bought the place May 15, expressed the opinion to Chief A. P. Woodward of the Danielson fire department that the fire started as the result of someone smoking in the barn.

The fire spread with great rapidity and within an hour nothing remained of the structure excepting a few blackened uprights beneath which the fire hungrily lapped up the ruins.

Aid was asked from the Danielson fire department upon the discovery of the fire. Due to the lack of sufficient water to operate the pumper at any point reasonably near the fire, Chief Woodward and a few firemen went up in automobiles, taking along some fire extinguishers against the possibility that they might be required to protect the house on the farm. The wind direction was such that the house, which stands across the road from where the barn was, was not damaged. A screen of trees contributed to protect the house.

All the live stock on the big farm was out of the barn at the time the fire broke out. Swirka had been engaged in haying and mowed away about 40 loads of the season's crop. This was burned, as was a tractor and other farm machinery and tools. The barn was built by the late Senator Frank Warren and was one of the finest structures of the kind in the town. It was about 80 feet in length with a cemented basement finely fitted for keeping the nearly two score head of cows that make up the farm herd. It is understood that there was only $2,000 in insurance on the structure.

The loss will be a hard blow to the owners. They are said to have paid about $20,000 for the farm when they purchased it from Byron Lewis, who has owned the place for a number of years since it passed out of possession of the Warren family.

A Mesaup will team is to come to Danielson Sunday afternoon to meet the Danielson Town baseball team. Manager George DeForest of the Danielson team is anxious to enlist the interest of the local fans, that he may be enabled to continue to give them worth while games during the remainder of the baseball season. He has some good games in prospect if the patronage of the fans makes it possible for him to continue his program. Games are being played at Connecticut Mills field.

Well established and paying restaurant business in Danielson for sale at an attractive price. Inquire of Box 452, Danielson.—adv.

Prospects in the worsted manufacturing business appear brighter, one manufacturer in this district says, after a trip that has taken him to New York during the present week and put him in touch with the latest developments in the market. The brighter outlook is attributed to getting the political conventions out of the way and to the settle up of a garment workers' strike in New York.

Auction sale of 2500 lovely Georgia Watermelons and a carload of splendid muskmelons. Will be sold in lots to suit the customer at public auction at Foster's Fruit store, Main St., Danielson, at 7 p. m. tonight. Private sale throughout the day. Witter Brothers, Auctioneers.—adv.

Mark Mills of Goodyear, was taken into custody Friday morning and was held at the police station to answer in court today to a non-support charge.

Touring motorists have expressed their appreciation regularly of late of the route markers that guide them along the various trunk line highways centering in Danielson. This is now well supplied with such road guides.

Playing baseball in the streets is again a cause of comment by car operators who have many things to watch out for without the additional worry of running down someone engaged in a pastime that is forbidden in the streets.

William A. Goodman of Fall River is a week end visitor with friends in Danielson.

Elks and their relatives and friends who were in Boston for the parade of the organization Thursday told Friday of the splendid time they had in spite of the crowds and the thunderstorm that came in the late afternoon.

Friday evening at the home of Miss Cora Lariviere, on Furnace street, a miscellaneous shower was given in honor of Miss Rose Benac by a number of friends.

This is one of the open days for bass fishing at Alexander's lake and being at the week end will see many of the devotees of the sport out trying to catch a big one.

William J. Ross is closing down his sawmill where he has been engaged in cutting off a lot near Phoenixville and will return here for the remainder of the summer in another week.

PUTNAM

Friends in Putnam of Mitchell ("Mike") Shotorian, were shocked to read in a Worcester paper that he had killed his mother-in-law, shot and possibly fatally injured his wife and firing a bullet into his own head, is now on the danger list in a Worcester hospital. Shotorian, an ex-service man and a member of the local post American Legion, was thought to be a quiet, inoffensive young fellow and had many friends in Putnam where he had been employed as a weaver for the Waterman Worsted company. He was married only three months ago and started housekeeping in Putnam. Two weeks ago he moved with his wife to Worcester into a flat owned by his mother-in-law.

The tragedy occurred at his home, Wednesday afternoon when, following a quarrel he killed his mother-in-law, shot his wife three times, one bullet ploughing through her face, another through her right palm and the third through her shoulder. He then fired a bullet into his own head and has small chance for recovery.

Shotorian was 29. His wife was 22. She was Rose Sampson, daughter of Mrs. Rose I. Sampson, 72 Salem street, Worcester.

Mrs. Shotorian was able to give the police an account of the shooting, Thursday, in a statement as follows:

"My husband was very jealous of me ever since our marriage three months ago. We had our quarrels, which lately were very violent. The night before my mother was shot, Mike and I quarreled for several hours daylight over a private matter. He was very angry with me and upon arising he repeated his desire to shoot me. He often threatened me with a gun.

"Wednesday morning after the all-night quarrel, my mother, Mike and I were in the kitchen when the argument was renewed, and Mike once more repeated his threat. My mother threw her arms around his neck crying, 'Mike, I wouldn't shoot her, she's only a child and doesn't know what she says.' Shortly after my mother told us both to get other living quarters as she was tired of listening to our quarrels.

"Mike went out then with two bottles of moonshine in his possession. I don't know whether or not he drank any, but when he came back one of the bottles was gone and he then threw the other into the kitchen sink.

"He went out a second time and returned with a revolver. About ten minutes afterwards, as my mother was preparing dinner with her back turned to him, Mike suddenly drew the revolver and with a cry, shot her in the head. I ran for the door crying 'Murder' and then he turned toward me and started shooting."

Mrs. Shotorian had lived in Putnam a little less than three months and was not known to many but the few friends she made say she was a cheerful young woman and they were attracted to her.

Mike first became known in Putnam at the time of the draft in 1917 when he came before the draft board. He was then working in Mechanicsville. He was asked if he claimed exemption because of being an alien. Mike said that he did not, that he wanted to fight for the United States. He was accepted, sent to camp and later was sent overseas where he was gassed. Many of his friends believe that being gassed affected his mind, at least they can account in no other way than that he was mentally unbalanced for his action in shooting his bride of three months and her mother.

Stories that bathing continues in Roseland lake and its tributary, the Little River, down which from the lake to Harrisville pumping station flows Putnam's water supply, have been called to the attention of State Health Commissioner Stanley H. Osborne, who was instrumental in having the notices forbidding bathing posted.

The health commissioner intends to have his orders obeyed and states that as soon as he has actual evidence that the order is being disregarded he will, if necessary, invoke both the criminial law, by causing arrests, and the civil law by bringing injunctions against any person who may be found conducting bathing houses on the shores of the lake.

Funeral services for Mrs. Samuel Spaulding, who died at her home on Grove street, Wednesday morning, were held at the home, Friday afternoon, Rev. Nathan B. Burton of the Methodist church officiating. Burial was in Grove street cemetery.

If Thursday and Friday could have changed places on the calendar under which the weather man operates, what a difference it would have made to the Elks in Boston. Members of Putnam lodge had a place in the tail end of the procession and it rained and cleared before they started marching. Everyone had a good time, however, and there is no criticism even of the weather man.

Misses Elizabeth, Marguerite and Muriel Groevenor of Boston have been visiting their aunt, Mrs. Omer J. Miller.

Letter Carrier Henry L. Converse of the Putnam post office is having his annual leave of absence.

Sister Leontine (Miss Mary E. O'Leary) and Sister Norbetta, (Miss Alexina Bonneville) of St. Peter's convent, Hartford, have been spending a week at the mother house of the Sisters of the Holy Ghost, on Church street, and calling on friends in the city. Sister Leontine was the first graduate of Notre Dame Academy, formerly in this city, and for years was organist at St. Joseph's Cathedral in Hartford.

The town of Woodstock lays claim to having the first Coolidge club in Windham county, organized at the home of Mrs. Jeanette Shippard some weeks ago. Unless some other town in the county takes immediate action Woodstock will also claim the first Davis club in the county, as Hamilton Holt has called democrats, independents and liberals to meet with him at Grange hall, Woodstock Hill, Saturday, July 19th, to organize the Woodstock John W. Davis club. Mr. Holt was formerly of the New York Independent and is an aggressive campaigner for the League of Nations.

Health Officer Peter A. Gardner returned to the city this morning from Boston. He was asked to confirm the result of the investigation made Thursday following a rumor that there was smallpox in the city when that rumor was branded as false in this column Friday morning. The health officer said that it was true—that there were no cases of smallpox in Putnam and there has been none.

Officer Howard Steere has been doing police duty for two days during the absence from duty of Captain Jarvis. The captain will be back on the job this (Saturday) morning.

Judge Lucius H. Fuller has made such improvement from his serious illness, dating since last November, that he has returned to Putnam from Peter Bent Brightman Memorial hospital, Boston. Following Judge Fuller's being stricken he was taken to the Day Kimball hospital but later was moved to Boston where he has undergone several operations. He is now at the home of Mrs. Ruth B. Chandler on Fremont street. Judge Fuller was for several terms judge of the city court but retired a number of years ago having reached the age limit.

Rev. Father Peter Gauthier of Holyoke, Mass., and his brother, Father Louis Guathier of Notre Dame church, Worcester, cousins of the deceased, officiated at the funeral mass for Mrs. Narcisse Montville at St. Mary's church, Friday morning. Father Peter Gauthier was celebrant of the mass, Father Gauthier was deacon and Father Arthur Routhier of Putnam was sub-deacon. There was a large attendance and beautiful floral pieces. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. Mrs. Montville, 61, died at St. Vincent's hospital, Worcester, following a surgical operation. She was born in Sorrell, Canada. She was married in Sandersdale, Mass., but for the past 44 years has lived in Putnam. She leaves her husband, two sons, George and Joseph of Putnam and a daughter, Mrs. Orise Rondeau, of Uxbridge, Mass.

The program for the annual field day trip of Windham County Farmers' association, August 14th, is practically completed. This year's program includes assembly at Brooklyn at 9.30 and the visitation of a number of progressively conducted farms with experts in various lines to give instructive talks at each farm.

The honor cup at Camp Woodstock has been awarded Sherwood Mercer of South Manchester, voted the best all-round camper and the one who has best reflected the spirit of the camp during the two-week period closing, Friday. The award was made at the final campfire by E. T. Thiennes of Hartford, camp director, and was greeted with cheers by the campers.

The cup-winner is the son of Mrs. obert Mercer. He is the first Hartford county boy to win the cup which is given each year. Cups awarded in two previous years have gone to Windham and Tolland county boys. Mercer is a pupil in the South Manchester high school and will return for his senior year in the fall. Another cup will be awarded at the end of the second camp period.

Word was received in Putnam Friday faternoon of the death in Springfield of Jacob Cheifitz, 55, father of Mrs. Hyde Smith of Worcester, formerly of Putnam. Although he had not enjoyed the best of health Mr. Cheifitz was able to be about and his death was most unexpected. He had often visited his daughter in Putnam and had friends in this city. Mr. Smith, who is one of the proprietors of the Bradley theatre was about to start from his home in Worcester to Putnam when he received the news of his father-in-law's death. He called his partner, Jacob Alpert, on the telephone and informed him of the death.

An alarm from Box 23 at 1.30 Friday afternoon called the department to School street where the roof of a cottage owned by Everett M. Carver was on fire. The blaze was extinguished with chemicals and by tearing shingles from the roof. The damage was slight.

The fire apparently caught from a spark from the chimney of the Wheaton Building and Lumber company next door. While the roof was burning sparks were coming from the company's chimney top. The shingles on the house were old and curled and there seems some doubt as to the origin of the blaze. The all out signal was given at 1.55.

JEWETT CITY

The delegation from Jewett City to the Elks' convention in Boston included Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Finn, who made the round trip by automobile; Lion E. Boucher, E. George Lague and Adrian Maynard went on the B. P. O. E. special. Mr. Maynard and Mr. Boucher were the only two local men to march in the big parade.

Miss Marguerite Bliss is at home recovering from an attack of pneumonia which, for the present, will prevent her from carrying on her work as councilor at the St. Ann's girls' summer camps at Harwich, Mass.

The Swarthmore Junior Chautauqua have presented the Slater library a book of stories for juvenile readers.

Dr. G. H. Jennings Wednesday enjoyed a visit from his brother who lives in another part of the state. The doctor was told the story of a happening that doubtless never occurred before. The doctor's brother had been troubled with mice in a room where there was an open fireplace. He set one of the little spring mousetraps, baited with cheese. Next morning he found caught in the trap a mouse on one side and a bird on the other. The bird was doubtless a chimney swift, both swallow and mouse had picked at the cheese at the same time and were caught together when the trap sprung.

A local man was overheard to say that he heard the State of Maine express almost every night, because it was so warm he couldn't sleep. The observant citizen says he must have extremely good hearing, for the State of Maine is operated via Willimantic and over the Air Line. The two Bar Harbor expresses go over the local iron.

Mrs. Helen Wood of East Lynn and Mrs. Maud Bacon of Wakefield, Mass., are guests at Martin Davis'.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Potts have returned to their home in Manchester, N. H. They were accompanied by Miss Dorothy Paul of Jewett City and Mrs. A. H. Strickland of Middletown. Miss Marian Strickland is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. H. E. Paul.

Gaspard Dugas had a surprise party Thursday, when fishing with worms for bullheads at Beach Pond, he landed what he supposed was an immense bullhead. It proved to be a pickerel.

Passersby on Wilson street are stopping to admire the beautiful Dorothy Perkins and Crimson Rambler roses at L. M. Carpenter's.

Many are interested in the air service whose route goes directly over Jewett City. Between 4 and 6 p. m. is the time to see the ... bound south.

The Methodist Sunday school picnic is to be held this (Saturday) afternoon on the Pachaug Fair grounds. Conveyances are to leave the church at 1 o'clock.

This town has had no families of Coolidge, Harding, Bryan, McAdoo or Roosevelt, but now the Davis families declare that they have come into their own. Bill, over in the brick block says that he may now land a job in the White House.

The small pox scare which has gained more or less foothold in neighboring towns, was nipped in the bud in Jewett City, by the vigilance of the local health officer. Upon notification that a man was in town, who had been associated to some extent with the Belisle family in Plainfield, the officer took prompt steps to look up the matter. The man was located Tuesday and compelled to submit to quarantine regulations, in another town where he belongs. The health authorities here are extremely anxious that Jewett City consider at this time the urgent importance of vaccination.

The train for Jewett City from Worcester, that has a connection with the "Yankee Express" from Boston leaves at one, not seven, as a typographical error made in read in Thursday's Bulletin.

Mrs. William Yenger of New York, who was Miss Ruth Daly of Jewett City, trapped a pair of fake gem swindlers on Riverside Drive, the latter part of June. These men are alleged to have tried to sell Mrs. Yenger ten pieces of glass which they represented to be diamonds for $200. According to the detectives, about six months ago A. man telephoned Mr. Yenger and offered him diamonds at a bargain price, which he declined. Later Mr. Yenger talked the matter over with Police Commissioner Enright, a personal friend. He was advised to trap the man if he telephoned again, and he had advised Mrs. Yenger what to do in case the man called her. The swindler did call Mrs. Yenger regarding the diamonds, and she asked the man to visit her apartment. Meanwhile she called two detectives who hid in a room adjoining the dining room. The detectives said the man appeared and assured Mrs. Yenger that the "diamonds" were genuine and had not been stolen. She agreed to buy them. When ten of them had been placed on the table, the detectives ran in and arrested the pair. The police say that the men admitted the diamonds were imitations. Mrs. Yenger is the daughter of Daniel Daly of Greeneville, a watchman at the Aspinook Co. mill in Jewett City. She has two sisters living here, Mrs. George Gill and Mrs. Catherine Liberty.

Mrs. E. A. Faust and daughter, Ellen, are registered at the Plimpton house, Watch Hill.

Miss Bertha Geer of the City Library, Springfield, is spending a vacation at her home.

Mrs. Mary J. Godek and two children are visiting in Southbridge and Webster, for the week.

PLAINFIELD

The committee appointed at the last meeting of the Carders' union reported Friday that it was the unanimous decision of the committee to lower the dues of 25 cents per week to 10 cents per week during the period of depression.

Wallace Burke left Friday to spend the remainder of the summer with his aunt in Ocean Grove, Mas.

Miss Evelyn Goyette of Woonsocket, R. I., is spending a few days with relatives in town.

As far back as the oldest inhabitant of the town remembers there have been but two political powers in the town of Plainfield. The selection of John W. Davis as the presidential nominee of the democratic party has caused a great deal of comment. James F. Wallace of Sterling and Dr. Downing of Moosup, progressive candidate for the U. S. senate are busily working among the populace of the town for La Follette and the third party.

Arrangements are being made to establish campaign headquarters in this county. Dr. Downing predicts an overwhelming victory for national, state and town elections for the progressives.

Mrs. Ella Riley of Providence is visiting her mother, Mrs. Ellen Babcock of Gallup street.

A special meeting of the Mule Spinners' union of the Lawton Mills Corp., was called Friday afternoon, at 12. The question of whether the mule spinners should be vaccinated was brought up. There were only two among the 70 employes who voted in the affirmative. The objection was because the men vaccinated would probably suffer from inflamation to the arm and would hinder them in their work.

A letter was received recently by Mrs. P. J. Burke from her son, Harold, who is now in Wallace, Idaho. Mr. Burke stated that he would probably be home on a visit in August.

Miss Florence Tabor of Norwich and Miss Sadie Donaghue are spending the week end with friends in Plainfield.

Further precautions to check any possible epidemic of small pox were taken Friday by vaccinating the employes of the weaving department of the Lawton Mills Corp. Dr. A. A. Chase assisted by Miss Kirby and Miss Peltier vaccinated the workers.

GROWING OKRA

Okra or gumbo, a favorite southern vegetable, valuable for its mucilaginous, delicately flavored pods, which are used lavishly in soup, stews, and salads by southern cooks, may be easily grown in the northern garden, planted when the weather warms up. It needs much the same treatment as corn so far as temperature and soil conditions are concerned.

The plants should be set about 2 feet apart in rows with the rows about 3 feet apart. It grows from 2 to 4 feet tall and spreads out in an equal area, so it needs room to develop. Sow the seeds toward the last of May and it is best to sow them where they are to stand and thin out. It has no pests to bother it and once the seed is started it will go along at a rapid rate with good cultivation.

When the pods start to mature they should be gathered when half grown and should be kept picked daily or the plant will cease producting. They may be canned or dried for winter use. They are now used as a vegetable stewed, but are more popular as concomitante of various gumbo soups.

White Velvet is one of the best varieties for the northern garden as it produces big pods which mature quickly and is devoid of the prickles that make some varieties unpleasant to handle.

Tall or Perkins' Mammoth is the largest growing variety and produces pods of fine quality, measuring four or five inches in length when ready to pick. It is a very satisfactory sort but the White Velvet is preferable for gardens of small extent as it does not seem to have the ambition to reach tree size of the Perkins which becomes an imposing plant by the end of the season.

If you are unacquainted with the gumbo, a packet of seeds will offer an interesting experiment in the garden and give you a new vegetable which, once its uses are understood, will continue to be a regular occupant of the garden. Chicken gumbos are now regular features of all first-class bills of fare and this vegetable is the basis of the toothsome soup. Crab meat gumbo is another favorite with epicures.

Reports from utility operating corporation in all parts of the country indicate that the slackening of general business has not affected the earnings of these companies, as both gross and net increases in earnings continue steadily to be made.

Another increase in freight traffic is reported by the American Railway association for the week ended June 28, loadings having totalled 908,855 cars, a gain of 4,655 over the preceding week, but a decrease of 113,116 under the corresponding week last year.

When some people get out for a good time they have no consideration for other people. When some people go off for a picnic they give no thought as to what condition they leave the picnic place in. Because this happens it is not always fair to judge that that is the way they do at home. Rather is it a case where they are in the great outdoors and they think anything goes. They pay little or no attention to the fact that it mars appearances, spoils the place for the next party and contributes to a general untidiness which would not be overlooked if others did it.

This is the season of the year when that disposition comes partially to notice. You will find those who will discard candy boxes, papers, bags, tin boxes, and other refuse in the street gutters and on the sidewalks. There are others who will be seen throwing the same to the roadbed or roadside from automobiles. There are the picnic parties which leave their rubbish where they are through with it.

This is invariably the result of thoughtlessness. It usually requires no further suggestion that "You probably wouldn't want such a dump made of your front yard," to bring them to a realization of the mess which they are responsible for and the changing of the plan whereby the clean-up brigade gets busy, as it should.

It would be a delightful thing if everyone could receive just such a reminder as seems to be needed in some cases to prevent the littering up of parks, beaches, roadsides and interesting picnic spots. Everyone admits it is an inexcusable habit and prompts an invitation not to come again. It is not so much of an undertaking to bear it in mind whenever opportunity presents itself to put it into practice. It takes just a bit of thought, but nothing is gained in being heedless about everything. If something is done which no one can take pride in, or if it is something that is going to mar the pleasure of others some other day, it should be sufficient to make the impression upon enough, at least, to prevent that which all are quick to decry when they have it called to their attention.

STRENGTHENS THE CONVICTION

Much speculation is rife as to the effect of the choice of Charles W. Bryan as second member of the democratic ticket. Mr. Bryan's selection came as a surprise, and after others had refused to consider the honor. There is no question but what he has attained much popularity as the result of his efforts as governor of Nebraska, but it appears to have been a play for the vote of the northwest and to some degree a sop to the Bryan influence.

When the democrats began to look about for a vice presidential candidate, something they couldn't do very seriously until they had determined upon the man for the head of the ticket, thoughts were immediately turned to the west. The need of bidding for the vote of the farmers was recognized. Walsh was looked upon as the man for the place and after him Meredith. When they turned down the idea emphatically and declined to listen to any such sacrifice for the party, there was a scurrying about for other timber. Governor Davis of Kansas might have stood strong with the farmers but there was danger of too much Davis.

When the Peerless One declares that his brother stands on his own feet it is only saying that he is not a stool pigeon for William Jennings Bryan. But what is going to be the effect upon that element of the democratic party which was manifested against the Bryan influence before and during the convention? Can it be said that it will help to bring the party together? Possibly it was intended for that purpose but it does not hold out much promise. C. W. Bryan, in fact, has failed to get an endorsement from La Follette, for whom he had threatened to work in case the democratic convention put Davis at the head of the ticket.

The democratic ticket as named gives the republicans no cause for discouragement. Even if it is the best they could have done, it only strengthens the conviction that the country at this time needs Coolidge and Dawes and that it is going to get them.

TOO MUCH NOISE.

One has little difficulty in noting instances of automobile driving which are subject to criticism and possibly censure. Perhaps there are more instances where irritation is created by the manner in which needless noises are made by the operators of machines. Probably it receives little attention from most people, but no one knows when it is having its serious effects upon the sick and nervous.

Looking at the matter from the standpoint of health, Dr. H. N. Bundesen, health commissioner of Chicago, says: "There are a few people in Chicago, perhaps, who have not been aroused from sound slumber at midnight or greatly annoyed during the day by the driver of an automobile tearing down the street with his cut out open, or by the fellow with the great big truck who knows that all fear him, lumbering through the city thoroughfare, sounding his siren instead of using his brakes. This sort of thing is akin to brutality. First because it destroys rest; second, because it creates fear; and, third, because it may be the cause of death by accident or otherwise."

There are the noise makers, at all hours of the day and night, who can be quickly rated as nuisances. When it comes to disturbing those who need their rest it is even worse. Opening the cut-out and riding through the streets has no justification in the big majority of cases. There are states where it is in violation of the law. There is no more justification for the racing of engines, particularly those of motorcycles, for minutes at a time, and while the auto horn can be of much service there are times when it is used without reason, when prolonged and persistent blowing is actually aggravating and when as Dr. Bundesen says brakes should be used. The disposition to rely upon noise in place of bringing a car under the proper control to prevent an accident is a common occurrence, particularly at bad corners.

There are probably few who can be classed as perfect drivers. There are times when most everyone does something he should not or fails to do something he should, but it is safe to say very little consideration is given to the fact that too much noise has a harmful effect upon the health of others.

ONE NEED.

In its endorsement of the stand which Calvin Coolidge has taken for economy, the New York Commercial points out that what the country needs is men in office committed to such a curbing of public expenditures as President Coolidge would have accomplished had not a congress composed largely of petty politicians combined to defeat his purpose," and urges that there be a questioning of congressional candidates for the purpose of knowing before they are voted for as to how they stand in regard to the expenditure of your tax money.

There is no question but what the voters of this country are going to give very serious thought this year in choosing members of congress as well as president and vice president. There has been an exhibition of congressional obstruction which has caused the voters to realize that they are largely responsible for such a condition, that it was their votes who made that congress possible which recently made such a sorry spectacle of itself and in recognition thereof they are going to take care that the country, quite as much as the president, is not handicapped by such a group of men in the future.

If there are those constituents who haven't given serious consideration to this phase of the coming election they should. There has been ample evidence of the endorsement by the country of the highly commendable position taken by the president. It should have had congressional endorsement instead of obstruction. Not getting it, there is a duty resting upon those constituents whose representatives failed to respect their needs and obstructed sound progress by playing politics.

CANADA'S LAW ENFORCEMENT.

Much attention has been attracted by the efforts which have been put forth in an endeavor to save the life of Walter Muir, age 21, who was sentenced to death for the killing of a man at Quebec last September and executed at Montreal this week.

In behalf of the young man it was claimed that he did not intend to kill. That when his friend was attacked he drew his gun and fired two shots into the floor, one of which bounded up and struck the man who made the attack on his friend, and who was killed.

Whatever may be the fact attention is halted by the fact that all the pressure brought to bear did not alter the decision of the court. He had been found guilty after all the facts were presented and he has paid the penalty. Canada hasn't sidestepped over technicalities or because titled persons and others desired to interrupt justice.

Many are there who tote guns who may feel that they can present the same kind of a plea, in case they get caught in a similar predicament: The presumption is that Muir had the gun for the very purpose that he used it. He did what too many of the gun toters are apt to do. Had he been unarmed no life would have been taken and no capital penalty would have been incurred. He paved the way for his execution when he carried the gun, and such should have been understood by a person of Muir's apparent make-up, inasmuch as he was ready to draw and use it on most any occasion, even when self defense was not concerned. The idea of relying upon pleas of not intending to kill, after the deed had been committed, apparently does not impress the courts and juries of Canada.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The American athletes are keeping up to expectations in the Olympic games.

Every democratic delegate should take his seat home with him as a memento.

The midsummer nights' dreams in Madison Square Garden will not soon be forgotten.

The man on the corner says: If politics suited everybody it wouldn't be much of a game.

It was a most acceptable rain but for the dry earth there was only a part of what is needed.

If you haven't been to a democratic national convention it has been finally decided you must wait until 1928.

Mr. Davis may be a good man but that doesn't necessarily mean that the country wants him in the presidential chair.

No one will ever know what the democratic convention cost the delegates who attended and stayed to the bitter end.

The McAdoo campaign skidded when it struck the oil. It was a case of the immovable striving the irresistable when it met the Smith boom.

There's talk of a reduction in the price of gasoline. Has it anything to do with the suit which has been started by the government against the oil companies?

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Take the country by and far there are a good many quacks. The practice of medicine has no corner in the business. It may be that you will find them in all the trades and professions. But for the Simon-pure, undiluted, one hundred per cent quack you must look to politics. The professional political orator is pastmaster at the trade. How glibly do such stock expressions as the following roll from his lips: "Predatory wealth," "special privilege," "the favored few" and the "struggling many." If there is only a sob in his voice and tears in his eyes the trick generally takes with the crowd, that is, a crowd of a certain type. There are always those in a political party who only know what they are told, and they take such slush as "law and gospel." Of course it is always the "other party" that is crushing down the "struggling many" by means of their "predators interests" and "special privileges." Of course it is nothing but comic opera to people of intelligence.

One does not have to go to some agricultural experiment station to see an exhibit of expert farming—on a small scale. On the eastern fringe of Mohegan park one may have many illustrations of this, and doubters in other environs of the city. The writer speaks of this section because it has come to his notice. Possibly this year nature has been a great aid because the ground in ordinary seasons is rather moist. In spite of rocks, roots and other impediments to newly-cultivated land, the results are a wonder, and clearly show what muscle, endurance and skill in small gardening will do. Nearly all of this land—until lately entirely waste land—has been bought by foreigners, who are working it with that minuteness that is so in evidence in the old world.

If one wishes to get what Ruskin so appropriately calls "the real foliage impression" he wants to get into the woods in early dusk on one of these gray days. This period of the best impression is short. The sun must have been down for a short space, and the darkness must not have become quite visible. There is something about the action of the late sunlight on the smooth gray clouds that brings out the green foliage a yellowish tinge that is quite indescribable. Thoreau attempted it in his Days in June, but it cannot be called a huge success, and if this master craftsman in translating natural phenomena failed, a layman had better not try it. But one can enjoy the singular impression that is caused by a combination of quietude and color. If one has a slumbering spark of the esthetic in his nature such a moment will surely bring it to the surface. It has the same impression on the writer as one of the symphonies of Beethoven.

Has anyone yet looked far enough into the mysteries of creation to discover the physical or moral uses of mosquitoes? It may be, that, physically, the pest is designed to inform us most painfully that we are composed of flesh and blood, and that at any moment we are in danger of losing both—especially the latter. Why does this infernal insect select those portions of the human anatomy for his surgical operations that are most dangerous to slap? How unerringly his instinct tells him just where to bore and how long! Why does he select those highly-sensitive spots where the agony is most acute! This consumptive-looking little animal gets more blood out of our domes with less fuss and bluster than congressional committees get oil out of Teapot Domes. And perhaps he uses it for the same purpose of oiling up his political machinery.

Have the delegates to a national political convention any rights whatever that the general public are morally and politically bound to respect? A great gathering like that at Madison Square Garden is made up of representatives duly indorsed and sent by the people of their party from every state in the Union. Many of them come from long distances, and at much pecuniary inconvenience. While transacting the business that naturally falls to such a body they have rights that outsiders ought to respect. If widely divergent views are expressed on the floor of the convention, it is a matter wholly for the convention to deal with, not outsiders. It almost transcends belief that outsiders should be permitted to heckle speakers on the floor and hoot them and otherwise insult them because they are not in sympathy with the views expressed. It is the first time in our history that hoodlums have been allowed to annoy a convention.

Elizabeth Stuart Phelps in her brilliant, but somewhat whimsical, book, "Beyond The Gates," has one truly great chapter on the Symphony of Color as one of the distinguishing marks of "The Sweet By and By." It takes a person of no little imagination, and an equal amount of audacity, to tell us just what heaven looks like. Only a writer of the first order could do the stunt without being laughed at. People generally, not color-blind, enjoy color. Even those who have no ear for the sweetest strains of music find delight in color. This was deeply impressed on the writer's mind Fourth of July at the display of fireworks on the fair grounds. The beautiful colors brought out in such variations aroused great enthusiasm on the part of the crowd, and had it not been for the regretable accident at the very beginning, doubtless the enthusiasm would have been greater.

It may be well enough when the opportunity presents itself for the delegates from the several states when in national convention to pay their respects to "favorite sons" so-called. Strange as it may seem "favorite sons" are more likely to be abused than praised. The most thankless of all tasks is serving the public, and if a few fellows are fortunate enough to get some mark of appreciation once in four years nobody ought to kick. But it is easy to see how this "favorite son" business can become a nation-wide joke when it wholly ceases to be a mark of respect, and becomes a mere factional expedient for clogging the convention wheels in producing deadlocks. Most men of any considerable self-respect would hardly look upon it as complimentary to be used as a shuttlecock in political maneuvers. Undoubtedly these states are quite within their legal and political rights in keeping up the farce, but the wisdom of the move will doubtless be seen later.

Is there not great public value in what may be called community psychology? This is seen when a city or a section of a city celebrates the Fourth of July. For several consecutive years Greeneville as a community entered heartily into a celebration of the most important day in our political calendar. It was quite obvious to the keen observer that such events added much to the cohesive strength of the community. The get-together spirit always exerts a salutary influence on the mass of people. Of course untoward features may arise to modify this effect, but in general the effect is salutary. The West Side made a splendid spectacle in both its morning parade and evening display of fireworks. No small part of the success was due to the splendid music furnished by American-Italian band.

WHY FLYERS WAIT ON WEATHER

Day after day delay of Lieutenant Russel L. Maughan in making his dawn-to-dusk flight across the continent recalls the similar case of Orville Wright in 1908 when he made his first public flights at Fort Myer, Virginia.

Despite the presence of diplomats, public officials and other distinguished spectators Wright would come out of his tent, scan the sky, and announce he would not fly that day, much to the disappointment of the "gallery."

Neither Wright nor Maughan were being temperamental; both courted success by taking into account the essential of weather conditions.

Just how necessary is such calculation is attested by Lieutenant John A. Macready, U. S. A., one of America's most daring aviators, and hero of a recent forced parachute drop by night. In his diary of the first non-stop flight across America, made with Lieutenant Oakley G. Kelley, published in the July National Geographic Magazine, Macready writes:

"The majority of people probably think that all we had to do to make the flight was to climb into the plane, start across, and trust to luck. But transcontinental non-stop flights and endurance records are primarily made on the ground. Success or failure depends largely on the work and preparation that is done before the plane takes the air.

"Wind and weather must be studied and the nature of the flight arranged to benefit by these agencies.

"Bad weather in the daytime would not bother. We would have started in a rain-storm, had the winds been right and the conditions at night favorable.

Dreaded Night Storms

"We dreaded storm conditions over the mountains at night. No one had ever flown across country under these circumstances and we did not know whether or not a plane would be beaten to the ground.

"We would take the best that we could get, but we hoped for a full moon, clear sky, and strong tail wind. A start would have been made in the dark of the moon, had all other conditions been ideal.

"When the transcontinental flight was first contemplated, the prospective pilots conferred with the Chief of the Weather Bureau at Washington to ascertain what simultaneous weather conditions might be expected over such a large area, to receive information and data regarding the speed and direction of prevailing winds, and to get expert advice respecting the most logical starting point, whether from the east or west coast.

"Weather maps over a period of years showed an average wind velocity from west to east during the month of October of 23 miles per hour. Taking this fact into consideration, the chief forecaster, Major E. E. Bowie, recommended that the direction of flight be toward the east, even though the distance to be traveled was considerably greater.

"After October 10 there was practically no moon. Had all weather conditions and winds been ideal, the pilots would have attempted the flight during this period of total darkness, as the cold of winter, long nights, and uncertain weather were hazardous.

"All was in readiness to start on short notice; in fact, two starts were anticipated during this time, and the airplane was brought out at night to the end of the runway with the expectation of a take-off in the morning; but later weather reports were unfavorable and it did not appear good judgment to leave under such conditions.

Was a Trying Period

"This period of waiting was a trying one. Few individuals enjoy good soft beds and good square meals more than Kelly and myself, but this was not the time to be loafing around San Diego, and we were getting desperate.

"Every time we stepped into an elevator at our hotel some one would ask us when we intended to start.

"It was all right for a week or so after the duration record, but later on, when the sun would be shining brightly in San Diego and Kelly and I would be making no apparent effort to go, we imagined that people would wink at their friends and say, 'Those two birds know a good thing when they get it. They haven't any idea of trying to get across this old continent. They'll spend a nice soft winter in San Diego and fly back by easy stages, when it's too late to make the non-stop.'

"They did not realize that at that minute there were rain storms in the Middle West and in the mountains and elevations that we would cross in darkness.

"A report from the chief forecaster at Washington on the morning of November 3 stated that weather conditions would not be propitious for a start within the next thirty-six hours. In the face of these reports, it was not expected that a start would be made the morning of November 3.

When Forecasters Agreed

"But on the night of November 3, the San Diego weather forecaster, Mr. Dean Blake, brought his maps to the quarters of the pilots. Indications were for reasonably favorable weather with favoring winds for practically the entire route. At approximately 9 p. m. a report was received from the chief forecaster at Washington as follows:

'Weather conditions propitious for start Friday morning. Saturday conditions will be less favorable.

"With the two forecasters agreeing on almost ideal conditions there was no reason for delay.

"I was giving an address to the University club of San Diego during the course of their annual Duck Dinner, and Kelly received the reports at our hotel. He called me to the phone as I was finishing my talk. He said: 'Mac, have you got your passage booked for New York?' I answered that I had my ticket. 'All right; we start in the morning. Better get over here right away,' he said.

"I excused myself and left the dinner at 9:30 p. m., without intimating our decision. The next morning, when the University clubmen arose from their beds, their morning newspapers informed them that Kelly and I were well on our way across the continent. It must have been considerable of a shock to them, as the general consensus of opinion seemed to be that we were settled in San Diego for the winter."

The above description relates to an unsuccessful but remarkable attempt at crossing the continent. The successful flight was made from Long Island to San Diego, May 2 and 3, 1924.

Schumann-Heink's Many Troubles

Trouble has frequently played a harsh discordant accompaniment to the musical career of Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink.

She was born at the camp at Lieben, Austria, her father being Major Rosseler of the Austrian Army, and her girlhood was one of privation.

At 11 while she was singing in the choir of the Ursuline Convent at Prague her voice was discovered. A retired prima donna started to give her free instruction, but after one lesson the girl's father was ordered to Gratz.

There the Colonel's daughter taught her gratiously. Sent to buy food the girl had to sing for the grocer to get credit. She played a piano in a restaurant for peasants to dance Sunday afternoons until her shocked parents heard of it.

At 16 she sang in a quartette presenting Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, and the soprano took her to Vienna for a trial before Imperial Royal Court Intendent Jauner, a family friend providing the railroad fare. The girl's poor dress prejudiced the immaculate official and she was so frightened she could not sing.

A month later she won a place in the Royal Opera company at Dresden earning $60 a month. She also sang in the Cathedral but was so filled with wonderment when the King and Queen attended that she failed in her solo. Then followed four years of intensive training.

Later she sang at the Hamburg Stadt theatre. She married Lieutenant Heink, who gambled away much of her small salary, and she had to cook and tend babies between performances. To show her ability she went to Berlin at night by third class, and without food, appeared at a benefit performance of Il Trovature.

Then came her success in London and her appearances in this country that won ovations. She had left her children, with her second husband, Paul Schumann, but later brought them to America. Schumann died and she married William Rapp, Jr., but the marriage was unhappy and divorce followed. During the World war she had sons on both sides and one was killed.

Today at 62 she still is one of the world's popular singers.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

GOD'S CARE

Casting all your care upon him for he careth for you.—1 Peter, 5:7. Happy is the man who feels God cares for him; that he journeys forward under divine convoy; that his Father is regent of universal wisdom; and represents the whole commonwealth of love, who is all nature, and who commands all nature to serve His child. Such a man is weaponed against every enemy, and is invincible. He dwells in the very realm of restfulness. He abides, far above all fear, as eagles above the arrows flight. He who carries with him this sense of God's loving providence is fitted to pass through fire, through flood, through all the thunder of life's battle. He has in himself the pledge of victory in the midst of things unvictorious, conquers midst things low, things hard, things strifeful.

God cares for man—then from every storm there is a harbor in the eternal heart, and a place of refuge within the everlasting arms. God cares for you, therefore. His providence, smiting the rock in the desert, shall bring forth living water. God cares for you, therefore, in thy wild and stormy night He shall come to you, walking upon the wave, to bid your storm be still. God cares for you, therefore, you shall see His angles sitting at the door of the sepulchre digged in your life garden.

Because He cares for you, the whole Kingdom of love yearns and waits your homecoming. Therefore, every-day reach up and shake the bourns of infinite bounty and fruitfulness. Let every thought and feeling sing, as an Aeolin harp gives music to every wandering mind. Put away care and anxiety, and cast out all fevered fears. Joy and song betoken royal kinship. He who bears commission from royalty wears not sackcloth, unless he has fallen among robbers.

Because thou art the child of providence thou shouldst be the child of hope and trust. God careth for you; therefore live a trustful, tranquil, God-centered life, meeting storm with calm, adversity with fortitude, defeat with faith, death with hope of immortal life.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

FRENCH GUIANA

French Guiana, to which French courts recently sentenced Germans from the Ruhr convicted of sabotage, is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society:

"Because it has been heard of principally in connection with the deportation of convicts, and especially in regard to the Dreyfus case, French Guiana has gained a black name," says the bulletin. "It is true the region has been developed chiefly as a penal station, and perhaps it deserves its civil repute; but in physical aspects and possibilities, at least, it is closely comparable to British and Dutch Guiana, both of which have had a measurable degree of prosperity. With the convict millstone around its neck, French Guiana's colony, has never really had a chance.

"This only French possession on the mainland of the Western Hemisphere is situated about midway of the northern shore of South America, on one side touching Brazil not far from the mouth of the Amazon, and on the other, Dutch Guiana. It is in both size and shape closely comparable to South Carolina; but there the likeness stops. French Guiana is only 200 miles north of the Equator, while South Carolina is some 1800 miles farther north. The climate is fairly hot throughout the year and the rainfall is heavy. Mangrove thickets line the coast; farther inland are grassy plains, small editions of those of Venezuela; beyond these are some of the densest forests to be found in South America.

"Except for gold fields on some of the rivers, only the coastal fringe has been utilized by the French. Midway inland communities of former negro slaves live—the so-called 'bush negroes'—while the few remaining Indians have been pushed still farther from the coast. Agriculture hardly exists. Of the 32,000 square miles or more of the possession barely 20 square miles are in cultivation. The total population is probably less than 50,000.

"Cayenne, known by sound at least because it has given its name to a pepper, is the capital and only port of importance in French Guiana. Its inhabitants number 15,000, nearly a third of the entire population of the country. With its houses of colored stucco and its avenues and squares shaded by superb balm, it has attractive aspects. In it dwell men of many climes and colors. Chinese keep the shops; natives of Indo-China supply the markets; officialdom is French; and on the streets are to be seen creoles from Martinique, Arabs from northern Africa, and negroes from Senegal and the Guiana interior.

"Among the other public buildings in Cayenne is the inevitable penitentiary in which are housed some of the transported, criminals. St. Laurent, the westernmost town in French Guiana, on the Maroni River, opposite the Dutch village of Albina, is the seat of penal administration for the colony. There the directors of the penal establishment reside and nearby is a group of penitentiaries. Nine miles away, at the end of French Guiana's only stretch of railroad is St. Jean, a penal settlement where convicts live in cottages.

"What may be considered the apex of the penal system of French Guiana, however, is not at St. Laurent, but on the Iles du Salut, off shore 40 miles from Cayenne. On St. Joseph and Isle Royale are penitentiaries for dangerous criminals. The third, Ile du Diable—Devil's Island—is the heavily fortified abode of life prisoners. It was there that Captain Dreyfus, victim of a plot in the French Army, was confined.

"Thousands of Frenchmen lost their lives from tropical fever in the effort to colonize Guiana before it was set aside for convicts. Of 14,0000 volunteers sent out in 1763 from Alsace and Lorraine only a handful were alive after two years. In memory of Canada, skates were sent along on this expedition to the Tropics, but adequate food and agricultural implements were not provided. In 1797, during the French revolutionary regime 600 Royalists were banished to the colony, most of them to perish miserably. It was then the land gained the name, 'the dry guillotine.'

"Wild tales were believed about the Guiana region in the early days. Expeditions were sent there the 16th century to search for 'El Dorado,' the mythical 'Golden One' who was believed to live in a palace of rubies and emeralds and bathe in golden waters.

Washington, July 11.—An earthquake of pronounced intensity was recorded today at Georgetown university. It lasted from 3:09 to 5 p. m. with the maximum intensity between 3:48 and 3:56 o'clock. The conservative estimated distance from Washington was 7,500 miles. Father Tondorf, the director, said, but the direction was undetermined.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Sprinkling the Garden

Mr. Merry Sun shone bright and clear
On the pretty town of Lettucemere
As the Luckymobile came to a stop
In front of a lollypop candy shop.

Out hopped dear Uncle Lucky and Little Jack Rabbit and into the store they quickly went to spend a nice new carrot cent.

"My goodness, how dry the country is," exclaimed the old gentleman rabbit, hopping into the Luckymobile. "It hasn't rained for a month of Sundays. I'm afraid my garden will turn into a Sahara desert."

He gently squirted the water through his trunk.

"Let's stop at the Three-in-One-Cent store for a long rubber hose with a sprinkler," suggested Little Jack Rabbit.

"Good, idea," answered dear Uncle Lucky, and off he drove for Rabbitville.

All of a sudden, just like that, quick as the wind that blows off your hat, a loud voice asked:

"Where are you going, so bumperty quick
Is Little Miss Mousie or Lady Love sick?"

"No, no, no!" shouted Uncle Lucky. "I'm going to buy a sprinkler to water my garden. And I'm hurrying to get it now and not tomorrow. That's why I'm hurrying so."

"Maybe you won't find one at the Three-in-One-Cent Store," answered the voice, and out from behind a clump of bushes came the Circus Elephant. "Perhaps I can help you."

"Can you?" asked Uncle Lucky, stopping the Luckymobile. "Wish you would. The lettuce leaves are all withered."

"Take me down to the Old Duck Pond," replied the Circus Elephant, climbing into the Luckymobile.

On reaching the pond, he thrust his long trunk into the water and when he had sucked up maybe twenty-one gallons, he leaned back with a sigh and said:

"Take me to your garden where the crispy lettuce grow. I'll sprinkle them with water till they glisten in a row."

Then away drove dear Uncle Lucky, no longer anxious about his little vegetable garden. As soon as they arrived at his pretty white house the kind elephant hurried around to the back yard. Carefully stepping between the rows of withered vegetables, he gently squirted the water through his long trunk, sprinkling the lettuce leaves, the turnips and carrots until, pretty soon, not so very long, they began to look fresh and green again.

"Hurrah!" shouted happy Uncle Lucky. "You're a friend in need and a friend indeed!"

AMBASSADOR HANIHARA LEAVES FOR TOKIO

Washington, July 11.—Ambassador Hanihara of Japan, left Washington last night to return to Tokio. Although officially going to Japan on leave he is not expected in diplomatic circles to return.

The embassy staff, headed by M. Yoshida, the counsellor who is left in charge, gathered at the station to say good bye while present representing the state department was John Van A. MacMurray, chief of the far eastern division.

Hope was expressed generally that the ambassador would return to Washington and Mr. Hanihara more than once smilingly replied that his connections here had been so pleasant he would be glad to do so. Because of developments incident to the passage of the immigration legislation with its Japanese exclusion provision, however, declination of a new envoy was generally expected.

BRYAN CONFIDENT OF DEMOCRATIC SUCCESS

Washington, July 11.—William J. Bryan en route to St. Louis, from New York stopped off here long enough today to reiterate his support of the democratic ticket of John W. Davis and Charles W. Bryan, and to express confidence in its success in November.

Mr. Bryan predicted that when Mr. Davis made his acceptance speech all presumptions which might be held by anyone against him would be wiped away. He said in opposing the nomination of Mr. Davis originally his objections were not personal. He regarded the democratic nominee as a man of exceptional ability and high character, he added, and never had questioned his attitude on public questions.

"I conferred with Mr. Davis yesterday afternoon," he continued, and found him delightfully frank in his discussion of political questions."

FUNERALS

Mrs. John C. Kesley

Funeral services for Mrs. John C. Kesley were held Friday morning at 8.30 o'clock from her late home on Division street extension. Requiem high mass was celebrated at St. Mary's Memorial church at 9 o'clock by Rev. William A. Keefe, rector. The music of the mass was in charge of Henry LaFontaine. At the offertory De Profundis was sung and as a waiting hymn Abide With Me was rendered.

Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where the committal service was read by Rev. Father Keefe. The bearers were Joseph Troland, John Sullivan, John Quinn, Jeremiah Driscoll, William Casey and Morris Coughlin.

The floral tributes were most beautiful, a wealth of forms and pieces being sent to the funeral by loving relatives and friends.

Arrangements were by Hourigan Brothers.

Alexander Kovalenko

Funeral services for Alexander Kovalenko, the nine year old boy who was drowned Thursday morning in the Yantic river, were held Friday morning at 8.30 o'clock from the home of his father at 76 High St., with a service at 9 o'clock at St. Nicholas church, Rev. Nikamor Sokoloff officiating. Burial was in St. Nicholas cemetery where the committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Sokoloff. The bearers were Michael and Alexander Kovalenko, Chester Daresez and Chester Dwacki.

Shea & Burke were in charge of arrangements.

Miss Jane Eliza Foley.

Private funeral services for Miss Jane Eliza Foley were held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home of her sister, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell of 315 Broadway. The service was conducted by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, who also conducted the committal service at the grave in Yantic cemetery. The bearers were Edward A. Olds Jr., Archibald Mitchell, 4th, George Mitchell and Henry L. Frisbie.

There were many beautiful flowers sent by loving relatives and friends, a silent testimonial to the esteem in which the deceased had been held by her many friends.

Arrangements were by C. A. Gager.

On Trip to Canada.

PLYMOUTH ROCKS FIRST AT STORRS IN 36TH WEEK

In the 36th lap of the egg race at Storrs, W. H. B. Kent's pen of Barred Rocks from Cazenovia, N. Y., ran first with a score of 55 eggs. Hilltop Farm's pen of Leghorns from Suffield, Conn., and Emory H. Bartlett's pen of the same breed from Enfield, Mass. tied for second place with 53 eggs each. A pen of White Leghorns owned by O. C. Chadwick at Randolph Center, Vt., was third best for the week with a score of 52 eggs. Two Massachusetts pens of Rhode Island Reds entered by Fernside Farm at Attleboro and Red Mount Farm at Franklin and four pens of White Leghorns owned by Andrew L. Ohr of Wallingford, Conn., C. T. Darby of North Branch, N. J., J. W. Steelman of State College, Pa., and George B. Ferris of Grand Rapids, Mich., all tied for fourth place with 51 eggs each. The total score for all pens was 3610 eggs or a yield of a little more than 51 per cent.

The management of the contest announces the following awards for the month of June. The blue ribbon or first prize was won by Red Mount Farm at Franklin, Mass., whose pen of Rhode Island Reds laid 225 eggs. White Leghorns owned by Hilltop Farm at Suffield, Conn., won the second prize with a yield of 221 eggs. Fernside Farm's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Attleboro, Mass., was awarded third prize ribbon for June with a mark of 218 eggs. It is interesting to note in this connection that although this pen made only third place for the month, it nevertheless contains the only two individual hens out of the entire 1,000 in the contest that succeeded in laying more more than 200 eggs each before the first of July. Rhode Island Reds have not succeeded in the last 13 years in winning any contest but it now looks as if they would win the current contest in a walk.

The four leading pens in each of the principal breeds are as follows:

Plymouth Rocks

H. F. Barber (White) Dover, Mass.	1431
Edgar Stoughton (Barred) Wapping, Conn.	1430

Rum-Running Autos Sold.

Twenty-two automobiles sold under the hammer by order of the federal court as part of confiscated property of rum runners, brought only $1,848.50, it was stated Friday at New Haven. Enforcement officers claimed later that many of the cars were bid in for their former owners.

RATE REDUCTION FOR ELECTRIC LIGHTS FROM MUNICIPAL PLANT

A new sliding scale of charges for electric lights that will benefit every user of electricity for light from the smallest to the largest, was presented by General Manager C. W. Taggart to the meeting of the gas and electric commissioners Friday night and was approved and adopted by the board. It will apply upon electric light bills sent out from the office of the city gas and electric department on September 1st.

The new rates will be as follows:
From 1 to 150 k. w.—10c per k. w.
From 151 to 350 k. w.—8c per k. w.
From 351 k. w. plus—6c per k. w.

These will replace the present rates which are:
From 1 to 100 k. w.—12c per k. w.
From 101 to 350 k. w.—10c per k. w.
From 351 k. w. plus—6c per k. w.

This will be a reduction of 2 cents for the big majority of those who use electric light, but will result, it is estimated, to a reduction of about $50,000 annually in the receipts of the electric department.

The commission will at once issue the 30 day notice which is required by law so that the new rates can become effective at the time as stated.

It was voted to put in extensions of the gas service on Roosevelt and Smith avenues, Maennerchor and Highland avenues in Taftville. It was also voted to purchase a new washer cooler for the gas works, a measure that will provide better gas and better service.

The report was made that material for the White Way is arriving and that the one thing that is now holding the beginning of work on this improvement is the non-arrival of poles that have been contracted for by the Connecticut Co.

There was a thorough discussion of all branches of the gas and electric department at the meeting at which the president of the commission, Jams L. Case, presided.

TWO TALMAN STREET BARNS ARE BURNED

The fire department was called out at 12.50 o'clock Saturday morning for a fire which in great part destroyed two barns on Talman street, and which for a time threatened to assume larger proportions. The fire was discovered by a young man who was crossing Preston Bridge and he quickly pulled in the alarm from Box 6 corner of Main and Talman streets.

When the firemen arrived the barns owned by Angelas Feraco of 120 Talman street and Mrs. Rose Uterstadt of 134 Talman street, which were side by side, were a mass of flames and the reflection of the blaze could be seen from many parts of the city. Two streams of water were soon turned onto the blazing barns and within 20 minutes the recall was sounded.

The fire started in the barn owned by Mr. Feraco, and quickly spread to the other. The Uterstadt family was aroused and George B. and John Uterstadt hastened to the barn, knocked off the lock and assisted by people nearby pulled the two Ford cars owned by them out of the blazing barn in time to save the machines. Practically everything else remaining in both barns was destroyed. A sad feature of the fire was the death of a number of pigeons which were kept in the Feraco barn. It was said that some 60 pigeons were in the barn, but how many managed to escape is not known and it is believed that most of them were burned to death.

The Feraco property was covered by insurance but the Uterstadt property was only partially covered and there will be some loss there.

KILLED OX AND CRASHED INTO BARN

An ox was killed and a Cadillac eight sedan was partly wrecked after turning completely over in a spectacular accident about 6 o'clock Friday evening at the James C. Green farm in Mansfield Depot on the Stafford-Willimantic highway when the machine crashed into a yoke of oxen and then into the front of a barn. The Cadillac was driven by Lyman L. Chanman of Norwich who was accompanied by his wife. Mr. Chapman rounded the top of a sharp grade near the farm and as he struck the level road he was confronted by a load of hay which was being backed into Green's barn on the roadside by a pair of oxen. The car was equipped with four wheel brakes and these Mr. Chapman applied with force but to no avail and he struck one of the oxen, causing fatal injury and then tore through part of the barn. The force of the collision threw the heavy machine into the air and it turned a somersault. Fortunately Mr. and Mrs. Chapman escaped serious injury. He was slightly cut about the head and arms, but Mrs. Chapman was unhurt. State Policeman Henry Heinold of the Stafford Springs barracks investigated the accident. Mr. Chapman will appear before the Mansfield town court within a few days on a technical charge of violation of the automobile laws.

EIGHT FALL VICTIMS TO NEW FLASHING BEACON

Officer Henry Fenton, who is on duty on the Water street beat sent a regular procession of automobile drivers to police headquarters Friday night with red tags for violation of the traffic laws. Eight was the officer's count, two from New London, one from Plainfield and the rest from this city. They were all ordered to appear in the city court this (Saturday) morning to answer to the same charge. None of them could resist the temptation to drive to the left of the new flashing beacon that has been placed at the intersection of Market and Water street. Each one was coming from the West Side through Water street and up through Market into Main when the officer saw them cut the beacon on the left. Instead of slowing down as they would have to do in order to go around on the right,

FOR SUPERIOR COURT IN CUTTING CASE

William E. (Duke) Johnson, living at the northerly end of Baltic street, near Mohegan park, was bound over to the superior court from the city court Friday morning by Judge A. F. Libby on the charge of assaulting John Tennant of 517 North Main street, with a dangerous weapon on the night of July 5. A breach of the peace charge was nolled. Bonds of $1,000 were furnished for Johnson.

The testimony was that Tennant was cut with a beef steak carver by Johnson while the two men were engaged in a struggle at Johnson's home after an argument that ensued when Tennant walked home with Mrs Johnson after she had been calling on Mrs. Tennant.

Tennant was slashed across the forehead and in the left shoulder.

CASE OF LOCKJAW FROM NAIL IN FOOT

Henry P. Daniels, 13, son of Charles Daniels, of Colchester, is in the Backus hospital, suffering with lockjaw. Some ten days ago while at play in a camp on Cossaduck Hill, North Stonington, he stuck a nail in his foot. Friday the boy's mother pulled a piece of his stocking from the wound in his foot and tetanus developed. Dr. Michael H. Scanlon of Westerly was called and administered a large dose of anti-toxin. He directed the boy's removal to the hospital in Norwich.

RIBS FRACTURED IN FALL WHILE SHINGLING

Albert Hicks, 73, while shingling his house at Canterbury, had the staging give way and he fell to the ground. He was unconscious for some time. Dr. J. L. Gardner responded to the call and found his neck injured, ribs fractured, and injuries to his back. The outlook for his recovery, however, is quite good, the doctor says. The injuries will keep him in bed some time.

GET RAILROAD THIEVES AFTER SHARP FIGHT

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, July 11—Leroy Howliss, 17, of 98 Tenth street, an employe of the New London Ship and Engine Co., and Benjamin Danahey, 26, of 26 Harrison street, two of five men who attempted to rob railroad cars of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad here tonight, were arrested by Sergeants Martin Kane and Lewis Greene of the force of special agents on duty in the New London yards. Three others who were implicated in the attempted robbery made their escape after a battle with the officers.

Tonight Sergeants Kane and Greene awaited the arrival of the west bound train. When the train came to a stop Howliss, Danahey and the latter's three companions were seen to approach the train. The officers closed in on the gang but not until after Howliss had broken a seal of one of the cars and Danahey had obtained a bag of potatoes. As the officers approached the gang one of the quintet of thieves attacked Sergeant Kane. A brief fight between the officers and the thieves followed. Howliss and Danahey being arrested but the remainder of the gang made their escape.

The officers claim to have obtained the identity of the trio of thieves who made their escape and predict they will be arrested tomorrow.

ARRANGE BUS LINE TO MOHEGAN PARK

The park commissioners have announced that they have been successful, in cooperation with the chamber of commerce, in having the Connecticut Motor Transportation company run buses on regular schedule from the Bus Terminal on Main street to the center of Mohegan park.

The public utilities commission has granted permission for the operation of this bus line, the route to be from the Bus Terminal, through Franklin Square Bath street, Union Square, Broadway, through Perkins avenue Warren street, Platt avenue into the center of the park. The fare will be ten cents one way. The park commissioners feel that the inauguration of this bus system will bring the beauties of Mohegan park nearer to the general public and provide a safe means of transportation to and from the park at a reasonable fare.

The busses are to start today, Saturday, the first trip from the Bus Terminal being at 12 o'clock, daylight time, arriving at Mohegan park at 12.15 o'clock.

The operation of the bus is simply an experiment for the benefit of the public and will be continued as long as there is sufficient support, the service being half hourly from 1 p. m. until 7.30 p. m. Thursdays, 12 o'clock until 7.30 o'clock on Saturdays and from 11 o'clock until 7.30 o'clock on Sundays and holidays.

SEIZE 45 CASES IN LISBON LIQUOR RAID

SUPREME COURT SUSTAINS JUDGMENT FOR $29,005

Bridgeport, July 11.—The supreme court of errors has sustained a superior court judgment of $29,005 granted to the Austin company, contractors of Cleveland, Ohio, against the Clover company, of Norwalk, of which E. B. Gallaher, is sole owner.

The Austin company was originally sued for $100,000 when a new building was not completed by it on contract time. A cross-complaint, alleged the delay was occasioned by changes in plans, was filed and damages of $500,000 were asked.

Judge Frank D. Haines accepted the recommendation of Referee Donald T. Warner, before whom the suit was tried and granted the $29,005 judgment from which Gallaher appealed.

BRITISH RUNNER BREAKS WORLD'S RECORD FOR 400-METRE EVENT

Olympic Sadium, Colombes, France, July 11—(By the A. P.)—Eric Liddell, thin legged Scotch divinity student, won Olympic glory for Great Britain today when he aped to victory in the 400 meter run with a world's record that brought to a climax the most sensational series of races ever witnessed in any international event.

The Swiss and American stars before him had shattered the world's mark for the distance, but Liddell, undaunted, came back to the final test, with an even greater speed that broke the heart of his nearest rival, Horatio Fitch, long-limbed Chicagoan, who himself had set a new record only an hour before in the semi-finals. Liddell's time for the distance was 4 3-5 seconds.

Liddell's victory was as decisive as it was startling, for, leading from the crack of the gun he fought off his only real challenger, Fitch, in the stretch, and won by eight meters. On the stretch behind lay the prostrate forms of Joseph Imbach, the little Swiss locksmith, who virtually broke down after having been the world's record holder for twenty-four hours, and J. Coard Taylor, the gallant American, who despite an injured ankle had third place clinched with a closing rush when he tripped over a lane marked and fell heavily to the ground.

Taylor's fall enabled G. M. Butler of Great Britain and Johnston, of Canada, to gain third and fourth places, but the American, semi-conscious, responded to the appeals of the onlookers to rise and staggered across the finish, winning fifth place, then he collapsed.

Farther down the track almost unnoticed in the pandemonium that broke loose when Liddell broke the tape, another tragedy was enacted as Imbach lifted himself painfully from where he had fallen exhausted. He went to the starting pole ill and showed over the first half of the distance that he was badly off form. His collapse came as he was stumbling into the stretch. His condition tonight was said to be not serious, but Taylor, who had to be carried off the field was under medical care for a badly pulled ligament and lacerations of both knees.

American fared well, today, Emerson Norton, of Georgetown, and Harold Osborne, Illinois A. C., the decathlon aces of the United States, were one, two in a brilliant battle for points over the first half of the gruelling, ten event contest, which will be completed tomorrow. The United States also captured the second heat of the 3,000 metre team race trials. The first heat saw Finland's cracks, Nurmi, Ritola and Tala finishing one, two, three, giving the Scandinavians a clean sweep of the heat.

The United States aided by the six points tallied in the 400 metre race, while Finland added nothing to its score, increased its point lead to 80 1-2 over its nearest rival and assumed a position which tonight seemed so strong as to virtually assure continuance unbroken of the string of Olympic track and field triumphs since the modern revival twenty eight years ago.

The total score now shows the United States with 183 1-2 and Finland with 103, while Great Britain has jumped to 60 1-2 for third place.

Finland, with a mighty corps of distance runners promises to add heavily to its score, but the United States, though its series of mishaps was increased today by the witndrawal of De Hart Hubbard, negro star, from the hop, step and jump, still is considered to have the strength to pile up many points in the remaining ten battles.

The 3,000 metre team second heat, saw the American mile champion, Joie Ray, come to grief in this his first appearance in the Olympics, he lost a shoe and about one hundred metres ground in a bad mixup at one of the turns. Three Americans, however, William L. Cox, Mercersburg Academy, Edwin S. Kirby, Cornell, and W. L. Tibbetts, Jr. Harvard, finished second, third and fourth, behind Elvin Wide, the Swedish star, who shook off Ray early in the race and won easily.

Wide, however, will not compete in the finals Sunday for the failure of his teammates to support him enabled France to beat Sweden for the second qualifying place. The clean-cut victory of the Finns in the first heat established them as topheavy favorites, but the Americans, with Ray back in form, may give the Scandinavians a good tussle.

The fine start of Norton and Osborne in the decathlon gives them an excellent chance of victory when the final events of this contest are held. Osborne broke the decathlon high jump record, winning this feature with a mark of 1.97 meters, with Norton not far behind. The latter's excellent showing in the other four events—100 and 400 metre runs, shot put and broad jump—gave him a slight edge in the point totals at the end of the day. Norton's point total thus far is 4170.92 and Osborne's 4168.10.

The only other contest of the afternoon was the second and last trial heat of the 10,000 metre walk, won easily by Frigerio, Italian holder of the Olympic championship. His chief rival was McMaster, of South Africa. The sole American entrant, Charles Foster, of the Detroit Y. M. C. A., was disqualified for foulng.

CHIEF LINTON RECALLS DEBUT OF NED HANLON IN BASEBALL

Chief Linton of the local police department was in a reminiscent mood on Friday, and among other things recalled Ned Hanlon's debut in baseball in Norwich fifty years ago on the Fourth of July. As every Norwich baseball fan knows Ned Hanlon made a great record in baseball with the Old Baltimore Orioles about the same time John McGraw broke into the limelight.

The game was between the Unas of New Haven, a fast amateur team and the Arctics of Norwich. Hanlon was chosen as the pitcher for this game and it was the first time that he had earned a dollar at baseball. Mickey Miner was the catcher for Hanlon. Hanlon at that time was living in Uncasville. The game was a good one, Norwich not scoring a run in five innings while the Unas tallied 7 off Hanlon. In the sixth the Norwich boys started to work and scored six runs. The Unas, however, refused to play after the seventh inning and the score terminated with the score 7 to 6 in favor of the New Haven team.

In speaking of the game, Chief Linton said that Norwich people were amazed to see Keenan, the New Haven catcher, wearing a glove. It was not the kind of mitt that catchers wear today but a heavy leather glove with the fingers cut off. Another amusing incident was that the Unas brought their own umpire, a colored boy, who knew the game, but his decisions did not meet with local favor and he was chased off the diamond and a Norwich man, who knew little about baseball, was sent in. Keenan afterward became a big league catcher. The chief also recalled other games of the dim past.

An account of this game is contained in the items in this paper under Fifty Years Ago.

U. S. MATMERS ARE DEFEATED IN OLYMPIC MATCHES

Paris, July 11.—(By The A. P.)—United States wrestlers encountered two defeats this afternoon under the worst wrestling conditions imaginable in the glass-roofed velodrome D'Hiver which belied its name of winter velodrome by producing a tropical temperature.

Larsson of Sweden put away C. Milton McWilliams, the plucky Cornell grappler, on points in a gruelling bout in which the Scandinavian youngster's superior reach and height gave the Ithican little chance. The Esthonian Praks floored Perry Martter, of Los Angeles, after a brief fierce struggle.

Meanwhile, Nat Pendleton, United States professional champion heavyweight, looked gloomily on from the sidelines deriving consolation only from the fact that he has challenged Robert Roth whom he met at Antwerp in the 1920 finals. The result of that match was disputed since the referees gave him the decision but the judges reversed it. The American champion said today that he was in fine shape and wanted to even up that score.

BRITISH GOLFERS WIN FROM AMERICAN PROS

Oxhey, England, July 11.—(By The A. P.)—George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, leading British professional golfers, today avenged their defeat of last year at the hands of Walter Hagen and Jim Barnes of America by defeating Hagen and his compatriot MacDonald Smith four up and two to play in their 72-hole match for a purse of 300 pounds and international honors.

On the first 36 holes of this year's contest, played yesterday at the St. George's club, the British pair finished four up. At the conclusion of the last half of the match this afternoon the Americans had succumbed and Duncan and Mitchell prepared to split the 300 pounds purse. Hagen and Smith will receive 50 pounds each as the loser's end.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Athletic Manager, New York Giants

Any inning. Score 0 to 0. Two men out. Man on second. Ball hit to third baseman.

Should third baseman throw ball to first or tag the runner?

When a ball is hit to the third baseman under these conditions and the runner is coming down from second, he should certainly touch the runner, if there is a good chance for him to do so, rather than to throw to first. There is far less chance of error by making the play in this way. If he throws to first and the ball is high, a score is almost sure to result to the side not yet retired. It is much easier to touch the runner and retire the side than to take a chance that the other side will score on the play.

GOOD GAME EXPECTED AT HOSPITAL TODAY

This afternoons baseball attraction for Norwich fans will be at the State hospital when the Riverview club meets the J. B. Martin taem in the first game of the series between these two old rivals. It will be remembered that last year there was a spirited series between these clubs and some fast baseball and close games was the result.

Practically the same teams will clash in today's contest but instead of Tony West on the mound for Riverview oy will toe the rubber. Roy pitched a good game on Wednesday for Riverview and it was through no fault of his that the Sub Base won. Oposing Roy on the mound will be the illustrious Mike Morin, former Canadian league pitcher. Morin is well known to local fans and is going well this season. Joe Belair will catch for the Hospital and Jimmy Murphy will do the backstop work for the Velvetmen.

The lineups of the teams will be as follows:

Riverview—Roy p, Belair c; Coullard 2b; Burns 2b; Whitney 3b; Mills ss; Laffy lf; Noel cf; Allard rf.

J. B. Martin—Morin p; J. Murphy c; J. Joulbert 1b; Cardie 2b; Gley 3b; DeCelles ss; W. Gley lf; E. Murphy cf; E. Joubert rf.

The Riverview club has secured the services of Morin to umpire. Morin has umpired college baseball for many years, umpiring the Holy Crohn games and the Connecticut Aggie games. He is now making his home in Norwich.

TILDEN ADVANCES TO FINAL ROUND IN NATIONAL CLAY COURT TENNIS

St. Louis, July 11.—(By The A. P.)—William H. Tilden, 3nd, of Philadelphia, the defending champion, advanced to the final round of the national clay court tennis tournament at the Triple A. C., today by defeating Brian I. C. Norton, St. Louis, in straight sets, the score being 6-1, 6-1, 6-1.

The Philadelphian played his best tennis of the tournament and won from Norton easily.

A recapitulation of the match follows.

Tilden: Sets, 3, games 18; points 82; outs 15; netted balls 13; placements 20; aces 2; double faults 3.

Norton: Sets none; games 3; points 42; outs 25; netted balls 25; placements 8; double faults 3; errors 2.

In the second singles match of the afternoon between Harvey B. Snodgrass of Los Angeles, and Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., Springfield, Mass., Snodgrass won the first and second sets. Chapin took the third but dropped the match by losing the decisive set. The score was 7-5, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2.

The national doubles champions from California, Howard and Robert Kinsey, came into the semi-finals doubles today by defeating Leven Jester, and John Barr, of Dallas, Texas. The score was 6-0, 6-2, 7-5.

William T. Tilden, II, and A. L. Winer, Philadelphia, had a close call in the fourth round doubles match against Ray Brown and Karl Kammann, the St. Louis stars. The visitors were forced to play through 69 games in five sets. It was the longest game as yet in the doubles event of the tournament. The score was 4-6, 15-13, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3.

R. E. Schlesinger, of Australia and A. H. Chapin, Jr., furnished a surprise in the doubles by eliminating Walter Westbrock, and Harvey Snodgrass, the Californians. This match also required five sets, 3-6, 2-6, 6-2, 8-6, 6-4.

MERRIMAN'S WIN OVER FAVORITE IS FEATURE

Columbus, Ohio, July 11.—(By The A. P.)—Defeat of the sensational Kate Hal in the free for all pace by Merriman of the Murphy stables featured the get-away card at the mid-summer Grand Circuit meeting here. After Kate Hal had won the first heat in 2.02 when Merriman went to a break, the Murphy pacer took the next two in 2.01 and 2.01½, the three heats being the fast paced in any race this season. Kate Hal was a strong favorite and Merriman was second choice.

The other two events on the card were rather cheap affairs. Although each developed quite a battle. There were four heats before the 2.14 trot was won by Guardian Trust which won the second and fourth heats and broke in the first and third. San Pedro won the first and Rochelle Maid, the favorite, were the third.

The favored Kinney Boy won the 2.18 pace by taking two heats although he made a break in the first heat. The third heat went to Bonnie Watts, an outsider.

ST. LOUIS DIVIDES HONORS WITH THE RED SOX

Boston, July 11.—St. Louis and Boston divided a double header here today, St. Louis taking the first game by an 8 to 1 score and losing the second to the Red Sox 7 to 6. Wingards superb pitching and home run for St. Louis with one on base featured the opening contest. The Browns were leading 5 to 0 in the second game when Boston began hitting in the second inning, batting Kolp, Pruett, Van Gilder and Bayne hard. Lee drove in three runs. Gerber's fielding was vivid. Boston won four games in this six game series. The scores:

YANKS TAKE LEAD BY BEATING CHICAGO

New York, July 11.—The New York American won their series from Chicago, four games to two, by slugging out victory in the last game here today by a score of 12 to 9. Manager Evers of Chicago started the game with his new battery from Minneapolis, Mangum and Grabowski, but the former was batted freely and they were withdrawn after three innings. Lyons, Mangum's successor, also was hit hard in the seventh and eighth. Bush was also hit hard and was knocked out in the fifth. Falk hit him for a home run with the bases full in the third. Five home runs were hit, Ruth getting his 24th of the season. The Yankees took the lead in the seventh, batting out three runs after Ruth was intentionally passed. Score:

VANCE'S SPEED PROVES TOO MUCH FOR CUBS

Chicago, July 11.—After Vance's dazzling speed proved too much for Chicago today Brooklyn took the final game of the series 9 to 1. The visitors gathered seven runs off Blake's delivery in five innings. Fournier accounting for five of these with two home runs, his nineteenth and twentieth. Harvey Cotter, Chicago first baseman, tied the major league record for accepting chances at first base by getting 21 putouts and one assist.) Score:

THE SOCIAL CORNER

COURTESY NEVER LANDS ANYONE IN COURT.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY ON INVESTIGATIONS

Though the subject isn't pleasant we would state that right at present
Sundry plunderers are gayly putting crooked deals across—
Crooked deals whose consummation will result in a sensation.
When the looters take the profits and the people take the loss,
We can only make wild guesses at the names and the addresses
Of the gentlemen now busy at this sinister vocation.
But that time will raise the curtain on the chievery is certain
We shall find out all about it at the next investigation.
Schemes to seize us by the collars and shake out our honest dollars
Are in process of formation not so very far away.
Somewhere grafters of a feather have their crafty heads together
Framing swindles to put over in a not far distant day.

There will be some lively reading in the issues next succeeding
The disclosure of these doings; we shall know just why and how
We were parted from our savings but, how futile are these ravings
We shall find out all about it ten or twenty years from now.

It, of course, will be suggested that the thieves might be arrested
And exposed before they've salted their ill-gotten gains away.
If they, once were apprehended all their grafting would be ended.
But investigating bodies never seem to work that way.
In the wise administration of our modern legislation
A revered and ancient adage still holds all its oldtime force.
All our officers apply it, even courts are governed by it;
It is: "Never look the stable while it contains a horse."

BUILDING THE BRIDGE FOR HIM

An old man, traveling a lone highway,
Came at the evening cold and gray,
To a chasm deep and wide.
The old man crossed in the twilight
dim,
For the sullen stream held no fears for him:
But he turned when he reached the other side,
And builded a bridge to span the tide.

"Old man," cried a fellow pilgrim near,
"You are wasting your strength with building here:
Your journey will end with the ending day
And you never again pass this way;
You have crossed the chasm deep and wide.
Why build a bridge at eventide?"
And the builder raised his old, gray head—
"Good friend, on the path I have come," he said.
"There followeth after me today
A youth whose feet will pass this way.

This stream which has been as naught
to me,
To that fair-haired boy may a pitfall
be:
He, too, must cross in the twilight
dim—
Good friend, I am building this bridge for him."

JUNE

June is here, the month of sweetness,
"Perfect days" in rare completeness,
Month of sunshine and of posies,
Sweet girl graduate and roses—
There's no month we prize above you
Linger with us, for we love you.

June is here: her notes of gladness
Fill our hearts and banish sadness:
Birds their sweetest songs are singing,
Wedding bells are gaily ringing.
We have but one cause for sighing
Longest days and best are flying.

June is here, noontide of summer,
Every year a welcome comer,
Always bonny, bright and breezy
So our hearts find loving easy.
If with us thy stay were longer,
All our lives would be the stronger.

CLUB NO. 4'S PICNIC JULY 23

Dear Editor and Corner Folks: You are invited to a picnic which the members of Club 4 are planning for on the 23rd of July. Come to Dayville Four Corners then look to the east for the Corner color. Good roads and hourly trolley service will land you in the right place if you only steer right.

Dinner to be at 12 o'clock, standard time, and of course everyone is expected to bring something to make the dinner a success. It seems useless to say this for the sisters are noted for the nice quality, quantity and variety of food served at all their dinners. Please bring your own eating utensils.

There is a small roadside stand at the Corners where cream, tonic etc. can be had if any one so desires, or we can take a collection as they did at Rural Aunty's picnic and all have cream. We can decide that after you get here. Now one more thing I must not forget and that is, Mr. Twice Twenty says he hopes the brothers will come so as to keep him company.

Lilac Lady: A very sweet name you have chosen. Welcome to our Corner, and as you are a member of Club 4, will see that you have a chance to "ride the goat" at our picnic, so do not fail to come. Think Mary 'Gusta will attend to that.

Happy Go Lucky: Do not read a letter from you very often, but do observe that when you are called upon to do something for the Corner you do it very nicely and promptly. Thank you. I am going to change the subject now and tell you of Some New Things for the Baby. Carriage robes of soft, wooly elder-down, bound in a five inch satin ribbon are quite the thing for the lavette. The ribbon may either be applied flat with the corners mitered or this ribbon can be shirred and placed flat on the sides, top and bottom, and gathered within four inches of each corner.

A carriage strap, both made of two lengths of half inch rubber, both covered with the ribbon gathered over it. These two covered pieces are caught at either end with an attractive bow from which are suspended on short lengths of ribbon, two or three playthings.

Baby slippers are made by taking a one and one half inch ribbon and whipping it to the fine little padded soles, shirring sufficiently in the front to allow of foot comfort. Straps may be attached to the back or across over the instep and snapped on in the front to hold them.

Narrow baby ribbon crocheted with the same instructions which one follow for other chochet, makes beautiful and soft silky baby caps. Tiny bows of varying sizes of dainty ribbon flowers sewed onto safety pins, to be attached and detached at will are growing more and more popular. These beauty pins may be used on the shoulders or the back of little dresses, or to close the little house coats snugly fastened.

Bows about three inches wide attached to larger safety pins are particularly decorative for the fresh pillow covers each day. The larger bows of eight and ten loops of wide satin ribbon attached to blanket pins, make possible the use of one bow for many blankets.

A cunning baby bonnet may be made by taking a length of ribbon, eighth inches wide and shaping it to fit the baby's head, with a circular piece in the back to which the ribbon is gathered.

Best wishes to all from

TWICE TWENTY.

FINE TIME AT CENTRAL

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: As it is nearly time for my name in the roll call, I am saving present before time. I attended the picnic in Central Village and had a good time the short time I was there. Was surprised to see so many friendly sisters there.

Rosy Posy: Did you get home alright? Why don't you write? Have you forgotten the address?

Avon: I am still waiting and longing to hear about that picnic at Wildwood. Was sorry I could not attend the one at Versailles. Would loved to have gone as I was once a member of that church but like Buka I did not like to go alone. We both live in the same town although we do not know one another personally. But better luck next time.

Savilla: I spoke to you about getting me a badge. Have you forgotten? Am looking forward to the picnic in September.

Rosy Posy: You and I had better carry a hook along next time. Ha-Ha. The lunch was fine, wasn't it?

Best regards to all the sisters.

LONESOME.

ENJOYED DAY AT VERSAILLES

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Here I am again, bobbing out and bobbing in. I am again in the city (Rose of New England.) I attended the gathering at Versailles and enjoyed the day there very much. I had as my guest a cousin. An Sweet William could not be present she sent two of her girls. It was some day for them. It looked lonesome to look at the place where the school house once was. The white fence is still standing. I played in that yard many a day. I was pleased to meet with old friends.

Grace: You have my sympathy. The blow was great, but God's love is greater. The lady who is staying with you was once my Sunday school teacher.

Best Wishes to all from

BON AMI

PLEASED AT RURAL AUNTY'S SUCCESS

Editor and Social Corner Friends: Saw my name in the roll call and am happy to say present. I'm pleased to know that Rural Aunty was so successful in getting sister near her interested, as Etta Barber had done her best to start a club up her way.

I read in The Bulletin that Balsam Fir is visiting in town and I hope to meet her. She was among the first to recognize me when the Corner first started.

Crimson Rambler: Hope your well does not run dry this summer. Many times I've longed for a good drink from it.

Long life to the Corner.

JOAN.

THREE AGES OF THE CORNER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Saw Grand Juror's name was called, and meant to have responded last week, but a lot of folks got in wrong, and so with a heavy docket to clean up the Social Corner had to wait. Now just to help keep the record straight, I want to declare myself guilty of writing under three names, To wit: Reuben's Wife, Grand Juror, and Judge K., so please erase the first two, and I will use the last one. I ask for this favor on the plea that the three names represent the three ages of the Social Corner. Reuben is wife as a first writer of the Corner, Grand Juror following the the first election after the nineteenth amendment to our glorious Constitution, and Judge K. as the years roll along with its gray hair (not bobbed) dignity and avoirdupois. You see I may get a chance to visit some of those Social Corner picnics and would want some one to recognize me. Am sure they would after this. Think I will close by sending in some lines I read recently, which might have been written by Shakespeare, but weren't.

Wrinkles disfigure a woman less than ill nature. Woman love always; when earth slips from them, they take a woman to love only her, one should have seen them all, or should see only that one. Men are so fearful of wounding a woman's vanity that they rarely remember that she may by some possibility possess a grain of common sense.

Women of the world never use harsh expressions when condemning their rivals. Like the savage, they hurl elegant arrows, ornamented with feathers of purple and azure, but with poisoned points. The whisper of a beautiful woman can be heard further than the loudest call of duty.

May health, wealth and deepest happiness come and abide with every member of the Social Corner and with the Social Corner editor.

JUDGE K.

LOOKING INTO THE FUTURE

Dear Editor and Friends of the Social Corner: I am so glad the Social Corner roll call was started and have been much interested in the responses, showing that many who contributed so ably to the success of the Corner in its early days are still busy and active, yet glad to pause and answer to their names. There are others who have responded to another roll call, whose letters are sadly missed, and whose beautiful and helpful thoughts are still cherished.

How the years have sped away, and what changes they have brought us as they passed! In fancy now I see the little farm house, and children playing about the door, as in those by gone days. The farm house has passed into other hands and other children now playing in those fields and orchards. The little ones of yesteryear have homes of their own and are doing creditably their part of the world's work.

Breaking up the old home and making a new home among entire strangers did not take all the joy out of life, but instead opened up new opportunities, and we hope, a wider field of usefulness.

Although silver threads are now plentifully scattered among the brown, we keep busy and happy; thankful for health, and the opportunities to help those less favored than ourselves.

To those who are bowed under great sorrow or have heavy burdens to bear or difficult tasks to perform, let me say, do not look into the future wondering how you can bear your sorrow or burden, but each day pray for grace and strength—Just for today. That is all life is, after all to bear bravely our sorrow or burden—just today. We are not sure of tomorrow, but if we live bravely and hopefully today, we are preparing ourselves for the morrow and what it may bring.

It is just the same with a difficult task. Do the work which lies nearest you and do it the very best you can today then when tomorrow comes you are able to do it a little easier and a little better. Aim high yes only try to do the best you can today.

To those who are very happy—to whom the past month has brought the realization of fond dreams, as they have completed courses of study or have entered cozy little homes of their own, I would say—share your happiness with those about you. Give freely each day of your smiles. Kind words and thoughtful deeds for others. Thus brightening other lives and at the same time adding joy to your own. "Count that day lost whose low descending sun Views by they hand, no worthy action done."

With best wishes for the editor and all Social Corner friends.

GLENWOOD.

THE DELIGHTS OF THE SEASON

Dear Editor and Sisters: I specially enjoyed the Social Corner the last two weeks, so that in spite of my feeble condition, I feel inspiration and encouragement to add my mite this week. Beautiful June has passed by —the month of perfect days.

"Oh, what is so rare as a day in June,
Then, if ever come perfect days.
When Heaven tries earth, if it be in tune,
And over it all her warm ear lays."

According to the calendar June is past, but I hope we may be favored with a few more of those perfect June days, as I do not think we have had as many as we are entitled to I am sending in a little poem, from the pen of Mr. Charles Edward Prior of Hartford, formerly of Jewett City. I clipped it many years ago from the Windham County Transcript, I came across it recently, and it is so sweet and appropriate I am sending it along.

"The day we celebrate," has come and gone once more, reviving memories of the past and inspiring us with patriotism and courage to be loval to our country.

"To the sages who spoke,
To the heroes who bled,
To the day and the deed,
Strike the harp strings of glory.
Let the song of the ransomed,
Remember the dead,
And the tongue of the eloquent,
Mallow the story."

Thanks to Rural Delivery for reference to my lines on "The Shut In". I hope there are many others who symphatize with those who are shut in from all the pleasures of the outside world. No one can realize what it means until they have the experience.

I enjoy reading about the picnics but am confined to my room. Best wishes to all the sisters.

INQUIRY ABOUT SISTERS

Social Corner Members: I did not intend to write so soon again but I want to thank Theoda for the information she gave me and for her appreciation of my letters of years ago. When I first began writing to the Corner there was a writer who signed her letters Billy. In some way we got into correspondence which I enjoyed although I never met her. At one time on the 10th of August there was a large celebration in Stonington and in one of her letters she gave directions to her house and invited any Social Corner members who might attend to use her yard or grounds. As I did not attend I don't know where it was. After a time I heard no more from her and there were no more letters signed Billy. I wonder if any member knows what became of her.

There was another interesting writer. I can't remember her pen name but her real name was Mrs. James Thompson. She was a young widow with one or two children, her husband having died with tuberculosis I believe. She was in North Stonington, I think, at the time of her writing. Her letters were always interesting and I have often wondered what became of her. I thought some member might know about these sisters.

PICNIC AT ELIZABETH PARK JULY 16

Dear Cornerites: The long-talked-of picnic at Elizabeth park, Hartford will be held on Wednesday, July 16. If stormy it will be postponed one week. Let every one make an extra effort to go, especially the members that live near, Olive, Mavis, Persis, Samantha, Peggy Anne, and all others.

AN ENTHUSIAST.

CHATTY LETTER FROM KINGSTON BROWN

Dear Editor, Social Corner Sisters and Friends: Of the last named we have many who read, enjoy and profit by our letters. Sometimes my friends surprise me by saying, "Why I read that in the Social Corner letter." Then we talk it over. Maybe the next paper will have a new name added to our Corner. Last week's paper had a new name, Uncle Henry. I like the name and hope to meet him soon. If he is my Uncle Henry we met a few evenings ago where they served punch and tea cakes. Now if I am wrong, Uncle Henry, don't say a word. We are forever making blunders. Today is lonesome and still for the Fourth. Some have gone to the north end of town to a celebration, others have gone to the city which is about a twenty-five mile drive, taking their lunch with them. I tried not to envy them as they drove away in their new car all looking so happy. Others went fishing near home bringing nearly a dozen quite large fish back with them. Some went to the beaches. Those I did not envy for I just hate water. I am scared of drowning without the water. Why I even tie on my water wings when taking a bath in the old wash tub. It is said a person can drown in the wash basin so it is best to be on the safe side. Now Uncle Henry if you should attend any of the Social gatherings don't be bashful, speak right up. You can you know. If I had a car I would call for you the seventeenth.

Some of the sisters think me very old perhaps too old to drive a car. I think I will take my picture with a pen. I am five foot four inches tall and weigh one hundred and fifty pounds. What a dumpling! I have coal black hair niether dyed nor bobbed, with three, by actual count, white hairs over each ear, have all my own teeth a full set upper and lower in perfect condition with only one filled, dance all modern as well as old fashioned dances, from fox trot up to the minuet and eight hands around. I have just received the usual gift to graduate's other than the diploma. I don't wear glasses. I just observed my first wedding anniversary.

I have just returned from quite a long auto drive. Last Monday feeling rested and full of pep I washed nearly everything in the house. That is I started in well. Some of the clothes were on the line, others in the last water while others were in first water waiting to be rubbed. What would the sisters have done of right in your yard right up to your backsteps. Would you have left everything and gone touring the country. I plead guilty. I left just as Bridget does when she gets her dander up. I had only to slick up change my clothes and away we flew to the city miles away. Everything looked so nice and green after the shower. How I did enjoy it all! We stooped in the city and went shopping. That is what a country cousin likes to do — nose around in those large department stores. Then we drove more miles to the estate of a retired relative who has little to do but does much toward giving everyone else a good time. It was very beautiful on this place. We had dinner at six p. m. I could have done justice to it all if I could have gotten rid of the colored population in back of my chair at the table I had only to glance up from my plate to have him rush to my aid. The food came faster then I could dispose of it and right here let me say I never expected to starve among plenty but I was real hungry ten minutes after leaving the table. We listened in later on to a radio after driving more miles to another kin. This radio seemed to pick up about everything only to drop it again as we would drop a hot potato.

I am sure all radios are not like this one. We retired at two a. m. I was so tired I could not sleep. Very soon early business began with trolley bells ringing, auto horns, for and boat horns and mill whistles joining forces again me. I had to get up. The next day in a dreadful downpour of rain we toured the country back again I was glad to get home. It seemed weeks. I enjoyed it all so much. Perhaps it would be tiring or nerve racking to live too near a radio. What is worse than a radio piano player and talking machine when heard at a distance. Too far to be distinct and yet near enough to disturb one. They are in the same class as the howling dog. I would as soon hear one as the other. I hope all the sisters are well and are enjoying the summer, but try to keep on our page full. We all enjoy the letters so much. Wishing you all a pleasant time at the different picnics. I am as ever

KINGSTON BROWN.

FACING DIFFICULTIES

Social Corner Sisters and All: It has been some time since I have written but here I am to answer to my name. It was some time last fall I wrote, but since then my husband has broken his leg in eight places. This happened on his birthday November 6th and he is not able to walk yet. He is still under the doctor's care. In time is is expected he will get out of it.

So it is hard times with us. I guess this world is full of hardship. It is some discouraging with my husband laid up and me with a six weeks' old baby girl. So now I have five girls in the family and only one working to help us. I am sorry she is working in one sense for I like to see them all at school.

I like the way of the world when our grandmothers were alive. Then they reached out a helping hand with true friendship. Now it is everyone for himself. If your hands are lined with gold you are O. K. If not you're something else. We have one neighbor who has been fine to us in our troubles and we thank that family from the bottom of our heart.

I don't like holidays, they are so lonesome, and I was hoping to get home to dad and mother for the Fourth. My mother, Vira, is one of your Social Corner members and has been caring for me. I am in a hurry to get strong and well so I can go back to work again. My husband may not be able to this summer or winter. One of my girls is going to her grandmother's for the summer. One is working and three are at home. With five girls on my hands I have to keep the needles in my hands and my foot on the sewing machine.

I must stop, or I'll fill the page. Best Wishes to all.

HINKEY.

VACATION

Dear Editor and Social Corner Pals: Will answer "here" to the roll call of two weeks ago. It's all over! What's all over you may inquire? and my reply may include, school or college for the year, chautauqua, Fourth of July, church and several other active uplifting influences; so now comes vacation. Let us not have it passive but make it active, as well as the above mentioned activities. Our Chautauqua was all our fondest hopes could wish for, due in a large part to the active persevering, patient plugging of some of our Social Corner members and you are derserving of the highest commendation for your efforts, every last one of you, pals. The men and women, boys and girls of the community in general are better by far, for your untiring energy and best of all we're going to have Chatauqua next year. How about those who always thought they might like to go sometime? Just think it over and go next year. I feel sure you will be well repaid for the investment.

Some of you, as well as myself, are thinking that church vacation time may also be improved. Why not attend the Union services and show we are all just "men and women" after all? Our Corner is a wonderful "mixing pot" or community worker, if you please. Have you ever stopped to think about it and wonder how it grows and grows spreading it's social influence, like the branches of a great tree, over the state and many states?

In regard to Fourth of July am wondering if the vigilant D. A. R.'s and others, noted what did or didn't happen as Old Glory was passing by.

With vacation comes hundreds or thousands of our young men and women starting out in the world on "a job" by which to carry on, or fulfill a goal set for next year. You cannot patronize them all, you say. Ah! no, but you can at least greet them in a cordial manner, treat them and talk to them as you would like one of your own to be treated, give them at least a good cold drink of water (in place of cold words); in short, kindly encouragement. It will mean more to them than money sometimes and act as an incentive beside leaving memories which can never be effaced. Let's make their vacation mean more than ever before.

"Question not but live and labor
Till your goal be won;
Helping every feeble neighbor
Seeking help from none.

Life is mostly froth and bubble,
Two things stand like stone,
Kindness in another's trouble,
Courage in your own."

—Dr. J. E. HOPE COBWEB

OTHERING YOURSELF

Dear Sisters: I was told that if you have an idea you want to hang on to it like John M. Siddall, who edited the American magazine and was successful. They saw Siddall's idea was to have and hang on to one idea, even as a dog hangs on to a bone.

One idea is enough if it is right. Some men have but one idea and that is wrong.

Siddalls idea was this: Only one thing interests all human beings always and that is the human being itself.

In other words, the more absorbing topic of interest in the world overawing all others is Me.

This is true is proved by the admirable rule of Will James, that truth is what will work. This is true but the curious phase of it is the Golden Rule.

That rule is substance, is other yourself and succeed "other" being a verb imperative mood and that word scientifically speaking means use "your own imagination."

So doing, you picture yourself the mind and feeling of the other fellow and in proportion as you do this you "get" him and hold and interest him.

We lose our grip on another for we fail to see where he is straying. Hence we cannot follow. The salesman does not "sell" his customer because he cannot become his customer.

The parents and teachers fail with the child because they cannot "become as little children."

The speaker does not interest his audience because he cannot get out of his own mind over into theirs.

For the same kind of reason the lawyer does not convince his jury, the novelist his readers and the newspapers its public. We mistake when we suppose any truth is true in religion but not elsewhere. Othering yourself is not only the way to get to heaven, it is the way to sell goods, to get elected, to make your fellows love you, to get along with your neighbors, to manage workers and to keep peace in the family.

England and Ireland are in trouble because neither can other itself over the point of view of the other.

Labor and capital clash when each indulges in thinking about itself and not trying to understand each other.

The most enlightened selfishness is unselfishness.

I wrote all this once in afine article (I know it is fine because I wrote it myself) and sent it to a magazine. They liked and kept some of my letter but the editor didn't like it because he said it was "preaching."

It was, but nothing in the world is interesting to read as preaching, providing it is to me and not over me, or about the Isle of Palms, or the American controversy of something else I care nothing about.

The Golden Rule runs everwhere. Forget your health, quit thinking about yourself—the only way to think well of yourself.

He that loses his life shall save it. Of the man that saved more people than any other man, it was said: He saved others. Himself he can not not save.

ETHELYN.

GREETINGS FROM E. L. M.

Dear Editor and Members of the Social Corner, I want to say present as my name has been called, and I am glad I belong to the Corner. I have been a member for a long time but have met only a few of the sisters.

Dorinda: I see by the letters that you have had sickness in your family. You have my sympathy. Wish I were near to lend a hand. I have had a letter started to you for weeks and hope sometime to finish it.

To the sisters who wrote about Black hill I thank you. But I don't believe I want to try the hill one of you mentioned that lies in Pomfret. I will make my letter short this time and give others room to say present.

E. L. M.

APPRECIATIVE FOR GIFT

Dear Social Corner Sisters: The Ladies Aid Society of the First Baptist church wish to thank you for your gift of three dollars. The Leffingwell sisters, as well as their friends, enjoy having your picnics here and hope you may all be able to come again.

ELSIE BEARD, Secretary and Treasurer of Ladies Aid Society.

RESPONSE TO ROLL CALL

Dear Social Corner Editor: I count myself in nothing else so happy as in a soul remembering my good Social Corner friends: And as my fortune ripens with love. It shall be still thy true love's recompense, so Shakespeare says. My heart this covenant makes: my hand using the pencil thus seals it.

IMOGENE GRAEF.

BE PATIENT WITH LITTLE ONES

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I want to urge every mother who reads our Corner to be patient with the little ones. They are like tender plants. A harsh word or a blow leaves its impress while a whipping has been known to ruin for life more than one bright but nervous child.

Harshness begets rebellion and antagonism. Only by untiring patience and unvarying gentleness can the most and best be brought out of a child and in all discipline the end sought should be the highest development. The marble maker brings hammer and chisel to his hard and unresponsive work, but she who has for her task the development of a thinking soul should bring only sweet and gentle influence, lest it be marred in its unfolding. Am sure all mothers will agree on this point.

Let me add bran water is excellent for healing baby's chafed and irritated skin. To make it scald a large handful of bran to a quart of water (hat.) Let it cool, strain it, and it will be ready for use.

Corn atrach makes a nice baby powder, add a little orris root if you like.

You can make a sachet lining for the bottom of baby's bureau drawer. Take two pieces of cheese cloth (I use light blue) or other soft thin material cut to fit the drawer. Interline it with two layers of wadding and thickly sprinkled between with violet or any preferred sachet powder. Bind the edges with white ribbon and tie with silk floss, white or baby ribbon. It is very dainty. My experience with the little cheese cloth baby wrappers wadded and tufted in the same way has not been very pleasing however. They are extremely pretty and dainty at first but soon need washing and soon their beauty is gone, as the cotton is matted in bunches. I do not recommend any mother to make them.

A pretty way to finish baby's nainsook slip is to make a hem three inches deep, by hand, then two clusters of hand run tucks with feather stitching between. The different varieties of briar-coral or featherstitch are very neat for ornamenting the garment.

I hope all mothers know the virtues of Job's tears for babies when teething—why they are so good I do not know.

Put a little baking powder in your potatoes when you wash them. When gasoline is used to remove spots it usually leaves a ring. If salt is added before rinsing, this difficulty will be done away with. Cold salt water will shrink goods and also set the color. Use plenty of salt and have it thoroughly dissolved before putting in the goods. Then allow the latter to remain in the water two or three hours. If material of a delicate color is soaked in the salt water before being laundered, each time it will not fade but remain bright as long as the garment lasts. Corn starch will remove grease spots from silk and also take out perspiration stains.

INTERESTED IN CANTERBURY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I saw Iola's letters in the Corner about Canterbury and was interested. I remember Canterbury green and once I was near Black hill, but do not know much about it.

Best wishes to the Social Corner sisters I remember around Westminster hill.

WILL FILE CHARGES AGAINST POLICE CHIEF

Chicago, July 11.—Charges of assault to kill, assault and battery and assault with a deadly weapon are expected to be filed against Chief of Police Svoboda and two of his men at Cicero, a suburb, by Miss Rosetta Duncan, an actress, as a result of a Fourth of July dispute with the blue coats of the suburb. Miss Duncan says her nose was broken, a rib fractured, and other injuries inflicted by the policemen with their clubs. Her brother had been arrested for violation of a traffic rule after a visit to the Hawthorne race track and Rosetta and the police got into an altercatio.

ROOMING HOUSE LIQUOR CASE PUT OVER AT NEW LONDON

George La Brissi appeared in the police court this morning to answer a charge of selling liquor at the ideal rooming house on Bank street, where he has quarters. Some time ago agents of the state's attorney's office, strangers in the city, set about getting evidence that would convince the court that liquor was being sold in the ideal. The agents procured rooms there and associated with other roomers and habitues of the place and finally they declare, they went to a room wherein was Dave Palitz, George Burns Plump, a man nicknamed and George La Brissi. The agents made complaint against Palitz and he was held for trial in the superior court. The evidence given by the agents led to the arrest of La Brissi and he may also be held for trial in the county court. In court today the case did not get to a trial because the attorney for La Brissi did not conclude what he would do and the prosecutor was uncertain about some other matters that led him to consent to an adjournment of the case till next Wednesday. There is some talk about the uncertainty as to the identity of La Brissi, but the state expects to make sure of its ground when the case comes up for trial next week.

Harry Pecan, of Norwich, was in the court to answer for a violation of the traffic ordinances. He had business with the Connecticut Power company and stopped at the office of the corporation to transact it, leaving instructions with a man he left there to do some work that the automobile they had ridden in must be taken to Washington street and there parked. Pecan supposed his instructions had been carried out until he sought his auto and found it where he had left it with tag ordering him to court in it. Pecan's explanation was such that judgment in the case was suspended.

Thomas T. Wetmore, Jr., was charged with turning his machine around on Bank street. He, for some reason or other, asked for a postponement of the hearing and the case went over till Saturday.

Morris Lubchansky, a carpenter by occupation and the proprietor of a store which his wife manages, got into trouble when he allowed William [illegible] sault. Joe Gevosky and a couple of other men in his place. Holt was found dead in the yard of the home of Gevosky on Douglass street and the latter told the coroner he and Holt and the others had bought liquor, or what goes for liquor, at the Lubchansky place. They said that Holt became intoxicated and lay down on a lounge where he was found dead soon after. Then Gevosky carried the dead body to the yard and left it that he might not be implicated in any way. The story was told in every detail to the coroner and he in turn made known to the prosecuting attorney what the information was that came to him. So Prosecutor Cronan issued a warrant for the arrest of Lubchansky. He also secured a search warrant that brought to light, when the Lubchansky place was visited, a small quantity of liquor. Today Lubchansky appeared to answer but his attorney asked for a continuance till next week and the case went over till Wednesday, the [illegible] Lubchansky has before been convicted of selling liquor, or at least his wife has been, and she was heavily fined.

Certain conditions which Lubchansky and his wife were to live up to were then imposed, but they seem to have not had the effect that was in the mind of the court when the other case was disposed of.

Mrs. James O'Sullivan of Central avenue, Norwich; Mrs. Lawrence Chappell, West street, Arthur Spencer, Hartford, Mrs. William Stone, Lyme; Mrs. Mabel Young and infant daughter, Silsbee street, Manuel Silvia, of the barge Lawrence and Henry Nolan, Bank street, patients at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Stevens F. Peterson has entered into an agreement with Mrs. Nellie B. Bishop, administratrix of the estate of John A. Bishop, to purchase the Bishop residence, 23 Nathan Hale St., A bond to bind the bargain was filed for record in the office of the city clerk today.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Stoeckel today caused the operators' licenses of Harold Parks, 49 Raymond street, and Harry E. Eaton, 160 Montauk avenue, to be suspended. Commissioner Stoeckel also caused the licenses of Harold Peck, 261 Huntington street and William Osborne, 565 Bank street, which were recently suspended to be returned to the owners.

Thieves paid a visit to the College pharmacy, Williams street, last night, for this morning when the place was opened for business it was discovered that the store had been entered. The police were notified of the break and Acting Sergeant Edward Daniels found that entrance was gained by removing a light of glass from the door of the rear of the store. The only plunder taken was $35 worth of cigars and cigarettes.

An automobile, owned and operated by George A. Tomlinson, 97 Baker avenue, Groton and a machine owned and driven by Morris Weiner, 389 Trumbull street, Hartford were in collision late last night at Poquonoc. The occupants of Weiner's car, a Ford sedan, escaped injury other than bruises, but Miss Ida Rosen, Stonington, a passenger in the Tomlinson car, which overturned, sustained lacerations and bruises about the face and head. She was transferred to Lawrence hospital, where she remained until the forenoon when she returned. Tomlinson was taken into custody by officers from the state police barracks at Groton, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He furnished a surety on his bond of $150 for his appearance in the Groton town court next Monday morning.

The accident occurred near the tinned mill and on a good stretch of highway. The car of Weiner was headed for New London while Tomlinson's car was proceeding in the opposite direction.

Just before the cars were about to pass, Tomlinson is alleged to have changed the course of his machine, a Dodge touring car, with the result that the two cars came together with a terrific crash. Tomlinson's car tipped over throwing the occupants to the highway. Miss Rosen was the only one of the party who suffered injury and she was placed in a passing machine and brought to the New London hospital.

Andrew Mowey, a former resident of New London, died at his home in Philadelphia, Wednesday, news of Mr. Mowey's death having been received by friends here today. Mr. Mowey was formerly employed by the Brainard and Armstrong Silk company here, now the Cartledge Silk company, also the former New London Wash Silk company, now the R. & H. Silk company. Mr. Mowey who moved to Philadelphia about 30 years ago, was well known in years.

Mrs. Julia Klumph Glidden, wife of [illegible] Glidden, Groton carpenter, who was mysteriously injured either by falling from an automobile or being forced from the car on Ocean avenue, between Thames street and Gardner avenue on the night of Fourth of July, was discharged at Lawrence hospital today. Mrs. Glidden had been under treatment for severe lacerations and contusions about the face and head.

When Mrs. Glidden recovered consciousness the police interviewed her, but she absolutely refused to tell how she sustained her injury, refusing to relate whether she jumped from the automobile in which she was riding or whether she was forced out of the car.

Bath house thieves appear to be operating at Ocean Beach with more ease than ever before for within a week two bathers have lost through light-fingered youth at the shore Ernest Palmer of Huntington street went to his bathing house, No. 145 in the group operated by the Neptune Baths early this afternoon and after donning his suit he spent a couple of hours in the water. When he returned to the bathhouse he discovered that the place had been ordered. Palmer found that his Waltham watch and vest chain and $1 had been removed from his clothing. Sunday Robt. Farrell of Linden street, was relieved of $40, the money being taken from his clothing in a locker in the Red Cross hut.

Isaac E. Dawson, 66, died last night at his residence, 342 Williams street, death resulting from a complication of diseases and terminating an illness of many weeks. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Gorton Dedrick, of this city and Mrs. Clyde Young, of Lynn, Mass., and by a brother, George Dawson of Jamestown, N. Y. Mr. Dawson, who was a native of Bradford, England, had resided in New London since the age of nine. For the past thirty-five years he was employed as clerk at the New London line pier of the New England Steamship company. He was a member of Pequot lodge, I. O. O. F., and Thomas Rose company.

The garage owned by Charles B. B. Palmer on Poquonnoc road, Groton was completely destroyed by fire early last evening when lightning struck the building and the flames which followed quickly reduced the building and its contents to ashes. Tools and two motor vehicles, one a Dodge owned by Palmer and the other a truck owned by the state and having been used in road construction work were burned. The entire loss will reach between $8,500 or $9,000, part of which is covered by insurance. When the blaze was discovered the Pioneer Hose company was sent to the fire from Groton, but the garage was doomed and the efforts of the firemen were devoted to preventing nearby buildings being ignited.

A boat owned by Jeremiah E. Fitzgerald, Williams street, was stolen from its place of moorage at Ocean Beach this afternoon. When the owner discovered the theft he reported his loss to Patrolman Walter Rohn, who caught a couple of boys with the craft in Alewife Cove a short time later. The boat was made fast and the youths were taken to the police station, where they were given into the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield.

Mrs. W. E. Manning, 711 Blackhall street, complained to the police this morning that members of a family named Morgan and occupants of a tenement in the place annoyed her by hurling objects at her. Acting Sergeant Edward Daniels decided that the trouble was the result of family differences and that there was no ground for legal steps.

A. Everet Denison, Willetta avenue extension, has supplied the police with the address of his daughter, Mary, 17, who is in Philadelphia, following her elopement July 4th with a young man whose identity is not known to Denison. The father of the girl has requested the New London authorities to query the Philadelphia police in an endeavor to ascertain whether the couple are married.

The police discovered two danger spots last night. Patrolman Braxton Hill in making his rounds through Williams street, found a deep depression in the highway in front of the quarters of the Thomas Hose company. Patrolman George McCaskey reported the fence surrounding the property corner of Huntington street and Stony Hill in a condition that indicated its early collapse. Both danger cases were reported to the city's public safety department.

An automobile owned by William Porter, 248 Crystal avenue, and driven by Porter's son, struck a dog on Crystal avenue this afternoon. The dog escaped more luckily than other dogs to be hit by machines recently for the animal was not killed, although injured.

Samuel Farina, 21 West Coit street, Mrs. Myron Pattee, 74 Williams street, Baby Roy Johnson, Waterford and Mrs. Hyman Rutman and infant son, 175 Shaw street, were patients dismissed at Home Memorial hospital today.

Miss Harriet Vincent, a resident at the Hotel Mohican, suffered a fractured hip in her apartment late yesterday afternoon. Miss Vincent was removed to Lawrence hospital where the fracture was reduced. She sustained her injury while attempting to close a window as a thunderstorm was coming on. In her exertion to close the window, Miss Vincent lost her balance and fell in such a manner as to cause the fracture.

Alfred H. E. Burr, 672 Montauk avenue, has lodged complaint with the police because of the action of motorists in racing their machines upon that important thoroughfare. The complaint declared that no later than last night autoists indulged in brushes and some of the cars travelled at a speed of 45 miles an hour.

Broad street between Georgiana street and Jefferson avenue, where there is a stretch of a concrete highway, is another favorite speedway, particularly for motorcyclists.

Mrs. C. S. M. Stewart has returned to her home, 33 Brooks street after visiting relatives in Hempstead, L. I.

ADVISES MONTVILLE ON FIRE FIGHTING APPARATUS

Chief Howard L. Stanton of the Norwich Fire Department spoke in Montville Thursday evening, in Palmer Memorial school, before the selectmen of that town, other Montville officials and several influential citizens.

The meeting was in the interests of securing fire fighting apparatus for the town. Chief Stanton informed the Montville people that they were fortunate in having fine water facilities for fire fighting.

It is probable that the town of Montville will in a short time purchase a modern pumpur and chemical wagon, the matter now being in the hands of several committees.

EAST KILLINGLY

At the East Killingly Baptist parsonage July 5th, Henry William Warren and Mrs. Luna Richardson were married by Rev. W. D. Hetherington.

The fourth of July celebration proved a grand success. The Union Baptist church did well in furnishing the needful things for the lunch, and as a reward for the hard labor a substantial sum was cleared.

The willing helpers met, this week, with Mrs. L. A. Bartlett. The Thursday evening prayer meeting and bible study class met at the parsonage, and studied the second chapter of Ephesians.

Today, July 12th, at the Clarence Soule home there is to be a lawn party at six o'clock followed by a public reception for Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Hetherington.

SMALL CHILD MANGLED BY MOWING MACHINE

Leeds, N. H., July 11.—While cutting hay with a horse drawn mowing machine today, William Van Vechten, a farmer ran down his two and a half year old son Charles, who was hiding in the tall grass. The child's hand and foot were severed. Physicians at the hospital, where he was taken, said he propably would not live as a result of the accident.

By following in an automobile, a herd of antelope in Gobin desert, Asia was found to maintain a speed of sixty miles an hour for two hours.

WESTERLY

The interior of the state armory on Dixon street was elaborately decorated with flags and many hundred yards of grand new red, white and blue bunting, to make a pleasing convention hall setting in which the eighteenth annual Rhode Island Spanish War Veteran State encampment is to be held today (Saturday) and Sunday. Sunday, the afternoon feature of the programme which will attract many visitors outside of the three hundred or more delegates from all parts of Rhode Island who are to attend the encampment, will be the unveiling at 2.30 o'clock of the "Hiker," the Memorial bronze figure, mounted on a large boulder in Wilcox park. The work of draping the bronze figure was completed Friday, so that everything is now in readiness for the unveiling, which will be done by a member of the family of the late Robert Brucker, who died during the Spanish war and from whom the Westerly camp of Spanish War Veterans takes its name—Robert Brucker Camp No. 6, United Spanish War Veterans.

Sunday an elaborate program will be carried out. The following order of march was announced Friday by Commander E. J. Burdick of Robert Brucker camp: police of Westerly and Pawcatuck, Westerly band, Charles O. Gavitt, leader; marshal of the day, Commander Burdick, with Adjutant Harry T. Powers and aides, Frank Smith, George Kenyon and Arthur Crumb; colors of the various patriotic organizations; color guard, members of Battery E; Robert Brucker camp, No. 6, U. S. W. V.; Department Commander Michael A. Sullivan and staff; camps of the department en masse; auxiliaries of U. S. W. V.; Kilties' band; Merrill post, American Legion, R. E. Trainer, commander; St. Michael's troop, Catholic Boy Scouts, Scoutmaster George A. Chapman.

The line will move from the armory at 2 o'clock, proceeding by Dixon, High, Broad and West Broad streets to the West Broad street school. From there it will countermarch to Dixon square and pause at the Memorial and Library building, where members of the Grand Army of the Republic and Women's Relief corps will join the ranks. From the library the parade will continue up Broad street, Granite street and Grove avenue to the northeast entrance of the park, near which the monument stands.

The program in the park will include an opening selection by the band, prayer by Rev. Byron U. Hatfield, unveiling of the Hiker memorial, an address by Representative S. H. Davis, presentation of the memorial to the park by Col. Charles H. Ledward on behalf of Robert Brucker camp, acceptance of the memorial by James M. Pendleton, on behalf of the park trustees, and The Star Spangled Banner played by the band.

The family of J. Fritz Byers of Pittsburgh arrived in Westerly on Thursday morning en route to their summer home at Watch Hill. This year they will occupy the cottage, "Sunset," Sunset avenue, owned by Mrs. William R. Thompson of Pittsburgh.

Prof. W. A. Stocking of Cornell university, Mrs. Stocking, their son and daughter, William and Elisabeth, accompanied by Miss Kate Stocking of Simsbury, have returned to the ancestral home there after a visit with the family of Rev. Martin S. Stocking. Later Prof. Stocking, who has just returned from an international convention of dairymen at Milan, Italy, will resume his automobile trip with his family to their summer can in the Adirondacks, at Long Lake, N. Y.

Beta chapter of the Broad Street Christian church, a society of boys whose motto is "Brain, Brawn and Backbone," enjoyed a social and entertainment in the church vestry on Thursday evening. The Bible school of the Broad Street Christian church were picknickers at Atlantic Beach on Wednesday, for the annual Bible school outing.

Mrs. H. H. Doty of Stonington was a Westerly caller Friday afternoon.

The Midway wrecker was called to Westerly Friday morning to care for a freight car which had become disabled on the track between Westerly and Bradford. It was necessary to send passenger trains on the other track in order to pass the obstruction before the tangle was straightened out.

Tuesday next the Ellen Guispin circle of the road Street Christian church plans its annual outing.

Due to the severe rainstorm Thursday night the scheduled concert by the Westerly band and omitted but numerous music lovers gathered at the park in anticipation of enjoying the music.

The English Garden party, which was to be held on the grounds of Grace Methodist church on High street and which included elaborate decoration of electric lights with Chinese lanterns had to be adjourned to the church parlors by reason of the sudden thunder storm. Thursday evening.

THE STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

New York, July 11.—Stock prices developed moderate strength in today's market after an early period of irregularity resulting from several unsuccessful attempts of professional operators to bring about another general reaction. While profit-taking sales were in substantial volume and diligent efforts were made to uncover weak spots, all offerings were well absorbed and the main trend was decidedly upward at the close.

Chief speculative interest again centered in the public utilities which contributed one-third of the 31 new 1924 high records established during the session. American Water Works common, which established a record price for all time at 115 1-8 yesterday was run up from 102 1-8 to 108 today and then dropped back to 105 for a net gain of 3 points. Montana Power, which is expected in some quarters to be the keystone of a big western public utility merger, touched a new top at 71 and then eased to 69 5-8 for a net gain of 2 1-8. Good buying also was noted in Consolidated Gas, Brooklyn Union Gas and Virginia Railway and Power, all of which sold at their best prices of the year.

Railroad shares came to the fore when a sudden demand developed for the coal carriers, new peak prices being established by Erie common and second preferred, Chesapeake and Ohio and Chicago and Eastern Illinois. Erie first preferred and Pittsburgh and West Virginia duplicated their previous maximum prices. Other strong spots in this group included St. Louis Southwestern, Pere Marquette, Lehigh Valley and Lackawanna.

Standard industries were inclined to heaviness in the early trading, but stiffened later when a brisk demand developed for American Locomotive which climber more than 3 points to a new year's maximum figure at 79 7-8. This led to active short covering in Baldwin and American Can, each of which closed about 2 points higher at 116 5-8 and 116 respectively. United States Steel common closed at par, up 1-4.

Oil, rubber, tobacco and sugar shares were rather sluggish. American Sumatra Tobacco common and preferred broke to new low levels for the year. Unsatisfactory trade reports also caused unsettlement in the textile issues. Daniel Boone Mills and Munsingwear selling at new 1924 lows. Rumors of another general cut in Mid-Continent Crude prices cast a shadow over the oil issues. Sinclair breaking through its previous low level to 17 1-4.

Money rates were unchanged. Call money continued to rule at 2 per cent. Little activity was reported in the time money and commercial paper markets.

The feature of the foreign exchange market was the strength of sterling, which advanced 1 1-3 cents to $4.36, the highest in several months. Swiss and Danish exchange showed good gains but the other European currencies fluctuated within narrow limits. French francs selling around 3.68 1-2 cents.

CURB STOCKS SLOW DOWN

New York, July 11.—Trading in curb stocks slowed down today but the market developed a firm undertone with some substantial gains being recorded in the industrial public utility groups.

Oil shares moved irregularly. Prairie Oil and Gas closing at 208 for a net gain of 2 1-2 points. Most of the other so-called Standard Oil issues improved fractionally. Revival of activity in Woodley Petroleum reflected the completion of a new 2,000 barrel well in the Cotton Valley district in Louisiana.

American Light and Traction, selling ex-dividend, led the public utility group with a net gain of more than six points. Lehigh Power securities, Hudson company preferred and Hudson and Manhattan showed large fractional gains. Bublitier assumed the leadership of the radio group by climbing 1 1-2 points to 42 1-2. National Tea advanced more than a point on odd lot sales. Baking company issues were again in good demand.

BOND PRICES IRREGULAR

New York, July 11.—Bond prices drifted irregularly lower in today's dull trading. Early steadiness gave way to reactionary tendencies, which resulted in scattering one to two point losses throughout the foreign, railroad and industrial lists.

Uneasiness over the report of the Sao Paulo revolution caused further heavy selling of Brazilian bonds. Two point declines were registered by both Brazil 7 1-2's and Sao Paulo 8's with Rio De Janeiro issues receding fractionally.

Expectations that the consummation of pending railroad mergers would be deferred until after election was held partly responsible for the lagging interest in railroad securities. Most of the issues which would be affected by consolidations, such as the International Great Northern, lliens, moved slightly lower.

Independent strength, however, was noted in several industrial mortgages. Wilson convertible 6's bounded up 3 1-2 points, recovering from a recent wave of profit taking. Progress reported in the readjustment of the Wickwire-Spencer Steel Corporations finances contributed to a gain of 3-1-2 points in the comanpy's bonds.

WHEAT MARKET CLIMBS

Chicago, July 11.—With the Canadian crop reported as being curtailed several million bushels daily through lack of rain, wheat made a material fresh upturn in price today. Closing quotations here of wheat, although unsettled, were 7-8 a lot to 1 3-8c net higher. September 1.16 3-8 and December 1.18; a 1.19 1-8 to 1.19 1-8. Corn finished unchanged to 3-8c advance, oats 1-4c to 5-8c up, and provisions at five cents to 27 cents gain.

Except for one brief setback, the wheat market kept climbing throughout the day. Attention centered almost altogether on the situation resulting from continued dry hot weather in Canada. One authority here estimated that the probable yield in Canada has been reduced 30,000,000 bushels since July 1, and this statement acquired heavy emphasis from a Canadian government report which suggested that the 1924 crop in Canada would be 143,000 bushels less than was harvested last year.

South Dakota and Montana complaining of dry weather tended somewhat to enhance wheat values and so likewise did a bulge in prices at Buenos Aires, as well as European buying here and at Winnipeg and also at the Gulf of Mexico. On the other hand the movement of new wheat from the domestic harvest was steadily increasing, and a considerable amount of the day's sales appeared to be from hedging.

WEST KINGSTON

Carl Brewer and family of Exeter were callers on friends here, Wednesday.

The Bible school had its annual basket picnic Wednesday July 9th at Woodins Pond. They hired a truck of E. A. Wilcox to convey all who had no way of going. Edward C. Kenyon was the chauffeur. All were treated to a generous supply of ice-cream and soda. The young people had a merry time bathing and playing games.

Fred Knight, of Exeter, was a caller in this village Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartow and daughters visited relatives at North Stonington, Sunday afternoon.

Several from here attended the Mohwich Beach picnic, Thursday.

On the glorious Fourth Dr. Kenyon had his annual shore dinner. About 50 were present to enjoy the good things including baked clams, quahaug chowder, roast fish and all that makes up a genuine good dinner. Cake and ice cream were served during the afternoon. There were friends and relatives from Norwich Town, Conn., Westerly, Providence, East Providence, Pawtucket, Kingston and Usquepaugh.

Miss Ruth Crandall of Kingston is visiting her grandparents, Dr. and and Mrs. Kenyon.

Everett E. Kenyon is visiting relatives in Providence.

Master Harris Kenyon has returned to his home in Providence after two weeks visit here.

ANDOVER

The Girl's League gave a strawberry supper in the town hall Wednesday evening. An entertainment after the supper was a great success and well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Thompson and little daughter returned to Springfield, Mass., Thursday, after some time spent with Mr. Thompson's parents.

Mrs. Frank Empre of Waterbury was a visitor in town Wednesday.

Edward M. Yeomans returned to his home Thursday after attending the democratic convention in New York.

The Ladies' Society met Thursday afternoon at the home of Emily Cobb.

Mrs. Carlos Frederick is a patient in St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Mayor James Lloyd Greene tendered his resignation as Mayor of the City of Norwich at a meeting of the common council held in 1874. He had intended doing this at the close of his previous administration but a political attack forced him to run once more. He did so and won by a large majority.

Items of interest in Norwich and vicinity a half century ago, as taken from The Bulletin of that year, are in part as follows.

Monday, July 6, 1874—A crowd of nearly 3,000 people saw the Unas of New Haven win from the Arctics of Norwich on Fourth of July, in this city. Circumstances make it impossible to give the New Haven team credit for the victory as they refused to play after the 7th inning, claiming they had to catch their train for home. The Arctics fought hard and went five innings without a score but in the sixth and seventh innings piled up 6 runs and were in a position to win, the score standing, Arctics 6, Unas 7. The Unas then refused to play longer and the game ended. Hanlon pitched for the Arctics and Miner caught. An agreement had been made to play until 4 o'clock but it looked as though the Unas were afraid of loosing when they quit, nearly fifteen minutes before the time agreed upon.

The lineup of the Arctics follows: Brand, 1st b; Marks, 2d b; Miner, c; Connors, ss; Jennings, 3d b; Hanlon, p; Selden, l. f.; Beebe, c. f.; Lahey, r. f.

The tremendous rain storm Saturday damaged crops and roads in Colchester. Bridges were carried away by swollen streams and Packwood's dam, on Judd brook, on the Hebron road let go carrying with it a section of the road, which rested on top of the dam. The large pond was entirely emptied and the loss was about $5,000.

A special train now leaves Norwich daily with palace cars, running to the White mountains.

Rev. Father Desmond, who has for the past three years been connected with St. Mary's parish, leaves today to take up his new field of labor in the parish of Wauregan and Moosup.

Tuesday, July 7, 1874—At the meeting of the city government last night a petition signed by 1557 ladies of Norwich was read asking that the authorities of the city enforces the law regarding Sunday closing of saloons, and the closing of saloons at 10 p. m. nightly, keeping them closed until 6 a.m. The petition was referred to a special committee for action. Daniel W. Grant was elected sergeant of the police force when Mayor Greene cast the deciding vote. Chief Engineer Carrier reported 27 fires during the past year and advocated a fire alarm system, similar to those in use in cities surrounding Norwich. J. M. Thayers resignation as fire marshal of the city was accepted and the filling of the vacancy postponed until the next meeting.

The new apartment on Main street to be used for the purposes of the Circulating Library is being rapidly filled up and furnished. The shelves are already put up and the room will be ready for use in a few days.

More than three hundred guests are reported at the Pequot, managed by Mr. Crocker, and are enjoying the refreshing coolness of the season.

Wednesday, July 8, 1874—James Lloyd Greene for the past seven years mayor of Norwich tendered his resignation at the meeting of the common council Monday night. In a letter to the council Mayor Greene explained that he had planned to resign at the end of his previous term but that the political attack on his administration forced him to run for office again. His election by an overwhelming majority showed that the people trusted in the efficient management of affairs and he now felt it perfectly correct to resign, his resignation to take effect on the first Monday of August next ensuing. He also mentioned that during his administration the new city hall had been built and that improvements had been effected in the city which will benefit its inhabitants every day they live.

The report of the washing away of Packwood's dam in Colchester was found to be untrue after more detailed reports had been received. The earth at one end of the dam was washed away but the structure remained. The washed out section has again been filled in and water is again being stored in the pond.

An item of interest shows that fifty years ago the Bulletin was the only morning paper in the state east of the Connecticut river and that the circulation more than exceeded the combined circulation of all other daily papers published in New London County.

The comet can now be clearly seen every clear evening and hundreds are watching this most prominent object in the sky.

Thursday, July 9, 1874—The new hearse of Doyle & Hourigan has arrived and is a beautiful hearse, one of the best in the country. The sides are of choice rosewood, with oval clarence glass windows and the top is ornamented with gold mounted urns. Inside is a table of mahogany which is adorned with silver rails and hung above with heavy gold lace trimmings. The whole structure is of magnificent construction and is a great addition to the business of its owners.

A Lebanon farmer, well known in Norwich for being absentminded stepped in front of a mirror yesterday to shave and began hacking away at the mirror for several seconds before he realized his mistake.

Charles Fields and Thomas Comstock are to row a race on the river in two weeks for some suitable prize.

Local fishermen are preparing to leave for Thomposonville where a fisherman recently caught a fifteen pound bass and twenty pounds of smaller ones in one day last week.

Noank has a boarding house ring that is leagued together to keep the prices up.

Friday, July 10, 1874 — Captain Charles Potter of Noank has exhibited two large drum fish caught in his pound near Fisher's Island. They weighed 100 pounds each and he has given them to Prof. A. E. Verrill of Yale college, to send to the Smithsonian Institute, Washington. The drum fish gets its name from the peculiar drumming noise they make and are rarely found in these waters, being entirely a tropical species.

P. J. Connor's new brick building on the West Side is now nearly completed. Frear stone trimmings have been used for the windows and doorways, a composition stone manufactured by H. B. Winship of this city. It is of fireproof material.

A telegraph line is being built to Allyn's Point for the benefit of the railroad.

The Western Telegraph company are removing their wires that cross the river at East New London. The despatches are hereafter to be sent by way of Norwich.

The employes of the Norwich & New York Transportation company are to enjoy a sail up the Hudson on the 20th of the month.

Saturday, July 11, 1874—The new automatic watering trough invented by William H. Barnes, president of the Wilson works of New London, is one of the ingenious and simple contrivances that result in a greater benefit to the public than many more pretentious inventions. As the quantity of water is diminished by drinking or use of any kind, it feeds itself until the original quantity is supplied, then stops.

Huckleberries, the first of the season, appeared in local markets yesterday and are of fine quality.

John W. Kennedy of Central Village has received a patent for a horse blinder that is a big improvement over old style blinders.

Grey Dick and Old Hundred will trot for $50 at the Agricultural Society's track a week from Wednesday.

The hostesses were the president, Mrs. Fred E. Richards, Mrs. Fred W. Turner, Mrs. Everett Bruce, Mrs. James A. Stoddard, Mrs. Monett A. Lawson, Mrs. Carl E. Lawson, Mrs. Charles Litwhiler, Mrs. Stephen Perkins, Mrs. Miner Moxley and the Misses Julia O. Richards, Paula McGuire and Gertrude Allen with a guest of the auxiliary, Mrs. Annette Wilcox of Hazbrouck Heights, N. J. The members of the Gales Ferry society attending were the president, Miss Alice Satterlee, Mrs. W. D. Woodward, Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins, Mrs. Harmon L. Perkins, Mrs. Delphine Fish, Mrs. Horace H. Sears, Mrs. Billings F. S. Crandall, Mrs. Fanny A. Moithrop, Mrs. Carroll S. Hurlbutt, Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt, Mrs. Lucy A. Hurlbutt, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, Mrs. Bertha Hoyt. The work for the afternoon was on patchwork fancy work and holders. Ice cream and cake were served by the hostesses. At an informal business meeting of the Gales Ferry members following, with Miss Satterlee presiding, a rising vote of thanks was given the auxiliary for a very enjoyable afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. Allen S. Bush left Thursday, to spend some time with Rev. Mr. Bush's son, Dr. Alden M. Bush, and family in Toledo, Ohio, Mrs. Bush has so recovered from an illness, of some weeks, as to be able to make the journey, and is planning to continue further treatment there, under the advice of Dr. Bush.

The wiring for electric lights was completed last week in the house of Minor Moxley in the village and work was begun this week on Redfern cottage, the summer home of Mrs. Franklin H. Brown for lighting.

Mrs. Annette Wilcox and son, Byron C. Wilcox of Hazbrouck Heights, N. J., motored to the home of Mrs. Wilcox's brother, Fred W. Turner of Long Cove. Mrs. Wilcox will spend some time with Mr. and Mrs. Turner. Mr. Wilcox returned Sunday evening.

Miss Evelyn V. Whipple of the Lester district, left Monday to attend the summer school at Yale.

Mrs. Byron A. Maynard of Anthony, R. I., who came here to attend the funeral of Orrin Stoddard Bennett, Tuesday, is remaining a few days with her relative, Mrs. Emma S. Bennett, Mr. Bennett's mother.

Work on the tennis court for the Cougtry club is progressing and the court is being prepared for the rolling.

Miss Hattie Way of Brooklyn, N. Y., joined her mother at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Wilcox recently for a visit.

Visitors from Boston at the home of Mrs. Andrew P. Miller are Walter Carver and daughter, Miss Charlotte Carver, and Lawrence Larsen.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll S. Hurlbutt entertained recently Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whittier and three children of Wakefield, R. I.

WEATHER

Conditions

Pressure is high in the region of Bermuda and relatively high in the middle and South Atlantic States, the northern Rocky Mountain region and on the north Pacific coast. The disturbance that was central over Manitoba Thursday evening has advanced to Ontario, a trough extending southward to Texas. Pressure is also low over Newfoundland and has again fallen in the Canadian northwest during the last 24 hours.

The outlook is for generally fair weather Saturday in the middle and north Atlantic states and for showers and thunderstorms Sunday.

Temperature changes will be unimportant.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook and Sandy Hook to Hatteras—Gentle to moderate south and southwest, partly overcast weather Saturday.

Forecast

Northern New England, Southern New England, eastern New York—Fair Saturday; Sunday probably showers and thunderstorms, not much change in temperature.

Observations in Norwich

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Friday:

BIG TRAFFIC GAIN WITH THAMES RIVER BRIDGE FREE

The effect of the absence of tolls on traffic over the Thames river highway bridge at New London is revealed in a census taken by the state highway department on the day of the Yale-Harvard boat races there a few weeks ago. In other years, when payment of a fee was required to cross the bridge to the east side of the river, where the road parallels the race course and affords an opportunity for motorists to watch the event in comfort, the number who crossed was far less than this year. The fact is shown that an aggregate of 3,110 cars crossed the bridge on the day of the race, compared to 3,132 for the same event a year ago.

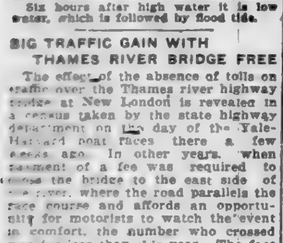
While about twenty per cent of the increased number is accounted for by the normal annual growth of traffic, the opinion is held by the highway department that motorists, who formerly would be taxed to cross the bridge took full advantage of the opportunities offered this year and secured one of the much desired positions from which to view the water sports, without payment of tolls.

General automobile traffic to the event this year was much larger than in other years. A census of cars traversing the Washington bridge from Stratford to Milford showed that 6,420 machines passed that point on the day of the race. At Saybrook, the number of cars checked was 2,064, compared to 1,946 a year ago, a small increase at this point, construction work in that vicinity probably causing many to use the direct Hartford-New London route.

Made Trip to Hartford

Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. George H. Stanton and daughters, Mrs. Frances H. Stager of Waterford, Wilma F. Stanton and friends Miss Ella Shields and Estelle Brunelle of this city have returned from an enjoyable automobile trip to Hartford, visiting the State's Prison at Wethersfield and the various parks, especially enjoying the rose gardens of Elizabeth Park which are at their best.

Sale Solid Sterling Silver



29 CENTS EACH PEPPER OR SALT SHAKERS

We believe this to be the greatest offer ever made. A feat that no other manufacturer has ever attempted. As many as you like at 29c each. These are not plated, filled or stiffened with any other metal, but are guaranteed to be Solid Sterling Silver through and through and would assay that if put in the melting pot at the United States Assay Office. Rather a broad statement, but, nevertheless, it is true, and every one is stamped Sterling on the bottom in plain letters. Compare them with those sold by jewelers elsewhere for $2.00 and upwards. Then if you are not satisfied, the money will be refunded. All mail orders filled the same day.

THERMOS ACQUIRES CONTROL OF ICYHOT BOTTLE CO. OF CINCINNATI

Regarding the report that a $4,000,000 merger had been formed by the American Thermos Bottle Co., of New York and The Icy Hot Bottle Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio, A. E. Payson, vice president of the Thermos Co., made the following statement here Friday:

"Negotiations have been completed subject to the formal approval by the stockholders of both companies, where by a controlling interest in Icy Hot Bottle Co. of Cincinnati has been acquired by the American Thermos Bottle Co., of New York which has its factory in this city. For the time being the business of both companies will be carried on as separate entities. The general manufacturing, financial and sales policies of both companies will be dominated by the present interests that control the American Thermos Bottle Co."

As is indicted by vice president Payson's statement, this involves no change in the manufacture of thermos bottles at the Norwich factory of the company.

WILL INSTALL PASTOR AT MT. CALVARY BAPTIST

Installation services for Rev. G. G. McGee as pastor of Mt. Calvary Baptist church are to be held at the church Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The sermon will be by Rev. Dixon A. Brown, pastor of McKinley avenue A. M. E. Zion church and the music will be by the choir of that church.

REV. G. G. McGEE

The charge to the church will be delivered by Rev. E. C. Dunbar of the First Baptist church and the charge to the deacons by senior deacon C. Edward Smith of the Central Baptist church. The welcome from the ministers of the city will be voiced by Rev. J. Harlow Graham of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church and remarks to the Sunday school will be given by James L. Case, superintendent of the Central Baptist school. Rev. J. M. Patterson will be master of ceremonies and there will be remarks by Rev. Ferguson and others.

Pastor McGee will preach at the morning service at 11 and the evening service at 8 and Bible school will be held at 12.30 p. m.

RT. REV. BISHOP MURRAY HAS REACHED BELGIUM

Rt. Rev. Bishop John Gregory Murray, accompanied by Rev. Maurice F. McAuliffe, LL.D., landed at Queenstown, Ireland, June 21st, on the first stage of his journey to make an ad limina visit to Pius XI. Bishop Murray is in Louvain, Belgium, this week, at the American College, where he will officiate at an ordination ceremony today (Saturday). Three young men of the Hartford diocese, Rev. Vincent Finp of the Immaculate Conception parish, Waterbury; Rev. Raymond O'Callahan of the Immaculate Conception, Hartford, and Rev. John Shea of St. Mary's Derby, are members of the ordination class. Monsignor Jules De Becker, rector of the American College, taught Bishop Murray during his student days at Louvain. After leaving Belgium Bishop Murray will proceed to Italy and it is expected that he will be in Rome about the beginning of August.

TELEPHONE CO. DELAY BLOCKS BEACON LIGHT

Dilatory tactics on the part of the telephone company, according to Selectman William S. Murray, is the reason why the new flashing beacon light at the head of the Norwich Town green has not been placed long ago. The delay is because it is necessary to shift a telephone pole that interferes with the focussing of light, and although the telephone people long ago promised to move the pole it has not been done yet. A tree in front of the Johnson home property has been cut down in preparation for placing the bacon, but the pole is the obstacle in the way now. The deacon is at present in the basement of the court house, where it has been reposing for some time.

It is expected that about 75 members and guests of Westerly Historical society will go to Lebanon today (Saturday) on the annual pilgrimage of the organization.

PROPER TOGGERY FOR LAWYERS' EUROPEAN TRIP

A Philadelphia lawyer, Judge Harold B. Beitler has briefed the latest decisions of accepted toggery authorities for the guidance of members of the American Bar Association who are to take the trip to England that Judge and Mrs. Allyn L. Brown of this city will enjoy.

A little yellow card, prepared at the order of the Judge as secretary of the London Committee, has been distributed to members who sign up for the voyage. It answers a number of vexing questions, principally about "what to wear" and "what to tip."

The Judge omits one important aspect of the clothing question, the proper clothes for the women members of the party, wives and feminine barristers alike.

The clothing for shipboard comes first. It is a story briefly told. For day wear—sports or lounge clothing; for evening wear, tuxedo. A light overcoat and cap complete the gentleman's outfit.

In London the wardrobe needed is a bit more extensive. Business clothes are correct for day attire, except for receptions, when the cutaway and the high silk hat are said to be de rigeur. In the evening, Judge Beitler informs his legal friends, full dress is to be worn with tuxedo.

Then comes the tipping schedule, worked out for shipboard. Reading it, one wonders whether being a ship steward might not be more remunerative than being a young lawyer. "Tipping on board," says a brief note, "is optional, but customary."

"Follow the custom according to these 'suggestions': Table steward, $5; head waiter, $5; deck steward, for chairs, $2.50 per person, blanket, $1.50 extra; saloon steward, $5; room stewardess, $3; bath steward, $2 up per person; smoke room steward, $1 up; according to services rendered; lounge steward, $2 up, according to services; "boots," according to services rendered.

The card suggests also that those going on the trip have their passports vised by the British, French, Italian, Danish, Norwegian and Belgian Consuls, who will send representatives to the convention to make this easier for the members. On the reverse of the card a handy table is given showing the valu ecf British money in American currency when the pound is worth $4.30 and again when it is worth $4.40.

BIG PICNIC DAY FOR UNITED STATES FINISHING

Next Friday, July 18, a big picnic for the employes of all the branches of the United States Finishing Co., with their families, is to be held at Sterling where the arrangements are in charge of General Manager Harold S. Mowry of the Sterling plant, who is to be assisted by numerous committees. Transportation is to be free and the only expense will be for dinner, which will be provided at a nominal charge for those who do not take a basket lunch.

The company will provide a special train to convey the Norwich contingent, leaving here at 9 a. m. and leaving Sterling on the return at 5 p. m.

The New York office will be represented by Andrew C. Imbrie, treasurer and Grant A. McClatchie secretary. Besides the Norwich and Sterling plants, the employes from Silver Spring, Pawtucket, Queen Dyeing Co., Providence and C. P. Darling Co., of Providence, will attend.

GRAIN LADEN TRUCK WENT OFF WALL

A big motor truck of the Yantic Grain and Products Co., had a narrow escape from going off a 10-foot bank wall Friday afternoon at the home of William Ryan near De Wolf's switch on the Norwich-New London road. One of the rear wheels went completely off the wall and the other just hung on the edge when the step on the truck caught fast on the wall.

The truck was heavily loaded with grain and was driven by Joe Polsky, who had a few bags to deliver to Mr. Ryan. He tried to back, the load was too heavy for the brakes to hold and the truck dropped over the edge of the wall till the step caught and held it from going any farther.

Another truck was secured, the load was transferred and the lightened truck came off the wall and was able to drive off under its own power.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

FOREIGN WAR VETERANS

The regular meeting of R. E. Hourigan Post, No. 594, was held last Thursday evening, Commander A. J. Turner presiding. Eight new recruits were received and were duly obligated by the post commander. Several applications for membership were received and will be taken in at the next regular meeting fo the post. The post adjutant James J. Kane was busily engaged in making out the government soldier bonus applications which the post has received lately and the committee will be at the post rooms each Saturday afternoon to take care of that work and assist any ex-service man file his claim. Comrade Louis Hull, Jr., chairman of amusement committee has already got plans under way for an outing which the veterans are looking forward to in a few weeks time. The business meeting adjourned at 9.15, after which refreshments were served by the entertainment committee, consisting of sandwiches, cake, soda, cigars and cigarettes. The refreshments were sent to the veterans through the kindness of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the post and were greatly enjoyed by all.

MOOSEHEART LEGION.

The regular meeting of Mooseheart Legion, Norwich Chapter, No. 124, was held at Moose home Thursday evening with Senior Regent Anna Crowe presiding. Regular routine business was transacted and the quarterly report was read showing the lodge to be in good financial standing. Final plans for the picnic to be held at Ocean Beach July 16 were completed, all the members being expected to leave on the Nelseco at 9 o'clock. At the beach the members will be served a dinner. The committee in charge of the arrangements for the picnic comprises Sisters Carolina Hastedt and Emma Beaver.

Sister Mary Wright who has resigned as lodge reporter, serving in that capacity for the past three and a half years, was presented a carving set as a token of appreciation for her work. Sister Agnes Hastedt was installed as junior regent and Sister Margaret Sadusky was installed as reporter, both to serve for the remainder of the year.

Following the business meeting refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by the refreshment committee. The next meeting is to be held at Moose home Aug. 14.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.

Children's night was observed Wednesday evening at the meeting of Norwich grange, No. 172, in Steiner hall when a programme given by children was carried out to the great entertainment of an audience of over 100. It was in charge of Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Wigley and Miss Mabel Hagberg. Following the entertainment, ice cream and fancy wafers were served by the new feast committee.

The programme was given as follows: recitation, Doris Racine; piano solo, Francis Higgins; recitation, Whole Duty of Children, Virginia Pukallus; recitation, Mildred Carter; fairy dance, eight children; recitation, Garden of Curses, William Powell; recitation, I'm My Mother's Darling, Barbara Brown; song, Dorothy and Russell Clark; recitation, What the Crows Are Doing, Arline Lillie; piano solo, June Woods; recitation, Jackie Waters, Frankie Powell, Jean Wigley, Phyllis Little, Marion Woods, Robert Woods; recitation, Beds in Summer, Virginia Brown; duet, Dixie Darlings, June Woods, Anna Panek, recitation, Mildred Carter; piano duet, Eddie Wigley and Mrs. Wigley; recitation, Babies and Kittens, Marie Woods; song, Jessie Hill; and Mother Goose characters in costume by several children.

In the business meeting the grange received and accepted an invitation to Pachaug grange for the dedication of the new hall on June 17.

REBEKAHS.

Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, met on Wednesday evening, July 1, in Odd Fellows' hall with Noble Grand Mrs. Mary Adams in the chair. Routine business was transacted and the most important subject brought up for discussion was the annual picnic. It was voted to hold the picnic on Thursday, July 17th at the home of Mrs. Mabel Wheeler in Yantic, the members to make the trip by automobile and trolley.

Every member was requested to bring something in the line of eats, either a pie, a cake, or sandwiches. A good time is planned for and it is expected that every member will make an endeavor to attend. Mrs. Mary Adams was appointed to take charge of arranging for the refreshments and Mrs. Ora C. Spencer to take charge of the sports.

JUNIOR AMERICAN MECHANICS

Buckingham Council, No. 14, met in regular session Wednesday evening at Buckingham Memorial with Councilor Lesemann in the chair. There was a large attendance and considerable routine business was transacted. The council has increased its membership over 200 per cent and is still going strong and the members are looking forward to receiving one of the prizes offered by the state council to the council showing the largest increase in membership.

A large number of members of the local council are planning to go to New London next Monday evening when Roosevelt council is to work the initiation on a class of candidates.

ODD FELLOWS

The regular meeting of Shetucket Lodge, No. 27, was held Tuesday night at Odd Fellows Hall on Main street. It was the first meeting since the installation of the new officers by District Deputy Grand Master Fred L. Avery of Willimantic, last week, and Noble Grand Louis F. Waters was in the chair. Considerable routine business was transacted and the meeting was followed by a social time.

Officers of Palmyra Encampment, No. 3, for the ensuing six months were installed Thursday evening by the installing officers, headed by District Deputy Grand Patriarch Rufus Church of New London. The meeting of the encampment was in charge of Chief Patriarch William Frohmander.

The officers installed were as follows: Chief patriarch, Edward Smith; high priest, William Frohmander; senior warden, Leslie W. Fowler; scribe, John F. Amburn; treasurer, Edward F. Kinney; junior warden, Louis F. Waters.

Immediately after the installation, Chief Patriarch Edward Smith made his appointments as follows: Guide, John Hawker; first watch, Carleton Bowers; second watch, Walter Stott; third watch, Herbert Spencer; fourth watch, Howard Bishop; G. of T., Luther Andrews; G. of T., Clarence Amburn; inside sentinel, John McNeely; outside sentinel, Frank Q. Smith.

Remarks were made by the district deputy and several visiting patriarchs. The encampment has several men waiting for degrees and a successful term is assured. Following adjournment refreshments were served in the banquet hall.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

Sedgwick corps, No. 16, held its regular meeting Friday afternoon at the Buckingham Memorial with the president, Mrs. Clara P. Burke in the chair. The usual reports were presented by the secretary and the treasurer, as well as their quarterly reports and the quarterly report of the auditor, all of which were approved.

It was voted to have a picnic at the home of Mrs. Florence Dean at Norwich Town on Friday, Nov. 18. It will be on the basket plan and the members will meet at Franklin square in time for the 10 o'clock car in the morning to go to Mrs. Dean's.

The 35th anniversary of the corps will be celebrated on July 28th with a gathering at the Buckingham Memorial at 4:30 in the afternoon, followed by a supper and a programme in the evening. Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R. is invited to attend the anniversary.

The meeting closed in regular form with America and salute to the flag.

SUFFERED TEN YEARS WITH STOMACH TROUBLE

Mrs. Crane Could Hardly Stand She Was So Weak.

"Getting back my health and strength, after suffering so long, makes me one of the happiest persons in the world," recently declared Mrs. Hattie Crane, 4 Canal St., Suncook, N. H., in relating her experience with Tanlac.

"For eight or ten years indigestion had caused me untold pain and distress. At times I could hardly breathe, there was such a pressure of gas on my heart, and I would get so faint and dizzy that I could hardly stand up. Just before I began taking Tanlac I got so I couldn't sleep at all and some days I couldn't even walk across the floor.

"Tanlac brought me almost immediate relief and six bottles was all I needed to rid me of my troubles and bring back the pleasure of living. My health is better now than ever before and I am so pleased with Tanlac that I praise it to everybody."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills, for constipation; made and recommended by the manufacturers of TANLAC.

NORWICH NAVAL RESERVES ARE OFF ON CRUISE

The local unit of the naval reserves left Friday afternoon at 4.15 o'clock from the New Haven station for New York City, where they will embark for a two weeks' cruise.

Last year the local men chipped from New Haven, but this port is too crowded with reservists from the other cities and the local members were forced to go to New York and embark on the U. S. S. Wheeling, instead of the regular Eagle boats that are used for that purpose. The cruise will probably be to New England ports, Bermuda and points south, ending about July 26th.

Ten local men are making the trip and the local unit has the credit of being the only one in which every man has been advanced one step higher since last year. With the exception of two the Norwich men are seamen 2nd class, the others being chief gunners mate and fireman, 3rd class.

Lieutenant F. B. Craven, in charge of the local unit, will not be with them this year. He left for New Haven where he will embark on the cruise.

The seamen, second class, from this city are: Leonard Stanbly, Gordon Rainey, Henry Racicot, Howard Lamphere, John Wells, Peter Skinger, George Armstrong and Charles Bowers; Orrin Banning, fireman 3rd class, Edgar Robski, chief gunners mate.

The local unit of naval reserves will probably be reorganized in the fall.

Pocketbook Stolen From Office

Friday morning when Miss Harriet E. Breed was absent for a few minutes from her office in the Dime building, her pocket book containing a small amount of money and some house keys and other effects was stolen. Someone had evidently seen Miss Breed leave her office and took the opportunity to enter and steal the pocketbook. Miss Breed reported seeing a strange man in the hallway but that she gave no thought of it until she noticed the theft.

Walter P. Chrysler Says—

There is little or nothing in the ordinary four by which to measure Maxwell riding and driving results of today.

Vibration literally ceases to exist, so far as those in the car are concerned. The car rides with the ease of one twice as heavy.

There is no four in America today at anything like its price to equal the good Maxwell—and you can find that out for yourself in 30 minutes by calling on the nearest Maxwell dealer.

POETRY

Rhyme of the Angler.

Some love the spring for this or that
And some for other reason;
I have my reason plain and pat—
It brings the fishing season.
The law's close time will soon be o'er
Just two weeks from next Monday;
I wish it were the day before,
For trout bite best on Sunday.

What joy the busy town to leave,
A whole long week to wander,
Where Blue Ridge streams meander;
Alone with rod and reel and hook,
Afar from life's dull duties,
To whip an amber-colored brook
And land the speckled beauties.

A stream I know to mountain glen—
The tourist saw it never:
For from the homes and haunts of men
It grows from rill to river.
There many a quiet pool I know
Shall see my flies a-skimming,
And many a dancing shoal below,
Where lusty trout are swimming.

When no wind stirs and skies are gray,
And air is warm and hazy,
O, then to angle all the day
Through vale and forest mazy;
With now and then a drizzling shower
The limpid water dimpling,
And not a sound from hour to hour
To mar the water's wimpling.

See there! That fine twelve-incher shoot
Swift like a living arrow!
He's lurking 'neath that red-oak root,
There, where the stream is narrow.
Now cast your well-dimembled fly
Along the pool's calm bosom:
Play, as if moth were fluttering by:
Quiet! Or you will lose 'im.
Ha! There he took an eager bite!
Now, wind him in; a capture!
O, can there be more pure delight
Than th' angler's silent rapture!

He's lonely, think you? Nay, not he;
He wants not a companion;
His rod is ample company
Down in the deepest canyon.
No human face he cares to see—
The face of water only;
With lightsome heart will angles be.
Alone, but never lonely.

There's something in our gentle art—
And, sure, 'tis no small merit—
Which doth a soothing calm impart
And cheerfulness of spirit;
A sweet serenity of mind
No other sport produces;
Go, try it, Sir! You soon will find
Its philosophic uses.
O, you may search from pole to pole—
No sport so good and meet is
For "helth of bodie and of soule"
(See Izaak Walton's Tretyse).

Then hey, my rod! And ho, my reel!
We soon will go a-fishing.
The leaping trout spring-hunger feel,
For fly and red-worm wishing.
The schoolboy on a holiday,
The desk-slave on an outing,
Feels not so happy nor so gay
As I when I go trouting.
For it's my delight from morn till night
To fish and fill my basket;
If there be bliss greater than this
I do not care to ask it.

Summer Invocation

O gentle, gentle summer rain,
Let not the silver lily pine,
The drooping lily pine in vain,
To feel that dewy touch of thine.
To drink thee freshness once again,
O gentle, gentle summer rain!

In heat the lanscape quivering lies;
The cattle pant beneath the tree;
Through parching air and purple skies
The earth looks up in vain, for thee
For thee—for thee, it looks in vain
O gentle, gentle summer rain.

Come thou, and brim the meadow stream
And soften all the hills with mist.
O falling dew! from burning dreams
By thee shall herb and flower be kissed
And earth shall bless thee yet again,
O gentle, gentle summer rain.
—William Cox Bennett

INFLUENCE OF ADVERTISING WAS SUBJECT OF SERMONS

At Westminster Abbey and the Westminster Roman Catholic Church, London, Services Were Devoted to the Overseas Visitors to the International Advertising Convention —Convention's Slogan is "Truth in Advertising."

London, July 13 (By the A. P.)—The ethics and uses of advertising as novel subjects of pulpit oratory struck strangely upon the ears of the congregations assembled today for the morning services in both Westminster Abbey and the Westminster Roman Catholic cathedral.

True, the services were devoted to the overseas visitors to the international advertising convention and the congregations largely consisted of English-speaking delegates from the United States and the dominions, but that the Bishop of Durham in Westminster Abbey and Father Knox in the cathedral should have chosen such worldly subjects as the themes for their sermons was considered as showing the tremendous hold which the convention has already established upon the consciousness of the British people.

The Bishop of Durham dwelt on the enormous influence of advertising on modern life. He said the presence of so many of the delegates of the convention in the church implied an assumption that their business had a direct relation to those sublime verities which the church existed to confirm.

Father Knox argued that there was no reason why the convention's slogan "Truth in Advertising" should come as a surprise or that the people should be shocked even by the convention's proposal to debate the possibilities of advertising religion. There was, he contended, no harm even in advertising a particular kind of religion, so long as the advertisers were sure it came up to the sample.

Hundreds of the delegates attended an "inspiratoinal gathering" in the Central hall, Westminstre, where Viscount Burnham and the Dean of Windsor were on the platform.

A luncheon given by the Women's Advertising club of London to the overseas advertising women also brought out a great gathering of women. It was addressed among others by the Duchess of Atholl and Viscountess Rhondda.

The Houston, Texas, delegation to the convention, which came to London sixty strong to obtain the 1925 meeting for their Lone Star City, began their efforts with a banquet this evening to the Thirty club of London and the leaders of the convention.

AMERICAN AVIATORS HAVE ARRIVED AT VIENNA

Vienna, July 13.—((By The A. P.)—The United States army round-the-world aviators arrived here at 3 o'clock this afternoon from Bucharest. They will start on another lap of their journey tomorrow morning.

The fliers started from Bucharest early this morning and landed at Budapest at 11 o'clock. They had lunch there and took off shortly afterwards and came to Vienna.

The Americans landed in Bucharest at noon Saturday, three days ahead of their revised schedule. The jump from Constantinople to the Rumanian capital was made without incident in the wonderful time of four and ahalf hours. With the exception of Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, the commander, who broke a rib at Calcutta but who refuses to admit there is anything wrong with him, the aviators were in perfect condition and excellent spirits.

After the terrible weather encountered in Alaska and the Aleutian Islands, followed by the blinding rainstorms and the swelter heat across Japan and Asia Minor, the airmen are offering thanks for having safely reached a cooler northern climate. All of them are enthusiastic over the remarkable progress now being made in their journey, and so keyed up are they that they are impatient even over the necessary delays for eating, sleeping, refuelling and otherwise tending their machines. They hope to reach Paris from Vienna tomorrow in time to celebrate France's national holiday, and are looking forward to being in London on Tuesday.

Since leaving Tokio the fliers have regained eleven days time lost in Alaska, in spite of the fact that they were delayed one day in Constantinople so as to permit the Turkish government to make a required inspection of their planes.

The aviators are greatly impressed by the enthusiastic co-operation given them by American government officials all along their route. The Rumanian government had planned an official welcome for them, but their arrival ahead of schedule balked this, much to the relief of the airmen, who desire to get ahead with the job they have on hand without any social distractions.

MONUMENT FOR COLORED TROOPS IN THE WORLD WAR

Rheims, France July 13.—Inaugurating a monument today to the colored troops in the World war, General Achinard praised their courage and the exalted part they took in final victory. He replied to the German campaign against the colored troops, saying: "Our black sharpshooters conducted themselves like good Frenchmen, showing themselves worthy of fighting by our side."

The colored troops engaged before Rheims from May to July 1918, he said, comprised about a dozen battalions or scarcely a tenth of all the troops on this front.

"They were terrible to the Germans," he continued, "because they regarded the Germans as savages fighting with disloyal arms and devastating everything from love to evil. Our sharpshooters fought well for France because she treats them with humanity and justice on the same footing as her other children."

Edouard Daladier, minister of the colonies, said that 600,000 black troops fought for France, and 3,000 were killed on the battlefield.

DECREASE IN ORDERS BY GENERAL ELECTRIC CO.

Schenectady, N. Y., July 12.—Total orders received by the General Electric company for the first six months of 1924 decreased 13 per cent. as compared with the same period last year, it was said in a statement made public here today. The 1924 orders totalled $144,707,887, while last year the total was $164,263,755.

A decrease of 16.15 per cent. as compared with sales of a similar period last year was noticed in April, May and June, the statement added explaining that the sales total for the three months was $71,219,984.

PLAIN CASE OF SUICIDE OVER A LOVE AFFAIR

Dover, N. J., July 13.—Depression over the refusal of a girl to accompany him to a dance caused Thomas Blumer, 20, of Brooklyn, to strangle himself with the wire of an electric curling iron in Owl's Nest cottage, Bertrand's Island, Lake Hopatcong, early today. Coroner Joseph Voelker recorded the death as a "plain case of suicide over a love affair."

FIVE PERSONS INJURED WHEN AUTOS COLLIDED

New Haven, July 13.—Five persons were taken to New Haven hospital this afternoon as the result of an automobile collision at Middletown avenue and Atwater street. Those injured are:

Pierce Hills, 4 years old, lacerations about face, arms and head and possible internal head injuries.

Mrs. Elizabeth Littlefield, 21, numerous cuts about the arms and lecceration of the shoulder.

Kenneth Ryan, 14, cuts about face and arms.

Lincoln Ryan, 9, lacerations about face, arms and head.

Addison Hills, 14, cuts about face and arms.

Joseph E. Hills, father of the two Hills boys injured, who was driving the machine, was not hurt. The driver of the second car in the collision was Nicholas Piscitelli, 21, who left the scene after the accident. He was found later and arrested, charged with reckless driving and evading responsibility after an accident. He was held in $1,000 bond.

Francis P. Sullivan of New Haven and John Merchant of Wallingford were injured when the steering wheel of the machine broke and the car crashed into a telegraph pole at Main street and Kimberly avenue, East Haven today. Merchant suffered a fractured skull, deep lacerations about the face and a cut on the forehead. He is in a critical condition. Sullivan was cut about the face and head and has a large cut on his back.

Policeman P. O'Connell, investigating an automobile collision at Temple and Chapel streets, this afternoon, was sideswiped by another machine driven by William H. Loeser, of Jersey City, N. J. While the policeman was not injured, he lost considerable of his coat and trousers. The persons involved in the collision were Hyman Willman and W. Simolins, both of New Haven. The cars were badly wrecked.

TWO BOYS INJURED WHEN AUTOMOBILE SKIDDED

Danbury, Conn., July 13.—Stephen Wrobel, 15, received possible fatal injuries and Michael Krenick, also 15, was painfully injured when an automobile driven by Michael Zizalock skidded and left the road here this afternoon. The Wrobel youth was thrown out of the machine and landed on his head. He suffered a fractured skull. The police investigating the accident found that Zizalock had no driver's license and that he had been sent out by his employer. It is expected that arrests will follow

POLICEMAN IS CHARGED WITH RUM RUNNING

New Haven, Conn., July 13.—Police Officer Charles E. Lee, a member of the West Haven force, is under arrest charged with being implicated in a rum running raid on Friday night when eight men and three automobiles were seized. The officer was arrested at his home and bail of $2,500 was furnished.

The raid took place at Welch's coal yard dock after the actions of several automobiles aroused the suspicions of a passing policeman. While the eight men and the cars were taken, the boat in which it was alleged alcohol was being transported, escaped. The police, following the arrest, announced that further developments were expected in which would be shown just why the boat was able to get away upon arrival of the police at the dock.

Lee has been on the force nearly four years, mostly on motorcycle duty. On July 3 he asked to be released from duty as a regular policeman but still is rated and has been doing duty as a supernumerary.

SOUVENIR HUNTERS AT BRITISH EXHIBITION

London, July 13.—The insatiable craze of souvenir hunters is playing havoc with the costly exhibitions at the British empire exhibition at Wembley. Visitors just can't make their hands behave, the police say, and hundreds of small articles, most of them without value, are disappearing daily from the various pavilions despite the vigilance of the guards.

AUTOMOBILE CRASHED THROUGH WOODEN BRIDGE

Washington, N. J., July 13.—Mrs. Peter Appel of Fort Lee was instantly killed, and Mrs. Mrs. George Kalb, of West New York, seriously inured today when an automobile driven by Mrs. ppel's husband overturned after crashing through a wooden fence into a telephone pole.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Pershing Guest at Luncheon.

Paris, July 13.—General John J. Pershing, Premier Herriot, Marshals Joffre, Marshal Petain and Prince Charles of Rumania were among guests at a luncheon given today by War Minister Nollet in connection with the celebration of the eve of France's national holiday.

Flight of British Aviator

Minato, Japan, July 13.—(By the A. P.)— Conquering difficulties arising from engine trouble and a dense Pacific fog, A Stuart MacLaren, British around the world aviator, arrived here from Kasumigaura at 5.32 p. m. today. Tomorrow he will set forth on the long and perilous hop across the Pacific from this city, which is at the northern extremity of the main island of Japan.

LEADING CHAIN STORE SYSTEMS TO ISSUE STOCK

New York, July 13.—Simultaneous offerings will be made this week in New York and London of bankers' shares secured upon the stocks of 14 leading chain store systems of the United States, including the Woolworth Kresge and Great Atlantic & Pacific companies.

Formation of the United American Chain Stores, Inc., has been completed as a holding company for the stocks. Against each block of 148 shares, totaling $10,000 par value, there will be issued 1,000 bankers' shares which will be sold at a price of about $16.25 each.

Operating 19,000 stores, the 14 systems last year reported combined net profits exceeding $68,000,000. Included in the holding company are the United Cigar Stores, United Drug company, Schulte Retail Stores, Childs company, May Department Stores, McCrory Stores, National Tea company, Ginter Company, F. & W. Grand Stores, S. H. Kress & Co., and Kroger Grocery and Banking Co.

Offering of the bankers' shares will be made through the British and General Debenture Trust Ltd., of London, and Bonner, Brooks & Co. of New York.

GOV. SMITH THANKS ARBITRATION BOARD

New York, July 13.—Governor Smith has extended his personal thanks to the members of the arbitration board appointed by him recently to avert a threatened strike in the cloak and suit industry. The report of the commission, written on the successful completion of its labors, was made public today.

Among the recommendations made by the commission are: Work should be done only in union shops and purchases should be made only from union shops; a union label should be designed and used; all factors in the industry should be represented on a joint board of sanitary control, the expenses to be shared; the establishment of unemployment insurance; machinery should be created for the impartial settlement of disputes and the present contract should be extended for a year. A reduction of working hours from 44 to 40 is declared inadvisable.

The members of the arbitration commission were George Gordon Battle, chairman, Prof. Lindsay Rogers, Arthur D. Wolf, Col. Herbert H. Lehman and State Industrial Commissioner Shientag.

TWO MEN SHOT DEAD WHILE EATING SUPPER

South Barre, Mass., July 13.—Lindi Centrochio, a mill hand, and Salvadore Poleo, proprietor of a grocery store here, were shot to death shortly after 6 o'clock tonight by John Rea of this town as they were eating supper with a party of friends at Poleo's house.

Excitement ran high here when the town learned that the slayer had entered the house, shot down the two men with a rifle and then escaped. There were mutterings of "lynching" and a man hunt was soon organized, headed by a detail of state patrolmen under command of Lieut. Roy Kimball, commander of Troop C, Petersham. Armed civilians joined the searchers in the woods between South Barre and Barre.

No motive is known for the shooting. Rea had been on good terms with both the victims, so far as the other Polish residents of the town knew. Earlier in the day he had visited Poleo's store and chatted amicably with the man he killed a few hours later.

After Rea had entered the house and without warning opened fire, others in the room grappled with him, but Rea threw them off and fled into hte woods back of the house. The victims were past medical aid when physicians answered hurried calls.

Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese Foreign Minister, who with the resignation of the Sun Pao Chi Cabinet has been appointed Acting Premier. It is expected that he will retain the post permanently.

Low[illegible]ord Made in [illegible]ming of Soft Coal

For Week Ending July 5 the Output Was 1,616,000 Tons Less Than Any Week of This Year.

Washington, July 13.—Bituminous coal production in the United States is now running close to the low record. During the week ending July 5, the Geological Survey reported today, the output was 5,755,000 net tons, or less than in any corresponding week for five years with the exception of 1922 when the national coal miners' strike held up operations in all but non-union mining areas. The week's output was 1,616,000 tons less than that of the previous week this year, in part because of the July 4 holiday, but the low point marked a decline which has been in progress since April 1.

During normal periods the United States produces around ten million tons of bituminous coal a week, and the output has even run above 12,000,000 tons. Anthracite production though also cut down, is maintaining a more nearly normal output, the survey report said, but to date is running at about 11 per cent below 1923 output for the first half of the year.

BAPTISM CONDUCTED BY THE KU KLUX KLAN

Stamford, July 13.—The Ku Klux Klan conducted the first baptismal ceremonial ever held in Connecticut this afternoon, when 400 persons, many of them wearing white robes, witnessed the baptising of ten children, from one to six years, in a large field off the Olds farm, four miles north of this city.

The ceremony itself was conducted by fifty members of the klan, gowned in full regalia. While some of the men formed about three sides of the children, others grouped themselves on a nearby hill so that they formed a large cross and the letters "K. K. K."

A clergyman member of the klan christened the children, and in addition secured a pledge from the parents that the children would be brought up under the so-called 100 per cent Americanism. At no time in the ceremony was the klan mentioned by name but one of the officials stated after the exercises that the baptism was under the direction of the K. K. K. Prayers and the singing of hymns were a part of the program. The klan official refused to give out the names of the children, but he said that they came from Portchester, Greenwich and Stamford.

Automobiles begin arriving at the field early this morning and were directed by klansmen stationed at the cross roads. The machines bore New York and Connecticut licenses. A program of sports and a basket luncheon preceded the ceremony.

FINED FOR LEAVING AUTOMOBILES IN STREETS

New Britain, July 13.—The police, acting under an ordinance recently adopted, launched a campaign last night against owners of automobiles who leave their machines in the streets during the night. Between 60 and 70 car owners received tickets and about 50 were fined $2 each this morning. About a dozen who received the slips did not show up. David Raschkow appeared and announced that he would take this case to the courts for settlement.

TOBACCO SHED AND BARN BURNED IN EAST HATFORD

Hartford, July 13.—The combination tobacco shed and barn owned by Joseph Hartel in East Hartford was destroyed by fire of unknown origin early this morning. Two horses, a cow and fifty chickens were lost in the fire as well as hay and farm implements. The loss is placed at $35,000. A company from the East Hartford fire department responded but was able to do little as the place was outside the fire district and there was no water.

BATHING PARTIES GREAT DIVERSION IN BERLIN

Berlin, July 13.—Bath padties are all the go in Berlin just now. In order to economize on coal, all apartment house owners have stopped the daily supply of hot water, providing it only twice a month, or, in some of the more expensive houses, one day each week. As a consequence neighbors have taken to the exchange of bathing privileges and have regular schedules.

MAN'S DEATH CAUSED BY PULMONARY HEMORRHAGE

Hartford, July 13.—John De Maio, 22, of this city, was found unconscious this afternoon on a lawn on Wethersfield avenue. He was taken to the Hartford hospital and died a few minutes after being admitted. Pulmonary hemorrhage was given as the cause of death.

WIND STORM IN KANSAS KILLED TWO PERSONS

Augusta, Kansas, July 13.—Two persons were killed and more than a score of others seriously injured when a severe wind storm struck here about 8.50 o'clock tonight. Scores of buildings on the main street of the town were demolished. The wind storm followed a heavy rain.

Nominee Davis to Campaign in West

Senator Walsh Professes Belief That Democrats Will Carry the Middle and Northwestern States.

Locust Valley, N. Y., July 13.—John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, told correspondents today that Senator Walsh of Montana, who dined with him last night, was very sanguine as to the prospects of carrying middle and northwestern states, despite the candidacy of Senator La Follette. Mr. Davis said he expected to make an extensive speaking tour of the west, which Senator Walsh is understood to have urged.

The nominee spent a restful Sunday at his country home here, paying little attention to politics. He arose at 7.30 o'clock and took a half hour horseback ride to the Piping Rock Country club, returning to attend the morning service at St. John's Episcopal church, near his home, the remainder of the day he spent resting, receiving an occasional caller.

Mr. Davis, attired in a blue serge suit, and stiff straw hat and carrying a walking stick, drove to the little stone church shortly before 11 o'clock, accompanied by his wife; Mrs. F. M. Watson, of Indianapolis, his sister-in-law, and Frank L. Polk, his close friend.

After the service the nominee paused a few minutes at the church door to greet friends and neighbors, then drove back to his home.

The rector, the Rev. Charles W. Hinton, spoke on the text from Matthew 5:9, "Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled."

"Some say that the way to achieve happiness," he said, "is by some scheme for the welfare of the race. Some propose communism or socialism, others charity or education. These have all been tried at various times with success. They are not the church's way. It stands not for ways of distributing material things, but for the development of the desire that all may share in the true riches of righteousness. They are wise who would have the church confine itself to the desire for righteousness rather than to particular schemes."

The rector made no reference to politics or to the presence in his congregation of the head of the democratic party.

Mr. Davis was escorted to his pew by former State Senator William J. Tully, general counsel for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, who is one of the wardens of the church. The other warden is J. Pieryont Morgan, who was absent today on a yachting trip. The little church was almost filled by the fewer than 100 worshippers, who represented prominent New Yorkers who have country homes in and near Locust Valley. Charles E. Coffin, former general manager of the General Electric company; Mrs. P. A. S. Franklin, wife of the president of the international mercantile marine; Mrs. Paul G. Pennoyer, daughter of Mr. Morgan, and Mrs. W. D. Guthrie, wife of the former president of the American Bar Association, were some of the neighbors who worshipped with Mr. Davis today.

Members of the congregation were informally dressed, some wearing golf suits.

PRINCE OF WALES TO SAIL FOR CANADA AUG. 23

London, July 13.—(By the A. P.)—According to present arrangements, the Prince of Wales will start on his Canadian tour August 23, sailing for New York on the steamer Berengaria. He will occupy the suite formerly used by Emperor William when the Berengaria was the Imperator. He will travel under the incognito of Lord Renfrew.

It is now regarded here as settled that the Prince will attend the polo matches to be held on the field of the Meadowbrook club in Long Island.

FIRE IN THOMPSONVILLE DESTROYED TOBACCO SHED

Thompsonville, July 13.—A five acre tobocca shed containing two tons of cased tobacco and a large quantity of farm tools, the property of John Bostick, of Virginia avenue, was totally destroyed by fire early this morning. The loss was estimated at 7,000. This is the second fire in which farm property has been destroyed on this street in the past two weeks and it is believed that the fires are of incendiary origin.

FOUND AUTOMOBILE OF MISSING ARMY OFFICER

Asheville, N. C., July 13.—An automobile, believed to be that of Major Samuel H. McLeary, missing army officer, has been found near Canton, N. C., local officers were advised tonight. The advices said that a regulation cap found with other parts of an officer's uniform in the machine, bore the missing officer's name. A search of the vicinity was being made.

WOMAN SHOT MAN BECAUSE OF ANNOYING ATTENTIONS

New York, July 13.—Mrs. Josephine Romano, 27, mother of five children, was arrested early today for the shooting of Peter Stincone in an East Side restaurant last night. Stincone's condition is serious.

Mrs. Romano admitted the shooting, saying she had done so after Stincone had terminated a series of annoying attentions by placing a pistol in her hand and asking her to shoot her husband. She use the pistol, she told the police, to fire three shots into Stincone when she found him dining alone. All three bullets took effect.

OBITUARY

Oscar Newhouse

New York, Jul 13.—Oscar Newhouse, inventor of a device which Bellevue hospital officials stated had proven successful in the amelioration of rheumatism cases, died of heart trouble early today. He was 65 years old.

Mr. Newhouse's machine had been employed for about a year by the staff of Bellevue for the treatment of fever and rheumatism patients, Dr. John O'Hanlon, the superintendent said. The principle was the application of dehydrated air and it had been prescribed with success just as massages or Turkish baths are prescribed, he said

SLOWING UP OF INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY IN NEW ENGLAND

In Connecticut Textile and Machine Plants are Working on Part Time—Surplus Workers Have Been Unable to Secure Employment in Other Lines—Supply of Farm Help is Reported Sufficient to Meet Demands in Massachusetts.

Boston, July 13.—Part time operations obtain in many industrial plants in New England, but very few factories are closed, according to the reports to the United States Department of Labor Employment Service, made public today by Charles R. Brown, New England director. As a result there is a surplus of workers unable to find employment in other lines, although some have gone into the fields and engaged in road and building construction.

The survey of general conditions in individual states follows:

Connecticut—There was some slowing up of industrial employment throughout this state during June. While practically all plants are running, a number of textile mills and machine plants are working on a part time basis and the thread and velvet industries are operating on a four-day-per-week schedule, and the surplus workers are unable to secure employment in other lines. Building activities provide employment for a great many craftsmen. Tobacco industry is employing a large number of farm laborers, with the supply about equal to the demand at the present time.

Massachusetts—In certain sections of this state, textile mills and shoe factories are closed, while a large number of industrial plants are running on part time scheduled. There is a surplus of workers who are unable to secure employment. The building program is quite active and affords employment to a large number of tradesmen. The supply of farm help is reported sufficient to meet demands through the state.

Rhode Island—Practically all plants are operating but many are on part-time schedules. The surplus jewelry, machinery and textile workers are unable to secure employment in other lines. Building construction provides employment to a large number of tradesmen and many skilled machinists are finding employment at the naval torpedo station. Scarcity of farm help reported in some sections of the state.

TO ISSUE REGULATIONS UNDER NEW TAX LAW

Washington, July 13.—The bureau of internal revenue has completed and soon will issue the first part of the revised regulations under the new tax law, setting forth the treasury's interpretation of the law applying a tax on admissions.

The new regulations make definite the apparent intent of congress to levy a 10 per cent tax on the whole admission when the charge is more than 50 cents. The tax does not apply under any circumstances when the admission is 50 cents or less and the bureau has issued a caution to the public against collection of taxes except when the amount exceeds 50 cents.

Most theatres and amusement places have stocks of tickets bearing the old admission rate plus the tax borne on such admissions prior to the repeal, so the bureau has given them until September 1 in which to obtain new tickets bearing printed rates in compliance with the new provisions.

Destruction of the old tickets must be accounted for to the bureau by the owners. The regulations grant one privilege to the holders of great stocks of tickets—they may have them "overprinted" or stamped plainly in the new amounts.

The bureau has had indirect reports of some places continuing to collect taxes on admissions since the repeal became effective July 2. Efforts are being made to run down the reports with the view of calling cases to the attention of United States attorneys.

COMMUNISTS TO CONDUCT ANTI-WAR DEMONSTRATIONS

Moscow, July 13.—Anti-war demonstrations will be held simultaneously in the United States, England, France and Germany during the week from July 22 to August 1, under the auspices of the communist parties of the world, if the plans of the Communist International, formulated at its recent meeting here, are carried out.

The speakers urged the workers, communists and soldiers to seize the tenth anniversary of the World war for repudiation of war in all its forms, with firm disapproval of the report of the Dawes committee, which was called "a second Versailles treaty."

AUTO INJURIES FATAL TO THEATRICAL MAN

Plainfield, N. J., July 13.—Joseph A. Lane, prominent theatrical man, died in a local hospital today from injuries received several weeks ago, when he alighted from a moving train at Bayonne.

For several years Mr. Lane was associated with Klaw and Erlanger in New York and more recently was in the employ of the Shuberts, acting as manager for several successful productions. He was 47 years old.

TO SELECT SECOND MAN ON THE LA FOLLETTE TICKET

Washington, July 13.—La Follette adherents who are already in Washington for the meeting next Friday at which a vice presidential candidate to complete a national ticket is expected to be selected refrained from campaign activities over Sunday and Senator La Follette himself saw no one.

A committee will give the senator formal notification of the indorsement of his presidential candidacy, Friday.

DAVIS REGISTERED AS VOTER AT OYSTER BAY

New York, July 13.—John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, is regarded by Tammany Hall as a West Virginian, despite the fact that he recently announced that Long Island is his legal residence. Across the Wigwam of the organization on 14th street is a huge basner advrtising the party nominee in this fashion:

"For President—John W. Davis of West Virginia."

Mr. Davis has been registered as a voter at Oyster Bay, L. I., since 1922, the year after he returned from his service from Great Britain.

TWO BROTHERS DROWNED IN CONNECTICUT RIVER

Thompsonville, July 13.—While fishing in the Connecticut river this afternoon near the Enfield Falls, Andrew Moriarty, 12, and his brother, Thomas, 10, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Moriarty, were drowned. It is believed the younger boy fell into the water and the older one jumped in to save him. Both bodies were recovered.

BRAZILIAN TROOPS ARE ROUTING THE REVOLUTIONISTS

Buenos Aires, July 13.—A dispatch to La Nacion from Rio Janeiro says the Brazilian government has issued a decree extending until July 19 the virtual moratorium throughout the state of Sao Paulo "in view of the circumstances which necessitated the original decree." Numerous delegations of leading bankers, business men, coffee growers and other persons have called on President Bernardes and expressed solidarity with the government in the present circumstances.

Another dispatch to La Nacion from Rio Janeiro gives the following official communication issued yesterday:

"Military operations against the revolutionists in Sao Paulo are continuing. Our troops are continually obtaining urther successes and reducing the rebels' means of defense. It is evident that the rebels are making their last effort, and the situation is clearly favorable to our troops whose superiority is being established at all points."

A dispatch to La Nacion from Montevideo says the correspondent is reliably informed that the rebels took possession of the city of Sao Paulo after severe street fighting and that they now are advancing upon Santos. This dispatch adds that the movement is spreading to neighboring states and to the most important cities of Brazil.

POSTAL EMPLOYES HELD MEETING IN HARTFORD

Hartford, July 13.—Edward J. Gainor, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers, spoke before a mass meeting of postal employes of the entire state and neighboring Massachusetts towns yesterday at Saengerbund hall, Hartford. Mr. Gainor said that the work of securing an increase in salaries for postal workers would continue and that at the next session of congress a bill would be introduced based on the ascertainment committee's report. This bill, said Mr. Gainor, will be sure to pass unvetoed. Other speakers were Frank Jacobson, president of the Hartford branch, Frank B. Whitney, and William J. Cahill, president of the Connecticut State association. Resolutions were passed to the memory of ex-Congressman Thomas L. Reilly for hte service he had given the postal workers as a member of congress and for securing the enactment of the compensation law, eight-hour-in-ten law, and the retirement law.

DEATH OF PIONEER OF BRITISH TRADES UNION

London, July 13.—Robert Applegarth, one of the pioneers of British trades unions, died today at his home in Thornton Heath. Death was due to senile decay.

Robert Applegarth was born in 1834. He was a self-educated man, his study included economics and industrial questions with special regard to the conditions of workmen. He was a politician and reformer and a promoter of popular education. He was a member of the reform league, of the London General Council of the International Workingmen's association and of the London Chamber of Commerce.

CALL ISSUED BY FAFAYETTE DAY NATIONAL COMMITTEE

New York, July 13.—For the ninth successive time the Lafayette Day national committee has issued its call to the American people to celebrate on September 6 the anniversary of the birth of Lafayette, in 1757, and of the battle of the Marne, in 1914. This year the principal ceremony will take place in Baltimore, Md., where a statue of Lafayette will be unveiled. In announcing its call, the committee expresses its gratitude to President Coolidge for his commendation of the double anniversary for the general observances last year.

COUPLE DROWNED WHILE FISHING IN ONEIDA LAKE

SWIMMER DROWNED IN RIVER NEAR CROMWELL

Middletown, Conn., July 13.—William Wilson, 20 years old, of Hartford, was drowned this afternoon while swimming at Blow Hole, in the Connecticut river near Cromwell. The body had not been recovered at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

WILLIMANTIC

The funeral of James A. Calnen was held from the family home, 30 Summit street 1.30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The service at St. Joseph's church at two o'clock was read by Rev. Otto S. Beaumister. As the body was borne into the edifice, Arthur Roy and Mrs. Mary Mathieu sang Nearer My God to Thee. As a waiting hymn Mr. Roy sang, Lead Kindly Light.

Thy Will be Done was given by Mrs. Mathieu as the body was being taken from the church. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where the committal service was read by Rev. Father Beaumister at the family burial plot. The bearers were Acting Mayor George W. Hickey, John R. Pickett and Harry Grimley, representing San Jose Council, No. 4, Knights of Columbus, and Harry B. Morrison, William Flynn and Eugene E. Curran representing the Willimantic druggists.

The services were attended by hundreds of relatives and friends from New York, Astoria, Providence, Pawtucket, Norwich, New Haven, Hartford, Springfield, New London, Willimantic and other cities. There were beautiful floral tributes. The flower bearers were Henry J. Kelley and Frank Hevrin. Attending the funeral as deervices in a body was a large delegation of members of the local council of the Knights of Columbus, headed by Grand Knight Gilbert F. Flynn. Mrs. E. R. Portelance was at the organ and directed the music. Monday morning a high mass of requiem is to be celebrated at St. Joseph's church for the repose of the soul of Mr. Calnen.

John Taylor, of 464 Pleasant street will settle for the damage to his Dodge car and to a Nash touring owned by Jacob Mondel, as the result of a collision of the machines at the top of Jillson Hill, on Windham road, at six o'clock Saturday evening. Taylor will also appear in police court this (Monday) morning to answer to a charge of driving without an operator's license. The accident was an unusual one. Pleasant street and Windham road meet at sharp angle at the top of Jillson hill. Taylor came out of Pleasant street, swung around the front of the Nash, which was being driven up Jillson hill, and then cut a circle to the left of Windham road and struck the Mandel machine on the right side, demolishing the rear fender and running board.

Harry Goldstein of Chestnut Hill and Samuel Kirsch, of Pleasant Valley, were presented before Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews in the Mansfield town court Saturday afternoon, by Dog Warden William Eldredge. The men were charged with harboring dogs not legally registered. The prosecution for the state was by Grand Juror George M. Millerd. Goldstein pleaded not guilty and Kirsch's plea was guilty. Dog Warden Eldredge, however, gave testimony concerning the Goldstein case which convinced Justice Andrews and the accused was found guilty. Fines of $2 and costs amounting to $15.15 were imposed and paid.

The funeral of Miss Margaret Breen was held Saturday morning from her home in South Coventry. Requiem high mass at St. Mary's church in this place, at nine o'clock was sung by the pastor, Rev. William H. Kennedy. The organ music was by Miss Celia Day, who also sang three hymns during the services. The bearers were, Edward Navin, James Clark, Dennis O'Brien and William Flaherty. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, South Coventry. Kilkourey Bros. had charge of the arrangements.

There were fifteen deaths in the town of Windham during May, as recorded at the office of Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton. The list:

3.—Josephine Monast, 60, multiple internal carcinoma.

4.—Emma Milner, 47, peritonitis.

Louis J. Matte, 51, tuberculosis of the lungs.

10.—Bridge Danahey, 33, cerebral hemorrhage.

11.—John Leonard, 74, valvular heart disease.

(Baby) Jackson, No. 11, premature birth.

13.—Josephine Massola, 1, accidental exterior burns.

16.—Richard Dillon, 29, post pharyngeal abscess.

17.—Hermina Houle, 58, gastralgia.

18.—Sarah Weeks Fenton, 72, bronchopneumonia.

24.—Xavier Larivee, 60, angina pectoris.

Fireman Joseph J. Grimes, a member of Engine Co. No. 1, is being complimented since Saturday forenoon when he discovered the makings of a good fire at the Longo fruit store and extinguished the blaze, singlehanded. The fire started in the fruit display stand and was notice by the practiced eyes of Fireman Grimes, who was enjoying a day off duty.

A picnic party was held at the home of Henry Goldstein, at Hop River Sunday afternoon, by the Jewish Ladies society. Attending were over one hundred Hebrews from Hartford, New London, Norwich, Willimantic, Colchester and surrounding towns. A picnic lunch was provided on the lawn. Music for entertainment and dancing was by Rosen's orchestra.

Frank Scholowfer and Frank Satazeck, both of Mansfield Four Corners, were in the Mansfield town court Friday morning before Justice of the Peace Geo. H. Andrews charged with violation of the liquor law in having in their possession liquor with intent to sell and an actual sale. Both pleaded guilty. Grand Juror George M. Millerd prosecuted. The men were arrested after their homes had been raided by State Policemen Hardisty and Hulburt of the Stafford Springs barracks, and hard cider had been seized at both places. Two shot guns and a rifle were also found at the Satazeck home and as the owner is an alien he had no legal right to possess the weapons, so an additional charge on this count was ledred against him. Fines of $100 and costs amounting to $145.85 were imposed and paid in each case. Satazeck was fined $35 on the charge of possessing firearms illegally.

Windham is proud of having one of its leading citizens, Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, minority leader in the house of representatives, placed on the list of possibilities for governor of Connecticut. The statement was issued in a well known morning publication and cites views of party leaders that Captain Fenton is in a stronger position to go before the people as candidate for governor than several others mentioned. Fenton was a delegate to the national convention from this district. He voted one hundred ballots straight for Governor Al Smith, until the governor withdrew and cast his vote in favor of the strong anti-klan plank in the platform. Although refusing to abandon Smith under any circumstances, Captain Fenton did not antagonize the leaders who thought differently and it is believed that he therefore could command the support of the party organization as well as those classed as disaffected Smith enthusiasts. The article mentions the deserted field of candidates for governor apparently brought on by the defeat of Smith and the presence of a Bryan on the national ticket.

Members of the local police department, federal prohibition enforcement agents and county officials swooped down on half a dozen suspected bootlegging houses in this city, Saturday evening, but failed to secure sufficient evidence to warrant an arrest in any of the houses. The officers were armed with search warrants.

For her little daughter, Elizabeth Pierson Jordan, 7, Mrs. Roland B. Jordan entertained 22 boys and girls at a lawn and house party Friday afternoon. Assisting Mrs. Jordan was her cousin, Miss Ethel Lewis, of Norwich, a teacher in the Model school. In the peanut hunt, Evelyn Standish and Albert Welch won prizes and Hilda Henry won in the donkey game. The table about which the children sat for lunch was prettily decorated with yellow roses, carrying out the butterfly scheme. A huge paper Jahn Horner pie adorned the center of the table. The children who were guests were Mary Pierson of Waterbury; Ruth Foshay, Jean Chamberlain, Robert Foshay, Madeline and Margaret Congdon, Evelyn Hickey, Dorcas Harrington, Clara Branch, Curtin Reinhardt and Shirley Burleson, Janet Brown, Albert Welch, Hilda Hendry, Barbara and Franklyn Taylar, Betty Lou and Joyce Sharpe, Evelyn Standish, Phyllis Jordan, Catherine Branch, Bobby Backus, Furman Church and Jamie Hillhouse.

At the Salvation Army hall Sunday evening, a public farewell meeting, largely attended, was conducted for Adjutant Daisy Whipple, who has been in this city nearly a year and Lieutenant Olive Cole, who has been here since September. The two will leave for Stamford Wednesday. The incoming officers are Captain and Mrs. Walter Perett of Holton, Me., formerly of South Manchester.

Officers of Obwebetuck lodge No. 116, I. O. O. F., were installed at the last meeting, by District Deputy Grand Master Fred L. Avery of this city in the following order: Elective, Noble grand, Joseph W. Bernet; vice grand, Ifred J. Mathewson; recording secretary, Walter E. Thompson; and treasurer, Charles M. Thompson. Appointive, Warden, William E. Tinker; conductor, Charles H. Beebe; chaplain, John J. Hersant; right supporter to the noble grand, George H. Millerd, Jr., left supporter to the noble grand, Winfield Lyons; right supporter to the vice grand, Ralph E. Scribner; left supporter to the vice grand, Louis B. Wilson; inner guard, James Brown; outside guard, Samuel Ferguson; left scene supporter, Edwin Wood; right scene supporter, George Simmons.

Mrs. O. D. Leach has as guests acquaintances whom she has not seen in over thirty years. They are Flora F. Soguel, her cousin of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. Leonard Ryan and W. H. Smith, of Brattleboro, Vt.

Mrs. Belle H. Riggleman and sister, Miss Jessie Baldwin spent the weekend with Mrs. Frank Spencer at New Haven.

Mrs. William A. Dawson was discharged rom St. Joseph's hospital Sunday after where she was a patient for seven weeks and she is staying at her cottage, at South Coventry.

Mrs. Frank P. Fenton, who spent two weeks in New York with her husband, Frank P. Fenton, a delegates to the democratic national convention, returned home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. ahton C. Persons and daughter Margaret and Jessica Fenton are at The Wigwam, Pleasant View, R. I., for the week.

William Counihan and family were recent visitors at Watch Hill.

Mrs. Sarah Pendleton of South Windham road has had as guests, Milton Pendleton of Buffalo, N. Y.

The police received a report Sunday that Adelard Marrottee of the South Coventry road had struck the South Coventry-Willimantic trolley car Saturday night as it was travelling on its last trip to this city shortly before 12 o'clock. Mr. Marrotte's machine was damaged, getting a bent fender and ripped running board. He will pay for the damages.

Due to a new system under which employment certificates are being issued to children between 14 and 16 by the state board of education, only 8 per cent. of the number of certificates were issued in June of this year of the number issued in June, 1923, according to Archibald W. Buchanan of Mansfield Center, agent for the state board. The statement was made by Agent Buchanan while holding his weekly session here. Certificates are given only when the applicant is able to give proof that he or she can go right to work. Another reason given by Mr. Buchanan for the falling off of working certificates in June is that there is but little demand for extra help on account of the slump in the textile business.

With the summer well advanced and the annual camp meeting but five week away, the number o of cottages occupied at present on the Willimantic Camp Ground is less than one-half that occupied at this time last year and the smallest avenue in the history of the camp ground for the last 5 years. On the various circles of the ground only 42 of the one hundred and eighty cottages were open Saturday.

COLCHESTER

At the reopening of the Baptist church Sunday evening, following was the order of service: Address of welcome by L. C. Brown; Scripture reading by the rector of the Episcopal church; prayer by pastor of Congregational church; sermon by Rev. E. E. Gates of Hartford. An organist and quartet from Norwich consisting of Miss Charlotte Fowler, soprano; Mrs. Reginard Pruetler, alto; William Douglass, tenor; George Hollingsworth, bass; Mrs. Walter M. Cowan, organist, added interest to the service by several well rendered selections. Contractor Crane of Willimantic has put the interior of the church in fine condition. With new furnishings. The Baptist people are proud of their house of worship. Friends from all the churches assisted in raising the funds for repair, which was nearly $1,450.

There is too often an invisible motive back of the hand extended to help others.

JEWETT CITY

Rev. Howard S. Stephenson read his resignation as pastor of the Congregational church, at the close of the morning service Sunday. His parishioners have always known that he expected to return to Kentucky, his home state, after receiving his degree at Yale; but they had hoped no opportunity to return would be offered or some time to come. Mr. Stephenson is not leaving because he is to receive a larger salary, as that will be approximately the same as he has had here, but because of the insistent wishes of his people at home that he go back to his own church and state. He goes to Millersburg, Bourbon county, Kentucky, to become pastor of the Christian church. In this town there are a boys' military school, the cadets attending this church in a body, a girls' college, also a consolidated high and normal school. It is a position for which both Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson are particularly adapted, and it seems wise to their friends here, although it is their loss, that they should accept it. Mrs. Stephenson came to Jewett City as a bride one year ago, Mr. Stephenson has been pastor for two years. In that time, they have become much beloved by their parish, and held in the highest regard by the townspeople. It had been planned that they should go to Kentucky for the August vacation, making part of the trip with Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Robinson, who start July 28 by automobile to visit their daughter in West Virginia. As the pastor's year closes the first of September, and the church closes in August, this plan will probably be carried out.

Mrs. William Willis and daughters, Letitia and Marian of Southbridge are guests at Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Giffa.

Mrs. Jane Richardson and son Charles and Sally Bascom of Lancaster, Mass., were week-end guests at Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Richardson's

Miss Edna Sharkey left Saturday by automobile to spend two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Laboune, in Cornwall, Ontario.

Miss Belle Hogge is in Manchester, N. H., to spend two months with relatives.

The Harmony club enjoyed a picnic Friday at Mrs. C. D. Wolf's camp, on the Quinebaug.

Several Jewett City boys will benefit by the bonus which New York state is to give the boys who enlisted from that state. Gilbert Miner has the necessary application blanks.

MYSTIC

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Folger of Nantucket, Mass., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Paige. Mr. Folger is Mrs. Paige's father; is 88, and remarkably active.

The Sunday school of the Methodist Episcopal church at to hold its annual picnic this week Wednesday at Ocean Beach, basket lunches being taken.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church has discontinued meetings until the second Thursday in September.

Mrs. Frank Dickinson and Mrs. Warren Rathbun were callers in Uncasville Saturday.

Mrs. George Wallace and Mrs. Emma Brown were visitors in New London Friday.

At the semi-monthly meeting of the Mystic Country club Thursday evening at the club house on Jackson avenue auction will be played, with the following committee in charge: Mr. and Mrs. S. Arthur Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Snell, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moore, Mrs. William T. Brand and Miss Edith A. Brand.

Williams Woman's Relief Corps No. 42 has discontinued their meetings until August.

Gordon Brown of Providence is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Wallace.

GOSHEN

Two air ships were seen Monday, one passing over this place to the southwest and one going over to the northeastward. The airmen looked like huge darning needles as they were lost to view in the distance.

Record time was made by Peter Shida in the building of a summer kitchen at his new home. Elmlawn farm, the building, 18x24 feet was substantially built and was ready for occupancy in five days.

The work of haying goes merrily on. A light shower Thursday caught much hay out, but gardens were getting dry and rain was needed. A hard thunder shower went around to the southwest.

The sides and roofs of buildings here now still show the effects of the terrible storm of hail of a year ago and buildings look as if they still had the measles.

The last of Glen Mary strawberries were picked July 10th, at Maple Hill farm.

While mowing with a machine a farmer discovered four brown objects go scurrying through the grass. They proved to be a burrow of rabbits.

Miss Clara Gillett entertained the Ladies' Aid society Friday afternoon.

PLAINFIELD

Richard Provost, Rayner Swanson and Theodore Peletier have returned to Stamford, after spending a few weeks at their homes. They expect to leave Stamford for Kansas City at an early date.

Many fans motored to Willimantic Sunday to see the ball game.

Saturday evening at a dance at Moosup pond, a violator of the Volstead act escaped a probable jail sentence when he eluded the state police. The state officers on duty were Officers Comstock and Gardiner. A pint bottle nearly half full was seized by Officer Gardiner, but the man managed to escape. A thorough search was made around the pavilion but the man got away.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Connell motored to Narragansett Pier Sunday.

Mrs. Ella Riley of Providence has returned home, after spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Ellen Babcock of Gallup street.

Bernard Weschler, recently employed in the Self-Service Store, has returned to New London after spending a few days with friends in Plainfield.

George O'Neil, John Leahy and Norman Whipple motored to Providence Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Ballard and family motored to Ocean Beach and Westerly Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fontaine spent Sunday with relatives in New Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oldham are spending the week with Mrs. Mary Oldham, of Lawton Heights.

George Barnes, now in the employ of a local garage, formerly of Providence, spent the week-end at his home.

Samuel Wibberly spent Sunday with his son, Malcomb, who resides in Canterbury.

Mrs. John Mercer has returned, after spending a few weeks with relatives in North Adams, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kagan received notice Friday evening of the death of their son, John Kagan in Pawtucket, R. I. He was well known in Plainfield and the news was a shock to many friends. Mr. Kagan leaves besides his wife and three children, a brother Peter of New Bedford, and two sisters, Miss Victoria and Mrs. John Baker of Plainfield.

NEW LONDON CHINESE BOY DROWNED WHILE FISHING FROM CITY PIER

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, July 3.—George Marr, 10, son of Willie Marr, a Chinaman residing at 59 Main street, was drowned in the Thames river this afternoon within view of almost 100 pedestrians, who did not realibe the danger of the young Chinese. The body was recovered a short time later by a fisherman.

Marr went to the municipal pier in company with James Egarian, 13, of 169 Main street. While trying their luck at fishing the Marr youth lost his balance and fell from the dock. Marr could not swim and realizing this, Egarian jumped overboard in an effort to rescue his friend. Egarian reached the Marr boy three times, but each time lost his hold on the floundering and helpless youth. Realizing that he could not save Marr, Egarian called for help, but by the time passengers at the union station reached the spot where Marr had gone overboard, the child had disappeared from view. Egarian was hauled to the wharf in an exhausted condition. The police were notified of the drowning and Officers Clarence Wells and Patrick Sheehan were sent to the pier. The officers obtained the services of John McElliott, master of the Block Island fishing boat, J-1010, which was moored at the pier. Mc-Williams dropped a line with a halibut hook attached and after trying several times the hook finally became fast in the clothing of the boy, who was hauled to the surface of the river. Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman was notified and after conducting a brief investigation gave permission for the removal of the body to an undertaking establishment. A short time after the drowning occurred the boy's father appeared at the wharf and be came frantic and was taken to his home by acquaintances. Marr boy was one of several Chinese children who arrived in New London with their parents within a few years and was a studious pupil at the public schools. He was the son of one of the owners of the Far East restaurant.

The automobile owned and operated by Peter J. Eshenfelder, 36 of Garfield avenue and a car driven by Lorraine Watson Kohrs, 51 Connecticut avenue, were in collision this afternoon on Bentley avenue, Ocean Beach. Neither car sustained damage of consequence. Eshenfelder caused his car to be brought to a stop without giving a signal. Mrs. Kohrs car, which was following struck the rear of the Eshenfelder machine. Each placed blame for the collision upon the other, but later withdrew their charges.

A great number of patrolmen and traffic officers was on duty at Ocean Beach than at any time since the shore resort was opened. Throughout the day ten officers were stationed there an effort to enforce traffic regulations and to be on the alert for perpetrators of crime. The regular force of officers was increased by Supernumeraries Edward and William Reardon and and Henry Silva being assigned to duty.

Thomas Occhilini, 4 Chelsea street, was ordered Saturday afternoon to appear in the police court Monday morning by Motorcycle Officers William Babcock, charged with violation of the automobile law in failing to reduce the speed of his machine in passing intersecting streets. Occhilini has been arrested several times for automobile law violations.

The automobile owned and driven by Pembroke Jones of New York, a guest at the Hotel Mohican and a machine, owned and driven by Carl A. Snyder, of Gales Ferry, were in collision on Howard street this evening. Both machines were damaged. Jones upon complaint of Snyder, was taken into custody by Patrolman Braxton Hill, charged with reckless driving. Jones was released upon furnishing a cash bond for appearance in the police court Monday morning.

Another black and tan joint was raided by the police, early Sunday morning, when the house at 451 Main street, occupied by Elisha Stanfield, colored, was visited by Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolman Braxton Hill. Stanfield was taken into custody, charged with conducting a disorderly house, being unable to secure a surety on his bond he was held for trial in the police court Monday morning. Charles Stebbins, charged with frequenting and William Williams, who was held as a witness against Stanfield, were found in the place and were also taken into custody. Stebbins obtained a bondsman for his appearance in court, but Williams was not so fortunate and was locked up. The raiders also found evidence that liquor was being dispensed at the place for a modern still was seized as was a quantity of implements used for the manufacture of hooch and for its serving. The place has long been under suspicion as being a resort frequented for immoral purposes and where drinks could be obtained. Patrolman Hill maintained a watch of the house last night and early this morning and when Stebbins and Williams were seen to enter the house the raid was ordered by Sergeant Cavanaugh.

An automobile operated by Miss Rene Varicle, 881 Ocean avenue, struck and injured a motorcyclist, Felix Lyle, colored, 578 Main street, Saturday afternoon at the corner of Blinman and Truman streets. Lyle was knocked from the cycle and sustained injuries to his legs. His clothing was torn and the motorcycle was damaged. Lyle placed the blame for the collision upon Miss Varicle and the latter declared that the motorcycle was operated aganst the side of her machne.

That a gang of bathing house thieves is operating at Ocean beach there is not the slightest doubt for within a week several bathers have suffered losses, their clothing being rifled while they were enjoying the bathing. The latest thieving of this kind occurred Saturday evening when J. S. Jaffre, 53 Summer street, reported to Patrolman Walter Rehn on duty at the shore that the bath house he occupied in the Clifford group, had been entered while he was bathing and that $53 was stolen. The beach has greater police protection this season than ever before, but hardly a day passes that a theft of some description it nos reported.

An automobile owned and driven by George Pendergrast, Norwich, and a machine owned and operated by Thomas H. Gunner, Brooklyn, N. Y., were in collision Friday night on Pequonoc road, Groton, between the Avery Memorial and Trail's corner. Pendergrast's car sustained the greater damage. None of the occupants of either machine was injured.

An automobile owned and driven by Samuel Watchinsky, 39 Summer street, struck Frank Denby, 4, of 76 John street, on Main street, near the corner of John street, this morning. The child who attempted to run across the street, just as the machine was about to pass, was thrown to the highway, but not with sufficient force to receive serious injury, as was determined when the youngster was examined at the office of a physician.

A. F. Fagan, 14 Homestead street, complained to the police Saturday evening that his automobile was damaged when the car was sideswiped by another machine, on Mohegan avenue, in the vicinity of Connecticut college. The driver of the colliding car, according to Fagan, failed to stop when the collision occurred, and appeared to be under the influence of liquor as the car was traveling in zig-zag course.

Raymond Beckman, 337 Albany avenue, Hartford, reported to the police this morning that his machine had been in collision with a Connecticut automobile on the outskirts of the city, but Beckman did not know just where the accident occurred or who owned the other car, which bore registration, 81-083. Beckman stated that the collision occurred just after his machine reached New London and while it was being driven to Ocean beach.

Mrs. Frank Hislop and children, of Dover, N. J., are visiting Mrs. Hislop's mother, Mrs. Nellie B. Hislop.

Miss Henrietta Bartlette, a nurse at Long Island College hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil R. Burrows.

Miss Harriet Rogers of 202 Williams street, is visiting friends in Cromwell.

Thomas Connors, of 21 Berkley avenue, will be in the police court Monday forenoon charged with speeding. Connors was detected Saturday afternoon by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock operating an automobile on Jefferson avenue, near the corner of Bank street at a high rate of speed.

James Dixon, colored, who has been arrested many times for offenses of a various nature, but most of which have been theft and peering through windows in the night season, was taken into custody Saturday evening by Patrolman John Clifford, who found Dixon in the hallway of the dwelling at 377 Bank street. Dixon could not give a plausible excuse for being in the house, so he will be given an opportunity to tell his story to Judge Prince in the police court Monday morning.

Mrs. S. Leroy Blake, of Boston, widow of a former New London clergyman, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Lelia Latham.

Mrs. Michael De Biasi and infant son, of Groton, and William Ingram, Fishers Island, were patients dismissed at Home Memorial hospital Saturday.

The funeral of Isaac E. Dawson, former employe of the New London Line of the New England Steamship Company, was held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Mr. Dawson's former home, 342 Williams street. Services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Members of Pequot lodge, I. O. O. F., of which organization Mr. Dawson was a member many years, acted as bearers. The committal was in Cedar Grove cemetery, where services were conducted by Pequot lodge.

Senator Ernest E. Rogers, who is seeking the nomination of lieutenant governor, entertained a number of state and county officers, prominent politicians of the state and members of the legislative appropriations committee, at a clambake at his fine residence on Pequot avenue, Saturday afternoon.

Michael L. O'Connell has sold a cottage and small parcel of land at Ocean beach to Max Maisler, Hartford. Long Point, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged Saturday.

The funeral of William N. Holt was held Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at 48 Shapley street. Services were conducted by Rev. Joseph Elder, pastor of Huntington Street Baptist church. The bearers were employes of the Bingham Paper Box Manufacturing company where Mr. Holt was employed as a printer several years. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Baby Zukoff, child of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zukoff, Montville, died at the Home Memorial hospital Friday a short time after birth. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock at 51 Fremont street. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, Montville.

John Filopone of Hartford, an employe of the Fuller Brush company, was fined $25 in the police court on Saturday for reckless operation of his car at Ocean beach. He was bustling about the highway there in a way that led to the opinion that he was not competent to drive the car, so complaint was made to an officer and Filopone was taken into custody. His attorney in entering a demurrer to the complaint against Filopone said that the offender was only 18, that he had been at the beach but a few days and that as the car was not running just right the youth was endeavoring to correct its difficulties. It was far from the intention of Filopone, the lawyer said, to defy any provision of the state law. He was only correcting a fault with the operation of the car.

Pretorio Lizzio of Versailles drove down Main street at a speed that Policeman Graham declared to be 35 miles an hour, Saturday. He came past the Crystal avenue bridge as another car was coming out of that highway, in to Main street, but by good luck a collision was averted Lizzio had a passenger in his car and was bound to the railway station to get his passenger aboard a train. A 35-mile rate is too fast for a machine to be speeding along a busy highway, so Officer Graham arrested the driver. Lizzio declared that he was going only ten miles an hour and some of the time he was traveling at only two miles. The court was somewhat astonished at that statement, but it was not accepted as an honest estimate of the speed and Lizzio was fined $25.

Thomas T. Wetmore, Jr., was fined $5 for turning his car on Bank street. Mr. Wetmore is a resident of this city. He said it was a case of absentmindedness. He just got into his car tnu turned it around. That absence of mind cost Mr. Wetmore $5.

Leroy Hollis and Benjamin Denehy were charged with being on railroad property and there offending against the laws of the state. Hollis was accused of having broken the seal of a freight car and Denehy with the theft of a peck of potatoes. Hollis is said to be a sufferer from epilepsy. The cases were not ready for trial so they went over to Wednesday next and Probation Officer Mansfield will make inquiry into the circumstances connected with the case.

In preparation for compliance with the ordinance adopted at the council meeting a week ago that traffic congestion may be avoided, the Connecticut company is now stopping its cars about fifty feet from each street corner so that the cars shall not block travel to and from the streets that flow vehicles into the highways where the tracks are located. The change went into effect Saturday. The white bands on posts denoting stopping places are being obliterated and they will be designated on posts away from the corners hereafter.

PRESIDENTIAL PARTY ON THE YACHT MAYFLOWER

Washington, July 13.—President and Mrs. Coolidge rested today on the presidential yacht Mayflowers down the Potomac, leaving yesterday and planning not to return until tomorrow morning. A complete rest was sought and with them were their son John, the president's father, John C. Coolidge, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston, and Mrs. Arthur Capper, wife of the Kansas senator. It was understood tonight that the yacht had had no wireless communication with Washington since leaving.

PALACE THEATRE

Mental telepathy in triumph over human failure in saving a man from taking his own life in a suicide pact furnishes a gripping climax to the picturization of Robert W. Chambers' novel, Between Friends, which will be shown at the Palace theatre 3 days starting today. This intensely interesting story as filmed for Vitagraph under the personal supervision of J. Stuart Blackton, is a depiction of a segment of life of New York co-mingle, and, like most of Chambers' brain children, teems with suspense, tells a convincing story and works to a climax which keeps the audience guessing right up to the final scene.

Lou Tellegen, Norman Kerry, Stuart Holmes, Alice Calhoun and Anna Q. Nilsson are the leading players in the remarkable cast assembled by Vitagraph for this production.

Short subjects, the Smat Family in their latest and funniest two reel comedy The Great Out Doors, latest Pathe news and Palace supreme orchestra complete this high class program.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Patsy Ruth Miller and Dustin Farnum in My Man.

Broadway Theatre

"Daughters of Today" which opened a four days engagement at the Broadway theatre yesterday will probably develop into a very much discussed subject before the week is up. It is like a stick of dramatic dynamite going off in the midst of a jazz band's rendition of, "The Jazz Babies Ball." It reels off to the tempo of the jazz age but its punches hit like a trip hammer. In it one hears the moaning of the bass saxophone but one also hears the moaning of thousands of mothers who are nightly asking: "What is My Daughter Doing?"

"Daughters of Today" is probably not a million dollar picture but it is a picture for the millions. It tells its story simply and dramatically. It is splendidly acted by a cast headed by Patsy Miller, Ralph Graves, Zasu Pitts, Phillips Smalley and Philo McCullough. An ensemble of pretty girls add much to the attractiveness particularly in those scenes which depict the 'gay life' of the young set that revels in midnight bathing parties, and dancing exhibitions that, some say, owe their origin to the Congo.

The picture, which was directed by Rollin S. Sturgeon one of the screens best known producers simply asks a question "Where are the daughters of today drifting?" and proceeds to show what they are doing.

The never ceasing whirl of unconventional activities result in midnight soirees at notorious roadhouses, wild motor rides, daring midnight bathing parties in which impromptu bathing suits are used, finally lead to a gay party staged at the country estate of the wealthy ne'er-do-well, resulting in a tragedy that throws suspicion upon the meshes of the net that closes over those who follow the paths of indiscretion and find disaster and a terrific awakening.

The director has had a big theme to handle in this picture and has acquitted himself with rare good judgment. His people are not exaggerated types but young men and young women that we meet every day. Every audience will see contemporary life reflected faithfully on the fleeting film.

An Andy Gump comedy and News were other entertaining subjects.

At the Breed

We reccommend that everybody in Norwich see this motion picture, and it will mean more happy homes, cleaner living and longer life. The picture is being shown separately for men and women, and we understand the reason for that is to show the true spirit of seriousness of the subject, and not endeavor to appeal to the morbid and sensational seeking audience.

On account of the delicate subject and scenes, men and women will not be admitted together. This motion picture has been endorsed by the Health Department of Chicago, Milwaukee and New York, as well as in every city it has been shown. Everyone in Norwich should see this photoplay for the lesson it teaches.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

This is another week. Another week of the good old summer time. This particular summer may have its handicaps, but it is rather a good summer after all. In spite of a shortage of rain and a surplus of publicity and more or less uncertainty of employment among the thousands that depend on the prosperity of the cotton and woolen textile business for their own well-being Danielson is doing very well, thank you. It has had its little troubles, as is not unusual in large families, and its pests of various varieties, and all it has to do now is to worry, if it cares to, as to whether any of the Bryan family will figure in log winners' list when the votes are counted in the national election in November.

Saturday, the body of Michael Harrington, who died in Norwich, was brought here in charge of Undertaker L. E. Kennedy and Sunday was at his rooms on Furnace street. Mr. Harrington, 64, was a resident of Brooklyn for many years and is well remembered here. In his earlier days he was employed by the Quinebaug Brick company, which operated a brickyard in Brooklyn, about two miles west of Danielson, and later was engaged as a farmer in the Allen Hill section. Mr. Harrington leaves his wife, now resident in Roxbury, Mass., a son, Frank, of Attleboro, a brother, John, of Brooklyn, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Duffy and Mrs. Katherine Murray, of Danielson.

At East Killingly Saturday the death of Benjamin Franklin Chaffee, 77, occurred. Mr. Chaffee had been in failing health for several years and became seriously ill July 4, when he suffered a heart attack. He was a native of Putnam, a son of Charles and Betsey Spalding Chaffee. For a great many years he was a resident of Putnam, being engaged for a long time as a cutter in a shoe factory and later as a member of the police force of the city. About eight years ago he moved with Mrs. Chaffee to East Killingly, where they have since made their home.

If Danielson and all the surrounding territory was not surfeited with watermelons and muskmelons Sunday, it wasn't the fault of one fruit dealer in Danielson. Starting out at 7 o'clock Saturday night he disposed of two carloads of watermelons and a carload of muskmelons at auction. A crowd jammed lower Main street to get in on the sale. The melons were brought from the cars in a big motor truck and peddled out as rapidly as bidders could name the prices they wanted to pay for them. Any bid carried an option of buying six similar melons at a like price. The carload of muskmelons was quickly taken over by eager buyers, and the watermelons were practically all sold out in a period of a little more than two hours.

This sort of a sale was a novelty to Danielson. It afforded melons galore for those who like them and at prices not ordinarily named for such products in Danielson. There was a parade of citizens carrying watermelons under their arms and hardly a car left town without one or more of the summer favorites tucked away somewhere in the machine.

Three motor cars figured in such untoward incidents out on the Providence road over the week end that wrecking cars had to go out and tow them into Danielson for repairs. The first of these machines came into town during Saturday forenoon. It was a Ford coupe that had lost out in a backing contest against a tree, just over the state line in Rhode Island. The two young men who were riding in the machine when the accident happened escaped without injury. That makes the item of lesser news value than it otherwise would have been, thanks be!

Before 10 o'clock Sunday morning two more cars had come to grief over by South Killingly. A Cadillac with a New York registration lost a rear fender while coming down a hill and a Cleveland car with a Rhode Island registration was battered at the front end as the result of having it out with a fence of wall or some other obstruction in the highway, by the way it was regarded as a happy circumstance that no one was injured in any of these accidents.

Danielson's business interests having been materially handicapped by unfavorable publicity relative to health conditions during the past ten days, this untoward influence extending to distant parts of New England, it may not be out of place to reassure the general public this morning with the statement that Danielson's public health is nothing to be seriously alarmed about. Vaccinating here has been very general. The situation Sunday appeared to be well in hand. The town nor its people are not quarantined. There are no restrictions on trade or traders or any of the normal activities of life. Physicians are encouraged at the prospect of a quick clean-up of all cases requiring quarantine. These are the facts. Alarmist reports, for whatever purpose, should receive little credence in any quarter. Danielson is doing business as usual.

Rain spoiled the baseball games in this territory Sunday afternoon, but there are few who will not say that the rain was badly needed.

James A. Merlin of Providence spent Sunday with friends in Danielson.

The new parking rules continue to be the subject of discussion and some changes in them have been suggested. These suggestions may ultimately find their way to the borough officials, with recommendations for changes.

J. Lee Bodo, teller, as representative for The Windham County National bank, will join a party leaving New York this (Monday) morning by special train, to attend the twenty-second annual convention of The American Institute of Banking to be held in Baltimore, Maryland, July 15-18 inclusive.

This session is an important one, and the many subjects touched upon at the convention will not only be interesting and instructive to Mr. Bodo, but also through his report of the proceedings, as is its policy, will keep the Windham County National Bank in touch with all of the up to date problems which confront the banking fraternity.

The work of the convention will be lightened somewhat by the many entertainments which are provided for by the Baltimore Chapter of The American Institute of Banking. The delegates will enjoy a trip to Annapolis, when one entire day will be given over to sight-seeing through the grounds of the United States' Naval Academy, and another day by a sight-seeing trip to Washington, D. C.

Mr. Bodo will return to Danielson after the completion of his vacation.

Due to the fact that conditions in the cotton textile field are not yet promising, the Quinebaug mill will remain closed during the present week, following the established schedule of running every other week.

For the time being at least the danger from forest fires, which has been great the past fortnight, has been lessened.

Mr. and Mrs. Amadee Lucier entertained relatives from Springfield Sunday.

PUTNAM

A further appeal for funds is being made by the committee interested in providing for the little East Siders who are to come into the country from New York the latter part of August, providing arrangements can be made for housing them. How many will come depends upon how many can be taken care of. There are hundreds of children patiently awaiting their turn to be the guests of the New York Tribune's frash air fund, and people in the country have got to rally to their aid or these little ones will be greatly disappointed and will not have a chance to see the green grass and the wild flowers in God's country this summer.

Miss Gertrude Perry, secretary of the local committee, reports that a few offers to take children have come in, but in some cases, owing to the stress of hard times, some hosts feel that they must have some financial aid in caring for the children taken into their homes.

Putnam and its surrounding towns are not really prosperous just now, but one may think how much better off he is than these little ones of the East Side tenement districts, no place to play but the street, no air to breathe but that dust-pervaded and odorful air that envelopes all of these crowded districts. It costs only $8 to give a child two weeks' outing, fresh air, fresh milk, home-cooked food, a view of the grass, the hills, to some, even the sky, or a portion of it large enough to be called sky. Contributions will be received by Miss Gertrude Perry of Providence street, Putnam.

One week gone, and one week to go, for the boys of the headquarters company of the 43rd division who marched away from Putnam Saturday morning, July 5th, and since that time have been engaged in military duty at the camp at Niantic. Letters and postcards from officers and men evidence that, while it is not all play, the new company is enjoying camp life and learning many things about the life of a soldier.

The company occupies tents by squads, that is, eight men to a tent, officers being assigned to individual tents. Each man is responsible for keeping his personal belongings in a neat and orderly manner. Inspection of quarters and personal appearance takes place daily so that there is no chance to be lax.

The company being a headquarters company, as many as ten or fifteen men are detailed daily as messengers, orderlies and clerks at headquarters. Those not so assigned are drilled in the school fo a soldier, school of the squad, camp sanitation, duties of a headquarters company, etc., until 11.30 a. m. The afternoons are devoted to group games, company vs. company. Evenings may be spent at the movies are in competitions of various kinds. Members of the Putnam company prefer the competitive pastime and seldom leave camp at night.

The company is unanimous in the statement that the food is good and that there is plenty of it.

The entire company had to undergo inoculation for the prevention of typhoid when the company first arrived. Each member was also vaccinated. For the next 24 hours physical conditions were not up to normal, 90 per cent., being somewhat under the weather. No compulsory work was assigned during the period and all soon became normal.

Captain McGarry is provost marshal of the camp, assisted by his two lieutenants. It is his duty to see that men leaving camp are properly attired and that they deport themselves as good soldiers.

Lieutenant Beausoleil has been attending officers' athletic school; Lieutenant White has been appointed camp postal officer, to see that mail is distributed and collected. As there are some 3,000 in camp, this is no easy job. Sergeants LeClair and LeMondy are assisting in the quartermaster's department checking supplies.

The men have so enthusiastically entered into the two weeks' training that already a vast improvement is shown and when the boys come home Saturday next that improvement will be noted by those who saw them march away.

Tomorrow is Tuesday. This doesn't mean much. It is also July 15, which is only in the usual course of events, and has no significance. But—tomorrow, Tuesday, July 15th, is Circus day in Putnam; circus day, and no school. That is a day with another aspect and the mere thought of it causes impatience in young American circles in Putnam and nearby towns. And young includes any person up to three score years and ten who has not soured on life and wizened up.

No alarm clocks will be needed and there will be no shouting for Johnny and Henry and Herbert to get up Tuesday morning. These youngsters and will lie in bed with one eye open to see the first streaks of daylight of Tuesday, for Tuesday morning is Circus day, and the big show will arrive early.

Funeral services for Mrs. Florence Morin were held at St. Mary's church Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. Charles F. Bedard celebrating the requiem high mass. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Morin went in bathing at the Wauregan pond Saturday, July 5th, and was taken suddenly ill, believed due to a sunstroke. She was brought to the home of her mother, Mrs. Joseph Cote, on Providence street, and grew steadily weaker until the end came Thursday.

Mrs. Morin was born in Danielson Aug. 31, 1898, the daughter of Leon and Hermine LeClair Morin. She had spent most of her life in Danielson, but work being slack she was on a visit to her mother in this city when taken ill. Besides her mother, she leaves two children.

As evidence that the members of the headquarters company of the 43rd regiment are taking intense interest in the company by being regular in attendance at drills, the company has the highest percentage in attendance from May 21 to June 26. This was shown by the latest issue of the "Nutmeg," the official publication of the Connecticut National guard, which gives the Putnam company, with a strength of 58 men, a percent. of attendance of 94.5, the second best for the same period being the service company of the 169th division, with a mark of 92.6 per cent.

The assets of Putnam Building and Loan association have passed the $200,000 mark, as set forth in a report of the secretary, M. H. Geissler, just issued. The association started business a little over eight years ago with no assets and shares selling at only $1 a month. The assets have increased in the last six months $21,711.68, and at a time when business conditions are the poorest ever known in Putnam. Although more shares have been withdrawn during the last six months' period than in any other similar period, still the assets have increased, denoting many new shareholders. What the association most needs is more money to do business with, as the demand for loans exceeds the income from dues on shares. The gross earnings for the six months' period were $5,052.48.

Funeral services for William M. Barrett, a lifelong resident of North Woodstock, were held at his home in North Woodstock village at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Relatives and friends from the Woodstocks and Putnam attended. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Hatch of Woodstock Hill. Burial was in North Woodstock cemetery.

Attorneys Archibald Macdonald, Jr., and M. H. Geissler, acting as commissioners on the insolvent estate of the late George W. H. Farley, held a meeting Saturday, at which time creditors of the estate appeared in relation to proving their claims. Simon W. Farley, administrator of the estate, came from Pawtucket to be present at the hearing. Mr. Farley is the father of the deceased and at one time lived in Putnam.

Next Thursday, July 17th, will not be Governor's day, at Camp Woodstock, as has been announced. This is because Governor Templeton has found that he cannot make his proposed visit on that date. Negotiations are under way between the camp directors and the chief executive to see if some other date can be fixed upon. Last year Governor's day was the event of the camping season and this year all had been again looking forward to the coming of his excellency, as there will be a special program of sports, luncheon, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. George Newell of Washington, R. I., were week end guests of Mrs. Newell's mother, Mrs. H. L. Burt, of Greve street. The two families attended the funeral services for William M. Barrett at North Noodstock Saturday afternoon, Mr. Barrett being Mrs. Burt's brother.

The National Rhea Co., Providence, R. I., plans the manufacture of yarns spun from rhea fibre in Putnam, about December 1, according to report. J. O. Ames is president; William Gammell, Jr., vice president, and N. S. Campbell, treasurer of the company. Leonard H. Mellor, formerly superintendent of the National Spun Silk mill in New Bedford, will hold a similar position at the Putnam plant. The National Rhea company manufactures a vegetable fibre product that is made into cloth in somewhat the same manner as cotton. Mr. Mellor is to be in charge of the No. 5 mill of the company, which was erected and formerly owned by the Manhasset Manufacturing company. The plant has never been used, and was recently acquired by the National Rhea company as a production unit in Putnam. The company's office is located at 1015 Hospital Trust building, Providence.

WESTERLY

The 18th state encampment of Rhode Island Department Spanish War Veterans, was called to order at 11 o'clock Saturday morning in the State armory, Dixon street and Railroad avenue, Westerly, by Department Commander Michael A. Sullivan, of Pawtucket. There were present about one hundred members and the preliminary report showed 55 delegates, others coming later.

The Rhode Island Auxiliary to the Spanish American War Veterans started its convention at the same time in Mechanics hall. About 150 women were present at that session.

Comradeship managers were conveyed to the men's organizations by representatives of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion. National President General Mrs. Florence M. Clark of Cleveland addressed the auxiliary. Other speakers were Secretary General Mrs. Lulu E. Stroh, also of Cleveland, and Mrs. Robert Merts of the Connecticut Auxiliary.

Department Commander Sullivan announced appointment of the following committees:

Acts and Resolutions—Department Senior Vice Commander Albert E. Whitaker and the commander of the various camps in the state.

Auditing—P. C. William G. Laird, Camp 1; P. C. Maurice H. Cook, Camp 4, and P. C. Eugene L. Mason, Camp 1.

Credentials—Department Adjutant George A. Swain, Department Quartermaster J. S. Tinsley, Department Marshal George M. Purdy and Comrades Nash and Herbert E. Taylor, Camp 6.

Reception—P. D. C. William A. Stafford, P. C. Shelby C. Nicholas and Comrade George E. Leonard.

Press—P. D. C. Marshal W. Hall, P. C. Walter Baker and Comrade Harry T. Powers. Past Commander Baker is clerk of the encampment.

After the reports of the various officers and committees the election of officers resulted as follows:

Department Commander, Albert E. Whitaker; senior vice commander, Henry E. Palmer; junior vice commander, Thomas P. McGee, chief of staff, John A. Nichols; adjutant, Geo. E. Littlefield; quartermaster, William G. Laird; inspector, Richard E. Walfer; judge advocate, Henry D. C. Dubois; surgeon, Dr. N. Darrell Harvey; chaplain, Galen E. Nichols; patriotic instructor, Michael J. Sullivan; marshal, George M. Purdy; historian, William C. Doty; director graves registration, Walter M. Baker; chief musician, George Sneath.

The Ladies Auxiliary, Spanish War Veterans, Department of Rhode Island elected the following officers:

President, Mrs. Elizabeth Weaver, Newport; senior vice president, Mrs. Edna Smith, Westerly; junior vice commander, Mrs. May Danforth, Providence; chaplain, Mrs. McCoy, Newport; judge advocate, Mrs. Exina Mason, Providence; historian, Mrs. Leah Walfer, Providence; conductress, Mae Byers, Pawtucket; associate conductress, Lillian Bischoff; patriotic instructor, Mrs. Alice Caulfield; chief of staff, Mrs. Marie Richter; guard, Miss Alice Tinsley; associate guard, Ella LaSalle.

Robert Brucker Camp of the veterans and members of the auxiliary were hosts to the convention at a roast chicken dinner at Majestic hall Saturday noon. Commander Paul Stobe, former inspector general from New York addressed the delegates at the afternoon session.

Saturday evening at the state armory the auxiliary and veterans held a grand ball, and dancing was enjoyed from 8 o'clock until midnight, music being furnished by the Crandall-Sutcliffe orchestra. There were several specialties at intermission and at 9 o'clock the Ladies' Auxiliary, Department on Rhode Island, W. S. W. V., installed officers. There were a number of feature dances, including an old fashioned Virginia reel, the orchestra playing the popular melody The Sidewalks of New York. At midnight the members of the auxiliary left the hall performing a snake dance.

In spite of the rain Sunday morning many of the delegates visited Watch Hill, Pleasant View and Weekapaug on sight-seeing trips. Sunday afternoon the weather cleared and the afternoon program was carried out in a most impressive manner.

The parade was made up as announced in Saturday's Bulletin and the line of march was down Railroad avenue and Canal street as given. At Wilcox park were gathered three or four thousands spectors. The program previously given was carried out.

As Miss Brucker pulled the cord which unveiled the Hiker bronze figure "Tenting Tonight" was softly played by the Westerly band, under the leadership of Charles O. Gavitt.

Delegates and guests attending the encampment were: Dept. Adjt. George A. Swan, Providence; Harry T. Powers and Junior Vice Dept. Commander Henry E. Palmer, Westerly; Nicholas F. Cain, Junior Vice Commander Geo. G. Milliken; Adjt. Caprom Richard E. Wolfer, Providence; Frank J. When the Third District court held a regular session Friday morning Clerk M. Walter Flynn, Jr., read the following civil docket:

New writ—Caroline Tavernesco vs. Hazel Williams. Continued two weeks.

Old docket—Clarence E. Roche vs. Jennie Ostman. Continued one week.

Joseph Ferraro vs. Louis Weisinger. Continued one week.

Granite Street Garage vs. William F. Loudon. Continued one week.

J. M. Pendleton, tax collector of Westerly, vs. Raymond W. Champlin. Continued one week.

Mary DeSimone vs. Patsy DePlacito. Ready for trial.

Philip Goldberg vs. Antonio Antoch. Judge Michael J. Turano called the criminal docket, which consisted of seven infractions of automobile laws, the DeSimons vs. DePlacito assault case and a juvenile hearing followed the court session.

Rosara Tasco, 18, was charged on July 10th with operating an automobile on Elm street at a speed in excess of 50 miles per hour. He was found guilty and fined $30 and costs, which were paid.

Howard T. Beebe, 20, of New London, on June 28th was charged with speeding an automobile on Atlantic avenue, Pleasant View, about midnight, in excess of 30 miles per hour. He was fined $25 and costs. He paid.

Antone Clay, 26, of Stonington, on the 29th of June was accused of a speed on the Watch Hill road in excess of 25 miles per hour. He was found guilty and fined $25 and costs, which he paid.

Howard Mathews, residing in Hartford, was called, but did not arrive in the court room until later.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Carpenter and children, Maude, Dorothy, Lydia and Walter, Jr., arrived in Westerly Friday night from Philadelphia for a vacation visit at the home of Wilbur G. Cheever.

Mrs. Wilbur G. Cheever, who is visiting in Hartford while her young daughter is under observation at the City hospital there, has been heard from, reporting that her daughter's health is considerably improved, although a complete diagnosis of the young lady's condition has not as yet been made.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Counsell of the West Side have been in New York.

The Plimpton hotel at Watch Hill is to entertain the Lions club of Norwich, which will make the trip by automobile from Norwich Thursday next, when it is planned to use the ballroom, enjoy the beach and have dinner served in the hotel dining room at 6 o'clock. At the same time the National Granite Producers' association, nearly 250 members, will be making their headquarters at the Plimpton.

Sunday afternoon and evening the S. D. B. society connected with the Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church of Westerly planned a picnic

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

THE RAINY DAY

This is a sea-world, dim and green.
Where misty island-trees are seen.
Hydrangeas blooming, rows on rows,
Are coral archipelagoes.
The tides of mist, all gray and dark,
Sweep back and forth along the park,
While wind-blown branches full of rain
Break on the cliff-like window pane.
They are the waves that swish and swish.
And passing people are the fish.
They swim the tides from isle to isle
And wriggle in the queerest style
Back and forth, now there, now here,
And into doors they disappear.
—Dorothy E. Colline, in Contemporary Verse.

RAINY NIGHT

Leaf after leaf goes down with the rain
To the pools and the grass and the earth.
Only the lines of the trees remain.

When boughs were bending with green
I fled—
I fled from the loud tongues of the leaves.
I walk where the leaves are lying dead.

Though I have watched yellow water rise,
Though I have tasted the spotted fruits—
Rain for my lips, the dark for my eyes.
—Marie Luhrs in Poetry

THE JOY OF THE HILLS

I ride on the mountain tops, I ride:
I have found my life and am satisfied.
Onward I ride in the blowing oats,
Checking the field-lark's rippling notes
Lightly I sweep
From steep to steep:
Over my head through the branches high
Come glimpses of a rushing sky.
The tall oats brush my horse's flanks;
Wild poppies crowd on the sunny banks;
A bee booms out of the scented grass;
A jay laughs with me as I pass.

I ride on the hills. I forgive. I forget
Life's hoard of regret—
All the terror and pain
Of the chafing chain
Grind on. O miles, grind:
I leave you a blue behind.
I am lifted plate—the skies expand:
Here the world's heaped gold is a pile of sand.
Let them weary and work in their narrow walls:
I ride with the voices of the waterfalls!

I swing on as one in a dream—I swing
Down the airy hollows. I shout, I sing!
The world is gone like an empty word:
My body's a bough in the wind, my heart a bird!
—Edwin Markham.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO WIDE AWAKES

Uncle Jed is taking a week off and is up in Maine where I hope it is cooler than it is here. Just before he left he asked me if I wouldn't give a little talk to the Wide Awakes. Now I suppose you are wondering who "me" is. Well, "me" is the sports editor of the Norwich Bulletin. I'm the fellow who writes the baseball and football games that are played in Norwich and I suppose some of you Wide Awakes have written me about your ball games too. It's lots of fun and I enjoy my work.

Now if I'm going to talk to you I'd better start. Of course as my work is sports the best thing I can talk to you about is sports, and I know every youngster is interested in sports, whether he lives in the cities or in the country. I'll bet every one of you can tell me who the home run king is and which team is leading the leagues.

There is an old saying "that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." Now I believe this, is exactly true and every one else is coming to realize the truth of this old saying. Do not the cities have their play grounds for children during the summer months, where the boys and girls go to indulge in all kinds of athletic games? Of course there are other things they must do which are useful, for it is just as true that all play and no work would be as equally as bad for Jack. Now boys and girls, during these beautiful summer months, when you are enjoying your vacation from school, get out and play, and play hard, for it is the sunshine and clear air that will build up your bodies so that they will be better fitted for school work next fall. But don't neglect to do those little tasks that will lighten Mother's or Dad's work around the house. Your parents will never ask you to do things that will hurt you and if you do these tasks cheerfully you will enjoy your sports so much more.

Baseball is one of the best games that I know of for boys. You have to be alert and think quick to play the game and it is splendid exercise besides. The girls can play the game too, but volleyball or outdoor basketball is a better game for them. Of course, all of you can not go to the playgrounds for baseball and volleyball, but many of you will have your own games at home and in your neighborhood. Always be fire to learn to play with your whole heart and above all learn to be a good sport. By this I mean play the game square, give the other fellow a chance and always be as good a loser as you are a winner. These are the things that go to make a real man and will help you when you grow up and take a man's place in the world. The boy who has been a good sport in his play learns lessons that will help him to bear the hard knocks of life with a smile.

Well, I'll have to stop now as you are probably tired of hearing me talk. I wish I could meet every one of you and take you to a ball game some day. I've a little boy of my own whom I take to a game now and then. He enjoys them so I know you would.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY THE WIDE AWAKES

WHAT I SAW

Dear Uncle Jed: As I was hiking down a lonely road with some of my friends, we came to an old dilapidated barn. Someone suggested looking in, thinking we might see something of interest. There was a small window on the left side of the barn, and we all ventured near it. We rolled a large stone under it, and, each taking our turn, we looked in. When it was my turn, I saw the barn was chiefly used to put hay in. It had large rafters across the top. On each side there was a haymow. The floor was made of wood but was badly worn and had a few holes in it. Between the mows there was a space large enough for a team. Hay was scattered about it. In the left hand corner of the barn there was a horses manger and in the right hand corner, a cow's stall, which was occupied. It looked as though the barn was being used by a farmer who lived two miles away. Upon the very top of the rafters perched about a dozen pigeons and the right of these were nests. The barn had a small door in the back, which had very rusty hinges. The old barn, on the whole, was a very interesting place.

THE IVORY BILLED WOODPECKEN

Dear Uncle Jed: I have often written to the Wide Awakes on different subjects and this time I am going to tell you about the Ivory Billed Woodpecker. Although not the largest of the Ivory Billed Woodpecker tribe, the ivory billed woodpecker of North America is perhaps the handsomest and most striking in appearance. This splendid bird is armed with a tremendous beak, long, strong, sharp and white as ivory. It can be used either for obtaining food or as a weapon against its enemies. The general color of this woodpecker is black, glossed with green. The fore part of the head is black and the remainder is covered with a beautiful scarlet crest, each feather being spotted toward the bottom with white. Of course, these colors can only be seen when the crest is erected. From below the eyes white streak runs down the neck along the back, nearly to the insertion of the tail. Its back appears wholly white. The tapering tail is black above and yellowish white below.

The plumage of the female is like that of the male with the exception of the head, which is wholly black without the beautiful scarlet crest. The cry of the woodpecker is rather shrill and very loud. It is like that of a hurt child. I think it very interesting to know about different kinds of birds. I hope that the Wide Awakes are as interested about the ivory Billed Woodpecker and other birds as I am.

MY YARD

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to describe my yard, because I think the Wide Awake circle will think it is very pretty.

It is square in shape and there is a fence around it.

In the center there is a seven pointed star, which I planted pretty flowers. In the back of this star there is an arbor which has three lovely ramblers, two on one end and one on the other. They are of two different colors, one pink and the other red. Under this arbor is a bed of yellow lilies. Along side of the fence there are golden glows. On one side of the yard are two white rose bushes which are filled with blossoms. Then there are some more golden glows and two lilac bushes.

Beside the windows are sweet peas and morning glories. So you see there is only a little walk for us to walk on but we don't care, because it is so pretty. I wish that the Wide Awake circle could see my yard.

THE FIRST FOUNTAIN

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and the Wide Awakes. I am going to tell you how the first fountain was formed. Once there was a little girl who liked to play in the water. One day she found a little stream. She jumped up and down in it. A little voice called to her from the ground. She tried to run away, but she could not. Her hair became little streams of water. What do you think happened? A fairy had changed her into a beautiful fountain.

MY SISTER'S BROKEN ARM

Dear Uncle Jed: We were getting ready to go to Sunday school. And we had pretty bad luck. My sister, Grace, came around the corner of the house in a hurry and fell to the ground, breaking her right arm in two places. Between the wrist and elbow. We did not go to Sunday school. We had to take her to Jewett City to the doctors to have it set. The doctor's brother, from Providence, who is a surgeon, set it. She is getting along very nicely. This is the second time she has broken her arm. The first time was last March. While at school, someone pushed her and made her fall.

THE USE OF THE COTTON GIN

Dear Uncle Jed: Many years ago cotton was found and gathered by the slaves. In 1793 a machine was invented by Eli Whitney. With this machine a planter could separate the seeds from only a few pounds of cotton fibre. Thus the value of slave labor was greatly increased and the planters could afford to sell their cotton much cheaper than before.

A great demand for cotton by the English, as well as from the northern cotton mills, made it profitable to raise cotton and more was raised than ever before. The general belief had been that slavery would die out all over the country. Cotton growers in the south and owners of the cotton mills in the north had a commercial interest in slavery for it helped them make money in the cotton business. There was an ever-increasing demand for cotton growers and cotton goods, because the price of cotton, was lowered by use of the cotton gin. It was claimed that cotton raising could not be carried on successfully without slaves. Hence came the demand in the cotton states for more and more slaves.

MY BABY BROTHER

Dear Uncle Jed: I want to write and tell you about my little baby brother. His name is Donald Stanley Bitgood. He came here the 8th of June. He is a good little baby. He has got pretty dark blue eyes and dark brown hair.

He grows every day and is as fat as he can be. We all like him very much, except my little brother, William, who is 2 years old. He was jealous of him at first. We all kissed him but William. Now he has changed his mind and loves the baby and kisses him.

We all think very much of him.

THE GREEDY BOY

Dear Uncle Jed and the Wide Awakes: This is the first letter I have written to you and I hope that you are pleased with it. My story is as follows:

Once there was a poor widow, who had five children. None of them went to school. They were all boys. The widow and her five sons lived in a little old shack, on an old and dirty street. The widow went out every day to work.

One of the little boys, whose name was Jerry went up into the attic, while the widow, his mother, was out working.

He found some jars of jam up there. Jerry was a greedy boy, so he ate it all. It was very good in taste. A short time passed and then Jerry, the greedy one, felt sick.

When the widow came home she asked him what he had eaten that made him feel sick. Jerry didn't want to tell that he had eaten the jam, but the widow, his mother, made him tell, after scolding him and telling him he would have some castor oil or some other kind of medicine that is given to the sick. With a bitter cry he told her what he had eaten. After that he didn't show any greediness, especially in eating jam or any other goodies.

MY DISAPPOINTMENT

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell the Wide Awakes about My Disappointment.

One day my girl friend and I sat under a tree planning what we would do the next day. We planned to go into the woods where it would be shady. Then we would decorate the trees with crepe paper. We went to work, baked some cookies and cake so that we would not have to buy some. Mother gave us some money to buy some ice cream and other delicious things. Father made a tent and three stools to sit on. We went to bed thinking what good a time we would have and then I woke up and saw that the day was not as pleasant as it was the day before. Mother called me to breakfast and I got up but I was very sad. Mother told me not to be so sad because it might become pleasant. I ate my breakfast and then looked out doors and what do you think I saw? The rain! It was pouring. I didn't want anything more to eat and went back to bed as disappointed as I could be.

MOTHER ELEPHANT

Dear Uncle Jed: I am sending you a story which I composed myself. It is called, Jungle Stories and is in 12 chapters, the first chapter being, Mother Elephant.

One day Mother Elephant went for a walk. She always took a morning stroll. This morning she found a little baby boy some wicked person had deserted to get rid of him. Mother Elephant was a kind mother so she picked the baby up with her trunk and carried him home with her. The boy grew very fast. He liked best of all to play with the baby elephants and all the animals loved him, not one offering to touch him.

ARTICLES OF CONFEDERATION

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the Articles of Confederation. While the Declaration of Independence was under discussion in the Continental Congress, measures were taken for the establishment of a constitutional government. In 1776, a committee was appointed to prepare and digest the form of a confederation to be entered into between these colonies. On June 13, namely: Mr. S. Adams, Mr. Sherman, Mr. Dickinson, Mr. Stone, Mr. Hewes, and Mr. Gwinnett, reported a draught of the Articles of Confederation.

This report went under a thorough discussion in congress. A letter was signed by the President of Congress and sent, to each state legislature.

On the 26th of June, 1778, congress agree upon the form of a ratification of the Articles of Confederation, and directed a copy of the articles and the ratification to be engrossed on parchment, which on the 9th of July 1778, having been examined and the blanks filled, was signed by the delegates of New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island, and Providence Plantations, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and South Carolina. Congress then directed that a circular letter be addressed to the state whose delegates were not present. On the 24 of March, 1781, congress assembled under the new form of government.

A TURTLE SHIP

Dear Uncle Jed: When you go to California by sea you sail on the Pacific ocean. A great many turtles live in that ocean.

Perhaps you have seen turtles in the country. They are small and could swim in a pudding dish. But the ocean turtles are very large. One of them could carry three or four children upon his back.

One day Uncle Will was standing upon a steamer's deck watching the turtles. The ship had just run over one. You ought to have seen the turtle.

He was asleep, you know, when the ship hit him. He woke up very suddenly, you may be sure. He acted as frightened, as if he had been a bad boy caught stealing cookies. He tumbled over and over, and flapped his flippers. He looked as if it would be a relief to him to be boiled in a soup. While Uncle Will was laughing at him he saw a comic sight. A little way off was another turtle, sound asleep.

On the turtle's back standing on one leg was a crane. He was as still as if he were asleep too. He was captain, cook and crew of his living ship. He looked very happy. If you could stand on one leg and go to sea on a turtle, would it not be nice?

OUR TWO PET CROWS

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have ever written to you or to the Wide Awake circle.

I am going to write to you about our two pet crows.

One day when the men were going to cut down a tree, they saw a crow's nest on one of the branches.

MR. DAVIS' RESIDENCE.

In the choice of John W. Davis for the standard bearer of the democratic party the country has been given to understand that he was from West Virginia, that that was not only his home state but the state in which he maintained a voting residence. Thus even though he might live elsewhere for business reasons he had not severed what tie with his home state known as his legal residence.

But now we learn different. Though Mr. Davis was distinguished from the Governor Davis of Kansas by being termed "of West Virginia" it now appears that he is, and has been for some years, a legal voting resident of the state of New York. Thus instead of Clarksburg, West Virginia, being his home town now, it is Locust Valley, N. Y.

This doesn't mean that Mr. Davis has separated himself from his southern sentiments, his southern friends or forgotten the old home state, but it gives the country, and we doubt not those who attended the democratic national convention, a different view of the situation. It was not supposed that New York had two candidates before the convention and yet it turns out that it did. It was not supposed that a northerner had been chosen to head the ticket, and yet from his residence that is just what has happened.

This doesn't deny Clarksburg the opportunity or deprive it of the right of displaying the old home town spirit concerning one of its former citizens, about whom it has grown enthusiastic because of his new honors, but it does mean that Locust Valley cannot be suppressed. It, too, is justified in swelling up with pride and enthusiasm. In fact it cannot be prevented, however much it might seem as if there had been an effort made to deprive it of its publicity. Mr. Davis has done only what every good citizen is expected to do—become a voter wherever he resides. The only surprise is that there was such a persistent insistence upon his West Virginia residence during the convention period, even to the point of eclipsing the fact that he was actually a resident and voter in New York. Was it for a purpose, and was the convention fooled?

DEALING WITH COUZENS.

When in response to questions by republican leaders in Michigan, Senator James Couzens declares that he will not make a pledge to support President Coolidge, it can create no great surprise to those who have followed this senator's attitude and action since being named to the upper house of congress. Much was expected of him as a senator. Much disappointment, even to Michigan, has resulted.

Senator Couzens went to Washington as a republican. Instead of being a party man he has repeatedly joined hands with the radical forces and contributed to party embarrassment. It was therefore only natural that the republican organization of Michigan should want to know what he intends to do during an elective term, in case he should be elected to succeed himself.

He talks about being unwilling to tie up to any party action which he does not approve. He declares his belief in party government, proposes to have a voice in the party of which he is a member and refuses to be controlled by party leaders. That sounds fine. Perhaps if he had not established the record he has in the senate it might be enthusiastically received. But when it is known that the country, or the republicans and many others at least, stands so strongly for President Coolidge, that he has already done his best to handicap him, partly perhaps because of his personal differences with Secretary Mellon, it is proper for Michigan to want to know what can be expected from him in the future.

There is going to be just as good reason for the backing of the president in the future as there has been in the past. The country well knows what it has experienced and how disgusted it has become because of those policies to which Couzens gave his support in opposition to his own party.

Michigan already recognizes that it has a responsibility in the situation, and it is to be hoped that it is ready to do so; that if Senator Couzens is not to be a Coolidge republican henceforth he will not be numbered among the members of the upper house at Washington after next March.

PUNISHING THE GUILTY.

There can be no sympathy for those who get into the clutches of the law because of their studied efforts to defraud and rob their fellowmen. A firm of coal dealers in New York has been caught red handed in the short-weighting of its customers. It has resorted to restitution and other means of covering up its work, and heart-breaking appeals have been made for leniency in the courts, but fines have been imposed, others are forecasted and hanging over the heads of the proprietors is a three months' jail sentence in case any other cases of the kind are brought to the attention of the court.

No one is likely to remark that they have been dealt with too severely. No one loses any sleep over the troubles of the coal man, and certainly no one is likely to help wave the signals of distress when the swindling coal dealer is caught and punished.

Before the court counsel for the defendant company stated that to date it had paid out a total of $15,000 in restitution, between 20 and 30 civil actions have been brought against the defendant proprietors and other civil actions are pending. They have placed three mortgages on their business to pay restitution claims, have turned down no appeals for restitution and intend to make restitution to anyone who can produce satisfactory proof of a claim.

That claim alone tells how extensively and lavishly that coal company has been robbing the people who had to have fuel. It had no mercy. Its scheme was part of its business and it didn't expect to be found out. It relied upon crooked business and those who dealt with it in the expectation of getting a dollar's worth of coal for every hundred cents were simply falling into the trap.

If the proprietors are making heavy restitutions there is no one to blame except themselves. They are simply returning what they took wrongfully and the chances are excellent that they will never be able to catch up with the shortweighted profit they made. It is a great misfortune that those doing business under such principles are permitted to continue.

WEARING OUT A WELCOME.

What actuated a Connecticut river family in endeavoring to drive off an automobile party so that it could not eat its lunch by the side of the road at the spot selected is not disclosed, but the attempt was made and when it was evident that there was not going to be a compliance with the demand the order was emphasized by the flourishing of firearms. It is to be noted that the attempt failed but not until the state police had been called upon and the objecting family taken into custody, later to be held for breach of the peace.

The auto party insisted that inasmuch as they were in the highway that they had a perfect right to stop their car there and eat. It is only what might be regarded as one of the American privileges when there are no lawful restrictions that are being violated.?

The impression is gained, but with no definite assurance that it is justified, that the whole trouble may have revolved about the conduct of other auto parties at that particular locality. It is known with what abandon some conduct themselves, how they dump their picnic rubbish onto well kept grounds for someone else to clean up and dispose of, or what havoc they create on private grounds. If the Connecticut river residents had become incensed over such conduct they cannot be blamed very much if they were desirous of preventing any more repetitions. That, however, did not justify a resort to violence or to threats. In such cases there is too often a total ignoring of the fine points of the Golden Rule which might well have brought about an early adjustment of the above mentioned trouble had it been resorted to.

LIKE SOUND PRIVATE BUSINESS.

Good business management has been one of the strong points of the treasury department under the guidance of Andrew W. Mellon. He has administered it as if it were his own business. He has acted as if responding to the demand to run the government departments as a private corporation would run its activities.

The latest conspicuous evidence that this is being done is furnished by the announcement to the effect that all sales of savings certificates are to be stopped July 15 throughout the country.

These savings certificates which took the place of thrift and war saving stamps have been employed by the government since the days of the war as one means of permitting the people of the country to participate in providing government funds and at the same time serve as a thrift inducement. These certificates pay interest at the rate of 4 1-2 per cent.

The government has no desire at this time to discourage such investments but the time has come when such a rate of interest represents more than twice what it is necessary for the government to pay. It therefore becomes a matter of business for the government to take advantage of the cheap money market, whereby it can obtain money for 2 per cent. That is what it is doing by the suspension of the sales of the certificates. It is more than cutting in two the interest of such borrowings as the certificates would have represented and thereby providing additional means of relieving the tax burdens. It is the provision of that sound business administration that is so often pointed to as being restricted to private business.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Is it going to be necessary to file the expense account of those who failed to land a nomination?

"Davis will carry the fight to the country," says a headline. Certainly it wouldn't do to carry it to Europe.

Now that Russia has raised objection to the Dawes report that only furnishes additional reason for its adoption.

The man on the corner says: Life may be one convention after another but it is lucky they are not all democratic.

July is at last providing the weather that ages the new strawhat, and makes less conspicuous those of previous years.

The bugbear of municipal ownership is politics for politics too often stands in the way of good business administration.

The traffic regulations are to undergo changes soon. If you have any suggestions, and there's a chance for many, trot them out.

Perhaps you've got your winter's coal supply in but not very many are giving any thought to the repair of the broken snow shovels.

Norwich considered itself fortunate to get the Uncas Power Company current. Isn't it advisable to at least buy all, as well as a part, of what can be obtained at a price below our production cost?

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Thicken pimento bisque with rice, putting both it and the pimentoes through a sieve.

For that light Sunday supper either toasted bacon or cheese sandwiches are excellent.

Bread-and-butter pudding is quite nice when served with a sauce flavored with cranberry jelly.

Candied cranberries make a tempting confection and an attractive decoration on icings of cakes.

If when using an electric fan the buzz is annoying, slip a newspaper or a magazine under the base and the noise will stop.

Warm bran will clean tapestry-covered furniture. Apply it rather generously on a piece of flannel and brush off with a clean brush. It will also clean brocade.

If you have a steel clothes-line, wipe with a little kerosene in cold weather and the clothes will not stick to the line.

When the knob upon the lid of your teakettle comes off, insert a screw upside down in the hole and put a cork on the other end for a knob. This knob never gets hot to burn your fingers as others do.

Put salt on the sleeve part of the strainer and then rub several times. Wash and rinse thoroughly and you will find your strainer absolutely clean.

Chewing-gum makes old picture-frames look like new. With it you can mend broken parts or fill them in and then gild over.

Pumpkin seeds are very attractive to mice. Bait your traps with them.

Grease your jelly mold with butter before putting jelly in it. When ready to take out plunge the mold into hot water and remove at once.

If the soup is too salty, add a couple of slices of raw potato. Remove after boiling a few minutes and the soup will be just right.

To prevent brown sugar from getting hard, place a sliced apple in the jar.

A pinch of salt added to the coffee before it begins to percolate will give a delicious flavor and prevent the cheapest coffee from tasting bitter.

SOME USEFUL HINTS

Here are hints that are worth framing and hanging in the kitchen:

Don't pour water on burning fat.

Don't throw sugar on fire.

Don't fill lamps after dark or when lighted.

Don't start a fire with kerosene.

Don't keep matches within reach of children.

If fat takes fire, throw flour, salt, baking powder or sand on the flame.

If a lamp takes fire toss it out of doors, cover with a rug or throw on salt, baking powder or flour.

If the chimney gets on fire burn salt or sulphur in the firepace; pour sand down the chimney.

If a fire starts in a closet, beat it out with a broom and water.

If the bed gets on fire, push the mattress on the floor and beat it with wet brooms.

FOR BREAD SPONGE

When you pour water off boiled potatoes save it and use it instead of water or milk for your bread, sponge or coffee cake. If the water is salted you will require a little less salt when mixing dough.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Wear sensible shoes that fit your feet and are suited to the purpose for which they are to be worn.

While one does not as a rule see much of one's own elbows, the present vogue for sleeveless dresses makes this part of one's anatomy conspicuous. Arms and elbows, therefore, must be kept smooth and soft, so that they may appear well in public.

When the skin on the hands feels irritated and itches, although there is no definite skin disease present, the condition may be relieved by lathering the hands well with tincture of green soap and warm water. Rinse in cold water. Repeat several times, then dry and apply the lotion above.

The trouble with gardening is that it dries the skin of the hands, stains the nails, and sunburns the back of the neck and the arms. Well, don't go out without wearing a dark dress, high enough to cover you part way up the back of the neck, and with sleeves down to your wrists. Wear a broad-brimmed hat, lined with something dark. And wear gloves. You cannot freckle or tan protected like this, and you cannot hurt your hands. None of these precautions take any extra time.

SUN ROOM COLOR SCHEME

Blue and gray, because they are cold colors and because they make an effective combination, form the ideal color scheme for a south room that is bathed in sunlight. The blue and gray give the necessary touch of gray. Wicker furniture is appropriate, painted gray, with a design or ring of blue on the arms, tops and around the legs. A blue and gray rug, gray cement jardinieres and a book and magazine rack, the latter painted to match the furniture, complete the furnishings except for the floor lamp.

Another combination of colors that is very effective in the sunroom is a gray-green and white painted floor and gray wicker furniture upholstered in brilliant cretonne of a small pattern. The work box, book and magazine rack may be painted black; the rug should be gray and hangings of a gold color with valances of the same cretonne as the upholstery.

There is an economical as well as an artistic advantage in painting wicker furniture. Paint fills and protects the porous structures of the reeds: prevents fingermarks and resists the effects of rain and sun.

THE BOBBED HAIR FAD

Just where the bobbed hair fad is leading no one seems to know. Day by day thousands of women over the country are submitting their hair to the click of the barbers' shears without a thought of how becoming the new style may be to them. Women with odd shaped heads, with certain kinds of features, with too long or too short necks, with soft oily hair, do not look well with a bob. Such bad features as they have may be hidden or made more attractive by the long hair dressed properly.

SPORTS SHOES IN FAVOR

Sports shoes with low heels are coming more and more into favor today, despite the supposed ascendancy of high heels. One fascinating type of sports shoe is in black suede with dull black leather strap and heel.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Beach capes are designed in Roman striped flannel and in woven Terry cloth.

The short loose coat of heavy white silk embroidered in gay colors promises to be one of the successes of the summer modes.

Hardly any costume, except the definitely sports type, is seen now without its long veil of chiffon used as a scarf. The veilings are frequently in a solid but vivid color.

Bathing suits sponsor brightly patterned designs in either printed silks and Rongees or cretonnes. Bold floral designs are varied by small geometric patterns.

Tunic suits are also designed in satin, taffeta and gingham. Tailored models are made with chemisier front and tab embroideries.

Many of the midsummer tailored suits have a woven stripe in some gay color just above the hem. Another characteristic is a collar which is not only a scarf, but a pleated scarf.

In planning the furnishings of the summer porch why not have gay striped hangings and slip-covers instead of flowered cretonnes? They are very striking in effect and are a bit newer than the usual chints designs.

There are many ways of changing the aspect of a sport hat, one of which consists of adding a band of wide black satin ribbon across the front on which large flowers are embroidered in gay wools. The ribbon ties in a bow in the back.

Crepe de chine lingerie, especially step-ins and vest chemises now are decorated with frilled net edgings. These bits of ornamentation often are supplemented with insertion and medallions of real Irish lace.

Hats are growing slowly wider. One sort summer-like in appearance, is a thin, striped black straw with wide, drooping brim and high crown. Across the front is a group of red and rust roses, pressed flat and covered with a veiling of silk gauze.

No lingerie is more cool in appearance than that pale green known as "young leaf." Undergarments of radium silk in this shade are trimmed simply and effectively with insets of filet lace in white.

RED MUCH IN FAVOR

Everywhere one sees much red used, not only for hats but for entire frocks. Sport frocks of red crepe de chine or flat crepe are most attractive, and as a rule have a scarf of the same material. Some of the newer scarfs are made of crepe in a solid color with a wide border of a constrasting shade at each end. With a frock of white crepe de chine there was a scarf of white with an extremely wide band of red.

PRETTY SUMMER FROCK

One may be as gay as one likes this summer and wear the most brilliant color schemes. A very simple and effective frock is made of Roman striped silk. On the waist the stripes run cross-wise while the skirt shows them running up and down. There are tiny set-in sleeves and a flat bow with long ends is attached to the bateau neckline in the center of the front, the ends hanging to the bottom of the skirt.

FOR TOWN, COUNTRY

A sedate sort of plaid is a feature of the new silk hosiery. This is worn with walking shoes, not only in the country but also in town. The plaids, which are very small, confine themselves to dim blues, greens and violets, with here and there a brilliant stripe of scarlet, jade or gold.

SEWING HINTS

When making a frill do not take one long thread for the gathers. You will find it far easier to arrange if the length is divided into sections and the fulness arranged regularly on each.

When inserting a tape in the neck or waist of a garment be sure to sew it firmly into the slot at the center back. It will then be impossible for the tape to be withdrawn by the laundress or for it to slip into hem.

If threads draw hard and break easily when preparing a piece of fancy work, a little white soap rubbed on the wrong side of the linen is helpful. A lather applied with a brush is often convenient and does not harm the linen.

A clothes dryer that folds close to the wall is handy in the sewing room to hang the work and finishing.

A novel but excellent idea is to dye five yards of cheesecloth a brilliant color and five yards of a good black, lining one with the other to make a Japanese kimono. Decorate with stitches in both colors.

MODES OF SPORT TYPES

Modes of the sports type feature the well-liked one-piece dress of charming simplicity. The sleeveless slip-on jumper dress worn with a tailored blouse is also included. Then there are the two-piece costumes, consisting usually of a bodice skirt and separate blouse. When it comes to materials, certain weaves are given the preference. At this season, cotton ratine, poplin and crepe, also linen, and appropriate, in addition to the year-round wool frabics—flannel, kasha cloth, jersey, rep, poplin, tweeds, homespun and knitted weaves, and among the silks—alpaca, crepes, tub silks, broadcloth, pongee and tricolette. The signs of sports fashions are: Gay colors, stripes, plaids, checks—the white and black effect with embroidered monograms and character motifs—and pockets—nearly always pockets.

FOR THE DINING TABLE

For the summer months when the appearance of the dining-room table counts for so much the use of candlesticks, comports, finger bowls and sherbet glasses of deep blue glass will give a zest to even the most jaded appetite.

QUAINT LAMP SHADE

Lamp shades are more fascinating than ever and many different materials are used to produce the required effect. A quaint little shade is made of oiled silk that is stretched tightly over the frame and ornamented with a spray of brilliantly painted flowers.

TO REVIVE COLORS

When sweeping a carpet if salt is used instead of tea leaves, it will be found that the colors are much brightened and there is no danger of it hurting the most delicate fabric. If the carpet is faded it should be rubbed thoroughly with a flannel wrung out of strong salt water. This will revive all colors.

FOR CLEANING SILVER

For washing silver, put one-half teaspoon of ammonia into the suds; have the water hot, wash quickly, using a small brush, rinse in hot water and dry with a clean towel. Then rub very dry with chamois. Washed in this manner silver becomes very brilliant.

CONCERNING WOMEN

More than 200 women are registered as physicians in Missouri.

Buckinghamshire, England, has about 8,000 marriageable women above the marriageable men.

The working conditions for women in Japan are only a little bit better than in India and China.

Mrs. J. P. Cousins, a white woman, has the distinction of being the first woman magistrate of British India.

Sixty-seven counties in Georgia have home demonstration agents at work among the girls and women.

Miss Clara A. Lisetor-Lane of Chicago claims the honor of having founded the Girl Scouts movement in this country.

DIRT ON PAINT

Dirty marks on paint can be removed by rubbing first with a slice of lemon and then with whitening. Afterwards wash with soap and water.

GLOSSY FURNITURE

If furniture is rubbed with a chamois wrung out in water to which has been added a few drops of methylated spirit, it will have a brilliant gloss.

RECIPES

Deep-Dish Cherry Pie: Line a deep earthen baking dish with good pie crust and invert in the center a china cup. Remove the stems from three pints of ripe cherries and fill the dish with these, scattering over them one or more cups of sugar, according to the sweetness of the cherries. The fruit should rise over the top of the cup and form a mound in the dish. Cover with a sheet of the pastry, moistening the edges and pressing well down. Leftover pastry may be cut into fancy shapes and used to decorate the top of the pie, but great care should be taken that the covering is intact, without air holes or apertures of any kind. Bake in a moderate oven for at least an hour. At serving time cut the upper crust in to eights, insert a fork under the cup and remove it, then serve a portion of fruit, a spoonful of the rich red juice and a section of the crisp to each person. Whipped cream may be served with it.

Cheese Balls: Mix together one pound of grated cheese, the beaten whites of three eggs, one teaspoonful of flour, half a teaspoonful of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt and a pinch of red pepper. Shape in balls the size of a walnut, roll in egg yolk and cracker crumbs, drop three or four at a time in deep fat and fry a golden brown. Serve on lettuce.

WHELAN, THE CASH BOY

He was the "little brother" of six boys and had to argue strenuously before they would even consider his ideals; but when they finally followed his plan C. W. Whelan had to struggle for years to make his predictions become realities.

Born in Syracuse, N. Y., he attended school there, but had to go to work as a mere lad, and became cash boy in a dry goods store. Next he was Syracuse's first telephone operator, working at "the new fangled board" that most people feared to touch.

Soon afterward, clerking at his brother's cigar stand in the Vanderbilt House he conceived the idea of a chain of cigar stores. After much arguing on his part, some of his brothers reluctantly joined in the purchase of a cigar factory, organized the Syracuse Cigar Company and opened stores in Syracuse and four other cities.

Visiting New York City, he saw many openings for cigar stores, so enthusiastic that he could not sleep, he started out to raise capital, but moneyed men were indifferent. Finally William J. Nivers, former president of the Reading Railroad, consented to back one store in Manhattan.

Whelan spent many days counting the smokers passing different localities and opened a store at 54 Nassau street. Receipts for the first day were $3.70. In four weeks the place was paying. In two years Whelan had 60 stores in the city.

James B. Duke, the "tobacco king," refused to see this ambitious young fellow. Whelan had 20 men, dressed as Admirals, advertise his Admiral cigarettes wherever Duke went. Finally Duke gave in, sent for Whelan and backed the United Cigar Stores Company.

Stores were established over the country, Whelan became rich and at 50 retired. He grew so melancholy that within three years the doctor ordered him back to business. After the World war he and Duke started the United Retail Stores Corporation which arranged to have stores all over the world selling products of its own factories.

And today, at 61, Whelan still is happy in having an active part in these and other concerns.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Frederick D. Underwood, who declares that in his opinion the country is solid and the present business troubles largely imaginary, has been president of the Erie Railroad for almost a quarter of a century and is actively interested in numerous transportation companies, banks and financial institutions, and other concerns of national importance. While the east is the chief centre of his business activities, he maintains a home in his native state of Wisconsin and has made a close study of the problem confronting the farmers in the middle and western states. Mr. Underwood began his railroad career as a clerk and brakeman on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, and remained in the service of that road until he had reached the position of superintendent. In 1899 he went to the Baltimore & Ohio road, filling the positions of general manager and second vice-president until 1901, when he was called to the presidency of the Erie system.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

A FISH MADE HIM LAUGH!

Another victory for the fish!

He made Rae Tafferi laugh.

Cable dispatches tell how the Parisian hosts of the prince regent of Ethiopia took him to the opera, to the zoo, to a motion picture, to an airplane race and to the museums. And all the while his highness was as solemn as Solomon, his distinguished ancestor.

Then, one day, he visited Fontainebleau and there he laughed! His mirth was aroused by the antics of the carp in an artificial pond.

"The incident is not surprising," says a bulletin from Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

John Oliver LaGorce, in a communication to the society writes:

"Humankind takes a deep interest in animate things, and fish seem to have a peculiar and potent appeal to man. The child turns from top and pet to gaze upon goldfish in a tiny bowl; the adult will sit by stream or in a boat by the hour in the hope of landing a 'string.' Angling, in fact, makes the whole world related. It is one of the few sports that knows no flag nor race.

"A striking proof of this interest is manifested in the fact that each year the visitors to the New York aquarium, located on the tip of Manhattan Island, are twice as many as those who go to the more conspicuous and accessible Metropolitan Museum of Art on upper Fifth avenue.

"May the reason of this fascination not be the racial memory of that far-gone time when our remote ancestors, still too primitive to invent weapons to give them sure advantage in hunting wild animals, turned to stream and ocean inlet for a palatable, abundant, and everyday food supply?

"The wonder is that science, which has been defined as 'intelligent curiosity,' should have waited so long to turn to that field which offers a vast, unexplored content of animal creation. That Protean observer, Aristotle, studied fish life, but from his day nearly twenty centuries intervened before the Swedish savant, Peter Artedi, 'Father of Ichthyology,' met an untimely death by drowning in a Holland canal, but left enough notes of his observations to enable Linnaeus to publish them (in 1753) and thus establish a starting point for modern study of genus and species.

"Twice fish figured importantly in our national life. The inland stranger who visits Boston may smile at the sacred codfish,' which is so conspicuous in the decoration of the state house; but a study of the Bay State's early history will impress every American with the major part fishing played in the industrial history of his country. Moreover, the prominence of fish food in the conservation program that helped toward a glorious victory in the World war is a matter of recent memory.

"Now there is not only the food problem urge to impel scientific study of fish, but many other fish products, such as codliver oil, menhaden oil as a linseed-oil substitute, in paint manufacture, seal-oil for miners' lamps, and the possibilities of fish guano as fertilizer, fish meal as cattle food, shark skin for leather, and fish skins and bones for glue, to warrant a closer scrutiny of the industrial uses of fish.

"Since the dawn of human history, man has studied land animal and bird life—in fact, he now knows much of prehistoric creatures long since extinct. But the 'waters under the earth' still hold countless fascinating secrets which challenge the ichthyologist, who pursues a branch of science pertaining to the study of fish life only a few hundred years old, with a world of sub-sea life to conquer, especially among the warm waters of the semi-tropic regions.

"Once more, as in its other natural resources, the United States of America is favored among nations. Paralleling our eastern coast for hundreds of miles, the Gulf stream, that mightiest river of the ocean, which sweeps northeastward with such giant force to turn back the icy waters of the Arctic from our shores, performs another and less widely recognized service in depositing upon America's southeastern threshold a gift of fishes which some day may be regarded as providentl if not miraculous. Indeed the map-minded person might even picture a peninsular hand, in the shape of Florida, reaching out to receive this boon, nourished in the warm waters of the kindly current."

If clothes make the man some men must patronize mighty poor tailors.

PASTOR GIVES COMPARISON OF TWO BIG PARTY CONVENTIONS

Previous to the address of the evening, Sunday, at the Central Baptist church, the members held a patriotic service, reading responsively, The American Flag, closing the exercises with the salute to the flag, singing of the Star Spangled Banner and prayer.

The sermon of the evening took the form of a survey of the platforms adopted by the republican and democratic parties, in extracts from two prominent writers, which were read by Rev. David A. Pitt, pastor of the church, who concluded his remarks with a few personal views.

All of us believe, said Rev. Dr. Pitt, that Christians are enthusiastic about things civic as well as those strictly religious. Take the national note from the old testament and there would be little left. We need the Old Testament to remind us of the relation of religion to the nation.

We are all interested in the two national conventions, recently held. I will read from an article written by Fred K. Smith, former head of the Religious Work department of the Y. M. C. A., now chairman of the committee of 1,000, organized to see to it that the Volstead act is enforced. This man is a republican and perhaps some things are said from this viewpoint, but, as a whole, his writing is fair.

In part the items covered were as follows in his article: There is not a marked difference in the language of either party and by changing the names of the party in most of the platform, and substituting proper names for the big men of the parties, one would find it hard to tell which platform they were reading. One issue, the Ku Klux Klan, isue, perhaps, is a little more enlarged upon in one party than in the other.

As far as the conventions went the republican convention was dignified; that of the democrats more like a class rush at some college.

There are some differences, however, as follows: First, while both parties thought the same internationally, the republicans talked of it in an undertone; the democrats shouted it out. The republicans did not mention the League of Nations. The keynote speech in the democratic party was noticeable for the absence of reference by name to the League of Nations and, when the league was mentioned it was voted down 2 to 1.

Second. The wet and dry isue. The republicans meant to be heard on this issue but it was the reverse with the democrats, they did not want to annoy some of the larger cities. The enemies of the 18th amendment were defeated in both conventions, the Smith party was dry and Mayor Hylan served tea to the delegates. This, however, was not so much for good reasons, as it was a political play.

Third. The religious issue was a minor thing in the republican party convention but it was a great flare-up in the democratic convention and that debate on Saturday night has never been equalled in the history of the country, at least since 1860. It was noticeable that at the republican convention there were 59 negroes delegates or alternates and the democratic convention there were none.

Four. The republicans mumbled they told of loving the laboring man and the farmers and talked loud when they spoke of business. The democrats talked loud when they spoke of the laboring man and farmer, but fell down when they came to business.

Six. The republicans met in thorough understanding but the democrats were overrun with vulgarity, the play of Smith, Hylan and Enright. This vulgarity was noticeable on the streets, in hotels, everywhere but it was at its height on Wednesday night when Smith's name was brought up and he was nominated. The police stepped aside and the mob surged in and reigned supreme. Delegates turned against this and many said, "God help this country if the man followed by this type of people is elected."

It is indeed to be wondered at why men of high type such as there are in both parties, working hard to elect their parties into office, are able to work with some of the men that remain in the two parties.

In leadership one man stands above all and he is William Jennings Bryan. He was the center of attraction at Cleveland and at New York, and every mention of his name brought applause. Killed politically many times according to his enemies, he stands today the livest leader in political and religious circles in this nation.

Reading from an editorial about the convention, Rev. Dr. Pitt called attention to the likeness of the two platforms, the wets beaten in both, the republicans wanting an amendment to the constitution on child labor, the democrats a vote of the states. Both parties agree on drafting all material resources of the nation if we must again face war, the greatest step ever taken by any political party to insure peace. Both platforms have a lot of bunk, but both speak less of economic and more about the social and spiritual.

In closing Rev. Dr. Pitt pointed out that men of high type had been chosen to head both tickets, a tribute to this country for it shows that both parties known what the people of his country intend to have the best at the head of the government.

Neither party took a backward step, they refused to go back, and the men chosen for president and vice president on either ticket, barring political differences, are worthy of the honor and would be a credit to this country in the high offices. The party would not stand for the old political gangs the personel at the conventions was new, a higher type of people. In the olden days the political destiny of the country was worked out in the saloon; it is not so today.

One reason for this is the coming of women into prominence in politics and the passing of the old ward boss; a thing for which we may all Thank God. This country is not going back politically; it is going ahead and going fast, as we, who have watched for years are able to see easily.

STEWARD NORRIS DIES IN BOSTON HOSPITAL

Thomas Norris, the well-liked steward of the Norwich Elks club, who was prostrated by the heat in the parade of the grand lodge convention in Boston last Thursday, died Sunday morning in the Boston hospital to which he was taken for treatment after he collapsed while in the line with the Norwich Elks.

Saturday word was received that Mr. Norris was apparently recovering so that his brothers of the lodge were the more shocked and saddened to learn of his death on Sunday. Past Exalted Ruler James P. Hayes and John P. Corcoran went to Boston Saturday to see Steward Norris and arrange for his care at the hospital until he should recover.

Mr. Norris was born in England between 55 and 60 years ago, but came to this country when a young man and subsequently took out naturalization papers. For many years, he was employed as butler at the Washington street home and on the yacht of the late F. L. Osgood, a former mayor of this city. Subsequently Mr. Norris made his home in New York and was employed in the steward's department of the Pullman service and on lines of boats running to Cuba and South America.

During the world war, he was in the British mercantile marine service, making a number of voyages overseas in ships carrying supplies for the allied armies through the submarine zone. A few months ago he received from the British government the special medals in recognition of that service. He had been steward of the Elks club for over a year.

Mr. Norris is survived by his mother in England. He was generous in spirit, a genial and loyal friend, whose death will bring regret to a wide circle of acquaintances.

Mr. Hayes and Mr. Corcoran will accompany the body when it is brought here this (Monday) afternoon on the train leaving Boston at 1 o'clock.

AUTOMOBILES IN CRASH AT HARLAND CORNER

Saturday about noon time, a new Durant, touring, bearing Connecticut registration N-2597 driven by a Polish man, crashed head-on into the Golden Rule grocery truck, No. 23-929 (Rard) driven by William Robinson, who was going through Norwich Town with a load of groceries.

The cars came together at Harland's Corner at a point where traffic is passing to and fro in two or three directions, with the high wall at the front of the Harlan estate, it is almost impossible to see cars approaching from Washington street, when headed toward the city from upper Washington street, likewise when headed in the opposite direction. In this particular location Town street is simply the extension of Washington street, over the main state highway; upper Washington street branching off at this point and extending as far as Peck's Corner.

There have been many narrow escapes previous to the accident Saturday, due to automobilists speeding up and down the state road. In this case it was reported that Mr. Robinson was rounding the corner extremely to the right, when the Durant car approached from upper Washinton street. The driver of the latter in trying to avoid a mix up with the cars ascending the hill from Town street and headed toward the city, swung his car to the left, resulting in the sudden crash. Both cars were damaged, the Durant getting a bent frame, mudguard, twisted axle and lantern demolished, while the Ford received similar damage.

While waiting for officials to make investigation, a temporary traffic officer was on duty for a few hours, to keep the road clear and instruct automobile drivers. It was just four hours later, when permission was given for the removal of the cars which proceeded slowly under their own power.

FINED FOR PASSING FLASHING BEACON WRONG

In the city court Saturday morning the charge against Franklin Peiper was nolled. He was charged with passing a fraudulent check in payment of auto registration to the state police in New London. The check was for $10 and was given in May. The check was on the Bankers Trust company and at that time it was given the deposit was sufficient to cover the check but a few days later when it was presented funds had been withdrawn and the check could not be honored.

State Policeman Caron was ordered to collect the amount of the check and collect an additional $10, and Mr. Peiper paid $20. George A. Finn, the treasurer of the bank, said that if he had been there when the check was presented for payment he would have allowed credit to Mr. Peiper for the amount. As the incident was not intentional the charge was withdrawn.

Eight autoists, who were red-tagged Friday night by Officer Fenton for driving to the left of the flashing beacon at the junction of Market and Water streets were presented for violation of the traffic laws.

Several pleaded guilty and one not guilty and after talking it over a recess was declared and Judge Arthur F. Libby, City Attorney Lee Roy Robbins, Clerk Albert J. Bailey and the eight violators went to the scene of the jagging and looked at the beacon from all angles. Returning the court found that the beacon was located in the only available space and could not be changed. The charges were then nolled on payment of $3 each and with a warning that all motorists must go to the right as instructions on the side of the beacon inform every operator.

PROPOSE BIG KLAN CEREMONIAL IN NORWICH

Over 250 Klansmen from Norwich motored to a point below Westerly Saturday night where over 5,000 Klansmen from Connecticut and Rhode Island held a big ceremonial to initiate over 200 candidates.

At the meeting the Norwich Klansmen planned for a ceremonial to be held in the town of Norwich soon and also laid plans for the monster ceremonial to be held in this vicinity in the fall. It is expected that Klansmen from all New England states and representatives from New York and New Jersey will attend and if arrangements can be made over 15,000 Klansmen will visit this vicinity and participate in the ceremonial and monster parade similar to those held in New York state last week, at which a number of Norwich members were present and participated with Klansmen from many other states.

A number of the Klansmen from town also motored to Stamford Sunday to attend a baptism there, returning home in the evening.

LOCKJAW FATAL TO NORTH STONINGTON BOY

Henry P. Daniels, 12, son of Charles F. and Almira Higgins Daniels of North Stonington, formerly of Colchester, died in this city at 11 o'clock Sunday night of lockjaw, which developed Friday from a wound in his foot received about ten days ago when he stuck a nail into it at a camp on Cossaduck hill, North Stonington. The boy was attended Friday by Dr. M. H. Scanlon of Westerly who administered a large dose of anti-toxin and then had the boy brought to the Backus hospital.

The Rt Rev. William Lawrence, Episcopal bishop of Massachusetts, is improving rapidly at Bar Harbor hospital.

MISS CASE HAS RESIGNED FROM VERMONT HOSPITAL

Miss Josephine Case, member of an old and prominent Norwich Town family, who for over twenty years has been a nurse at the Waterbury, Vt., state hospital, where there are over 1,000 patients, has resigned and has returned to Norwich. She will make her home with her sister, Miss Louisa M. Case, at their recently purchased home on Warren street. They are sisters of the late Samuel Bailey Case of Norwich.

When Miss Josephine Case was leaving Waterbury she was given a surprise farewell by the supervisors, physicians, nurses and patients of the hospital. There was a musical program, addresses were made, refreshments were served, and Miss Case was presented a handsome sum of money, in appreciation of her faithful and efficient service at the institution.

ENDS LIFE IN WOODS IN MONTVILLE

In a fit of despondency, John C. Vogeltanz, about 76, left his room at the Montville almshouse some time Saturday morning and hung himself in the woods about a quarter of a mile away. Although not a town charge, he had been boarding at the almshouse and had been employed in various ways.

His absence from the place was discovered when he did not answer the call for dinner, and when the selectmen were notified they had a search for him started. The body was found about 5 in the afternoon, a piece of ordinary hemp rope having been used by the despondent man.

Medical Examiner M. E. Fox made an investigation and gave a verdict of suicide.

Mr. Vogeltanz is survived by a son in New York state and a grandson in Montville.

KU KLUX GIFT TO FLANDERS BAPTIST CHURCH

Nearly 175 members of the Norwich unit, Ku Klux Klan, visited the Flanders Baptist church Sunday evening and presented the pastor of that church a sum of money. The spokesman for the Klan, unrobed, made himself known to the pastor and spoke to the congregation for a short time, outlining the work of the Klan and requesting them to stand back of their pastor and work for Christianity.

Word had evidently been spread that the Klansmen were to visit the church for the edifice was filled to capacity.

BEAT EACH OTHER WITH BABY CARRIAGE AXLE

Using the axle from a baby carriage for a weapon; Joseph Varisky, 41, of Hartford, and Fred Sarabassavich, 38, of High street, engaged in a fight Saturday night at the home of John Kovalenko, 76 High street, inflicting injuries upon each other that called for a doctor to attend them.

Each man got possession of the weapon long enough to batter his opponent about the head, and Dr Louis T. Cassidy put three stitches into one and seven stitches into the other in sewing up deep cuts on their heads. The men were arrested by Officers J. Dosbroski, F. Gwazdowski and P. Murphy.

IN HOSPITAL AFTER SATURDAY NIGHT FIGHT

For a fight that took place on the railroad track at Sixth street Saturday night about 9 o'clock, John J. Enright and Henry J. Harrington, two Greeneville men, were arrested by Sergt. John H. Casey, Officers Ryan and P. Murphy, who brought them to police headquarters, and Dr. Louis T. Cassidy was called there to attend Harrington's injuries. He had a bruised face and complained of pains in the side, where he claimed he had been kicked. Harrington was sent to the Backus hospital by Dr. Cassidy for observation.

Driven Up Onto Sidewalk

The Ford car of E. L. Rollinson of 97 Sherman street and the Briscoe of Arthur Skarrin of Goodwin street Burnside, this state, were in collision late Sunday afternoon at the corner of Sachem and Washington streets. The Rollinson car was struck in the side and driven up on the sidewalk at the Chelsea parade by the Hartford car, but the damage was slight.

MONTVILLE TOWN CLERK HURT IN AUTO CRASH

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, July 14.—A trio of automobiles figured in an accident about 9.30 o'clock Saturday evening, one mile west of Williams Crossing, on the Norwich-Willimantic highway, in which three machines were damaged and Town Clerk Dan D. Home of Montville and two women passengers in his car were injured.

A Roamer touring car driven by Richard Goodwin Watrous of Windham Center, headed towards this city, sideswiped a Ford roadster driven by Hadlai A. Chapman of Scotland, causing Mr. Watrous to lose control of his machine and swerve to the left of the road, crashing head on into the Buick touring car owned and driven by Mr. Home.

Mr. Home received lacerations about the knees and other injuries, his daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Home several cracked ribs and lacerations about the face and arms, while Mrs. Robert Chappel of Montville received a slight scalpwound, a broken nose, cut lip and fingers and other injuries. The only occupant of the Home car to escape injury was Mr. Home's little grandson, who escaped with a slight shaking up. The occupants of the other two cars escaped without injury.

The Buick car was badly damaged by the accident the front end being smashed in, the windshield broken and headlights smashed. The Roamer was also badly damaged along one side and in the front. The Ford was but slightly damaged. The front fenders of the Buick and Roamer interlocked and it was with some difficulty that they were separated. Motorcycle Officer Grant Bombria of this city investigated the accident and Mr. Watrous assumed the blame for the accident and agreed to settle for the damage to the cars, which will total approximately $00.

The injured people left for their homes after receiving treatment in this city, but the damaged Buick was left at one side of the road and was hauled to Montville Sunday for repairs.

It was alleged that Mr. Watrous was not travelling at an excessive rate but that the accident followed the striking of the Ford, which immediately caused him to lose control of his car and before he could straighten out, crash head-on into the car driven by Mr. Home, which was on the right hand side of the road.

On Reckless Driving Charge.

Charged with reckless driving in disobeying the signal of Traffic Officer Myron Morgan and then running into a trolley car on Main street Sunday afternoon, Charles Jaysick, 38, of this city, was summoned into the city court when he reported the accident to Capt. D. J. Twomey.

HANOVER WILL LIVE AS SEPARATE STATE

Hanover, now a province of Prussia not long ago having the same rulers as Great Britain, and at times an independent duchy and kingdom of Germany, has decided by a recent vote not to live its life once more as a separate state. The vote was on whether to secede from Prussia and become a separate German province. This region, which gave England its present reigning family, is the subject of the following bulletin from Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Hanover was one of the 'horrible examples' that Bismarck made of German kingdoms and principalities that did not play the game Prussia's way," says the bulletin. "In the Austro-Prussian war in 1866 Hanover sided with Austria. It was a fatal step, for within a few weeks Prussia had seized possession of the state, banished its king, and annexed its territory, demoting it from a kingdom of equal rank with Prussia to a mere province of the latter. For a long time there was a strong 'irredentist' movement in Hanover, but the recent plebiscite seems to indicate that the anti-Prussian sentiment is at last dead.

"Hanover was an important acquisition to Prussia, since it furnished access to the North Sea. It is the most northwestern province of Prussia and for some 80 miles adjoins The Netherlands. The North Sea coast is, in fact, a sort of little Holland under the German flag. As in the domains of its neighbor, much of the land is below sealevel, the ocean must be kept out by dikes, windmills continually pump out water, and canals cross the flat land in every direction.

"Inland Hanover is more comparable to England. Large parts of the east-central and northeastern sections of the province are made up of poor moorland incapable of cultivation, and on this area numerous flocks of sheep are kept. This is one of the least fertile and least populated regions in all Germany. Other sections of Hanover, however, are fertile. In the south are the Hark Mountains rich in minerals. Much manufacturing is carried on in the state.

"In a way America's independence can be traced to Hanover. From there went as Kings of England the alien Georges, having little sympathy with English ideas of constitutionalism and freedom. It was under the colonial policy of these Hanoverian kings that Americans were driven into their revolution. Incidentally, Britons gained important constitutional privileges because of their Hanoverian kings. George I, not understanding English, let a committee of his Privy Council meet alone, and ever since the Council of Ministers, or the cabinet, has conducted government affairs with little interference from the crown.

"George I of Hanover and England gained the English throne in 1714 through the feminine line: his mother was a granddaughter of James I of England. For 123 years the same sovereigns ruled the two countries, the first two Georges living mostly in Hanover. The German kingdom was lost to Great Britain because of a Hanoverian law prohibiting women sovereign. When Victoria became Queen she could not also be sovereign of Hanover, and that crown passed to the fifth son of George III."

HOW DUCKS SWIM

Do ducks use their wings while swimming under water? The question is discussed frequently among sportsmen and nature students, and opinions sometimes differ. Testimony of reliable authorities says Popular Mechanics, supports the belief that various species of ducks and grebes, loons and other diving birds do not use their wings when swimming beneath the surface for food or in trying to escape capture. A ruddy duck was observed on Lake Michigan not long ago feeding in fifteen or twenty feet of clear water. As it got well started on its downward plunge, the wings, about two-thirds extended, were used in quick short strokes, at the rate of about one a second to assist in propelling it and in rising to the top as well.

DIAMONDS

Diamonds were first brought to Europe from the east, where the mine of Sumbulpoor was the first known, and where the mines of Golconda, the realm of diamonds, were discovered in 1534. The mines of Brazil were discovered in 1728. From these a diamond weighing fourteen ounces was sent, in 1741, to the court of Portugal. This was known as the Braganza diamond. Diamonds were found in Cape Colony, South Africa, in 1867, and the rich diamond fields of the Vaal and Orange river sections were opened in 1879. Most of the diamonds now come from the African mines.

Largest Albatross

The albatross, the largest of water birds, measures from 10 to 14 feet from tip to tip of wing. The bird has to run 70 to 80 yards along the top of the water, with wings spread, before it can get sufficient impetus to rise.

AMERICAN ATHLETES WIN OLYMPIC TRACK AND FIELD EVENT FOR 8TH TIME

Olympic Stadium, Colombes, France, July 13 (By the A. P.).—America left the Olympic battlefield today triumphant in track and field for the eighth successive time since the modern revival of the Olympic games. But when dusk brought a close to the greatest and most spectacular fight ever witnessed for international athletic honors, America shared the final glory with her gallant rival from the north, Finland.

Although the Americans in a convincing and final demonstration of their all-round supremacy today shattered two more world and one Olympic record, the premier mantle of Olympic triumph went to the new Finnish hero, Albin Stenroos, who raced under another blazing sun to the classic Marathon championship, a victory which capped the climax to Finland's clean sweep of the distance races and gave the little Nordick country the greatest laurels it has ever known.

Stenroos, a 40 year old Helsingfors woodworker, running his first competitive Marathon race in 15 years, sped over the 26 miles of country road to one of the most impressive victories in the history of the blue ribbon event. He crossed the finish line inside the stadium amid a deafening ovation in 2 hours, 42 minutes, 22 3-5 seconds, nearly six minutes in front of his nearest rival, Bertini, of Italy, with Clarence DeMar, Millrose, Mass., the American veteran, finishing a close third, to send the Stars and Stripes up to the Olympic masthead for the Marathon for the first time since 1912.

But remarkable as was Stenroos' triumph in the world's greatest test of heart and stamina, the highest honor of all in the final analysis must be bestowed upon his countryman, Paavo Nurmi, who completed a phenomenal race today when, leading his team to victory in the 3,000 metre race, he won his fourth triumph of the games.

Nurmi, flawless running machine, capturing four Olympic events equals the record set by the American Kraenzlein 25 years ago, but stands alone in comparison with any accomplishment since that time, was the mainspring of the courageous but vain fight Finland put up to outscore the United States. The little northern country gave America one of the closest battles it has ever had, virtually with a two-man team. A recapitulation shows that practically half the team's points were scored by Nurmi and Willie Ritola, an American running product, who established the Olympic "iron man" record by competing on all eight days and breaking two records while racing a total of 43,000 metres, equivalent to the Marathon distance.

Taking the three final days' events in record breaking fashion, the United States ran its final point total to 355 as compared with Finland's 166, and also gained the coveted margin in first places with 12, to 10 for Finland.

The American relay teams showed astonishing speed in capturing both the 400 and 1,600 metre team events in world's record time, while "Bud" Hauser, the husky California collegian, broke the Olympic record in winning the discus throw, adding his name to those of Osborne, America, and Ritola, Finland, as the only double victors to share a portion of Nurmi's glory.

Another world's record also went to America when the announcement was made today that Harold Osborne had won first place in the Decathlon with an unprecedented point's core of 7.710 and a fraction.

On the first half of the journey to the little French village of Pontoise and return the lead changed several times, the glory of the old Greek Marathon runners being revived in the first dozen metres by Kranis, who set the pace until he was succeeded, first, by DeMar, the American, and then by Verger of France. Stenroos took the lead at the halfway mark. From that point, the Finnish star added to his advantage.

Three-quarters of the way home Stenroos was out of sight of his nearest rival.

Following is the record of points in the Olympic games: United States 355, Finland 166, Great Britain 85 1-2, Sweden 31 1-2, France 26 1-2, Italy 19, Switzerland 15, South Africa 11, Hungary 10 1-2, Australia 10, Canada 8, Norway 6, Argentina 5, New Zealand 4, Esthonia 4, Holland 4, Denmark 3, Japan 1, Chile 1.

First places: United States 12, Finland 10, Great Britain 3, Australia 1, Italy 1.

UMPIRE HOLMES ATTACKED BY IRATE SPECTATOR

Washington, July 13.—Umpire Holmes was attacked at the close of the baseball game here today between Cleveland and Washington by a Washington fan, being struck in the face and knocked against a wall. Umpire Moriarty came to the defense of his associate and is reported to have struck the fan. The crowd surged on the field but police and players prevented any further disturbance.

The fan apparently wished to register disapproval of Holmes' action in ejecting from the game during the ninth inning Manager Harris of the Washington club, who had gone to the plate to protest a decision on balls and strikes.

LATE CLOSING CARD FOR KINGSTON TRACK

Milton M. Mason, superintendent of speed at the Bay State Circuit meeting in August at the Kingston, R. I., track has announced a card of late closing classes that should attract large fields of both trotters and pacers. The racing dates are August 12, 13 and 14 with eight purses worth $500 each in each race.

The pacing classes are 2.09, 2.12, 2.16 and 2.22 events, while the trots are 2.12, 2.15, 2.19 and 2.24 races. Winners of $500 or more gross in 1924 are barred from the 2.22 pace and 2.24 trot.

A two year old stake for a $1,200 purse has closed and will be an added race in connection with the program of late closing classes. The entrance fee is five per cent. with five per cent additional from money winners. Entries to open classes close July 29th, and records made on the closing date are no bar.

With a programme that offers a racing opportunity for the majority of horses campaigning on the short ship this season, Supt. Mason anticipates well-filled races or this mid-summer meeting, which will be the initial one held over this Rhode Island half-mile track of the Bay State circuit.

SENATORS TOOK BATTING CONTEST FROM INDIANS

Washington, July 13.—The heat apparently affected both players and spectators at today's game between Cleveland and Washington, which the home club won, 15 to 11, before a crowd which frequently baited the umpires.

In the ninth Manager Harris was banished by Umpire Holmes as he protested the calling of balls and strikes, and when the game ended excited fans poured on the field and surrounded Holmes. While one fan shook his finger at the umpire another struck him in the face, knocking him against a wall. The umpire, Moriarity, players and police came to the rescue and further trouble was averted. A crowd of several thousand was then dispersed by a squad of bluecoats.

Cleveland used five pitchers and Washington three while the batting of Speaker was the feature. He hit a homerun, over the right field fence, got a single and double, and walked three times.

REDS GET EVEN BREAK WITH BRAVES IN DOUBLE

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 13.—Cincinnati and Boston broke even in today's double header, each team scoring a shutout. Both Luque and McNamara pitched well in the first game, but the latter's support was better, errors accounting for two runs made off the Cuban, while May allowed four hits and two more runs in the ninth. Rixey blanked the vistors, 6 to 0, in the second game, completing twenty straight innings without being scored on. The score:

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
(Fordham Star and Yankee Captain)

A high ball is hit directly over the pitcher's box.

Who should catch the ball?

The majority of pitchers are not sure on fly balls, so it is much better to let either the first or third baseman come in and take such a fly. If the first baseman is the first one of these players to get over to the ball, he should yell for it, to prevent a collision with the third baseman, and handle the fly.

SOTHORON UNABLE TO HOLD DODGERS WHO WIN

St. Louis, Mo., July 13.—Sothoron proved wild and ineffective and the Cardinals lost the first game of the series to Brooklyn today, 9 to 4. Fournier hit his twenty first home run of the season in the ninth inning. While his single in the third with the bases full scored Grimes and Johnson.

BLACK GOLD TO START IN ASHLAND DERBY

Chicago, July 13.—Black Gold, conqueror of Ladkin in the Chicago Derby at Hawthorne yesterday, will be shipped to Ashland, Ky., Tuesday to start in the Ashland Derby at a mile and a quarter next Saturday.

Hanley Web, his trainer, said the famous son of Black Toney-Useeit would be taken to Latonia after Saturday's race to rest up for the fall racing season.

Black Gold's victory yesterday, when he won $12,975, ran his total winnings for the year up to $89,790. With a full campaign ahead of him, there is a possibility that he may become a greater money winner as a three year old than Zev in 1923.

AMERICANS PERFORMING WELL IN OLYMPIC TENNIS

Paris, July 13.—(By The A. P.)—Helen Wills, the American woman tennis champion, today advanced to the second round of the women's singles in the Olympics tennis competition, which began today, through the default of Mme. Marnet, of Spain.

In the men's singles Vincent Richards, United States, defeated De Laveleye, Belgium, 6-2, 6-4, 6-0. Watson M. Washburn, United States, Eon from Serventi, Italy, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4, and Francis T. Hunter was victorious over Graham of Finland, J. D. P. Wheatley, was defeated by Fukuda of Japan 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

DUWELLS HIT HARRELL FREELY AND WIN SECOND GAME OF SERIES WITH MOOSUP

Fighting hard to avenge the defeat that they received at the hands of the Moosup team two weeks ago, the Duwells pounded Harrell, star twirler of the Moosup nine, for 17 hits and emerged at the long end of an 11 to 7 score yesterday at the Duwell field. By looking at the score one would think it was a poor game but to those who watched it, it was anything but that, as first one team would stake a rally and take the lead only to fall behind again when the opposing team did the same. The small crowd that turned out were kept on their feet all the time by the many spectacular plays pulled off by the opposing teams.

The local lads scored three runs in the first inning on successive hits by Smith, Barry, McInness, Coughlin and Belair and two more in the second and the score stood 5 to 0 until the third when Moosup also staged a rally and scored two runs. There was no more scoring until the seventh when Moosup scored four more runs by clean hitting and took the lead by one run. It looked bad for the local team when they came to bat but the Duwells, fighting hard, socked the old apple to every corner of the lot and by the time the third man was out, three runs had crossed the plate and once again the local lads were in the lead.

In the eighth they repeated and sewed the old game up for good. Moosup tried hard to even things up in their half of the ninth but the best they could do was get one run.

The local lads played wonderful ball at every stage of the game and it would really be too bad if this hard working bunch of youngsters should be forced to break up which will have to come soon if the fans of Norwich fail to support the team any better than they have. The people of Norwich have continually cried for a good ball team and now that they have got it are not doing their bit to keep it up.

The features of the game were the hitting of Smith with five hits in as many times at bat, and the good, steady work of Joe Belair. Barry and McInness. Every one of the boys deserve credit for their good, steady ball playing. For Moosup Burns and Frecette starred in the field and Kendricks, Allard and Harrell at the bat with two hits apiece.

Next Sunday the Duwells will play the Taftville A. A.

BASE BEATS CORBIN TEAM IN LOOSE GAME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, July 13.—The Submarine Base continued its winning way and had little difficulty in disposing of the Corbin Red Sox of New Britain at the Base grounds Saturday afternoon. The Corbin Red Sox, always considered good show men, failed to show the goks or the spectators anything new in the way of baseball, and with both teams playing a listless brand of baseball, the reputation that the Sox had earned in this section of the state as being a snappy ball nine was tossed to the winds. The final outcome was 13 to 8.

Every kind of baseball a team could exhibit from the grammar school to high school was found in Saturday's game. A team with three comatose fielders in the outfield, giving the twirler little or no support can only be commiserated.

One of the most glaring mistakes of the afternoon was made, when the entire visiting infield and their pitcher made an attempt to field an easy pop fly and in the mixup no one caught the ball. This Alphonse-Gaston act accounted for three Sub Base runs, for hits followed this piece of kiddish baseball.

The cataclysm of the visiting team came in the third inning and from that time on the visitors were never in it. The only redeeming feature of the game was—if there were any at all—the home run by Anctil in the sixth inning, a tremendous drive that brought with it all the applause an individual, or either team, received for any special play throughout the entire game. The pitching of Wildner, who showed unlimited speed, endurance and power, for the Sub Base, and who is considered the find of the season was also one of what we would call features. Wildner twirled a fairly good game and with support of the faster and cleaner type he would have been away in the van when the final accounting was made. As it was the fielding behind him was sluggish and he almost came out second best as the result of the way his mates fielded behind him.

The score by innings:
Corbin Red Sox 0 2 1 0 0 2 2 1 0—8
Submarine Base 2 0 4 1 0 3 · 2 1 x—13

Batteries for the Submarine Base: Wildner and Anctil; Corbin Red Sox, Pool and Corbin.

BENEFIT GAME FOR GEE SILVA A SUCCESS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, July 13.—Success attended the benefit field day and baseball game which was given to Frank (Gee) Silva at Morgan park this afternoon. Silva's friends, hearing of his plight, surged upon the field in limitless numbers throughout the afternoon and it is expected that a tidy sum will be handed over to "Gee" Silva when the last expense item is taken out of the total receipts. Silva, who was burned badly recently in New London, will probably be unable to do any physical labor for some time as the result of injuries that he sustained at the fire. Friends of his, among whom are Charles Chester of the Corticelli Silk Co., Paddy Sullivan and Nick Dardis began plans for the benefit field day for Silva. Due to the untiring efforts of the three men named above, the field day was a success from every point of view.

Prizes were donated by merchants in the city and distributed to the winners of the various events. Besides the field events, there was a four-round boxing match between Dave (K. O.) Palitz and Pinky Burns, Billy Manice was the third man in the ring. Just before the boxing exhibition, Mildred Dardis gave a hornpipe dance.

The field events were as follows:

Opening event, fungo hitting for distance, first prize, Dave Reagan, a fielder's glove; second prize, a two-pound box of chocolates, went to Hanley.

100-yard dash was won by Boyle, one pair of baseball shoes; second prize went to Belknap, a box of Nuget cigars.

Throw for distance and accuracy: wrist watch to Dewey Connors for throw for distance. Accuracy throw went to Leo Brewer, a pair of oxford shoes.

Running bases for time: First prize a $5 gold piece was won by Boyle; second prize, a bathing suit, was won by Leo Brewer. The time of the winner was an even 15 seconds. Time for second man was 15 2-5 seconds.

After the field events came the five-inning baseball game between the Spark Plugs and the Barney Googles. The Spark Pluge by making two runs in the first inning, won out eventually by a 2 to 1 score. It was a good game to watch and both Toolin and Posick, the rival slabmen, pitched good ball. Posick had one bad inning and the first four men to face him singled. He settled down after that and was invincible for the rest of the game. Toolin struck out seven men while Posick fanned two.

The score by innings:
Spark Pluge ..... 2 0 0 0 0—2
Barney Googles ..... 0 0 0 1 0—1

Batteries: Spark Plugs, Toolin and Coyle; Barney Googles, Posick and Reagan.

MANY THRILLS IN GAME AT RECREATION PARK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, July 13.—In a game replete with thrills including a fist fight, a near-riot, not to mention a thunder storm, the American Thread A. A. triumphed over their old rivals from South Manchester at Recreation Park Sunday afternoon. The score was 6 to 2, the locals winning it in the first inning with a trio of tallies, although the unusual factors that went to make up the contest made the outcome uncertain up to the time the last man was out.

The rain started to fall early in the game and came down almost continuously throughout the pastime although time was not called until late in the proceedings and then only for a three minute interim.

The big noise came in the sixth inning. With one down B. Trauske singled to left and on Hamel's one-base blow to right Trauske scooted around to third. Kotsch's throw could not be improved upon and Herman Bronkie, the Manchester pilot had the base neatly blocked. Trauske however slid into the silk town sacker with such force as to make him drop the ball. Then the fun started. Bronkie berated the local players in terms not fit to be heard on any ball field and then continued his remarks toward Sharpe, the local centerfielder after the side had been retired. The two harangued in the center of the diamond for a while and then Bronkie, losing his temper, made a pass at Sharpe. Cooler heads among the players separated the two belligerents but the end was not yet in sight.

William D. Terry, a local red-hot fan injected himself into the argument and got a punch from "Tommy" Sipples of Manchester for his trouble. Then the fans piled out onto the field and things began to look like a good size riot but things were eventually quieted down without further trouble. Bronkie should have been ejected from the pastime then and there but was allowed to finish out the contest after a spike wound in his shin had been plastered up. A couple of minor fistic arguments in the stands between excited fans took place afterward but they were quelled without any appreciable damage to either side.

But to return to the game. Willimantic started off by maltreating "Jack" Burkhardt most shamefully with their war clubs. "Eddie" Trauske, first up laced a triple to left field and came over on Normandin's sacrifice fly to right although the throw home by Kotsch could hardly be improved upon. Sharpe then drew a pass and tallied on "Babe" Adams' double down the first base line. After B. Trauske had been thrown out, Hamel scratched a hit to short and Adams scored with the third run of the inning.

Manchester did all of their scoring in the fourth. After one was away, Wilson singled past short. With a possible double killing in sight, B. Trauske muffed up R. Smith's roller and all hands were safe. Lamprecht drove both runners home with a double to right.

The locals put the game on ice in the sixth. Adams hit one to right on which Kotsch made a dandy catch. B. Trauske then singled to left and went to third on Hamel's blow to right on which Bronkie's little display of poor sportsmanship was asserted. Kamyk fooled everyone including himself by poling a triple to right. He was caught at third a moment later and run down when a half-hearted squeeze play went flat.

One more tally was added in the eighth on the local's side of the ledger. Adams singled to right and rode home on B. Trauske's triple to left. The next three batters could not bring Trauske home.

Manchester threatened in their last turn at bat and got two men on bases but Burkhardt fanned for the third out in the pinch. There were good fielding plays aplenty, despite the wet ball, Kotsch, R. Smith, Wright, Hamel and Normandin excelling in this respect. Fred Smith, the local pilot was out of the game with a damaged ankle sustained in Saturday's game at Manchester. The score:

RIVERVIEW LOSES LOOSE GAME TO VELVETMEN

For the second time within a week, the Riverview club has lost a ball game through poor playing, the second game being dropped to the J. B. Martin team on Saturday afternoon 11 to 8. Errors, most of which were poor throws to first base, figured largely in the J. B. Martin score, although the Velvetmen hit often and timely. Another factor in the Riverview defeat was the poor judgment in running basse, many runs being thrown away on this account.

The J. B. Martin team played fair ball, but their fielding was far from being perfect, although they played better ball than the Riverview club. Roy, the Riverview hurler, was hit freely during his five innings in the box, but many of the hits should not have counted in the scoring if wide-awake and alert baseball had been played by his teammates. The game was fairly close up to the sixth inning, when three errors and three successive hits sent Roy to the showers, after two were out. Zemke took up the pitching duel, but a single and a double greeted him and then another error was made before the side was retired. Seven runs were scored in this frame after two men were out.

The Riverview club made a good attempt for the game in several innings, but were unable to overcome the lead piled up by the velvet workers. Something is decidedly wrong with the Riverview club; there is a lack of harmony on the club so that co-operation is impossible. If this feeling among the players continues, Riverview stands small chance of winning ball games.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 12th day of July, A. D. 1924.

Present—NELSON J. AYLING, Judge

Estate of Frank A. Aplin, late of Preston, in said District, deceased.

Orderde, That the Executrix cite the creditors of said deceased to bring in their claims against said estate within six months from this date, by posting a notice to that effect, together with a copy of this order, on the signpost nearest to the place where said deceased last dwelt, and in the same town, and by publishing the same once in a newspaper having a circulation in said District, and make return to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest: HELEN M. DRESCHER,
Clerk.

NOTICE.—All creditors of said deceased are hereby notified to present their claims against said estate to the undersigned at R. F. D. 3, Norwich, Ct., within the time limited in the above and foregoing order.

LYDIA BAYLES APLIN, jy14d Executrix.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 12th day of July, A. D. 1924.

Present—NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Eva Anderson, late of Griswold, in said District, deceased.

Andrew Anderson of Griswold, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that administration be granted upon the estate of said deceased, alleged to be intestate.

Whereupon, It Is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 18th day of July, A. D. 1924, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District, at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest: HELEN M. DRESCHER.
jy14d Clerk.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Lebanon, within and for the District of Lebanon, on the 11th day of July, A. D. 1924.

Present—GEORGE E. BRIGGS, Judge.

Estate of Lydia C. Manning, late of Lebanon, in said District, deceased.

The Administratrix exhibited her administration account with said estate to the Court for allowance; it is therefore Ordered, That the 18th day of July, A. D. 1924, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the Probate Court Room in Lebanon, in said District, be, and the same is, appointed for hearing the same, and the said Administratrix is directed to give notice thereof by publishing this order once in The Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said District, and by posting a copy hereof on the public signpost in said Lebanon, nearest where said deceased last dwelt, at least five days prior to the date of said hearing, and make return to the Court.

jy14d GEORGE E. BRIGGS, Judge.

THE WIDE-AWAKE CIRCLE

got there I went bathing and stayed in the water until nearly 2 o'clock. After I came out you can bet I was hungry, and I ate a hearty dinner which tasted better than any dinner I had ever had.

After dinner, we walked around and saw the sights and also enjoyed the roller coaster, merry-go-round and many other amusements.

After I had all the fun I wanted we got ready for home. While on our way we thought we would make a good trip of it so we stopped to see a ball game in Willimantic. After the game we once more started for home and arrived about 8 o'clock, ending a day of lots of fun. I hope to have another Sunday like this one.

THE HAPPY FAMILY

Dear Uncle Jed: Once upon a time there lived in a cozy little white house, a very happy family. There were father and mother and the three children, whose names were Ruth, John and Florence.

One morning when the father had gone to work Ruth said, "Mother, I love you, I love you more than I can tell. I will bake the cake for you today."

But mother said, "No dear, you are too small to bake a cake but you may help me."

Then Ruth pouted and fretted until her mother was glad when she went off to play.

John said, "I love you mother. I will get the water from the spring for you."

He then took the pail and started. Soon he saw some boys going fishing, so forgetting his promise, he dropped his pail and went with them.

"I love you mother," said Florence.

Then she swept and dusted the kitchen, washed the dishes, carried in the wood, and was cheerful and happy all day.

Now which do you think really loved their mother?

DOROTHY RICHARDSON, Age 14.

STRIVE AND SUCCEED

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write you a story about Strive and Succeed.

A farmer had once lost six goats by the wolves. When he was about to give up in despair a friend of his gave him a young goat. Her name was Blanchette.

Blanchette had a nice green yard to eat in but still she longed to go to the mountains where there was fresh grass.

One day Blanchette received her freedom. She went straight for the mountains. She grazed all day on the fresh mountain grass until all at once the winds freshened and the mountains turned purple. It was evening. Below, the fields were dark with mist. The master's house was disappearing in the fog. Everything was still.

Then there was a howling in the mountains. It was a wolf. Suddenly Blanchette turned about and there was the wolf behind her.

The monster moved forward and the little horns began their play. Blanchette knew she could not win. The fight lasted all night. From time to time she glanced up at the stars shining in the clear sky, and she thought to herself, "If I can but hold out till dawn."

One after another the stars paled and went out. A pale light appeared on the horizon. "At last," said the wolf, "I cannot stand it any longer," and he lay down on the ground to die.

The wolf was nearly starved and because of his weakness succumbed after the battle with the goat.

THE CROWS

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first letter I have written to you and I hope that the Wide Awakes will enjoy it.

I am going to tell you about the crows. I have learned this myself by watching them around my home.

The crow is about the size of a pigeon. His black feathers look oluish when you see them near you.

The crows generally build in pine tress and their nests look like bundles of sticks. They stay with us all the year. In spring just after the corn is planted, they have parties in the cornfields every day. They dig up the corn and eat it.

The farmers put up scarecrows of different kinds to keep the crows away, but after they get used to those they do not seem to mind them. I think the crows must be hungry in the winter, when there are no insects or corn to eat. But somehow they manage to live.

My father told me that the crow is a very shrewd bird. He knows what is a safe distance to keep from a man with a gun.

When he goes to dine in a cornfield, he has two or three other crows on the watch. In case of danger, the crows on the watch caw and fly away. This is a signal to the other crows that are feeding themselves on the corn. I think the boys should be kind to birds in winter and feed them with bread crumbs.

SOPHIE STRONSKA, Age 9.

THE TIMELY RESCUE

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write to you about The Timely Rescue. Perseus had not forgotten his mother; so one fine summer day, he and Andromeda sailed in a beautiful ship to his own home for the Magic Slippers could not carry both him and his bride through the air. The ship came to land at the very spot where the wooden chest had been cast so many years before, and Perseus and his bride walked through the fields towards the town. Now, the wicked king of that land had never ceased trying to persuade Danae to become his wife, but she would not listen to him and the more he pleaded and threatened, the more she disliked him. At last, when he found that she could not be made to have him, he declared that he would kill her and on this very morning he had started out, sword in hand, to take her life. When Perseus saw the king rushing like a madman after his mother, he threw himself before him and bade him to stop. But the king struck at him furiously with his sword. Perseus caught the blow on his shield and at the same moment took the head of Medusa from his magic pouch. "I promised to bring you a present, and here it is," he cried. The king saw it and was turned to stone, just as he stood, with his sword uplifted and that terrible look of anger and passion in his face. The people of the island were glad that the wicked king was dead.
